l hospital? ice says 'no'

OTE -- A lot of questions and misunderstandings have e January in light of the administrative changes and ed by economics at Shelby Medical Center. Parts 1 and 2 ter's interview with SMC administrator Norman Price estions of morale, nepotism, budgeting and major expenditures. This final part deals primarily with the re-occuring question of selling the hospital.

by David F. Moore
PART 3

REPORTER: Shelby Medical Center has been listed among the nation's top ten hospitals in terms of desirable real estate acquisations. What do you think would happen if the hospital was sold to a for-profit group?

PRICE: First of all, the hospital isn't for sale. The board of directors passed a resolution recently that said it's not for sale, lease or management.

I would hope that this would never be an issue in Shelby County, because this institution is very vital, not only for the economy of this county, but for the health needs of this county.

Before this county ever knew an individual named Norman Price even existed, that was a subject of conversation in Shelby County. Anytime you have a public organization that is in a prime growth area, there is always a movement by proprietary sectors to purchase what is public. Always has been. Always will be. I don't care if it's a public organization that sells and plucks chickens, all the way through to hospitals -- there's a movement, somewhere, to purchase it.

Anyone that didn't recognize that fact is unrealistic.

REPORTER: Do you think that the sell of SMC would perhaps be a good move, and what would you view such a sale as doing for or to the hospital and the people it serves?

PRICE: I think to sell this hospital would be one of the worst things to happen to this county in a long time.

I think it would be bad in the sense that if the hospital was sold, you would have an exodus of a tremendous amount of money to states other than Alabama. I am talking about operational revenues, profits from revenues, payrolls, retirement funds would leave the county for states like Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, California. That in itself would have a sizeable impact on the economy of Shelby County.

Hospitals are built for three reasons: need, greed and pride. This hospital was built for need and pride. Once the residents of this county do not have input into the direction of this hospital, once the direction of this hospital is in some corporate office in Nashville, Atlanta or Beverly Hills, a lot of the time communities will lose their identifiable link to that institution.

I think that's significant. As long as a community has pride in its hospital, as long as the community can write letters to you (the newspaper) and scream, and know that eventually they're going to be heard, that's significant. But if that hospital is controlled by a vice president in Nashville, he is going to be callous and insensitive to the very basic needs of the people of Shelby County.

That's why I would be opposed to this institution being sold. But most of all I would be opposed because the board of directors here are opposed to it. The community's opposed to it, and I'm part of this community. I want what's best for this county, and if I thought that a proprietary organization would benefit the people of this county, and if the board of directors thought that it would benefit the people, I'm sure they'd be the first to say so.

Right now, we have probably the best county hospital in the state of Alabama, and in the Southeast United States, and it fits the criteria of need and pride.

The rates at SMC are lower than any hospital in the Birmingham area. I can't speak so much for as to how drastic a change it would be (to sell SMC), but I do not believe it would be in the best interest at this time for the people in Shelby County. I can tell you that anytime you put a for-profit organization in any mode of doing business, their goal is to make a profit, defined as the gap between expenses and income. The bigger that gap, the bigger the profit. Therefore, you could expect charges to go up.

Some folks make the news because they're heros; others because they're outlaws. Some simply are cute. Two-year-old Jessica Hosmer (left) and Elizabeth Blythe, 3, fit the obvious category as they managed to capture a photographer's attention during a recent excursion to the beaches at Oak Mountain State Park. Zone line consolidates students in Meadow Brook

by Bert Seaman

Meadow Brook students at Inverness Elementary will no longer be split up when they complete the fifth grade. The Shelby County Board of Education last week changed the zone line which previously sent some middle and high school students to Chelsea, and others to Riverchase and Pelham.

At past board meetings, parents had objected to their children being zoned for the different schools, depending on the section of the subdivision in which they lived. The parent of one girl was upset about the impending separation of her daughter from her Inverness school chums.

The subdivision was developed in two separated sections, served by entrances off U.S. 280 and County 17. Middle and high school zone lines were drawn up according to that separation.

However, a new road has recently connected the two sections, making access easier for school buses.

Three chidren entering the sixth grade will be affected this year by the zoning change, Glasscox said.

He noted that an increasing number of children will be involved in the near future because of the expected growth of the U.S. 280 area. A new middle school to handle the growth is anticipated in the area within the next few years, the superintendent said.

In order to determine future educational needs in the way of facilities, the board is contracting with the Bureau of Educational Services and Research at the University of Alabama to do a study.

The research will be done over an eight-month period at a cost of $5,787, and will determine

More asbestos crops up

by Bert Seaman

Asbestos removal crews in county schools have pointed out what appears to be more asbestos.

In Montevallo, fire chief Mike Mahan has pointed out a fire hazard at the middle school there.

At its last meeting, the board of education agreed to pay Video Pipe Grouting an additional $10,133 to remove material believed to be asbestos from piping in county schools, and to reinsulate those areas.

During the past school year, the same company was contracted for $66,000 to remove suspect material from 15 county schools.

Although never positively identified, the material -- assumed to be asbestos -- was found mostly wrapped around pipe joints.

When the project started, Glasscox reported that it would involve less expense to remove the suspect material than it would to perform tests at each location.

The cost of the project is expected to be paid with state oil lease money.

The latest discoveries can while workers removed other suspect material at Valley Elementary School, Calera High School, the vocational building at Vincent, and, in small amounts, at a couple of other schools, Glasscox told education board members at their July 24 meeting.

The Vincent removal project wasn't included in the additional contract because the material is unexposed, and will cost more to remove. Glasscox said that before any work is done in Vincent, he wants to be sure the material is actually asbestos.

The air monitoring required after the suspect material is removed, will be handled by Law Engineering, named low bidder for that part of the project.

Glasscox reported that the firm would do the work at a cost of $220 per day.

Even with the additional material that has been found, the superintendent said the work will be completed before the opening of school August 26.

The board also agreed to act on the fire hazard at Montevallo Middle School, but that project is not expected to be finished by the time students return to class.

In a letter to the board, chief

Ames seeks election to commission seat

District three county commissioner John Ames is seeking the Democratic nomination to the office he was appointed to one and a half years ago.

A graduate of Woodlawn High School in Birmingham, Ames attended the United States Military Academy and graduated from Auburn in 1961 with a BS in chemical engineering.

After an active stint in the Army (he later retired from the Reserves as a captain), he designed and sold chemical process equipment.

In 1969 he moved to the Helena area, and in 1975 he became president of Hydromatics, Inc. in South Jefferson County. Gov. Fob James appointed him in December, 1982, to fill he unexpired term of county commissioner Don Murphy.

Ames said his outlook as commissioner is "to require open, honest and responsive government in Shelby County and to insist on a business approach to the use of county funds."

A member of St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church, he and his wife have a daughter in law school and son, age four.

Thompson goes after assessor's post

One time Democrat J.R. "Bob" Thompson of Alabaster is seeking the office of Shelby County tax assessor as a Republican.

Thompson, "semi-retired" from executive placement and recruiting, explained that he changed his political philosophy after several years in the business world, when he saw a need for "lower taxes and less federal government involvement and intervention at the state and local level.

"I believe that the tax assessor's office needs top quality organization, administration and above all -- fairness."

An active supporter of Folmar and Reagan, this is Thompson's first political race. After attending Birmingham-Southern College, he worked with the telephone company, Allstate and Sears, managing up to 180 sales people.

He twice co-chaired United Appeal drives in Montgomery, was chairman with the Better Business Bureau, and is a former

Jones vies for job as commissioner

Michael F. Jones is seeking the Republican nomination for place one on the Shelby County Commission.

"Shelby County is changing -- and so are Shelby County's needs," Jones said.

"Our county is seeking quality leadership in government, and county planning and development with vision for the future."

Jones, 32, is native of Columbiana and a graduate of Shelby County High School. He graduated from Auburn after studying architecture and construction, and worked 10 years on engineering projects from Texas to Saudi Arabia.

He said he moved home six years ago to raise his family in Shelby County. Jones, his wife and four children are active members of the First Baptist Church of Columbiana, where he is an ordained deacon.

He presently works in Inverness where he is manager of the cost analysis department for BE&K.

Cory wants to be next tax assessor

Alabaster real estate appraiser Tom Cory is running for the office of Shelby County tax assessor.

Cory, 39, will be on the September 4 Republican primary ballot.

"I was president of the Young Republicans and I'm proud of the strong two-party system now in Shelby County," Cory said.

"I believe with my education and experience, I can bring to the assessor's office the service and efficiency Shelby County residents deserve," he continued.

Cory is a member or past member of the Masons, Lions, Cattleman's Association, the National Association of Real Estate Appraisers, Farm and Land Institute of Appraisers, Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers, and Society of Real Estate Appraisers.

Cory, who is single, attended the University of Alabama and holds a B.S. degree in business administration and economics.

Shifting load

Wednesday afternoon, Columbiana driver Larry Nemec's load shifted when his truck wheel dropped in a ditch as he pulled onto County 66 from Alabaster's industrial park. The shifting load caused the rig to turn over, and a wrecker was called to "re-shift" the load. According to Alabaster patrolman J.B. Bailey, Nemec was uninjured. (photo by Dawn Mims)

PHS gets some drainage relief from Vulcan, county, board

A severe drainage problem has been eroding a parking and band practice area at Pelham High School.

However, last week a county highway crew regraded the parking lot south of the school gym, and laid stone donated by Vulcan Materials.

If the project had been contracted, county engineer Gary Ray estimated it would have cost $15,000-$20,000.

But the county agreed that the highway department do the grading and Vulcan donated 1,500 tons of stone, substantially reducing the board's cost.

The Shelby County Commission also agreed to donate $2,000 toward the cost of paving the lot.

Reporting on the project at last Tuesday's board of education meeting, Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox said that the board is still responsible for $15,250 toward the paving cost.

But he said that Pelham's mayor elect, Bobby Hayes, had promised to try and get the city to contribute $6,000 toward the project when he takes office Oct. 1.

That figure might be cut further if Helena and Hoover make a financial contribution.

Those cities will be asked for assistance, Glasscox said, since students from those areas attend Pelham.

The board agreed to do the project on an emergency basis, so that as soon as grading and stone work is finished, paving can be done without bids being let.

Glasscox said that the paving will be done by Gadsden contractor Charles E. Watts who is working nearby on an interstate project.

Columbiana food store sold

Super Foods, a Columbiana supermarket, has been sold to a Fayette based firm and will be closed for several weeks for remodeling.

Everette Vaughn, vice-president of operations for Foodway, Inc., said that General Management Services will operate the store.

Speaking of the chain, which has 25 stores in Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi, Vaughn said that it is a community oriented operation.

"We're going to do a lot of good things that you're going to like he said."

Before Jerry Diggle bought the store and operated it for a little more than a year under the name Super Foods, it had been a Food Center store owned for many years by J. B. Green Jr.

Mahan asked that a fire alarm system and fire exit doors be installed at the school in order to meet state codes.

Glasscox said the project would cost $14,300.

The middle school project had initially been included as a possible addition to a $25,000 bid let last school year to build a fire exit in the Montevallo High School gym.

Because of tight funding, Glasscox said the board had hoped to delay the middle school project until the next fiscal year.

The middle school work will be done by Hughes Building Company, which was the contractor for the MHS project.

"It's expensive," the superintendent noted, "but it should be worth the investment."

In other action, the board adopted a student code of conduct -- a first for the county school system.

A copy of the attendance policy that has been in effect the past school year will also be included in a code of conduct booklet.

The board will meet again on Thursday, Aug. 16, at central office at 7 p.m.

Accident is fatal

Records

To move or not to move them...

by Jim Parks

Thursday, Circuit Judge Robert Armstrong will hear a case on whether or not the probate judge can relocate records stored in the probate office.

Several weeks ago, Probate Judge Tommy Snowden relocated more than 150 record books from his office in the courthouse to the museum (old courthouse) because he said he was out of storage space in his records room. The relocated records date between 1911 and 1959.

The removal of the books raised the ire of several area land title companies,-whose representatives complained of inaccessibility to the records at the July 23 county commission meeting.

Besides space problems, Snowden said he wanted to uncover a window which he said is needed for a fire escape.

"I'm not going to cover up the window...not unless I'm ordered to," Snowden said. "If the fire marshal comes in, he'll close the place down."

Only July 17, Montevallo attorney Jim Standridge filed a temporary injunction against Snowden on behalf of Shelby County Abstract and Title Co. of Columbiana. The suit claims the removal of the record books violates several Alabama Code Sections pertaining to record keeping in the office of Probate Judge.

Since then, four other title companies -- Land Title Company of Alabama, Alabama Title Company, Inc., Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation, and Jefferson Title Corporation -- have asked to join in the suit against Snowden.

The suit refers to Section 12-13-36, requiring the defendant to keep his office at the courthouse, and opened to the public between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The suit claims Snowden, by relocating the record books to the museum some two blocks from the courthouse, violated Section 12-13-41 Code of Alabama 1975, requiring the defendant to "keep books, papers and records belonging to his office with care and security, the papers arranged, filed and labeled so as to be of easy reference."

Representatives from eight title companies which attended last week's commission meeting, complained of the physical and economic hardships of having to work between the courthouse and the museum, claiming the absence of "free and easy access."

The suit also claims a violation of Section 35-4-51 which requires that all mortages and deeds to be recorded in the probate office.

Record room

Probate Judge Tommy Snowden (left) gazes at the large window in the record room which he refuses to block by record books. Snowden recently moved 150 record books from his office to the museum (old courthouse) to gain more space, but Circuit Judge Robert Armstrong has enjoined him from relocating additional books based on a civil suit filed by a local title company.

Reporter's rates increase

Home delivery subscription rates for the Shelby County Reporter increased Wednesday, August 1. Rack copies will remain the same at 25 cents.

The new rate for home delivery is $10.70, tax included, for one year; $19.26, tax included, for two years; and $20 for out-of-state subscribers.

The new rate is $3 below the news stand price.

"The home delivery rate increase is necessary to meet the rising printing and mailing costs," said Shelby County Reporter editor Jim Parks.

"All subscribers who received a renewal notice prior to August 1 and anyone with a Newcomers Guide coupon may renew their subscriptions at the former rate of $7 per year or $13 for two years."

Three years ago the subscription rate was increased from $6 to $7, but that price was low then compared with most weekly publications.

Reunion day set for Sunday

Sunday, August 5, is National Family Reunion Day. To observe this special day, Briarcliff Nursing Home will host a special church service conducted by Wilton Baptist Church at 2 p.m.

At 3 p.m. Barbara Cannon will be featured in a special gospel music program.

Everyone with friends or relatives at Briarcliff are urged to attend.

System needs checks

From courtrooms to restrooms, we don't doubt that the courthouse needs more space.

We don't doubt that better care needs to be provided for records filed at the courthouse.

We don't doubt that the records system needs to be updated, that this costs money, and that those who use it should pay for it.

But when it comes to the discretionary use of these fees by a probate judge -- as proposed by the Index Fee Bill -- we do have doubts.

The present judge could use the fee wisely to meet some of the above mentioned needs. But there's no guarantee what the next office holder might do. There's no guarantee what greater need might arise tomorrow.

From the start, our founding fathers felt our branches of government -- honest or not -- need a system of checks and balances. Just because the sheriff's pistol permit fund falls basically outside this system, we see no reason to think any differently in this matter than our forefathers.

Record preservation applauded

Letter to the Editor:

The Officers and Directors of the Shelby County Historical Society applaud Judge Snowden's efforts to protect and preserve Shelby County's records. We also commend State Representative John Tanner for firmly supporting Judge Snowden in this endeavor.

If county citizens want the truth concerning county records, they should visit the present courthouse attic and records room, and then visit the Old Courthouse and new records annex. Judge Snowden has relieved crowded conditions by moving some records to the new facilities.

He wants also to move records from the attic where they are not supervised or atmospherically controlled to the Old Courthouse where they will be under archival conditions. To clear a misconception concerning the attic, Judge Snowden did not put records there. They have been there for years.

The SCHS has been concerned about the records since its incorporation in 1974. Members have donated time cataloging loose papers.

Many people come to our county doing genealogical research. There is not room for them in the present courthouse records room. In the attic they must work in hot and dark conditions. Theft of old and valuable papers is another problem.

The Old Courthouse Records Annex provides pleasant surroundings and staff assistance to visitors. Those making their living doing title searches are afforded the same genial treatment. We make no money for our efforts, rather do research free.

Before believing the rhetoric of some who do not want to go the block to the new facility, come and see for yourself.

Reader lauds commissioners

Letter to the Editor:

How can a Managing Editor say in his editorial that the County Commission should "stop embarrassing the public?" There were two of us visiting that meeting who were extremely proud -- not embarrassed in any way -- of the stand taken on both subjects by Commissioners Ames, Archer, and Davenport.

The Managing Editor suggests their working out problems "in a civilized manner." That statement should have been directed in an accurate way!

To describe the commission Chairman and the Probate Judge during the first hour-and-a-half of the meeting -- when these Commissioners weren't directly involved -- the Managing Editor more accurately could have used the word "obstinate" which means "perversely adhering to an opinion, purpose, or curse in spite of reason, arguments, or persuasion."

Commissioners unappreciated

Letter to the Editor:

I notice in the Shelby County Reporter Thursday, July 26, 1984 issue, where three of our County Commissioners are still up to their "RABBLE ROUSING" ways. When I read the local newspapers (Birmingham papers also) I begin to wonder what our neighboring counties think, not only of our county commissioners,but the entire populace of Shelby County for putting up with them.

On the other hand, I believe most people can intelligently access what is really happening. We have three commissioners, two elected, one appointed, who seem to believe they are devinely anointed to run the Probate Judge Office. I distinctly remember Mr. Snowden being ELECTED to serve in that capacity.

Of course all this makes one wonder the age old question -- WHY? I don't have an absolute answer to that -- only speculation. I would compare our three commissioners attitude to the Probate Judge as closely paralleling that of some of our U.S. Senators attitude toward our President. They are just negative about everything! Whatever causes this attitude... ego, power hungry, jealousy, dislike, hatred, envy, or whatever, is unknown to me.

No matter what it is, I don't appreciate these commissioners continuing to create ugly scenes, unauthorized commission meetings (that are illegal), and the wasting of time, money and efforts of people who are trying to do a good job and get the work accomplished. I am tired of reading and hearing about all the dissension and chaos created by these "Anointed" commissioners.

What to do about it? Well, Mr. Albert G. Minas of Montevallo said it in Thursday, July 26, 1984 "Writers Opinion". Tell them in the VOTING BOOTH - thats the one thing they fear most. VOTE the "Three Stooges" out of office.

Reporter reader takes issue

Letter to the Editor:

I have in past years always looked forward to keeping up with the activities in Shelby County by reading the Shelby County Reporter. The editorial viewpoints and sloppy writing of the past few months, however, have made me decide that I will not renew my subscription.

The poor spelling and grammar in the article by Jim Parks on page 4 of the Newcomer's Guide, dated July 26, 1984, are bad enough when written by the ordinary citizen but become unforgivable when written by, 'The Editor'.

Editorially, it seems the editors feel John Ames is not doing a decent job as County Commissioner. Having attended many commission meetings in the past years, I feel Mr. Ames is doing an exemplary job and should be applauded rather than maligned.

I sincerely hope you will be democratic enough to print this letter in your next edition.

Snowden's efforts defended

Letter to the Editor:.

The recent controversy surrounding Judge Thomas Snowden's attempt at a plan of records management has, unfortunately and to the detriment of all Shelby County residents, reached a deplorable level of conflict.

The issues, whether political or technical, have become so emotionally charged and some factions have become so irrational in their pursuit of their own special interests, that the basic subject has gotten totally muddied.

The issue boils down to this: What are we going to do with the horrendous volume of records we have on hand and how are we going to deal with the increase in the influx of records as the county continues to grow exponentially?

Judge Snowden has developed a carefully thought out plan of records management that deals with the records from both ends. His attempts to execute that plan have cause contention from two two primary factions that have specific and selfish motives in mind.

The title company that filed the injunction to stop the records move has no rational basis for objection. The commission objects to the Index Fee Bill for political considerations. Judge Snowden's defense to these attacks is strong and above reproach. These really are issues that one must observe first hand in order to make a proper assessment of the situation.

Judge Snowden is not trying to do anything less than totally honorable. For people to see that for themselves they need only visit the present county courthouse and ask to see the records in the attic and then compare what they see there with what has been done with the records annex in the newly restored Old Courthouse.

I asked him why, and he answered: "Said I couldn't learn the route."

The sign was as plain as a black eye. There were two signs, side by side, each one over a door on the first floor at the hospital. Unless you got careless, or just weren't thinking, there was no way to get 'em mixed up. Unless...

He started in the door where the sign said "Men". He was in a hurry. Maybe that's why he didn't look too close at the person who came out. All he saw was long flowing hair, draped over a blue shirt.

"I-I'm sorry," he murmured. "I-I didn't--"

The head turned then and underneath the flowing hair was a hanble-bar mustache. He didn't say another word. He just went through the door marked "Men", out of sight of the long flowing hair.

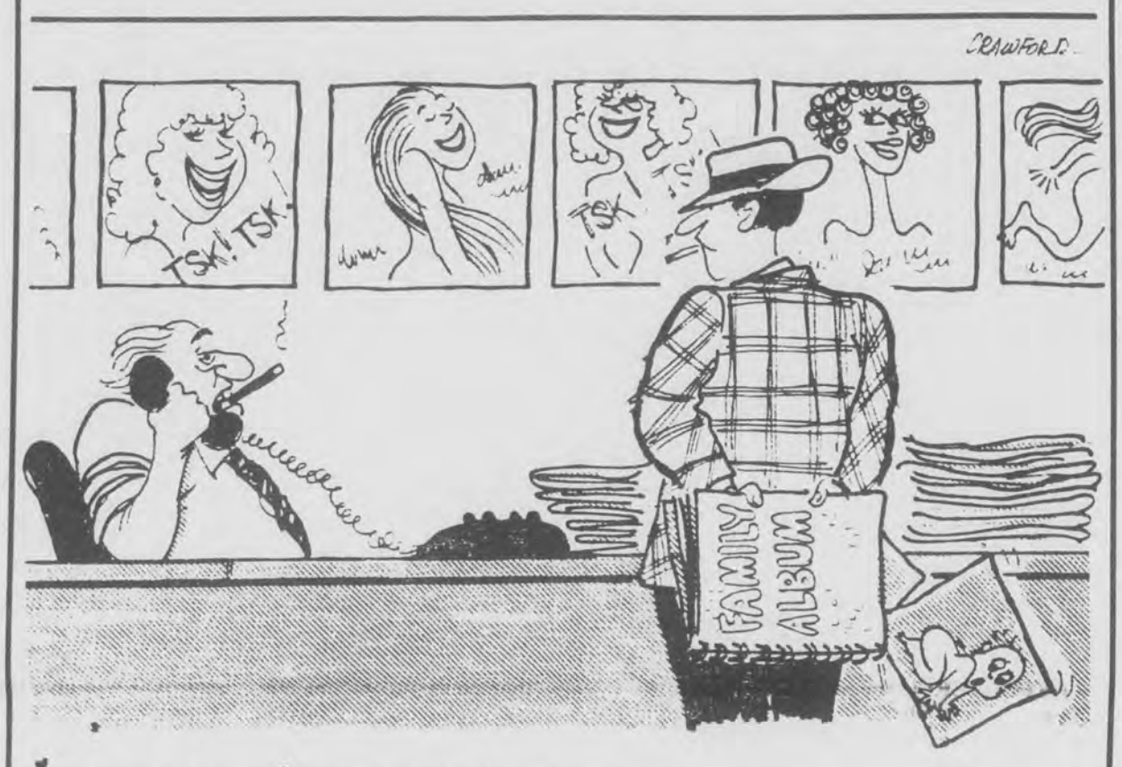
We had been car shopping, Herb Brown and I, all day. We found some dillies. In the trade they're referred to as loaded. Which means, among other things, that they are loaded with extras. The price was about the same everywhere. It ranged from $11 to $13 thousand, if what you wanted was loaded.

That night, at home, we saw this advertisement: "We got 'em. All brand new. Just $9,000."

Herb read it over and giggled. "Wonder how much it would cost," he laughed, "if you got a steering wheel."

EDITOR'S NOTE -- A selection from Milton Bird's book, "The Best of Good Morning," was chosen for publication last week because the columnist was busy caring for his wife, Amy, who was recovering from surgery. Bird however, didn't shut his writer's eye to what was going on around him during this time, as evident in the column he turned in for this week.



Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

For every 100 young people who enter the teaching profession in Alabama each year, more than 10 leave the classroom after one year. While some no doubt leave for greener pastures -- more money, that is -- others leave simply because they are not prepared to cope with the constant frustrations that confront teachers.

State School Supt. Wayne Teague, concerned at the dropout rate in the profession, has come up with a far-reaching proposal which he feels might help the situation. He recommends that new teachers serve a one-year internship during which time they would have a lighter teaching load (and would be paid less). They would work with an experienced teacher and benefit from that experience.

Teague went further and suggested that classrooms be videotaped to help the interns see the mistakes they might be making in dealing with the young people.

While the superintendent didn't suggest it, his plan could not only serve to cut down on the dropouts of effective teachers, but it would also identify those teachers who simply aren't cut out for the classroom.

* * * *

Odds and Ends -- There's nothing but good news coming from the state tax collector, which is in fact the State Revenue Department. At the close of the third quarter of the fiscal year (June 30), taxes earmarked for education were running 11.7 percent over the previous year. If this rate continues, the Special Education Trust Fund could close out the fiscal year with a huge $50 million surplus. General Fund taxes are running about 11.8 percent ahead of last year...

The debate rages on whether or not Gov. George Wallace's costly trip to Europe is paying any dividends as far as new industry is concerned. Wallace has announced that several foreign companies with plants in Alabama have told him they will expand their operations, however, officials of some of those companies said the expansions were planned before they knew anything about Wallace coming to Europe...

Ever since the state started giving prospective school teachers a test to determine if they are competent in the subject they plan to teach, students from Alabama State University have fared very poorly. Alabama State has now filed a suit charging the tests discriminate against blacks. But the suit goes beyond simply asking that the tests be ruled invalid. It also asks that the ASU students who flunked the test be certified as teachers, given tenure, and also be given the back pay and fringe benefits they would have received had they passed the test and been hired as teachers.

Hospital questions

What's a DRG, PPS?

A lot of questions have been asked lately about the new Medicare payment system implemented at Shelby Medical Center in July.

What is a DRG? What is PPS? And, how is all this going to affect me, the Medicare patient?

Shelby and other hospitals around the country anticipate no increase in costs to Medicare patients. But the new system will have some effect on both the hospital and the Medicare patient.

DRG stands for Diagnosis Related Groups. Federal officials have studied the cost of treating illnesses and injuries, and have grouped them into some 470 diagnosis related groups.

When Medicare patients are admitted to the hospital, factors such as their illness, age, sex, and possible complications are considered before they are placed into a DRG group, where a predetermined payment has been assigned.

PPS stands for Perspective Payment System, which uses DRGs to determine how much a hospital will be paid by Medicare for each hospital stay.

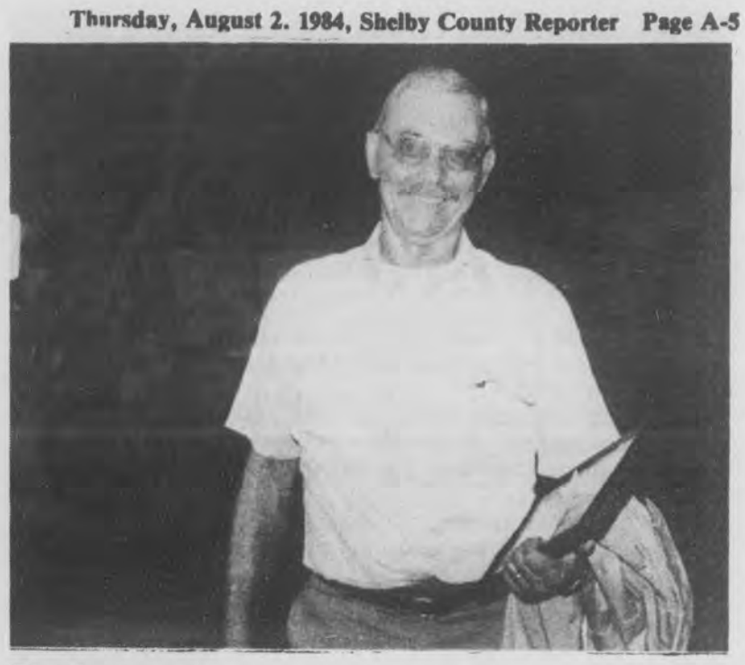
Under the previous Medicare payment system hospitals were paid for expenses actually incurred, with only some limitations. Now, hospitals are paid only the predetermined amount set for the patient's DRG.

The hospital receives this amount regardless of the number and cost of the tests run, the supplies used or the number of days the patient is in the hospital.

The coverage provided by Medicare will not be changed by PPS. Medicare patients should refer to their handbook for an explanation of their coverage.

Some changes that the Medicare patient may notice are shorter hospital stays and fewer tests.

There will also be more tests and minor surgery procedures done on an out-patient basis. An out-patient receives tests or treatments in the hospital, but is not required to stay overnight.



Retirement

Otha Joiner won't be operating any more dirt moving machines now that he's retired after 13 years of service with the Shelby County Highway department.

Dirt moving days end

Otha Joiner has moved a lot of dirt in 13 years.

Last week the county highway department employee retired, and climbed down from his dirt moving machine for the last time.

At a retirement ceremony Friday, county engineer Gary Ray called Joiner a "quiet and reserved man.

"He's always done a good job and he could teach us all something about attitude in performing a job," Ray said.

Responding to a remark about how much leisure time he'll have now, Joiner joked, "the only difference next week, is that I'll have one less boss."

While saying goodbye to fellow employees, he promised to come back occasionally and "aggravate" them.

Joiner was presented two resolutions commending him on his years of service. One was from the highway department, the other from the Shelby County Commission.

Employees also gave Joiner a windbreaker as a parting gift.

SMC board explained

Shelby Medical Center is, by law, "owned" by a nine-member board of directors, and the board has the final say in all hospital issues.

By agreement, (but, not by law, according to commissioner Jake Morris), two board members are appointed by each of the four county commissioners, and the chairman of the commission appoints the ninth member.

The members serve six year terms, elect a chairman each December, and are re-appointed on a staggered basis. In 1985, five of the members will be replaced.

SMC board chairman Jerome Turner and Calvin Smith were appointed by former commissioner Alpha Lowe, who was defeated in 1982 by Leon Archer.

Former commissioner Don Murphy -- replaced in 1982 by John Ames, who is now up for re-election -- appointed Tom Lloyd and Eloise Underwood.

Commissioner Morris -- also up for re-election -- appointed Herman Moore and Charles McCombs.

Commissioner Harold Davenport appointed Joe Arledge and Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter, past board chairman.

R.E. "Pete" Raughley, who resigned last month, was appointed by commission chairman Tommy Snowden. Snowden said Monday that he is considering several people as a replacement.

Raughley's former seat, and the board seats now held by Carter, Smith, Moore and McCombs all come up for appointment in 1985.

The other board seats come up for re-appointment in 1987.

Commission clerk to study indigent care

Shelby County Commission Clerk Myra Davis has been appointed to an ad hoc committee to study and iron out problems associated with Alabama's 1979 Health Care Responsibility Act.

The act requires county governments to be responsible for the medical bills of indigent residents when those bills are not fully reimbursable.

Appointments to the Indigent Care and Public Hospital Committee were made by Randall Shedd, president of the Association of County Commissions of Alabama.

"The way I understand it, if the economy really went down, they (indigents) could be in here in droves," Davis said. "If the debt falls back on the counties, it could break them."

Davis said legislation is needed to remove the burden of indigent care from the counties and that indigent care funds should be provided on a state or federal basis.

Presently, Shelby Medical Center is picking up the cost of indigent care for illnesses treated there. Last year, before the closing of SMC's OB unit, the hospital absorded $3.8 million in indigent care.

Hospital

Also, you could expect staffing levels to go down.

REPORTER: If the hospital was sold, what would that do to or for indigent care in Shelby County? Could not the price the hospital might bring, be invested in taking care of poor people?

PRICE: I guess theoretically, it could, but realistically that's not what would happen. At SMC we wrote off in the neighborhood of $3.8 million in indigent care. I just don't think that's an acceptable reason to sell it. You would have to ask then, "who would administer it?" Then you have to ask yourself, "is that plausible?"

REPORTER: SMC has a new logo. What was the need for changing the old logo?

PRICE: One, we didn't feel that the old logo met the need of the hospital. Two, it was very similar to other corporate logos, and we felt that this hospital needed its own identity, and didn't need to copy anyone else, and certainly wouldn't copy anyone else.

We had a corporation come in and say (our previous logo) looked very similar to theirs. It was not a threat; it was just an acknowledgement, that, hey, this looks pretty similar.

That logo, like a lot of practices at this hospital, was the result of past events. We would like the healing process to begin, in terms of getting this institution on the right track, and going in the right direction. I, as the new administrator, am committed to the premiss, that if anyone in this county has a complaint, or a question concerning this hospital, I will make myself available to them, whether it's in their church, their civic organization, my office or their home. I've even eaten supper with some county residents that had questions. I will discuss any problem they have, if it relates to this hospital.

Changing the logo is part of it. It's time we get on with the program. It's time we started running this hospital like the business it is. It's time we did what's best for the most taxpayers in this county, in terms of health services.

I am in my third month (at the time of the interview, July 12 and 13) as administrator. I will give them the pledge that I gave the board of directors at this hospital -- that we will build a class organization here with the utmost standards of health care. And that one by one we will tackle the problems that exist. We will not prostitute our standards to anybody.

I would ask the residents to be patient. We will, in time, build a program here that is in keeping with the class of Shelby County, the health needs of Shelby County. We will meet those needs. I know the people are proud of the hospital now, but they'll be even more proud of it. I guarantee them that we will build a program here that the people of Shelby County deserve -- but you cannot do it in three months.

System needs checks

From courtrooms to restrooms, we don't doubt that the courthouse needs more space.

We don't doubt that better care needs to be provided for records filed at the courthouse.

We don't doubt that the records system needs to be updated, that this costs money, and that those who use it should pay for it.

But when it comes to the discretionary use of these fees by a probate judge -- as proposed by the Index Fee Bill -- we do have doubts.

The present judge could use the fee wisely to meet some of the above mentioned needs. But there's no guarantee what the next office holder might do. There's no guarantee what greater need might arise tomorrow.

From the start, our founding fathers felt our branches of government -- honest or not -- need a system of checks and balances. Just because the sheriff's pistol permit fund falls basically outside this system, we see no reason to think any differently in this matter than our forefathers.

Record preservation applauded

Letter to the Editor:

The Officers and Directors of the Shelby County Historical Society applaud Judge Snowden's efforts to protect and preserve Shelby County's records. We also commend State Representative John Tanner for firmly supporting Judge Snowden in this endeavor.

If county citizens want the truth concerning county records, they should visit the present courthouse attic and records room, and then visit the Old Courthouse and new records annex. Judge Snowden has relieved crowded conditions by moving some records to the new facilities.

He wants also to move records from the attic where they are not supervised or atmospherically controlled to the Old Courthouse where they will be under archival conditions. To clear a misconception concerning the attic, Judge Snowden did not put records there. They have been there for years.

The SCHS has been concerned about the records since its incorporation in 1974. Members have donated time cataloging loose papers.

Many people come to our county doing genealogical research. There is not room for them in the present courthouse records room. In the attic they must work in hot and dark conditions. Theft of old and valuable papers is another problem.

The Old Courthouse Records Annex provides pleasant surroundings and staff assistance to visitors. Those making their living doing title searches are afforded the same genial treatment. We make no money for our efforts, rather do research free.

Before believing the rhetoric of some who do not want to go the block to the new facility, come and see for yourself.

Reader lauds commissioners

Letter to the Editor:

How can a Managing Editor say in his editorial that the County Commission should "stop embarrassing the public?" There were two of us visiting that meeting who were extremely proud -- not embarrassed in any way -- of the stand taken on both subjects by Commissioners Ames, Archer, and Davenport.

The Managing Editor suggests their working out problems "in a civilized manner." That statement should have been directed in an accurate way!

To describe the commission Chairman and the Probate Judge during the first hour-and-a-half of the meeting -- when these Commissioners weren't directly involved -- the Managing Editor more accurately could have used the word "obstinate" which means "perversely adhering to an opinion, purpose, or curse in spite of reason, arguments, or persuasion."

Commissioners unappreciated

Letter to the Editor:

I notice in the Shelby County Reporter Thursday, July 26, 1984 issue, where three of our County Commissioners are still up to their "RABBLE ROUSING" ways. When I read the local newspapers (Birmingham papers also) I begin to wonder what our neighboring counties think, not only of our county commissioners, but the entire populace of Shelby County for putting up with them.

On the other hand, I believe most people can intelligently access what is really happening. We have three commissioners, two elected, one appointed, who seem to believe they are devinely anointed to run the Probate Judge Office. I distinctly remember Mr. Snowden being ELECTED to serve in that capacity.

Of course all this makes one wonder the age old question -- WHY? I don't have an absolute answer to that -- only speculation. I would compare our three commissioners attitude to the Probate Judge as closely paralleling that of some of our U.S. Senators attitude toward our President. They are just negative about everything! Whatever causes this attitude... ego, power hungry, jealousy, dislike, hatred, envy, or whatever, is unknown to me.

No matter what it is, I don't appreciate these commissioners continuing to create ugly scenes, unauthorized commission meetings (that are illegal), and the wasting of time, money and efforts of people who are trying to do a good job and get the work accomplished. I am tired of reading and hearing about all the dissension and chaos created by these "Anointed" commissioners.

What to do about it? Well, Mr. Albert G. Minas of Montevallo said it in Thursday, July 26, 1984 "Writers Opinion". Tell them in the VOTING BOOTH - thats the one thing they fear most. VOTE the "Three Stooges" out of office.

Reporter reader takes issue

Letter to the Editor:

I have in past years always looked forward to keeping up with the activities in Shelby County by reading the Shelby County Reporter. The editorial viewpoints and sloppy writing of the past few months, however, have made me decide that I will not renew my subscription.

The poor spelling and grammar in the article by Jim Parks on page 4 of the Newcomer's Guide, dated July 26, 1984, are bad enough when written by the ordinary citizen but become unforgivable when written by, 'The Editor'.

Editorially, it seems the editors feel John Ames is not doing a decent job as County Commissioner. Having attended many commission meetings in the past years, I feel Mr. Ames is doing an exemplary job and should be applauded rather than maligned.

I sincerely hope you will be democratic enough to print this letter in your next edition.

Sincerely,

Snowden's efforts defended

Letter to the Editor:.

The recent controversy surrounding Judge Thomas Snowden's attempt at a plan of records management has, unfortunately and to the detriment of all Shelby County residents, reached a deplorable level of conflict.

The issues, whether political or technical, have become so emotionally charged and some factions have become so irrational in their pursuit of their own special interests, that the basic subject has gotten totally muddied.

The issue boils down to this: What are we going to do with the horrendous volume of records we have on hand and how are we going to deal with the increase in the influx of records as the county continues to grow exponentially?

Judge Snowden has developed a carefully thought out plan of records management that deals with the records from both ends. His attempts to execute that plan have cause contention from two two primary factions that have specific and selfish motives in mind.

The title company that filed the injunction to stop the records move has no rational basis for objection. The commission objects to the Index Fee Bill for political considerations. Judge Snowden's defense to these attacks is strong and above reproach. These really are issues that one must observe first hand in order to make a proper assessment of the situation.

Judge Snowden is not trying to do anything less than totally honorable. For people to see that for themselves they need only visit the present county courthouse and ask to see the records in the attic and then compare what they see there with what has been done with the records annex in the newly restored Old Courthouse.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

We got on the elevator on the eighth floor -- this guy and me. We had our wives in the hospital. He was a big guy, almost as big as a skinned bull, with big hands and big feet and a big mouth.

"I used to run one of these things," he said.

He waited a minute and added: "But they fired me."

I asked him why, and he answered: "Said I couldn't learn the route."

* * * *

The sign was as plain as a black eye. There were two signs, side by side, each one over a door on the first floor at the hospital. Unless you got careless, or just weren't thinking, there was no way to get 'em mixed up. Unless...

He started in the door where the sign said "Men". He was in a hurry. Maybe that's why he didn't look too close at the person who came out. All he saw was long flowing hair, draped over a blue shirt.

"I-I'm sorry," he murmured. "I-I didn't--"

The head turned then and underneath the flowing hair was a hanble-bar mustache. He didn't say another word. He just went through the door marked "Men", out of sight of the long flowing hair.

That night, at home, we saw this advertisement: "We got 'em. All brand new. Just $9,000."

Herb read it over and giggled. "Wonder how much it would cost," he laughed, "if you got a steering wheel."

Hospital questions

What's a DRG, PPS?

A lot of questions have been asked lately about the new Medicare payment system implemented at Shelby Medical Center in July.

What is a DRG? What is PPS? And, how is all this going to affect me, the Medicare patient?

Shelby and other hospitals around the country anticipate no increase in costs to Medicare patients. But the new system will have some effect on both the hospital and the Medicare patient.

DRG stands for Diagnosis Related Groups. Federal officials have studied the cost of treating illnesses and injuries, and have grouped them into some 470 diagnosis related groups.

When Medicare patients are admitted to the hospital, factors such as their illness, age, sex, and possible complications are considered before they are placed into a DRG group, where a predetermined payment has been assigned.

PPS stands for Perspective Payment System, which uses DRGs to determine how much a hospital will be paid by Medicare for each hospital stay.

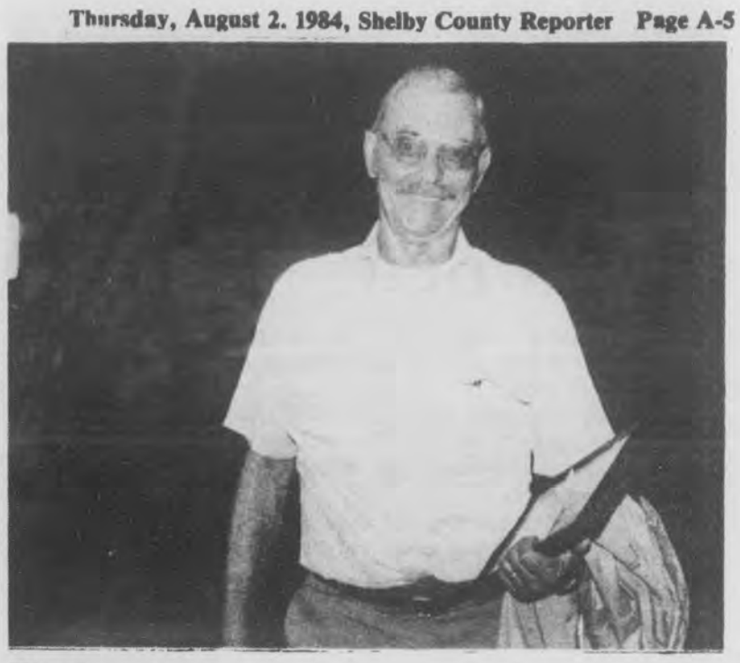
Under the previous Medicare payment system hospitals were paid for expenses actually incurred, with only some limitations. Now, hospitals are paid only the predetermined amount set for the patient's DRG.

The hospital receives this amount regardless of the number and cost of the tests run, the supplies used or the number of days the patient is in the hospital.

The coverage provided by Medicare will not be changed by PPS. Medicare patients should refer to their handbook for an explanation of their coverage.

Some changes that the Medicare patient may notice are shorter hospital stays and fewer tests.

There will also be more tests and minor surgery procedures done on an out-patient basis. An out-patient receives tests or treatments in the hospital, but is not required to stay overnight.



Retirement

Otha Joiner won't be operating any more dirt moving machines now that he's retired after 13 years of service with the Shelby County Highway department.

Dirt moving days end

Otha Joiner has moved a lot of dirt in 13 years.

Last week the county highway department employee retired, and climbed down from his dirt moving machine for the last time.

At a retirement ceremony Friday, county engineer Gary Ray called Joiner a "quiet and reserved man.

"He's always done a good job and he could teach us all something about attitude in performing a job," Ray said.

Responding to a remark about how much leisure time he'll have now, Joiner joked, "the only difference next week, is that I'll have one less boss."

While saying goodbye to fellow employees, he promised to come back occasionally and "aggravate" them.

Joiner was presented two resolutions commending him on his years of service. One was from the highway department, the other from the Shelby County Commission.

Employees also gave Joiner a windbreaker as a parting gift.

SMC board explained

Shelby Medical Center is, by law, "owned" by a nine-member board of directors, and the board has the final say in all hospital issues.

By agreement, (but, not by law, according to commissioner Jake Morris), two board members are appointed by each of the four county commissioners, and the chairman of the commission appoints the ninth member.

The members serve six year terms, elect a chairman each December, and are re-appointed on a staggered basis. In 1985, five of the members will be replaced.

SMC board chairman Jerome Turner and Calvin Smith were appointed by former commissioner Alpha Lowe, who was defeated in 1982 by Leon Archer.

Former commissioner Don Murphy -- replaced in 1982 by John Ames, who is now up for re-election -- appointed Tom Lloyd and Eloise Underwood.

Commissioner Morris -- also up for re-election -- appointed Herman Moore and Charles McCombs.

Commissioner Harold Davenport appointed Joe Arledge and Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter, past board chairman.

R.E. "Pete" Raughley, who resigned last month, was appointed by commission chairman Tommy Snowden. Snowden said Monday that he is considering several people as a replacement.

Raughley's former seat, and the board seats now held by Carter, Smith, Moore and McCombs all come up for appointment in 1985.

The other board seats come up for re-appointment in 1987.

Commission clerk to study indigent care

Shelby County Commission Clerk Myra Davis has been appointed to an ad hoc committee to study and iron out problems associated with Alabama's 1979 Health Care Responsibility Act.

The act requires county governments to be responsible for the medical bills of indigent residents when those bills are not fully reimbursable.

Appointments to the Indigent Care and Public Hospital Committee were made by Randall Shedd, president of the Association of County Commissions of Alabama.

"The way I understand it, if the economy really went down, they (indigents) could be in here in droves," Davis said. "If the debt falls back on the counties, it could break them."

Davis said legislation is needed to remove the burden of indigent care from the counties and that indigent care funds should be provided on a state or federal basis.

Presently, Shelby Medical Center is picking up the cost of indigent care for illnesses treated there. Last year, before the closing of SMC's OB unit, the hospital absorded $3.8 million in indigent care.

Also, you could expect staffing levels to go down.

REPORTER: If the hospital was sold, what would that do to or for indigent care in Shelby County? Could not the price the hospital might bring, be invested in taking care of poor people?

PRICE: I guess theoretically, it could, but realistically that's not what would happen. At SMC we wrote off in the neighborhood of $3.8 million in indigent care. I just don't think that's an acceptable reason to sell it. You would have to ask then, "who would administer it?" Then you have to ask yourself, "is that plausible?"

REPORTER: SMC has a new logo. What was the need for changing the old logo?

PRICE: One, we didn't feel that the old logo met the need of the hospital. Two, it was very similar to other corporate logos, and we felt that this hospital needed its own identity, and didn't need to copy anyone else, and certainly wouldn't copy anyone else.

We had a corporation come in and say (our previous logo) looked very similar to theirs. It was not a threat; it was just an acknowledgement, that, hey, this looks pretty similar.

That logo, like a lot of practices at this hospital, was the result of past events. We would like the healing process to begin, in terms of getting this institution on the right track, and going in the right direction. I, as the new administrator, am committed to the premiss, that if anyone in this county has a complaint, or a question concerning this hospital, I will make myself available to them, whether it's in their church, their civic organization, my office or their home. I've even eaten supper with some county residents that had questions. I will discuss any problem they have, if it relates to this hospital.

Changing the logo is part of it. It's time we get on with the program. It's time we started running this hospital like the business it is. It's time we did what's best for the most taxpayers in this county, in terms of health services.

I am in my third month (at the time of the interview, July 12 and 13) as administrator. I will give them the pledge that I gave the board of directors at this hospital -- that we will build a class organization here with the utmost standards of health care. And that one by one we will tackle the problems that exist. We will not prostitute our standards to anybody.

I would ask the residents to be patient. We will, in time, build a program here that is in keeping with the class of Shelby County, the health needs of Shelby County. We will meet those needs. I know the people are proud of the hospital now, but they'll be even more proud of it. I guarantee them that we will build a program here that the people of Shelby County deserve -- but you cannot do it in three months.

Cheerleaders win award

Shelby County High School's varsity cheerleaders have won national spirit honors at Auburn University.

The recognition came during the 1984 National Cheerleaders Association summer workshop, attended by over 300 cheerleaders from a five-state area.

The SCHS squad earned four superior ribbons in addition to bringing home the NCA Spirit Stick for their school's trophy case.

The Wildcat cheerleaders took the spirit award for technique, unity, friendliness, cooperation, leadership and sportsmanship shown toward other squads.

The award presentation came at the end of a full training session on cheers, chants, jumps, partner stunts, techniques and pep rallies.

The cheerleaders also attended leadership seminars on sportsmanship, crowd participation, responsiblities, organization and dedication.

Maylene race driver injured in explosion

by David F. Moore

Dave Mader III and his wife, Pam, are proving true the saying that it takes a couple weeks to recover from vacation.

The couple's "vacation" to a friend's house in Pensacola abruptly ended on the night of July 21, when an unfinished car Mader was racing in Mobile, suddenly exploded into flames. This week Mader is still recuperating in a Birmingham hospital from an assortment of first, second and third degree burns.

The 29-year-old racer from Eaglewood Estates in Maylene is quick to admit that the car he was driving was not finished, and that he was not wearing gloves which would have prevented at least some of the painful burns incurred on his hands.

Mader said that when he gets out of University Hospital -- maybe this Saturday -- he'll be hot and heavy on a fire safety crusade for racing.

"Yeah, you'll see me on a fire safety crusade when I get out of here," he said last week from his burn unit bed. "It's a shame that things like this have to happen in order for people to do something about problems."

The 11-year veteran said he wants to see that it becomes manditory at all race tracks to wear fire protective gloves, suits, socks, "and maybe even a mask like they wear at Indy."

Of course equipment like this costs bucks, but, as Mader told Pam, "When you see the skin dripping off your hand, money's no problem. Nobody wants to go through this pain."

The accident happened his second night of racing at Mobile International Speedway. Both nights he was racing friend Ray Barnes' late model sportsman with a 331 Chevy engine.

Prior to the races, Barnes and Mader had spent time working on the car, but some of the details had not been finished by race time -- specifically, a section of the fire wall had not been installed.

Friday the car finished in 4th place. Saturday, Mader started the feature race on the 3rd row inside, and by the 4th lap he was running in first.

The trouble started on lap 22 while barrelling down the straightaway at 80 mph. Oil began blowing onto the headers.

"I felt the motor was going to do something," Mader said. "I punched in the clutch and it exploded. Actually, it didn't explode as much as it turned into a ball of fire. It was a hell of an oil fire."

"You couldn't even see the car," said Pam, who watched the disaster. "You couldn't see Dave. You couldn't see anything."

Inside the rolling inferno, flames were burning through the unfinished fire wall, licking at Mader's unprotected hands and face.

"I let go of the steering wheel," he said. "I was grabbing for the net, trying to get out the window."

Two things apparently saved him from a possible fatality. One, he was wearing his fire protective suit, which saved much of his body from cooking. Two, the car spun around backwards, blowing the ball of flame away from the driver.

For Mader, it was a long, hot and vivid four or five seconds.

Finally, still moving at 20-30 mph, Mader managed to dive out the window. He hit the ground rolling, skinning arms and legs in the process.

That ended the vacation.

Mader was taken to a hospital that night, and flown Monday by the University Hospitals' Lear jet to Birmingham.

His hands suffered 2nd degree burns, and his face around his goggles was spotted with 1st degree burns. His only 3rd degree burns were on his lower right leg -- in a sensitive place which he broke once in a motorcycle accident.

He underwent skin grafts on Friday.

Mader has made a strong showing this season at BIR and elsewhere, and -- until the accident -- was running second behind Shelby County's Hut Strickin in the All-American Challenge Championship series.

Besides support from his family and friends, fellow racer Jerry Goodwin has also been an inspiration the past week and a half, Mader said. Goodwin received 3rd degree burns in a 1978 racing fire, but has returned to the track and now wins races.

"I hop[illegible] can still drive when I get out," Mader said. "I definitely want to race. It's what I do best."

Briarwood names coach, athletic director

by Fred Guarino

Briarwood Christian High School has a new head football coach and a new athletic director.

Rick Sayle, a 39 year-old native of Memphis, TN. with 11 years of coaching experience, was named head football coach, while Steve Franklin, veteran head basketball coach and assistant football coach of five years, was tapped as athletc director.

Sayle and Franklin were named by school headmaster Mr. Byrle Kynerd to replace outgoing Gary Fleming, who served as both head football coach and athletic director.

But while the official word on Fleming's replacements was given by Dr. Kynerd this past May, it was not made public until this past Monday afternoon by Franklin.

Fleming created the vacancies at Briarwood when he decided to end his coaching career and to pursue a lifelong goal of serving the Christian ministry.

Sayle served as the junior high school football coach for Briarwood last season and coached the team to a 3-3 record.

His coaching career began in an assistant's capacity at Messick High School in Memphis. After three years, he was named to the head coaching position at Messick and he guided the football team to 13 wins, 16 losses and one tie over the next three years.

Sayle later took the head coaching position at White Station High School, also in Memphis, and over the next two years produced a 15-5 record there.

The next three years saw Sayle handling head coaching duties at a private Christian institution also in Memphis.

At Evangelical High School, Sayle guided teams to a 19-11 record.

Counting his one season at Briarwood as a junior high football coach, Sayle has amassed a career record of 50 wins, 32 losses and one tie.

Between his duties at Memphis and his first season at Briarwood, Sayle went into private business for himself.

"I've looked forward to being back in Christian education," Sayle said of his return to head coaching duties. "I'm looking forward to the challenge set before me and the players."

Sayle is married, and he and his wife Kay have three children ages 14, 13 and 10.

While they currently make their home in Birmingham's Cahaba Heights, the Sayles are building a new home in Shelby County's Quail Run sub-division just off Cahaba Valley Road.

Baskeball Coach Steve Franklin actually sees his new job as athletic director at Briarwood as an opportunity to devote more attention to his sport.

"In doing this, I'm giving up football and I will have more time to concentrate on basketball," Franklin said.

But the basketball coach won't find the job as athletic director making life any easier for him.

"I'm also assuming a lot more responsibilities," he noted. "At last count, Briarwood Christian High School had more sports than any school in its classification (now 3A.)"

Briarwood has 14 sports plus four girl support programs which Franklin will find it is duty to coordinate.

Franklin is married, and he and his wife Deena have one child on the way.

Playoff road ends

A district crown proved to be as high as a combination Deb League softball team from Pelham, Helena and Alabaster could go this season.

But, the 16-18 year-old girls can at least remember that.

Coached by Iva Jane "Bogie" Holley and Mary Beth Blankenship, the North Shelby squad won the district crown in Central Park after what appeared an early set-back, a 0-5 loss to Hueytown.

They fought back, however, to beat Central Shelby 10-4 and Shades Mountain 13-1. Later the girls claimed a revenge victory over Hueytown 6-4 and then clobbered McCalla 20-8.

In the district finals competition, any bitter memories of Hueytown were permanently erased with the help of a 9-2 win by the North Shelby countians.

With that behind them, the Debs moved on to Hartselle and opened state tournament action in fine style with a 12-6 spanking of Fort Rucker.

But that was to be the last taste of victory. The girls lost to Decatur, 4-5, then to Central Baldwin, 0-5, July 23 to end state championship hopes.

Shoal Creek greats profiled

by Fred Guarino

By now, the dates August 16-19 are permanently associated with Shelby County's Shoal Creek golf course and the 1984 PGA championship.

Almost anyone, who knows anything about golf, is anxiously awaiting the big event.

And, who could blame them? The PGA title tournament attracts some of the best players of the game.

This week, the Reporter takes a look at Dave Stockton, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Don January.

Of Dave Stockton's 11 tour triumphs, the greatest have been victories in the 1970 and 1976 PGA championships.

In 1970, he edged Arnold Palmer and Bob Murphy at Southern Hills and in 1976 he dropped a 13-footer on the last hole to nip Ray Floyd and Don January at Congressional.

Stockton has been one of the best putters and chippers on the tour for years and is constantly in demand for his clinic and exhibititon work.

The native Californian was golf captain at his home state's University of California but he got off to a slow start as a pro.

Stockton struggled for three years on the professional tour before winning the 1967 Colonial National Invitation.

His best years were ahead, however, and in 1974 when he won the Los Angeles, Quad Cities and Sammy Davis-Greater Hartford Opens. He finished sixth in the money with $155,105.

The 5' 11" Californian was born in San Bernardino and now makes his home at Westlake Village, CA. During the summer, he is director of golf at Keystone Ranch Resort, CO.

Lee Buck Trevino is considered the Bob Hope of golf for his comical antics, and, he continues to be one the most popular stories in sports.

A sixth place finish in the 1967 U.S. Open at Baltusrol launched this golf legend's starry career. Rookie-of-the-Year in 1967, he won the 1968 U.S. Open at Oak Hill.

The 180-pound, 5'7" Texan again won the Open in 1971 by downing Jack Nicklaus in a playoff at Marion. In a torrid, five week stretch in 1971, Trevino won the U.S., British and Canadian Opens. That was a feat never accomplished before.

Trevino was named PGA Player of the Year in 1971.

After a herniated disc in 1976, Trevino made an amazing comeback. He won the 1977 Canadian Open, the 1978 Colonial National Invitation, the 1979 Canadian Open and took three more victories in 1980 before winning the 1981 Tournament of Champions.

It was in 1980 at the age of 40 when Trevino enjoyed one of his finest years and prizes totaling $385,814.

Last fall, at age 43, Trevino appeared set to win his 27th tour title at the LaJet Classic until Rex Caldwell beat him in a playoff.

Trevino's PGA Championship came in 1974 at Tanglewood.

Possibly one of golf's greatest men, Gary Jim Player is one of only four men to win the U.S. and British Opens, the Masters and the PGA national championship.

Keeping him company with that distinction are Gene Sarazen, Ben Hogan and Jack Nicklaus.

Since Player began international competition in 1955 (the Egyptian Open) the 5'7" South African has won 120 tournaments. That impressive total includes nine majors (two PGA's, three Masters, three British Opens and one U.S. Open).

Player became only the 11th man to win three successive tour events in 1978, capturing the Masters, Tournament of Champions and Houston Open.

He joined the tour in 1957 and the next year, at age 22, he won his first U.S. event, the Kentucky Derby Open. That was also the year he surprised the world by finishing second in the U.S. Open at Southern Hills.

Seven years later, Player beat Australian Kel Nagle for the U.S. Open title at Bellerive.

His PGA titles came a decade apart with the 1962 crown coming at Aronimink and the Wanamaker in 1972 at Oakland Hills.

Among his other victories are 12 South African Opens, seven Australian Opens, five World Match Plays and three World Series of Golf.

At 48, Player is a physical fitness devotee.

How many sportsmen can have their most lucrative year at age 53?

Maybe Don January is unique but that is exactly what he did last year, copping six titles on the PGA senior's tour and nine other top ten finishes for total prizes of $253,617.

Since reaching the half century mark, one could say that January is a reborn golfer. In the past three years, he has won 11 senior events in the U.S. and the 1980 Australian PGA Senior's title.

January's competitive career is unusual because it has lasted 25 years despite a break of nearly three years while he went into golf course designing and construction.

After returning to tournament play, January won the San Antonio-Texas Open in 1975 at age 45. The victory qualified him for the 1976 Tournament of Champions, which he also won.

January won the PGA in 1967 at Columbine. He has 11 tour triumphs to his credit, including two in the Tournament of Champions titles.

He was a member of the Ryder Cup team in 1965 and 1977 and has won more than $1 million in prizes.

Chelsea Youth Club seeks $15,000

Chelsea area residents are uniting in a common cause to save the field they have developed for area youth.

The Chelsea Youth Club, which spearheaded the field project several years ago, is in danger of losing the field because of the indebtedness on the land.

In order to raise the $15,000 needed to pay off the mortgage, the club is giving away a diamond watch valued at $2,000 and a diamond ring valued at a $1,000.

Club members are seeking $25 donations to raise the funds.

Donations can be made at McManus Shell service station on U.S. 280. For further information: 678-9996.

Area residents are urged to attend the next meeting of the Youth Club being held at Liberty Church. Aug. 10, at 7 p.m.

Registration for football players and cheerleaders will be held at the Chelsea school gym Aug. 2, 3 from 6-8 p.m.

Pigskin practice called

All Pelham High School junior varsity football players and anyone interested in junior varsity football are asked to report to the Pelham High School gym, Thursday, Aug. 16, at 1 p.m.

According to head football coach Billy Tohill, physicals will be given on that day and the first day of football practice will follow immediately.

Tohill said all players need to bring their own shoes, shorts and practice jerseys.

Manuel proves high bowler

Helena's Danny Manuel proved to be a pretty sharp bowler in the 1984 Coca-Cola National Junior Bowling Championship.

Manuel reach the semi-finals and claimed eighth place in competition held in Bloomington, Minn. He also finished the event with game high honors in Boy's Handicap competition.

Manuel's high score, with handicap, was 303.

ROBIN NICOLE TIDMORE
...new in Alabaster

Korean baby finds home in Alabaster

From the gate at a hospital in Korea, to a warm home in Alabaster is a long way. But apparently everything's working out fine for five-month-old Robin Nicole and her adopotive family, the Ricky Tidmores.

Father's Day was a memorable occasion for the entire family. On that day, at the Assembly of God in Alabaster, the Tidmores dedicated the new baby.

Described as a "delight" by her adoptive mother, she came a long way to join the Tidmore family.

She was born in Seoul, Korea on Feb. 13 and abandoned the same day. According to Mrs. Tidmore, the baby was found in a towel just inside the gate of Angel Maternity Hospital.

She was wearing a bracelet, Mrs. Tidmore said, which gave her name and the date and time of her birth.

The Tidmores picked Robin up in Atlanta on June 7.

Although five-year-old Jeff Tidmore says he would have liked a brother, he seems to be genuinely fond of his new sister.

The baby also has a sister that's very fond of her -- 11-year-old Tracy Tidmore.

Next door, at the home of Tidmore's sister, Sandra Scoggins and her husband James, is a prospective playmate for Robin -- Jennifer Lynn, who is also from Korea.

Jenny, who arrived in Alabaster in May, was dedicated at the same service as Robin at Alabaster's First Assembly of God.

NOTICE is hereby given that a bill substantially as follows will be introduced in the Legislature of Alabama at the 1985 Regular Session or at any Special Session which may be called prior to the 1985 Regular Session, and application for its passage and enactment will be made, to wit:

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT

Relating to Shelby County; to require the installation and maintenance of an improved system of recording and indexing documents affecting the title to property and other documents recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate; to provide the collection and disposition of a special index fee; and to provide that said system shall constitute official and permanent records in Shelby County.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA:

Section 1. Applicability and Purpose of Act. The provisions of this act shall only apply in Shelby County. The purpose of this act is to facilitate the use of public records in property transactions in Shelby County by providing for the installation of an improved system of recording and indexing of instruments and documents affecting the title to real and personal property that are recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate and for the recording of other instruments, documents and other uses in the discretion of the Judge of Probate.

Section 2. Definitions. The following words and phrases, including the plural of any thereof, whenever used in this act, shall have the following respective meanings:

"Real Property Instrument" means and includes any instrument or document affecting the title to real property that may now or hereafter be filed for record in the Probate Office pursuant to the applicable requirements of the laws of this state, including, but without limitation to, Sections 35-4-50 and 35-4-90, Code of Alabama 1975, and all statutes providing for the filing and recording of notices or settlements of liens of any kind, notices of judgment, and plats or maps showing subdivisions of real estate.

"General Property Instrument" means a real property instrument that affects the title to personal property as well as real property.

"Personal Property Instrument" means any instrument or document affecting the title to personal property only (as distinguished from real property) that may be now or hereafter titled for record in the Probate Office, in accordance with the applicable requirements of the law of this state, including particularly said Sections 34-4-50 and 35-4-90, Code of Alabama 1975.

"Improved Recording System" means a system of recording and indexing real property instruments and personal property instruments in the Probate Office and, in the discretion of the Judge of Probate, of recording and indexing other instruments and documents, which system when completed, will consist of the following:

(a) the following microphotographed copies:

(1) microphotographed copies of all real property instruments (or of the record of such instruments) at any time filed for record in the Probate Office, such copies to be arranged chronologically, according to the date of filing for record of the original instruments, in drawers or cabinets which shall be separated into different classifications indicating generally the nature of the instruments recorded in such drawer or cabinet, such classifications to be designated by the Judge of Probate of the county and to include such classifications as "Deeds," "Mortgages," "Mechanics," and "Materialmen's Liens," "Judgments," and the like;

(2) microphotographed copies of all miscellaneous instruments (or of the record of such instruments) that are of record in the Probate Office on the effective installation date and of all personal property instruments (or the record of such instruments) at any time filed for record in the Probate Office, such copies to be arranged chronologically, according to the date of the filing for record of the original instruments, on microfilm filed in cabinets or other suitable receptacles; and

(3) in the discretion of the Judge of Probate, microphotographed copies of any or all of the following records and instruments (or the record thereof) at any time filed for record, recorded or made an official record in the Probate Office: certificates of incorporations, and any other documents properly recorded in the incorporation records of the county, wills and records of adoptions, legitimations, marriage licenses, probate records, administrator's accounts, tax sales, UCC's and historical documents.

(b) Equipment necessary and suitable to prepare, index and contain the microphotographed records.

Section 3. Installation and Maintenance of System. The Judge of Probate is hereby authorized to provide for the installation and thereafter for the maintenance of an improved recording and index system in the probate offices of the county. The initial installation of the improved recording and index system shall include the following:

(a) The acquisition of the equipment provided for inclause (b) of the definition hereinabove set forth of an improved recording system;

(b) the microphotographing and filing in drawers, cabinets and other receptacles of the public records of all real property instruments, personal property instruments, and miscellaneous instruments that are of record in the probate office of the county on the effective installation date and of any other then existing records in the probate offices or in the courthouse;

(c) the establishment of procedures for the continued microphotographing, indexing and filing of all instruments and records that will, after the effective installation date, constitute a part of the improved recording system;

(d) the initial installation of the improved recording and index system shall be performed by a person or persons, firm or corporation engaged in records management business and experienced in setting up county records; and such initial installation shall be supervised and inspected by a person who is experienced in handling records pertaining to abstracts and title. Following its installation in the county, the improved recording and index system shall be thereafter maintained in the county and all real property instruments, general property instruments and personal property instruments and other documents and records herein provided to constitute a part of said system, that may be thereafter filed for record in the probate office of the county shall be photographed and recorded in accordance with the aforesaid improved recording and index system. Each real property instrument and each personal property instrument shall be operative as a record from the time of its delivery to the Judge of Probate of the county, in accordance with the provisions of existing law, including particularly Section 35-4-59 of the Code of Alabama 1975.

Section 4. Official and Permanent Records. On and after the effective installation date, the microphotographic copies of all instruments and records provided herein to be microphotographed and computer indexed shall constitute the official record of such instruments for the purposes of Sections 35-4-50 and 35-4-90 of the Code of Alabama 1975, and all other laws applicable to the recording of any of such instruments and for all other purposes; and the record of real property instruments, personal property instruments, miscellaneous instruments, and other documents and records that may be microphotographed pursuant to the provisions of the act, made in books prior to the effective installation date shall not thereafter constitute official records. Following the effective installation date, real property instruments, personal property instruments, and other documents and records provided herein to be microphotographed and computer indexed shall no longer be recorded in books.

Section 5. Applicability of Existing Laws. All provisions of the laws of Alabama with respect to the recording of real property instruments, personal property instruments, general property instruments, miscellaneous instruments, and other instruments and records that may constitute part of an improved recording and index system installed hereunder (including but without limitation to the provisions of Sections 35-4-50 and 35-4-90 and Section 12-13-43 of the Code of Alabama 1975, and the provisions of all statutes respecting the filing and recording of notices or statements of liens of any kind, notices of Lis Pendens, declarations of claims or exemption, certificates of judgment, or plats or maps showing subdivisions of real estate) that are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act shall continue in effect with respect to an improved recording system installed hereunder, the recording of instruments therein, and the duties of the Judge of Probate with respect thereto.

Section 6. Installation of System and/or Services Deemed Necessary for the Operation of the Probate Offices To Be Paid Out of Special Recording Fees and Proceeds of Warrants. The initial installation costs shall be paid entirely out of the said special recording fees. Nothing contained in this section, however, shall prohibit the county from using any part of its own funds for the purpose of paying the cost of operating and maintaining, after the initial installation, any improved recording system installed pursuant to the provisions of this act.

Section 7. Special Recording Fees. On the first day of the month after the date this act becomes applicable to Shelby County, a special index fee of $3.00 shall be paid to the county, and collected by its Judge of Probate, with respect to each real property instrument and each personal property instrument that may be filed for record in the office of said Judge of Probate and for the recording of other instruments and documents in the probate office in the discretion of the Judge of Probate of the county, and, on and after such date, no such instrument shall be received for record in the office of said Judge of Probate unless the said special index fee of $3.00 is paid thereon. Said special index fee shall be in addition to all other fees, taxes and other charges required by law to be paid upon the filing for record of any real property instrument or personal property instrument, and for the recording of other instruments and documents in the probate office in the discretion of the Judge of Probate of the county. All special index fees so collected shall be paid into a special fund of the Judge of Probate. These funds shall be used at the discretion of the Judge of Probate for an improved recording and indexing system and/or maintenance and services necessary for the improvement of the office of Judge of Probate and for the preservation of historical records. This special fund shall be audited at the same time and in the same manner as are other Judge of Probate records.

Section 8. The provisions of this act are severable. If any part of the act is declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the part which remains.

Section 9. All laws or parts of laws which conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Section 10. This act shall become effective immediately upon its passage and approval by the Governor, or upon its otherwise becoming a law.

Colley: keeping close to water

By Bert Seaman

Black clouds moved in over Oak Mountain Lake Friday, and streaks of lightning cut the sky. Most of those on the beach hurriedly gathered their belongings together and headed for shelter.

One group, however, seemed to be in no hurry to leave.

"Ladies," a lifeguard called out, "you'll have to get off the beach -- please."

The lifeguard is 17-year-old Kevin Colley of Montevallo.

"The toughest thing about this job," Colley says, "is learning to be mean."

But even when he has to be insistent, the Montevallo High School student says he always tries to be courteous.

This is the first summer Colley has worked at the state park.

And pulling out youngsters who get in water over their heads has become fairly routine. But he recalls one dramatic rescue which occurred when two canoes overturned.

Three other lifeguards swam with him to the scene where seven people floundered in the water -- five of whom were children.

One of the younger children -- a three year old girl -- had slipped out of her lifejacket, and Colley managed to find her beneath the water and pulled her to safety.

The incident had a happy ending, Colley said with relief. The canoes were righted and the occupants hoisted back in.

Although he was hired as a lifeguard, Colley's interest in firefighting prompted him to ask for assignment to that duty as well.

So, now at the top of the list as a backup firefighter, he's on call 24 hours a day.

A member of the Montevallo Fire Department's Explorer post since 1983, Colley is working on his service project for the Eagle Scout award. He plans to install blue reflectors in the street where fire hydrants are located - a project which will make them easier to find during nighttime emergencies.

Colley says that he enjoys his lifeguarding job because he likes being around water -- something he came by naturally since he has been swimming and sailing nearly all his life.

Colley was a YMCA "tadpole" and learned to swim at the age of four. He's also done some snorkeling with his family in the Florida Keys.

The family consists of his sailing enthusiast father, University of Montevallo professor Dr. Sanford Colley, who is area head of guidance and counseling; his mother Colleen, a guidance counselor at Montevallo High School, and his 13-year-old sister Lauren.

When his father wanted a boat but couldn't afford to buy one, "he built it himself, Colley says.

And the elder Colley encouraged his son in the "do-it-yourself school." When he was five or six, Colley says he started building model planes.

"Dad wouldn't let me have a mini-bike or go-cart, but I could buy all the balsa wood I wanted to."

Rocket building was another project that father and son worked on together, and some of that early interest in aviation has apparently stuck.

Colley says he would like to be involved in some phase of naval aviation, but he's also considering architectural design as a career choice.

Ed board adopts new policy manual

by Bert Seaman

Work that began four years ago on updating the policy manual for the Shelby County School System came to a successful conclusion Tuesday.

The board voted unanimously to adopt the book -- which has now doubled in size from the previous manual.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox told those present that input on the project came from a number of sources. He mentioned parents, teachers, principals, staff members, and board members.

After the Alabama Association of School Boards revised the manual, it was reviewed and sent back and forth to the board's Tuscaloosa office for revisions before being accepted, Glasscox said.

In order to make the policies available to interested persons, 150 copies of the manual will be distributed. They will be placed at every school, the University of Montevallo, the board of education office and at the DAY program facility.

The manual is not for sale to public.

One reason for this, education superintendent Ellie Glasscox

" See "A" section for related stories on Meadow Brook boundaries, PHS parking explained, is that the board needs to know exactly where the books are, so they can be updated when the need arises.

Also, Glasscox said, the expense of printing a volume the size of the one adopted last week -- over 200 pages -- prohibits printing extra copies upon request.

The last time the policy manual was revised, deputy superintendent of education Vern Davis reported, was in 1974. That book contained 63 pages.

Referring to the present manual, Davis noted that it had taken a long time to do. "But we're not going to have to do it again for a long time," he said with relief.

With the adoption of this manual, the superintendent said the board should be able to do "a more efficient job of running the school system."

Board member Jack Upchurch remarked that the blue covered policy manual (29 pages) that was used when he was principal of Shelby County High School had been a "big help. This one should be an even greater help," he said.

Board member, Dr. Bill Fancher, observed that the new

by David F. Moore

My hat's off to those hearty souls who help their gardens with a hoe, hoe, hoe.

How you people work your gardens without the mechanical benefits offered in this, the second half of the 20th Century, is beyond me.

Then again, considering how much produce I HAVE NOT gotten out of my garden this year, there is apparently a lot that is beyond my regressive comprehension...

EXCUSES! EXCUSES! EXCUSES! One of the numerous problems which has plagued this, my first-ever gardening attempt, is that Mr. Roto-Tiller doesn't live at my house.

You do know Mr. Roto-Tiller, don't you? He's that noisey fella with a three-horsepower engine that bucks like a rodeo full of wild bulls, mutilates your muscles, blisters your fingers and makes the dog bark.

Despite these drawbacks, Mr. Roto-Tiller has his strong points, too. Specifically, he can churn up a row of weeds, grass and hard dirt in the wink of a pink-eyed, purple hull (what I used to call a balck-eyed pea until I became "sophisticated" in all this technical garden lingo).

Call me lazy. Call me low down and no count. But don't call me blind to a miracle of modern technology. When it comes to gardening, Mr. Roto-Tiller is the world's second greatest invention.

The greatest garden related invention is, of course, the shoe.

If it wasn't for shoes, we'd get all that dirt and mud from the garden, stuck between our toes.

It's easy enough to remove our muddy shoes before tramping into the house, but removing our muddy feet is something of a mess.

Furthermore, without shoes we wouldn't have anything to throw at alarm clocks when they blast us in the morning, rudely telling us it's time to go out and garden.

Mr. Roto-Tiller is good for a lot of things, but not for throwing across bedrooms at alarm clocks. That would REALLY make the dog bark.

DESPERATE SITUATIONS BREED DESPERATE ACTIONS: For all of Mr. Roto-Tillers virtues, his major drawback -- as I mentioned earlier -- is that he doesn't live at my house. Never did; and, at this rate, never will.

However, I've been through this a few times already this spring and summer, so I know where to find Mr. Tiller when I need him badly enough. He lives at my father-in-law's house in Midfield.

Desperate situations breed desperate actions, and since what was left of garden definitely fell into the category of "desperate," I was forced last week after a Red Cross meeting in Birmingham, to drive to Midfield and kidnap Mr. Roto-Tiller.

"Oh, no!" Mr. Tiller cried, seeing me approach. "Don't take me to the Kingdom again. Too many weeds!"

"Shut up, or I'll choke your throttle," I hissed.

To the accompaniment of 20 grunts, I hoisted the sucker into my truck, and made for the country.

MORE DESPERATE SITUATIONS: Friday morning, after running out of shoes to throw at my alarm clock, I rolled out of bed, stumbled outside and shoved Mr. Tiller over to the garden.

It's not true that I so seldom work my veggie patch that I forgot where I planted it.

It is true, however, that the weeds had grown so high that it took five minutes to located the dang garden since it was camouflaged to look like the rest of the overgrown yard.

Finally, I spotted dry brown corn stalks -- a dead giveaway, so to speak, on the lost location.

"See," Tiller said. "Told you so. Too many weeds. I can't run through THAT jungle."

"Shut up," I said curtly, and walked back to the tool shed. When I returned, I carried with me gardening history.

Let it be known that on July 27, I became the first Regressive Farmer in the world to do his/her gardening with a swing blade.

The next day, rubbing my swing blade / tiller blisters, I confessed to Don Alsup that I had lowered myself to gardening with a swing blade. Don, a friend who lives in Pelham and runs a lawn service, grinned.

"You need a weed eater," Don laughed.

Weed eater? By George, that could very well be the third most important invention in the history of gardening...

SOMEBODY HAS TO DO IT: According to info I have from Auburn, the state farmers are producing over $95 million worth of commercial crops annually. I bet none of these folks use a hoe -- or a swing blade.

Somebody has to grow all the veggies sold in the groceries and curb markets, but it's not going to be me.

If you and your garden are in the same boat with me, you may want to take advantage of our superiors.

Successful county farmers are again selling fresh veggies Wednesday mornings in the parking lot behind the courthouse.

If you want to sell your veggies too, call extension agent Anthony Jones: 669-6763.

But Colley still has a year of high school to go before he can head for Auburn -- the school he hopes to attend -- and the Navy ROTC program, in which he plans to enroll.

But there will be a lot for the young man to do before that time comes.

One of the first things on his agenda is a two-week leadership conference in Miniwaka, Mich. The conference is attended by winners of the Danforth Award, of which Colley was a recipient this year.

When school opens, studies won't be the only thing he'll have on his mind. Colley was vice-president of the student council in his junior year, and when elections were held for the '84-'85 year, he won the top office.

There's also the track team and the cross country events he'll be training for.

With the appeal endurance competitions have for him, Colley says that he also competes in the triathalon events at Oak Mountain.

These events involve a half-mile open water swim, a 24-mile bike ride and a six-mile run.

He's now swimming a mile a day to get in shape for an upcoming event, he says.

Rock climbing and photography are other hobbies Colley enjoys. He says both of those interests began when he and his family traveled to Columbia, South America.

Crediting his father with "opening so many doors for me," Colley says he bought a camera to take to Columbia when his father had a teaching assignment there one summer.

He continued his picture taking when he came home and he's now photographer for the high school annual.

While in Columbia, he learned the basics of rock climbing and worked further to improve his skill at a camp in North Carolina. He says he's also climbed and done some rappelling at Cheaha. State Park.

Land closings drop in year

The Federal Land Bank of New Orlenas has shown modest growth over the past year, despite delinquencies and foreclosures.

According to president Warner L. Bruner, Jr., the Land Bank currently has 39,000 loans outstanding for a total of $3.1 million in the district, which includes Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

While delinquencies and foreclosures are unusually high, he said 97% of loans outstanding are classified as acceptable. This compares favorably with the national average of 95% acceptable rates in the Farm Credit System, which holds 50% of the total farm debt.

New loans closed during the past 12 months dropped sharply from previous years with slightly more than 1,600 loans closed as compared to 2,550 closed in 1983 and almost 6,000 in 1981.

The average loan rate charged Land Bank borrowers during the period was 11.65%, as compared with the bank's cost of funds, which averaged 12.02%, a negative spread of .3%.

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

My hat's off to those hearty souls who help their gardens with a hoe, hoe, hoe.

How you people work your gardens without the mechanical benefits offered in this, the second half of the 20th Century, is beyond me.

Then again, considering how much produce I HAVE NOT gotten out of my garden this year, there is apparently a lot that is beyond my regressive comprehension...

EXCUSES! EXCUSES! EXCUSES! One of the numerous problems which has plagued this, my first-ever gardening attempt, is that Mr. Roto-Tiller doesn't live at my house.

You do know Mr. Roto-Tiller, don't you? He's that noisey fella with a three-horsepower engine that bucks like a rodeo full of wild bulls, mutilates your muscles, blisters your fingers and makes the dog bark.

Despite these drawbacks, Mr. Roto-Tiller has his strong points, too. Specifically, he can churn up a row of weeds, grass and hard dirt in the wink of a pink-eyed, purple hull (what I used to call a balck-eyed pea until I became "sophisticated" in all this technical garden lingo).

Call me lazy. Call me low down and no count. But don't call me blind to a miracle of modern technology. When it comes to gardening, Mr. Roto-Tiller is the world's second greatest invention.

The greatest garden related invention is, of course, the shoe.

If it wasn't for shoes, we'd get all that dirt and mud from the garden, stuck between our toes.

It's easy enough to remove our muddy shoes before tramping into the house, but removing our muddy feet is something of a mess.

Furthermore, without shoes we wouldn't have anything to throw at alarm clocks when they blast us in the morning, rudely telling us it's time to go out and garden.

Mr. Roto-Tiller is good for a lot of things, but not for throwing across bedrooms at alarm clocks. That would REALLY make the dog bark.

DESPERATE SITUATIONS BREED DESPERATE ACTIONS: For all of Mr. Roto-Tillers virtues, his major drawback -- as I mentioned earlier -- is that he doesn't live at my house. Never did; and, at this rate, never will.

However, I've been through this a few times already this spring and summer, so I know where to find Mr. Tiller when I need him badly enough. He lives at my father-in-law's house in Midfield.

Desperate situations breed desperate actions, and since what was left of garden definitely fell into the category of "desperate," I was forced last week after a Red Cross meeting in Birmingham, to drive to Midfield and kidnap Mr. Roto-Tiller.

"Oh, no!" Mr. Tiller cried, seeing me approach. "Don't take me to the Kingdom again. Too many weeds!"

"Shut up, or I'll choke your throttle," I hissed.

To the accompaniment of 20 grunts, I hoisted the sucker into my truck, and made for the country.

MORE DESPERATE SITUATIONS: Friday morning, after running out of shoes to throw at my alarm clock, I rolled out of bed, stumbled outside and shoved Mr. Tiller over to the garden.

It's not true that I so seldom work my veggie patch that I forgot where I planted it.

It is true, however, that the weeds had grown so high that it took five minutes to located the dang garden since it was camouflaged to look like the rest of the overgrown yard.

Finally, I spotted dry brown corn stalks -- a dead giveaway, so to speak, on the lost location.

"See," Tiller said. "Told you so. Too many weeds. I can't run through THAT jungle."

"Shut up," I said curtly, and walked back to the tool shed. When I returned, I carried with me gardening history.

Let it be known that on July 27, I became the first Regressive Farmer in the world to do his/her gardening with a swing blade.

The next day, rubbing my swing blade / tiller blisters, I confessed to Don Alsup that I had lowered myself to gardening with a swing blade. Don, a friend who lives in Pelham and runs a lawn service, grinned.

"You need a weed eater," Don laughed.

Weed eater? By George, that could very well be the third most important invention in the history of gardening...

SOMEBODY HAS TO DO IT: According to info I have from Auburn, the state farmers are producing over $95 million worth of commercial crops annually. I bet none of these folks use a hoe -- or a swing blade.

Somebody has to grow all the veggies sold in the groceries and curb markets, but it's not going to be me.

If you and your garden are in the same boat with me, you may want to take advantage of our superiors.

Successful county farmers are again selling fresh veggies Wednesday mornings in the parking lot behind the courthouse.

'Look Who's Laughing' opens Thursday

Calera theatre class takes to the stage

by Bert Seaman

Students who signed up for a theatre workshop in Calera this summer are getting more than just classroom experience.

Beginning Thursday, the class will get some on-stage-acting experience before a live audience in the Calera High School auditorium.

Divided into two casts, the thespians will alternate acting in performances of the comedy production, "Look Who's Laughing."

The Calera Community Theatre and the Calera Community Continuing Education program are presenting performances at 8 p.m. this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at 8 p.m., Saturday, August 11, and and at 2 p.m., Sunday, August 12.

Class teacher Darrell Revel, whi is certified as a state artist in residence, will direct the play.

Known for his roles in University of Montevallo threatre productions, Revel also taught an acting class in Calera's Continuing Community Education program last fall.

Arts supporter Pat Bird, one of several people who are members of both the Calera Community Theatre and the continuing education program's theatre workshop, explains the two groups "assist and complement each other."

Besides learning to act, members of the theatre workshop class are also taught about set building, lighting, sound, program layout and advertising.

Bird says that members of the theatre workshop class include a lawyer, a teacher, an assistant principal, an employee of the Shelby County court system and a college instructor.

Cast members of "Look Who's Laughing," are: Sharon Morgan, Donna Causey, Betty Johnstone, Amy Phillips, Melyanda Farris, Elizabeth Yost, Doug Trotter, Wayne Causey, Mark Cobb, George Inzer, Mark Dyer, Lucy Cobb, and Jimmy Johnstone, who is also the technical director.

Advance tickets for the show are $3, and can be bought at Central State Bank. Tickets are $4 at the door.

For more information: 668-0304, or 668-0270.

Dress rehearsal

Cast members of the Calera Community Theatre's production of "Look Who's Laughing," hold dress rehearsal for the play which opens Thursday evening. Rehearsing this scene are: Amy Phillips (seated), Donna Causey, Doug Trotter and Melynda Farris.

To vote absentee register with clerk

All registered Shelby County voters who wish to vote on an absentee ballot have until five days prior to the upcoming elections and primaries to apply.

Voters are eligible to use absentee ballots if they:

•Will be out of the country on election day; •Are ill and cannot get to the polls;

•Are a member of the armed forces;

•Are employed outside the U.S.;

•Are away at college;

•Or are the registered spouse or child of any such qualified person.

Absentee election managers will begin accepting applications for absentee voting 60 days before the 1984 primary and general elections, and will continue accepting applications until five days prior to those elections.

The 1984 deadlines for receipt of absentee ballot applications are August 30 for primary elections, Sept. 20 for runoffs, and Nov. 1 for the general elections.

When making the applications for the primaries, absentees must designate in which party's primary they choose to vote.

For more information, contact Evelyn Lowe at the Shelby County Circuit Clerk's Office: 669-4651.

Crisis Center needs aid

The Crisis Center has a crisis of sorts -- it needs volunteers to be trained as telephone counselors.

Telephone counselors answer the Crisis Center's twenty-four hour "hotline," handling a wide range of individuals experiencing such problems as marriage or family discord, loneliness, depression, alcohol and drug abuse, emergency assistance, and problem pregnancy.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years of age, and willing to devote twelve hours of volunteer time per month for at least one year. Volunteer work at the Crisis Center can be worked around one's job and other responsibilities.

The training course begins September 18, and runs for seven consecutive Tuesday evenings from 7:00 to 9:00 P.M.

Trainees will also be required to attend sessions on the weekend of November 2 and 3 at Twin Pines Conference Center in Shelby County. Suicide Intervention will be the topic of these special sessions.

For more information and an application: 323-7777 or 323-7782.

Applicants should call as soon as possible to insure them a place in this class.

The Crisis Center is a United Way Agency.

THE DIESEL LAWN MOWER.

Kubota has a whole new way to cut the grass. It's the first diesel lawn and garden tractor in the country.
Kubota's G-Series lawn and garden tractors come with water-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engines. They're built to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons.
There are four G-Series models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. They all have live front PTO shaft drive to the mid-mount mower. You can choose a hydrostatic transmission. And you can choose a variety of implements including a snowblower, tiller or front blade.
So don't let the grass grow under your feet. See the G-Series soon.

The ten-week chemistry research program was funded by a grant from the American Chemical Society.

SEED benefits THS senior

"This is one of the best summer experiences I've ever had," said Thompson High School senior Frank Alfano Jr. about the 10-week research work he is undertaking at the University of Montevallo this summer.

Alfano and Benita Gothard, a Jemison High School senior, are participants in UM's Project SEED program, which has been funded for four years by grants from the American Chemical Society.

The grants help support minority or disadvantaged high school students with scientific talent in a summer of research work, said UM chemistry chairman Dr. Aris Merijanian.

Alfano said he is considering chemistry as his college minor.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alfano Sr. of Alabaster. Gothard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman O. Gothard of Jemison.

COOSA VALLEY ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, INC.

Coosa Valley Electric Cooperative, Inc. announces a 2.53% decrease at the monthly board meeting on July 24, 1984. The board of directors of CVEC approved a monthly levelized fuel cost adjustment beginning August 1, 1984. This amounts to a $2.00 reduction for a consumer with a usage of 1000 kwh. Continued improvement in the financial position of the company and the subsequent reduction is brought about because of progress in programs such as meter readers, current billing cycle, clearing right-of-ways, replacing obsolete meters, and the installation of automatic capacitors to regulate voltage.

Below is a comparison to rates of Alabama Power Company in which CVEC is an overall average of 9.35% higher.

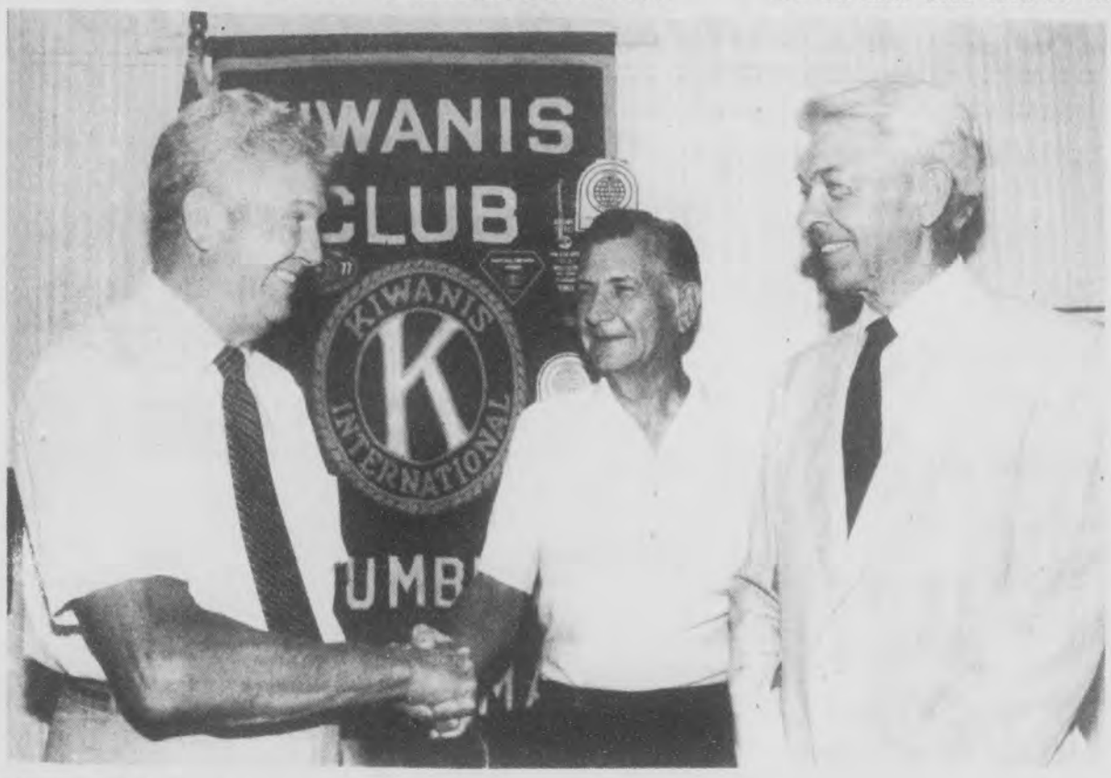
Kiwanians seek continued support of fair

"Yes, I was there at the creation," admitted Elvin Hill, the recently elected president of the Columbiana Kiwanis Club.

"Thirty-five years ago, our new Kiwanis Club took on the job of sponsoring the annual Shelby County Fair, and began to use the proceeds to finance college scholarships for deserving county graduates and other community purposes," he said.



"The Fair has grown to the point it is rated among the most successful in the State."

Teamed with the University of Montevallo, which adds 50% to each student grant, the club's scholarship program has expanded to reach seven graduates each year -- one for each public high school in the county.

Hill has watched the presentation of over 100 such awards during his time with the club. The scholarship presentations, he said, were especially satisfying to him since he was in the county education system as a teacher, high school principal and superintendent during this period.

"Sure, I look back with pride over this third of a century, which included a previous term as president of the club. We can be thankful for Bob Barrett, our past president, and to so many others who have kept our standards high," Hill said.

"Our new crew of officers -- Joe Downs, vice president, Buck Clark, treasurer, and Sam Arledge, secretary -- are certain to continue our tratition of helping."

"He said the Kiwanis Club looks forward to continued county-wide support for the Shelby County Fair, which remains the primary source of funds for the scholarship program and other activities."

The fair will be held the week of September 10.

'Day in park' is Saturday

Columbiana Day in the Park is scheduled for Saturday, August 4 to benefit the Columbiana Youth football league.

Planned activities include games, dancing, sports events, rides, an arts and crafts sale, and a bake sale.

Anyone wishing to display arts and crafts may call 669-9641 or 669-4766 for more information.

Get into shape and help fight cancer

People will be walking, jogging and running around the track at Montevallo High School football field on August 11.

But their purpose won't be physical fitness. They will be exerting themselves to raise money for cancer research.

Shirley Harrington, who is in charge of the cancer fund raiser, emphasizes that it is a county-wide effort.

"It's for all ages," she says, "and everyone can do their thing."

Participants can either pay a $10 entry fee or get sponsors for the event which will last from 8-10 a.m.

Three trophies will be awarded at 10 a.m. for:

- The person doing the most laps
- The person with the most sponsors
- The person who raises the most money.

There will also be a drawing for prizes.

Harrison reports that refreshments will be served and that the first 50 participants will receive T-shirts.

An additional inducement to be at the event is the expected appearance of several members of the Birmingham Stallions football team and cheerleaders.

To get an application or for further information: call Harrington at 665-5283, or the American Cancer Society, 879-2242.

TRAVEL TIPS

Pat Brasher

A blouse and dress or suit and sport jacket of equal quality are obviously going to differ in price because of the additional fabric and workmanship. The same principal frequently applies to hotel rates, so the daily cost of hotels in a similar category should be carefully compared.

Although some hotel rates seem calculated to be in the price range of only millionaires, further investigation might result in a pleasant surprise. Does the rate include two or three meals a day? Is breakfast a full American breakfast including bacon and eggs or Continental breakfast consisting of coffee and rolls? Do all rooms have an ocean view? Will you pay extra for a beach chair or are they provided free? Are you charged a rental fee for snorkel equipment, sailboats or bikes? Are green fees or tennis court costs additional or included in your daily rate? Will you tip at every turn or is a flat amount added to your bill in lieu of all individual tipping?

The dollar difference these features can make in the cost of a vacation is truly amazing. If you enjoy water sports and other activities and plan to make use of the facilities, it's frequently far less expensive to choose a hotel which includes their cost in your room rate. One hotel might seem a bit more expensive than another in the initial quote, but we'll show you why it's often "cheaper to spend more!"

We'll help you select the right hotel at the most advantageous rate regardless of where you wish to go. Our expertise WON'T cost you any more, but it certainly will make the difference between an ordinary trip and a super vacation.

Graddick tells Pelham bill's defeat hurts

by Bert Seaman

"The death of the co-employee lawsuit bill will have a devastating effect on attracting new industry to the state."

That is what State Attorney General Charles Graddick told a crowd of 150 at Pelham's Chamber of Commerce banquet Saturday.

Graddick also expressed his feelings about two other pieces of legislation to the audience at Riverchase Country Club.

The attorney general received a round of applause for his stand on the fleeing felon law.

"Why do we pay a police officer $15,000 a year to protect us and pay a federal judge $80,000 to decide that law is unconstitutional?" he asked.

Graddick said he has appealed the case on the law which allows a police officer to use deadly force on someone trying to escape.

Graddick also addressed the subject of attempts to overturn the habitual offender act which was put into effect in 1980.

Prison overcrowding and the cost of incarceration are two objections to the act. But Graddick compared the $10,000 annual cost of housing a prisoner to the price of a human life that person might have taken.

Summing up his feeling about the co-employee lawsuit bill, Graddick said that the quality of life in the state will suffer without the passage of the bill because industries will not locate here.

He said that public officials should see that the bill is brought up and passed during the next legislative session.

Awards that the chamber presented Saturday to area businesses went to Bill Street's Wallcovering and Carpets and Strickland's department store in Pelham.

Recognition was also given to the chamber's executive representative, Mary Sue McClurkin, who was given a scholarship to the Executive Association's Institute of Organizational Management.

Union formation challenged

The union forming election held at Elastic Corporation of America's Columbiana plant on Thurday, July 26, has been challenged on two fronts.

And, pending the outcome of a National Labor Relations Board investigation (NLRB), this week, the results of that election are in limbo.

On one front, even though workers apparently won the right to form a union there by a vote of 82-78, both union supporters and plant officials have filed objections to the holding of the election itself.

Neither side is commenting on those ojections.

On a second front, 11 of the votes cast on July 26 have also been challenged by the NLRB and by union supporters themselves. If upheld, the union's victory could be jeopardized.

Henton Henderson, a representative of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textiles Union, met with Elastic Corporation employees at a site halfway between Shelby and Columbiana, Sunday.

When he refused to discuss union election objections with the newspaper, Henderson did say that seven votes were questioned by NLRB and four by union supporters.

Edgar Gaskins, Columbiana plant manager, also declined comment on the actual election objections.

Gaskins and Henderson both said, however, the NLRB will investigate challenged votes and the election objections this week.

According to Don Blackerby, former personnel director for the Elastic Corporation of America's Columbiana Plant, the 11 challenged votes were cast by people whose names did not appear on the eligible voters list.

Police destroy illegal booze

by Fred Guarino

The use of Alcoholic beverages by underaged persons is a bigger problem in Harpersville than marijuana, says Harpersville Police Chief Aubrey Perrigin.

Perrigin made the statement Tuesday, July 31 before he, Harpersville Police Officer P.G. Bailey, and ABC Agent Chuck Nabors destroyed evidence used to make Harpersville police cases stick during the past year.

Among 173 items of evidence destroyed were 98 cans and 30 bottles of beer, 14 bottles of whiskey and, 31 "obscene" books.

Perrigin said the alcohol was taken from teenagers, persons who purchased whiskey from illegal dealers at "shot houses" and people who were charged with driving under the influence.

He noted that a full 80 percent of the alcohol actually came from "kids."

Each bottle or can was opened one at a time by Perrigin, Bailey and Nabors and each was poured into an opening in front of the Harpersville Police Station. From there the foaming liquor found its way into a nearby creek.

In addition to the Harpersville booze, ABC Agent Nabors personally axed the copper parts of a 20 gallon moonshine still.

Nabors said the still was found in Shelby County on Thursday, July 26, but would not say where. He would only say that no arrests were made and that confiscation was aided by the Shelby County Sheriff's Department and ABC Agent Jerry Bradford.

"We were looking for something else and just ran up on it," Nabors said.

Concerning the use of alcohol by underaged persons, Perrigin placed most of the blame on parents.

"It was a matter of the parents not knowing where their kids were," he said. "You've got to blame the parents."

Courthouse museum opens

A dream comes true this Sunday for some 300 members of the Shelby County Historical Society.

That's the day the painstakingly restored 1854 county courthouse will be dedicated and officially opened as the Shelby County Museum and Archives.

"This has been our aim since the historical society incorporated in 1974 -- to save this building and restore it," said curator Miriam Fowler.

The project has been completed with some $75,000 in cash donations, donations of materials and supplies, and hours of elbow grease. Sunday will be the general public's first opportunity to see just what has been accomplished so far with the exterior of the historic building, as well as nine of the rooms inside.

"We're going to show off what we've done," said society president Ken Penhale.

Rushton wants GOP nomination

"The commission must provide an open and receptive attitude in dealing with the concerns and needs of the county as a whole."

That's what Gregg Rushton said in announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination to the office of Shelby County Commission, District 1.

"I believe that the responsibility of county government is to actively pursue continued countywide growth and to create an environment that will be inviting to new families and businesses," Rushton continued. "The starting place for these goals has to be in bringing a sense of harmony and an atmosphere of achievement to the commission."

Rushton, 35, graduated from Shelby County High School and attended Auburn prior to working outside the area as a regional manager for a "Top 50" mortgage banker, and finance advisor and president for a multistate, manufactured housing retailer.

Incumbent Morris seeks re-election

Political veteran Jake Morris is seeking the Democratic nomination for re-election to Shelby County Commission, District 1.

Morris is currently serving his second term as county commissioner. He has previously served four terms in Wilsonville, two as mayor, two as councilman.

"I have had the pleasure of being a public servant for 24 years," Morris said. "I believe the citizens of Shelby County should control county government, not county government controling the citizens."

"Shelby County is the fastest growing county in Alabama, and all decisions made by your commission affect your everyday life. I would like to be your voice on the commission and ensure you of a fair and honest county government," Morris said.

A native of Shelby County, Morris, 52, lives near Wilsonville with his wife, and they are members of Old Chapel United Methodist Church. They have three children and three grandchildren.

He is a machine tender and has worked 33 years at Kimberly-Clark.

Carlisle enters race for commission seat

"I'm tired of being the kind of person who sits back on the sideline and says someone ought to do something better," said Jack Carlisle.

That frustration, said the "downtown Helena" resident, led him to qualify for Shelby County Commissioner, District Three, in the September 4 Democratic primary.

"I have a big investment in Shelby County -- my wife and three children," Carlisle said. "The well-being of this county needs to be looked after."

A native of Chilton County, Carlisle moved to Shelby County in 1975. He is a former Eagle Scout and is still active in area scouting programs.

He graduated from Jacksonville State University with a degree in management and economics, with additional work towards a Masters, and is a Shelby County salesman for the Jim Walters Corp.

Harry Lyon goes after judgeship

Pelham attorney Harry Lyon is running as a Republican candidate for Circuit Court Judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit.

A native of Montgomery, Lyon moved to Shelby County in 1973, and has been practicing law here for six years.

He has made unsuccessful bids for judgeships in both the Shelby County District Court, and the State Supreme Court. He says the support he received in the 1982 state race gives him a good chance in the November general election against the Democratic candidate.

"Shelby County needs Republican public officials to balance the scales of fairness in the day to day operations of our local government," Lyon said.

He is a member of the county, state and American Bar Association, the American Legion and a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason.

He lives in Chandalar with his wife and son.

and elsewhere, and more exhibits will be developed as other rooms of the building are completed.

A dedication meeting will begin at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of the nearby Columbiana City Hall. "Five-minute" speakers for the occasion will include Sen. Frank 'Butch' Ellis, Rep. Sonny Moore, Mayor Buck Faulkner, councilwoman Dr. Jessie Jones, and Alabama Historical Society executive director Larry Oakes.

The building will be opened afterward, and admission -- as always -- will be free to the public.

A distinctive example of Jeffersonian architecture, the building served until 1906 as the county courthouse. It has also been used as a boarding house, hotel and city hall. The building has been vacant since 1976, and there was once talk of tearing it down.

Illegal alcohol

If you've ever cried over spilled milk, imagine what some people must have cried over at the Harpersville Police Station Tuesday, July 31. Police chief Aubrey Perrigin, police officer P.G. Bailey and ABC Agent Chuck Nabors destroyed over 128 bottles and cans of beer as well as the copper parts of a 20-gallon moonshine still. But there was a serious side to this event. See related story. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

Perrigin also blamed parents for giving too much to their children.

"If they had to support themselves or had to buy that new car on their own, they would take care and watch where their money went," he said of youngsters who spend their money on alcohol.

Nabors took the opportunity of destroying evidence last Tuesday to plug the State ABC Board's alcohol awareness program for youngsters and a toll-free hotline people can use to report the sale of alcohol to underaged persons.

Voters make council changes

There will be some new people sitting on city councils in Shelby County come October.

In last Tuesday's runoff election, voters in three municipalities voted in a woman mayor and five new council members,while turning out two incumbents.

The town with its first woman mayor is Wilsonville. In the race which had four candidates at the start, Frances Phelps defeated Hobart Earl Lee in the runoff to win the city's top position.

Woodrow Foster was defeated in his bid for re-election by Bill Thompson, with Gene Duffey and Cecil Dennis beating out their runoff opponents for council seats.

In the Pelham race, incumbent Willard Payne retained his seat, but Bob Cleveland lost his in a solid defeat by political newcomer Jim Phillips.

Voters in Columbiana decided on a change for the one seat in contention. In the fall, Bill Seale's council seat will be occupied by Willard Cross.

The results of last week's run offs were as follows.

Alabaster awards street contract

The Alabaster City Council awarded a contract Monday night on paving streets that haven't been worked on in 20 years.

Central Alabama Paving Company submitted the low bid of $31,250 to do the approximately half mile of work on 12th Street NW and on Navajo Trail.

Money from the four cent gasoline tax will be used to pay for that paving project.

But funding for another paving project -- also included in the bid -- will come from the general fund.

The city had previously agreed to pay a third of the cost of paving a 656 strip of Royalty Drive.

Kingwood developer Jim King and Assembly of God pastor Ron Cox, whose church borders the dirt section of road, each agreed to pay a third of the cost.

The price submitted by Central Alabama for that project was $10,950, bringing the total bid to $42,200.

That was a $342 difference in price from the figure submitted by Dunn Construction Company.

In other action Monday night, the council approved the condemnation of a parcel of land -- less than half an acre -- to get a site for a water tank on the hill off County 68.

The project to improve water pressure for residents in that area was done in connection with the Community Block Development Grant that was obtained last year.

From the $700,000 grant, $400,000 was slated for additions and improvements to the sewage and water systems in the Simsville Road/Biceville areas.

The grant also included $300,000 for housing rehabilitation in those areas. Since there was not a sufficient number of applications for the low interest loans, the council approved an amendment to the grant.

As it now stands, any low income family in the city can apply for a loan, on which the interest rate is three to six percent.

Lame duck council makes appointment

Over the objections of two members, a lame duck council in Columbiana reelected a water board member whose term had expired.

Mayor Buck Falkner, Lewis Walker, Bill Seale and Harold McCord voted to give Truitt Ray another six-year term on the board.

The action followed the defeat of a motion by Councilwoman Jessie Jones to table the appointment until the new council takes office.

McCord sided with Jones and Frank Owen on delaying the appointment, pounding his fist on the table after the motion failed.

"I can't believe this is happening," McCord said.

"I can't either," Jones said, adding that the council which works with city boards should be the one to make appointments.

She went on to say that the people of Columbiana have strong feelings about the water board and about how the council conducts business with that board.

"I know it's been a controversial board," she emphasized, "during the four years I have been on the council."

Although McCord expressed amazement that the present council would act on the appointment, he voted for Ray after Walker made the nomination.

"I promised Truitt I'd vote for him," he explained.

Another nomination for the water board seat was made by Frank Owen. His motion to nominate Basil Smith was seconded by Jones.

The council's wrangling over the board appointment was done in the presence of the two new council members, William Rasco and Willard Cross, who were seated in the audience.

In contrast to the water board appointment, four appointments to the industrial development board were quickly approved.

Rick Smith and Hank Spires were reelected, and the council approved the appointments of new members Jimmy Davis and Johnny Lee.

TO THE CITIZENS OF COLUMBIANA:
I wish to express my sincere thanks for your vote and support and to those that worked in my behalf during the City Council Run-off election on July 31, 1984.

I have enjoyed serving as your councilman during the past 22 years. We have been able to accomplish many things that I feel has made Columbiana a better place to live and work.

We must continue to work together as a community and support our new City government.

Camper explodes at Oak Mountain Park

by Fred Guarino

"I was still asleep about 8 o'clock when I heard this loud noise. Then, I heard someone screaming...," said Bud Lake of Birmingham.

"We heard that noise. I didn't know where it came from. I was in the trailer watching TV. My wife was in the bathroom hollering, they're on fire...," said William Spearman of Bessemer.

The words of campers at Oak Mountain State Park describe their surprised reactions to a sudden explosion which injured 41 year-old Will and 34 year-old Mary Bryant of Atlanta, Tuesday, July 31.

John Wright of University Hospital in Birmingham reported that Will Bryant was in serious but stable condition following the 8 a.m. blast and Mary Bryant was in fair but stable condition.

According to State Fire Marshal Roy Thornell, basically the explosion occurred when Will Bryant went to light a gas stove.

The incident was actually investigated by Deputy State Fire Marshal James G. Munger and L. P. Gas Inspector Barney Gilliam and no specific circumstances surrounding the blast are being released.

"We have determined that there was a gas leak," is all that Thornell would say.

Thornell did report, however, that travel trailer construction and assembly is not regulated in Alabama and that quality control is left to the manufacturing companies.

He pointed out that unlike trailer homes (8' wide and 32' long) which are regulated, the little U-Haul camper in which the explosion occurred was only a 6.5' X 9.5' X 6'.

According to Bud Lake, he was staying at Oak Mountain State Park because he had sold his Birmingham home and, prior to moving to North Carolina, he was living in an Airstream Camper.

He said after hearing the explosion and seeing smoke coming out of the little U-Haul Camper, he started moving towards it.

"The man (Will Bryant) came around the camper and said, 'call an ambulance quick; my wife and I have been burned'," Lake later recalled.

Lake said he dialed 911 and got the Pelham Fire Station, which arrived 20 minutes later with a paramedic team.

According to Lake, other campers also rushed to the scene and began to cover Mary Bryant with a quilt before medical help could arrive.

"The guy was in shock and wouldn't let anyone help him," Lake also recalled, "but finally someone got a sheet around him."

Lake said that seven minutes after the Pelham Fire Department called for additional help, the Rescue 1 helicopter arrived to transport the Atlanta couple.

William Spearman remembered seeing Mary Bryant lying across the road about 25' from her camper and Will Bryant shouting for someone to call an ambulance.

"This man jumped in my truck and said he knew the number to call," Spearman also remembered of his encounter with fellow camper Bud Lake.

Spearman said after the call for help was placed, he remained at the campground entrance to direct firemen to the scene.

When asked how such accidents might be prevented, State Fire Marshal Thornell came up with the following safety tips:

"Maybe before attempting to light a heater or a gas stove, you should be sure all controls are in the off position.

"Before lighting the gas, already light the match.

"If you attempt to light the stove or heater and it goes off, give sufficient time for cooling before attempting to relight it."

Thornell said people who use L. P. gas stoves and heaters should always read the directions which come with them and they should ask someone for instruction.

Commission rules in favor of Goggins

Danny Goggins will stay on at Calera High School.

At least, that was the report from unofficial sources following Monday's hearing before the Tenure Commission of the Alabama Education Association.

The Reporter was unable to contact the tenure commission office Tuesday at presstime for the official ruling.

Goggins was transferred to the principal's position at Shelby Elementary School in May.

After the board upheld that decision at a hearing held in June, Goggins appealed his case to the tenure commission.

After reviewing the commission's reasons for leaving Goggins at Calera, the board has the option of appealing the case to the circuit court.

Alabaster sets $1.6 million budget

By a unanimous vote of Alabaster's three member council, a $1.6 million budget was approved Monday night.

L.O. Farris, Glen Naish and Willie Arrington passed the budget which is up $130,700 from last year.

Now that Cal McCune has resigned his seat and Jack Reagin continues to be absent from meetings, that leaves the three council members and Mayor H.A. 'Doc' Rubin to conduct city business until October.

Willie Arrington will be the only member of the present council to serve on the new administration.

In approving the new budget, the council gave employees a five percent raise and department heads a seven percent raise, thus adding $47,204 to the expenditure column.

However, anticipated income will still leave the city $40,971 in the black.

The police department, with a budget of $439,000, gets the biggest slice of the budget pie. However, that amount reflects only a $4,450 increase from last year.

In an effort to cut costs, the fire department trimmed $337 off last year's budget which sets their expenditures at $245,000.

The city expects to spend $263,545 in administrative costs, with the sewer department following next in line for spending with a budget of $235,695.

Other expenses are:

- Street department -- $185,000
- Sanitation department -- $143,000
- Payroll taxes -- $44,000
- Utilities -- $42,000

Park and Recreation department -- $15,000

Thanks to the citizens of Wilsonville for your support and warm reception that I received in the Council race. You have given me the opportunity to serve you for the next four years.

With your continued help, we will make Wilsonville a better place to live.

Armstrong seeks seat on Shelby County Commission

Don Armstrong is seeking the Democratic nomination for place one on the Shelby County Commission.

"I think the county can afford to have a business approach in its affairs, and I feel that I have something to offer," the Four Mile community resident said. "I am interested in helping develop a plan for growth in Shelby County, so the government can stay ahead of the growth. I want to represent ALL the people of Shelby County."

A native of Shelby County, Armstrong has worked for the same company for the past 19 years, 14 of which have been in management capacity.

He has served on the Board of Directors for the Georgia Plant Food Educational Society, and is currently serving on the Board of Directors for the Alabama Soil Fertility Society. He also serves as a trustee for the Columbiana School System.

"I thought about running for this office a long time. It has been something I have always wanted to do. My grandfather, Offie Stinson, held this office several years ago."

Armstrong is a graduate of Shelby County High School and holds a B.S. degree in business at the University of Montevallo.

He is married for the former Virginia Kendrick of Chelsea, and the couple has two boys ages 11 and 13. They are active members of the Bethel Baptist Church, where Armstrong serves on the Board of Deacons and teachers an adult men's Sunday school class.

How will nation view county?

All right. Let's try it one more time. From the top. Only this time, try and get it right.

Shoal Creek is in Shelby County. That's S-H-E-L-B-Y County.

It's one thing when a sports writer up North somewhere with snow in his or her ear writes that the 1984 PGA Championship will be played in "the beautifully wooded mountains outside Birmingham, Alabama."

That's bad. But one would think -- or at least hope -- that the Alabama Bureau of Tourism and Travel, located a few miles down the road in Montgomery, would have the decency to be accurate.

Reading a recent "News Release" from that agency: "The 1984 Professional Golfers' Association Championship, one of golf's major titles, will be played at Shoal Creek, just 14 miles south of Birmingham..."

In the entire 237-word press release, one might think that the tourism bureau could have at least casually mentioned that Shoal Creek is in Shelby County.

Is national, or even statewide publicity prior to the August 13-19 PGA tourney going to put Shelby County on the proverbial map? Not at this rate.

But, will publicity during the tourney put the county on the map? If it does, then we'd better ask ourselves this: when all the golfing fans pack up and go home, when the press corps fly away, when viewers across America turn off their televisions, assuming they have an impression of Shelby County, what will it be? Good or bad?

The answer to that is up to us all.

Lame duck council forces coup

Letter to the Editor:

At last Thursday nights council meeting, only two days after the election runoff, your mayor 'dictated' a well orchestrated coup; bloodless that is, unless a council member (McCord) injured his fist banging on the council table, supposedly objecting to the proceedings at hand.

With both newly elected council members, the city judge and others in the audience near the end of the council meeting, the mayor called for names to fill the vacancy of Water Works Board member Truett Ray, expired 7 July, 1984, an appointed position. At this juncture the mayor objected to a motion to delay the appointment until October 1st so the new council could take the action and appoint a board member of their choice. After some stern words from a council member the mayor reluctantly allowed the motion. The action resulted in a tie vote with the mayor, Walker and Seale against postponement and the three re-elected council members voting to postpone the action. This brought some more heated exchanges, which did not frustrate your mayor, bent on consummating the coup obviously planned for some time.

Now with the names Truett Ray and Basil Smith proposed for the appointment, why, in a matter of two or three minutes after the councilmans theatrics to postpone the appointment did he vote with Falkner, Walker and Seale to fill the position? Why?

There is nothing that prohibits the seated council from making the appointment, while on the other hand, there is nothing that forces the appointment already vacant one month. Walker and Seale were widely rejected by the voters of Columbiana during the regular election. It is just another quasi-political action by a lame duck regime at any level of government that smacks of spite, poor losers, or certainly questionable ethics, especially in a small community like Columbiana. I take a quote from a runoff candidate's final political ad used as an insert in the Birmingham News distribution a day or two before the runoff. "We must all continue to work together to make Columbiana a better place to live and work."

I have written before of questionable water board actions (9-2-82, Shelby County Reporter and others), not 'one point' of any letter has been answered. Now, this new appointee has a similar or worse track record handling your water, money, property and other business of the Columbiana Water Works Board and the City of Columbiana. C'est le guerre!

Immigration needs to be controlled

Letter to the Editor:

We will do well to keep in mind the history of the American Southwest, or we may lose this important area in much the same way we acquired the territory in the first place.

By early in the nineteenth century, the United States was growing rapidly and pouring its expanding population into newly-acquired land both northwest and down through the Louisiana Territory. The Mexican boundary, running east and north of Texas and westward all the way through California, failed to stop this influx. As a result, the American gringos soon became a majority in the thinly-populated Mexican area that we now call Texas.

These new immigrants rejected the Mexican culture and language and retained their attachments with their fellow English-speaking relatives back in the United States. Not unexpectedly, they were soon demanding independence from Mexico. When Mexico undertook to assert her sovereignty, the Texas gringos revolted and ultimately sought admission to the United States. Mexico lost the resulting war with the United States, and surrendered not only Texas but the entire American Southwest.

In what has been called the silent invasion, the flow across the border has been reversed with a vengeance over the last several decades, as growing hordes of Mexican and other Latin Americans defy the law and flood northward into the United States. As with the earlier southward flow, authorities again are failing to stop this illegal crossing. The children of these illegal immigrants, if not they themselves, acquire citizenship rights. If the unlimited flow continues, it is only a matter of time until these newcomers will achieve local political control.

Already, we see signs of these new residents rejecting the American language and culture. For example, they have insisted that their children be taught in the language of their parents, although previous entrants profited by learning English in the schools. Also, they press claims for the extension of social services to all aliens regardless of their illegal status. Further, the new immigrants seem to reject any and all efforts to regulate immigration into the United States. Such demands may be expected to expand as their political power grows.

Both houses of Congress have passed legislation that would go far toward reacquiring effective jurisdiction over our borders, which is now due for consideration by a Senate-House conference. Enactment of such legislation is essential if we are to call ourselves a nation, and this may be our last best chance to restore control of immgration and over the American Southwest.

Sincerely yours,
William C. Holcombe

Report strays to local shelter

Letter to the Editor:

I live in the Alabaster area and recently my 2 dogs were missing for 10 days.

I notified the Shelby County Humane Society and the local veterinarian. It is the policy in Alabaster to pick up stray dogs and carry them to the local vet. They are kept there for a certain amount of time and if they are not picked up by their owner they are put to sleep.

In my case, my dogs turned up at a house in the Alabaster area and the owner of the house called a worker of the Jefferson County Humane Society. It is obvious that anyone working in Jefferson County would not know the identity of a stray in the Shelby County.

The Jefferson County Humane Society went to see the dogs. Their report was that the dogs were too sick and therefore they put them to sleep. My complaint is that they were put to sleep without contacting the Shelby County Humane Society or any veterinarian to try and find the owner.

I would like to help others in the future by preventing this act from happening again, especially since I am told this has happened before.

I would suggest that the public call the local dog pound if they find stray dogs, especially if they are sick. Secondly, I would suggest you call the Shelby County Humane Soicety instead of Jefferson County, unless you live in the Jefferson area.

I think that no one should work out of their territory and especially should have no authority to put any animal to sleep without permission.

I hope that someone may benefit from this.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Names: Jim Davis discovered a bald eagle on Lay Lake. Nobody believed it until Jim came up with a magazine story, telling about eagles in Alabama. Before you shoot one, or if you're thinking about it, there's a $25,000 fine for killing an eagle.

We lost Beatrice Battle several days ago. I only saw her once, when she was serously ill at Shelby Medical Center, but I felt like I've lost a friend. You see, her daughter, Vera Strickland, is a special person at our house.

Three old friends who have been my friends for years, slipped away and left their names behind: Nona Vick Edmondson and W.F. Payne and Mayo Merrell Wilson. They were gone before I knew it, but the yesterdays linger in my memory. Sometimes it takes over fifty years to make a friend and you can lose one in a breath. I guess that's why enjoying them while they're living is so important.

Folks like Royce Morris and John Cates and Frank McEwen will like to know: somebody killed a coyote in Shelby County. Maybe he's the only one. And then it might turn out like the beavers. They got as thick as hairs ona dog, doing damage in a thsand places.

There's good news from Fay Quick's sick room. And Alvin Stinson and Amy Bird an dFrank Johnston and Margie Sullivan and Ruth Gordon and Paula Wheeler and Rev. F.P. Ritchie are home and getting better.

Wilna Fore and Elizabeth Isbell, two more old friends, are still hospitalized. They are improving.

The city election is over for another four years. They had a bunch of good guys and gals after those jobs. But you can't elect 'em all. From the group, they selected Buck Falkner for mayor and Frank Owen and William Rasco and Harold McCord and Willard Cross and Jessie Mae Jones for the council.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

While Gov. George Wallace was on his tour of Europe, one of his aides back in Montgomery put out a news release concerning the legal age limit for drinking alcoholic beverages in Alabama.

The legal limit is presently 19, but strong efforts are being made to raise it back to 21. Recently, Congress passed a law that will penalize states who do not have a 21-year-old limit by withholding federal highway funds.

In the news release, Wallace was quoted as saying he strongly supports the 21-year-old limit, but the release added that he would submit the question to a statewide vote of the people.

Several members of the news media -- including this one -- took Wallace to task for proposing a statewide election on an issue which properly should be resolved by the Legislature.

When Wallace returned home and saw the clippings on this matter he hit the ceiling. He also got on the telephone. To this writer. Where did we get the idea he wanted to submit the legal drinking age issue to a vote of the people? We told him -- from a news release issued by his office.

Wallace found that hard to believe, but he quickly checked it out, and sure enough he was quoted to that effect. It seems that an assistant press aide -- acting in the absence of Press Secretary Billy Joe Camp, who was also in Europe -- had made a mistake.

Please, the governor asked, set the record straight. Consider it done, governor. Wallace supports raising the age limit to 21, and has absolutely no intention of submitting the matter to a vote of the people.

Odds and Ends -- Revenue Commissioner Jim White is convinced a tough new law relating to delinquent taxpayers is one of the chief reasons why there has been such a huge increase in income tax collections in Alabama this year. The new law makes it a criminal offense to dodge state taxes (previously there had been no penalty other than a fine), and the result has been that thousands of Alabamians who had never paid their state income taxes are now doing so...

The State Ethics Commission has suggested to State Sen. Earl Hilliard, one of the chief supporters of a horse track in Birmingham, that he should not buy stock in that tract. The commission said it did not think Hilliard's involvement in the track would have the "appearance of impropriety." Hillard said he would would abide by that recommendation...

Predictions are that the upcoming Sept. 4 primary elections will attract one of the smallest voter turnouts in years, but that the November General Election will be a record-breaker. Truthfully, there is very little excitement on the September ballots, but Reagan-Mondale in November is another matter...

House Speaker Tom Drake of Cullman continues to be kidded about his remark concerning how vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro will be received in the South. His response that she would have "broad" appeal was thought by some to be sexist. Henceforth, Drake will no doubt use "widespread" or "considerable", but never, ever will he use "broad" again.

Rescue 88 makes $4,000 request

After giving the Columbiana City Council a rundown on their activities at Thursday's meeting, members of Rescue 88 asked for a $4,000 appropriation in the budget.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Mike Atchison reported that the rescue unit's fixed expenses total nearly $3,000 a year.

The money will be used for operational expenses and equipment, Atchison said.

Another request was that the unit be allowed to get gas from the city pumps and split the cost with the city.

One item Atchison mentioned is that the unit is particularly interested in purchasing, is a Hurst tool, sometimes referred to as 'Jaws of Life.'

"We've needed it twice within the past two months," Atchison said. The tool costs $3,400.

Explaining that the unit isn't asking the city for total funding, Atchison said that members have bought their own uniforms and paid the cost of their training. Some members have also purchased their own pagers, he added.

Other funds have been raised by various events the unit has sponsored, Atchison said.

He reported that the 17 member unit has answered 105 calls since the first of the year, adding that the unit is usually rolling within three minutes.

Mayor Buck Falkner said the council will take the unit's request under consideration when the new budget is drawn up.

Another request made to the council at Thursday's meeting came from the Shelby County Humane Society.

Humane Society Director Anne Speakman and auxiliary president Bob Wilson asked the city to continue taking animals that have been put to sleep to the landfill.

Speakman reported that the city has been performing the service in return for the humane society picking up dogs in the city.

"It was an unspoken agreement," she said.

The mayor said he had not been aware of the arrangement until recently. After he found out about it, Falkner said he had also learned that the city has been charged for hauling the animals, which should not have been the case.

Another snag in the disposal operation cropped up when city sanitation workers reported they were not being permitted to bring any more dead animals to the landfill.

That problem has since been worked out by highway director Gary Ray. And the mayor told the Humane Society representatives Thursday, that the city will continue picking up the dead animals while they consider how to handle the situation.

Although 500 animals were taken to the landfill during the month of June, Wilson said that 300 is the average number.

Another certificate was presented to Mike Sims from MMI in appreciation of his assistance to the chamber.

Incoming president Don Stone told the audience that he hoped by the time the banquet rolls around next year, the city will have achieved Prepared City status.

That status gives the city a better chance of attracting industry.

Working with Stone to achieve that goal, will be the following officers and directors: Doug Clark, vice-president; Henry Arnold, treasurer.

Directors are: Mike Byars, John Bauer, Tony Holmes, Frank Curk, Robert Tolbert, John Lee.

Hill elected president of DA's Association

Shelby County District Attorney Billy Hill was unanimously elected president of the Alabama District Attorneys' Association at the mid-summer meeting at Gulf Shores.

At 33, Hill is the youngest DA ever to hold the position.

Prior to being elected president, he has served the association as vice-president, treasurer, and as a member of the executive committee.

Hill succeeds Talladega County DA Robert Rumsey as association president.

Citing goals of the association for the coming year, Hill stressed the need to maintain the full force of the state's habitual offender act.

He said the act has reduced felony crime in the county 28 percent during the past two years.

World longbow championship decided in Wilsonville tourney

They came from around the world, 84 strong, to shoot their longbows near the town where the greatest of their sport was born.

They feasted and they competed from Friday night until Sunday evening.

The event was the world longbow archery championship held near the Wilsonville birthplace of legendary archer Howard Hill.

In addition to longbow fanciers, the annual event -- sponsored by the Howard Hill Archery Club -- attracted 166 compound and recurve archers as well.

In case you didn't know, the late Howard Hill was the man who made all of those great arrow-splitting shots in the classic movie "Robin Hood."

Hill also took the side of the Indians in many great Western movies and actually made the arrow shots that sent unlucky calvarymen tumbling off their horses.

The impression that Howard Hill made on the archery world was so profound that ten years after his death, two longbow archers traveled all the way from Lancashire, England to compete near his hometown.

"This competition is known around the world," Jack Belcher said to explain the long distance trip made by he and his son Jim. "Since coming into archery in 1960, this (Wilsonville) is the place we wanted to be."

Belcher called Howard Hill "the world's greatest" archer, "the best the world has ever seen."

He said he learned of the world champion longbow invitational tournament in Wilsonville by reading American archery magazines. And, Belcher said, he wrote to see if he and his son could come.

Of course, the Belchers were invited. And for their own part, they added something to the competition.

Unlike the longbows that Americans use, made of fiberglass and wood laminations, they brought English tradition with them. The Belchers' longbows were made entirely of wood from the Yew Tree.

They learned a little bit about Southern life as well.

"We've heard of Southern Hospitality, now we've seen it," Jack Belcher said. "Jerry Hill has just been first class."

But while everyone who competes in Wilsonville attaches some endearment to the memory of Howard Hill, they don't all have to travel thousands of miles.

And, they all have different reasons for shooting the longbow.

Chris Denty only had to drive over from Vincent for this past weekend's competition.

A longbow shooter for the past four years, he credits his fascination over the longbow to the challenge it offers.

"It's just a harder way," Denty said. "Hunting with a gun is fine but the kind of hunting you do with a longbow brings more satisfaction."

Denty not only uses his longbow to shoot targets and deer but he actually shoots fish as well.

Chris Abbott is a Shelby Countian who knew Howard Hill for only a short time. But the time Abbott knew the legend was long enough to inspire him to help form the Howard Hill Archery Club.

Like Denty, Abbott also liked the challenge of the longbow.

Unlike the compound or recurve bow, Abbott said the longbow places its full pressure on the archer.

Abbott said other types of bows actually relieve the archer of 50 percent of their pressure because of their construction.

Also, unlike compound and recurve bows, the arrow on a longbow is not level with the bowstring. That makes quite a bit of difference in its performance.

But Abbott said a longbow is better for hunting because it allows an archer to shoot faster and from more different positions.

And, for the 43 year-old, there were other reasons behind his fascination.

"Archery is a sport that you can participate in from a wheelchair or 2 years-of-age on up," he smiles.

The men's longbow championship was won by Junior Waites this past weekend with a total of 151 while Kay Martin took the women's title with 127 points.

Other events were won by the following people:

R. C. Pate took the men's recurve competition; Phil Carter won the men's barebow event; Eddie Peppers won the men's freestyle competition; and Larry Scoggins won the men's freestyle unlimited crown.

Brenda Jackson brought home the women's barebow title; Martha Polk won the women's freestyle event; and Dot Auter won the women's freestyle unlimited.

Jerry Henry, Jr., won the youth boys longbow and recurve title; Jeff Spates won the youth boys compound crown; Sharon Dupree won the youth girls compound event; Mike Sneed won the cub boys longbow and recurve event; Chris Dupree won the cub boys compound event; and Keena Abbott won the cub girls compound title.

Clint Smith took the beginner's award.

Tradition

Jack Belcher of England shows off an English traditional longbow to Shelby County archers,Chris Denty and Curtis Abbott. Unlike American longbows, made of fiberglass and wood, the English longbow is made entirely of wood from the Yew tree.

Stricklin goes after big guys

If Calera's only NASCAR Winston Racing Series hot-shoe ever had to prove he could play with the big boys, then Waymond Stricklin, Jr. did it Friday, July 27.

Stricklin recorded the evening's fastest qualifying time at Birmingham International Raceway with a 20.63 seconds or 109.06 miles per hour performance.

He also bested some of the best, including defending Grand National Champion Bobby Allison, in a 25-lap Grand American feature.

Alabaster youths take district crown

Alabaster's 11 and 12 year-old Dixie Youth All-Stars have captured the District 3 Championship.

The Alabaster youngsters nabbed the title with a 7-3 win over Central Park which advances them to state tournament action in Decatur.

The team's win over Central Park capped an 8-2 record in subdistrict and district tournament competition.

Jeremy Perkins and Michael Schmale both produced 3-0 pitching records along the way with Jason Douglass and Chad Horrell making up the other wins.

Douglass, Horrell and Perkins also banged two home runs each while Jimbo Nipper lead the entire squad in hits.

Team members include: Perkins, Nipper, Douglass, Horrell, Schmale, Chris Bunn, Clint Woodruff, Brian Weaks, Greg Martin, Tony Grillo, Bill Sanders, Mike Mize and Byron Wilson.

Car pools needed

If you plan to attend the PGA's national golf championship at Shoal Creek, August 16-19, be prepared to car pool.

According to PGA Representative Nancy Jupp, there will be no shuttle busses from any of the outlying areas and parking will be confined to a 13,000 car capacity lot.

Jupp said Monday that if each car carries an average of 2.4 persons, Shoal Creek's parking facilities will handle up to 30,000 people.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 13-15, when practice rounds are played, the gates to Shoal Creek will open at 7:30 a.m. On Thursday and Friday the gates will open at6:30 a.m.

On Saturday and Sunday, the gates will open at 9:30 a.m.

Shoal Creek awaits as Reporter takes last look at PGA greats

It's August 9, 1984 folks.

That means that the PGA National Golf Championship to be played at Shoal Creek, August 16-19 is only seven days away!

The event -- to be covered by your own Shelby County Reporter, ABC sports, and other newspapers from around the country -- will be the first national championship ever held in Alabama.

And, it's right here in your own backyard, North Shelby County off U.S. 280 and County 41.

For the past few weeks, the Reporter has given you an insightful look at some of the greats who will strut their stuff on the now famous Shoal Creek links.

In our final look at these golf legends, the Reporter profiles Al Geiberger who won the PGA in 1966; Dave Marr, who won the even in 1965 and who will assist in media coverage of this year's event; and last but not least, Bobby Nichols, who won the PGA title in 1964.

Lucky Al Geiberger became the first player to break 60 in a PGA tour event when he shot a 59 in the second round of the 1977 Danny Thomas Classic at Colonial.

His 13-under-par round included 11 birdies and one eagle and he only used a meager 23 putts in his 30-29 effort.

Geiberger went on to win the Danny Thomas, holding off last ditch efforts by Gary Player and Jerry McGee.

Since joining the tour in 1960, the 6'2" University of Southern California graduate has won 11 tournaments and over $1 million. That is despite the fact Geiberger has been plagued by illness and injuries over the years.

A stomach disorder jeopardized his career in the late 1960's. He fought back, however, to win the 1974 Sahara Invitational, ending an eight year drought.

After undergoing abdominal surgery in 1978 and late in 1979, he suffered a knee injury. But the hard-luck, two-time Ryder Cupper suffered his most severe setback in July, 1980. His colon had to be removed.

Over the years, Geiberger has won the 1965 American Golf classic and the 1966 PGA at Firestone. He won the 1975 and 1979 Colonial National Invitation in Texas and the 1976 Western Open at Butler National.

In 1976, Geiberger was only one of three players to break par in the U.S. Open at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He tied Tom Weiskopf for second place, two strokes behind Alabama's Jerry Pate.

He lies 32 in the all-time money winners list with $1,227,528.

Far more golf fans know dapper Dave Marr as the witty and insightful commentator on ABC's golf telecast than as the PGA champion he is.

When Marr caputred the Wanamaker Trophy at Laurel Valley in 1965, it represented the zenith of a 12-year career for the Houston, Texas native.

He came by his shot-making skills naturally. His dad was a golf professional and Jack Burke, Jr., the 1956 Masters and PGA champion is his first coursin.

As a result of his PGA victory in the heart of Arnold Palmer Territory, Marr was named to the 1965 Ryder Cujp Team and was selected PGA Player of the Year.

In 1981, he had the honor of captainining the successful American Ryder Cup Team which beat the British Isles and Europe at Walton Heath.

After graduating from the Harmon Finishing School, Marr served as a golf professional at Rumson, NJ and the Rockaway Hunting Club in Cedarhurst, LI.

He left the latter post to join the tour in 1960 and won the Sam Snead Festival in his freshman year. He also won the 1961 Greater Seattle Open and the 1962 Azalea Open.

In 1964, Marr was tied for second place in the Masters with none other than Jack Nicklaus, the Golden Bear.

Before turning pro at the age of 20, the 5'9" Marr attnded the University of Houston and Rice University in Houston.

Bobby Nichols has been one of the leading names in golf for nearly 20 years but he came very close to not being able to play at all.

Since he began on the PGA tour in 1960, Nichols has won 12 times, including the 1964 PGA at Columbus where he beat Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer by three shots.

His 271 round stands today as the all-time tourney record.

About 12 years earlier, Nichols was an outstanding football and basketball player at St. Xavier High School in Louisville, KY. On September 3, 1952, he was critically injured in an automobile accident.

He suffered a broken pelvis, back injuries, a brain concussion and internal injuries and was paralyzed from the waist down. He was unconscious for 13 days and hospitalized for 96 days.

While football and basketball were over for Nichols, he fould he could still play golf after he finally regained the use of his legs.

On his way to winning junior golf titles, he met the legendary University of Alabama football coach Bear Bryant.

Bryant, who coached at the University of Kentucky in those days, went on to Texas A&M and gave Nichols a scholarship to play golf for the Aggies.

In 1962 Nichols was honored by the Golf Writers Association of American with the Ben Hogan Award for his courageous comeback. He was a 1967 member of the Ryder Cup team.

Nichols suffered at least one other terrifying moment in his life at the Western Open. He felt the effects of a bolt of lightening .

Fisherman seeks bigger prizes

Chelsea bass fisherman Bill Spratlin is a shoo-in for a shot at regional honors on the Red Man Chewing Tobacco Fishing Tournament Trail.

Columbiana fisherman Brent Barrow is also in good shape for a shot at those honors as well.

But... Spratlin, who currently leads the field in the Bama Division of the Red Man Trail by 40 points after four tournaments, has his heart set on an even bigger fishing future.

The 32-year-old, self-employed house framer from Chelsea, told the Reporter that he is already seeking a fishing tournament sponsor.

According to Spratlin, such sponsorship will allow him to expand his competition to both the Alabama and Georgia Divisons of the Red Man Trail next year. And, it will allow him to compete on the Hungry Fisherman Trail as well.

This year, after a recent Red Man Tournament at Lay Lake, Spratlin says he's already got enough points to send him to regional competition in Kentucky.

That event was won by Columbiana's Brent Barrow with 17 lbs. 15 ozs. of bass. However, the 8 lbs. 13 ozs. Spratlin managed to add to his previous totals was good enough to push him well above the qualification point.

Spratlin proudly adds that his Columbiana friend's win at Lay Lake was not as surprising as it may have seemed and that Barrow should have no problem reaching this year's regionals too.

After the regionals are held in October, 36 men from across the nation will be selected for a shot at a $100,000 national grand prize.

The next Red Man Tournament Trail Bama Division event will be held August 19 at Lake Martin. It will be a night fishing event.

"I don't know if I can even get a bite....," Spratlin jokes. But then he doesn't have to worry.

Spratlin feels that he and Barrow are "in good shape" for the regionals and "we'll probably be the only two fishermen from around here to reach the regionals in October."

Spratlin says he fishes only on weekends in early spring and summer now but if he has his way, he'll be going after more action and even higher payoffs next season.

State crown in sight

The Korner Grocery softball team from Chelsea is heading for a date with destiny.

The team which won the Class D disctict playoffs in Gadsden on June 23-24 will be going after a state championship in Montgomery on August 17 and 18.

On the way to winning a district title and outlasting 63 other softball squads, James Peanut Efferson added a little icing to the cake.

He was named the most valuable player of the district competition.

Talladega 500 sees six car photo finish

When Dale Earnhardt flashed across the finish line of the 16th annual Talladega 500, he brought a fitting end to events that could go down in history as the most exciting and competitive ever.

Earnhardt's pass of Terry Labonte on the backstretch of the final lap was the 68th lead change -- a record for the Sunday, July 29 event that trailed only the 1984 Winston 500 which had 75.

"That means the two most competitive races in NASCAR history were run here at Alabama International Motor Speedway this year," said General Manager Don Naman. "I don't think there is any doubt that the World's Fastest Speedway is also the most competitive."

Cale Yarbrough stated things in the Busch Beer Pole Position qualifying when he set a Talladega 500 qualifying record of 202.474 miles per hour.

But the close pole competition was only a signal of things to come.

In the Saturday, July 28 ARCA 200, veteran BIR great Red Farmer came from the 35th starting position to win the second superspeedway victory of his career. It was his first ever at AIMS.

Then, in the Budweiser International Race of Champions, that same day, Darrell Waltrip squeezed around Yarborough in the final 500 yards to win the third race of the IROC series by less than one foot.

But the best was yet to come.

The Talented Grand National drivers passed and re-passed each other 49 times in the first half of the Talladega 500. Ten cars were in the lead draft when the white flag came out to signal one more lap.

Fourty-seven seconds later, Earnhardt emerged the victor but it wasn't known for some time exactly how the nine following cars finished.

There were actually three photo finishes with Baker edging Labonte for second, Allison nipping Yarborough for fourth and Lake Speed inching out rookie Tommy Ellis for eighth.

"I'll bet no other track anywhere has ever had a race where it took photos to determine six of the top ten finishers," declaired Naman.

Mangled wreck

An early morning wreck in Marvel resulted in serious injuries to driver Tina Sawyer and passenger Sidney McGaughy, both of Montevallo. Two passengers in the back seat received less serious injuries. (Photo courtesy of Centreville Press)

Montevallo residents injured in accident on Marvel curve

Two Montevallo residents were seriously injured in an early morning accident Aug. 1 in Marvel.

Twenty-one-year old Tina Sawyer, driver of the car, was listed in serious condition Monday. Sidney McGaughy, 22, a passenger in the front seat, was listed in guarded condition.

Two other occupants of the car who sustained less serious injuries were Shereen Thompson, 21, Montevallo and Wayne Brown, 22, Brierfield.

State Trooper Gaither Brasher reported that Sawyer apparently lost control of her 1984 Dodge Charger as she rounded a curve on Bibb County 10 near the water tower in Marvel.

The car went off the road and hit a tree, he said.

Sawyer was transferred by Carraway Hospital's Lifesaver helicopter following the 12:15 a.m. crash and later moved to University Hospital.

The other victims were transported by ambulance; McGaughy to Carraway and Brown and Thompson to Shelby Medical Center.

Wanted: Library at Inverness

Friends of North Shelby Library, a group of county residents who have been working to establish a library in the Inverness area for almost two years, may be a little closer to their goal if an empty UToteM building, located on Highway 119, becomes available at no expense.

The reality of this possibility, however, won't be known for about two weeks, but Nancy Woosley, director of the Shelby County Library System, has been negotiating the property with the owners, and the outcome appears to have its promises.

Ms. Woosley informed the group of library advocates of her finding during a Friends meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William McKean in Inverness.

The group also considered a proposal by two real estate developers for rental space in Valleydale Village on Highway 117, but the rent apparently was more than what Friends had expected, making the UToteM building more attractive.

"Giving a building for a library would be a good tax break for someone," said State Sen. Butch Ellis, who attended the meeting.

Amendment No. 2
STATE OF ALABAMA
PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Alabama Legislature at its Regular Session of 1984 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, set out here as Act No. 84-399, and further ordered in Act No. 84-399 that such election be held at the first statewide primary, general or special election after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984; and

WHEREAS, the date of the first statewide primary, general or special election held after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984 will be and occur on September 4, 1984; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provision of Act No. 84-399 to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in every county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election, in a newspaper published in each such county;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

"Section A. As used in this Amendment the following terms shall be given the following respective meanings:

"County" means Mobile County.

"Outstanding Securities" means any bonds, warrants, notes or other securities issued by the County subsequent to September 30, 1979, and prior to February 1, 1984, that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds received by the County from the ad valorem tax authorized by Section 215 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended.

"Outstanding Special Tax Securities" means any securities at the time outstanding that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds of the Special Tax.

"Special Tax" means the annual ad valorem tax on each dollar of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the County authorized to be levied by the County by the amendment known as Amendment XVIII to the Constitution of Alabama, as amended by the amendment to the constitution known as Amendment CLII, and also provided for in the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments C, CXXII, CLI, CXCIII, CXCV and CCC, and by procedures taken under the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments CCCXXV and CCCLXXIII.

Section B. Mobile County is hereby authorized to apply proceeds of the Special Tax to the payment of the principal of and interest on (and premium, if any) that will hereafter mature or otherwise become payable on the Outstanding Securities. The right of the County to apply the proceeds of the Special Tax for payment of the Outstanding Securities shall be subject to the provisions of this Constitution respecting the Special Tax and the pledge thereof for the benefit of the Outstanding Special Tax Securities. The proceeds of the Special Tax may be used for payment of the principal and interest on (and premium, if any) on the Outstanding Securities, whether or not any bonds are issued hereunder.

Section C. Mobile County is hereby authorized to issue from time to time its bonds for the purpose of refunding all or any one or more of the issues of Outstanding Securities. The aggregate principal amount of all bonds at any time issued under this Amendment, when added to the aggregate principal amount of all then outstanding bonds theretofore issued by the County under any other amendment to the Constitution of Alabama that are payable from or secured by the Special Tax shall not exceed 6½ per centum of the assessed valuation of taxable property situated in the County as assessed for County taxation for the fiscal year of the County next preceding that during which any bonds herein authorized shall be issued.

No bonds may be issued under the authority of this Amendment until after the question of the issuance of such bonds shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the County at an election called for that purpose by the governing body of the County and a majority of the said qualified electors voting at the said election shall have voted in favor of the issuance of such bonds; provided, that if a majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment shall vote for the adoption thereof, then the approval of this Amendment expressed by the said vote in favor of its adoption shall of itself authorize the issuance of the bonds provided for in the first sentence of this Amendment and no additional election by the electors of the County shall be required to authorize the issuance of those bonds. If the majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the adoption of this Amendment, or if the majority of the qualified electors of the County voting at any election called by the governing body of the County under the provisions of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the issuance of the bonds proposed at an election so called, the governing body of the County may from time to time call other elections hereunder on the issuance of such bonds, but not more than one such election shall be held during any period of twelve consecutive months. Any such election called by the governing body of the County shall be called, held, conducted and canvassed, and may be contested, in the manner and within the time provided by the then existing general laws of Alabama pertaining to elections on the issuance of bonds by counties.

The bonds issued hereunder shall be general obligations of the County for the payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit of the County shall be irrevocably pledged, and in addition thereto there shall be irrevocably pledged for payment of the said principal and interest so much of the Special Tax as may be necessary to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities, each such pledge to be on a parity with all valid pledges of the Special Tax at any time heretofore or hereafter made, to such extent as shall not impair the obligations of any then existing valid prior pledges.

All bonds issued under this Amendment may be in such aggregate principal amounts, may be in such form and denominations and of such tenor and maturities, may be payable in such installments and at such time or times, not exceeding in the case of each such bond 30 years from its date, and may contain such provisions not inconsistent with this Amendment as shall be provided in the proceedings of the governing body of the County whereunder such bonds shall be authorized to be issued. Except as herein otherwise provided, all bonds issued under this Amendment shall be issued in accordance with, and shall be subject to, the provisions of the general laws of Alabama existing at the time of the issuance of such bonds respecting the sale, execution, issuance and redemption of bonds by counties. The indebtedness evidenced by the bonds issued under this Amendment or under any other amendment to the Constitution which are payable out of or are secured by a pledge of the Special Tax shall be in addition to and shall not be charged against the limitation on the indebtedness of the County provided for in Section 224 of the Constitution.

So long as the principal of or interest on any of the bonds issued under this Amendment remains unpaid, the governing body of Mobile County shall continue the levy of the Special Tax at such rate as may be sufficient to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities. The rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax is hereby fixed at 6½ mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of properties subject to taxation by the County as assessed for County taxation, which rate shall be the maximum rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax except to the extent that the said rate may be increased pursuant to provisions of this Constitution hereafter adopted. Such rate shall not be subject to adjustment pursuant to the provisions of Amendment 195 to the Constitution.

Section D. The provisions of this Amendment shall be self-executing, and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder, the levy of the Special Tax for payment thereof, or the use of the proceeds of the Special Tax for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on the Outstanding Securities.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, upon the above set forth proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county, and in a county where no newspaper is published, a copy of the notice shall be posted at each courthouse and in three other places in the county.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the State Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 12th day of July, 1984.

4-H'ers learn outdoor facts

Shannon King knows the difference between a carnivore and herbivore. Shane Armstrong can spot a silver maple a mile away. And Trent Robinson would never point a gun at anything he doesn't intend to shoot.

These are just a few of lessons 37 Shelby County 4-H'ers were taught at the second annual Shelby County 4-H Fish and Wildlife Camp this past Saturday at the State 4-H Center on Lay Lake.

The one-day session, coordinated by county 4-H coordinator Anthony Jones, included tips on hunting safety, rifle range practice, tree identification, water safety and a class on fish. The group also was shown how to catch fish with a net instead of a hook and worm.

Instruction was provided by the Alabama Forestry Service, Marine Police, State Game Warden and John Jensen, fishery specialist from Auburn University.

Thirty-seven county 4-H'ers became a little more wiser about the great outdoors during the second annual Shelby County 4-H Fish and Wildlife Camp this past Saturday at the State 4-H Center on Lay Lake. Instruction included a lesson on fishing with a net which served a dual role of being able to cool off on a hot summer's day. (photos by Jim Parks)

Overstreet: bombs voyage

by Fred Guarino

Bill Overstreet was a motorcycle cop assigned to tactical unit duty in 1970.

Six years before becoming a Birmingham SWAT team member, he had been a fairly regular police officer, with a fairly routine patrol.

But... a motorcyle accident and a resulting concussion that could have made Overstreet shy away from police work, actually led him to one of the most dangerous jobs a policeman can have.

In 1972, he became a member of the Birmingham Police Department's bomb squad.

Retired since June 8th of this year and looking forward to a much quieter lifestyle in Chelsea -- fishing on Lay Lake with his wife Lucy -- Overstreet keeps no bomb parts or other career mementos on his desk.

Bill Overstreet... winding down after an explosive career

"The only mementos I have are newspaper articles and that's all I want," he smiles.

Yet this quiet, unassuming man of 47 years, has no qualms about discussing his life as a bomb technician.

"It sounded interesting at the time," Overstreet says simply of his decision to make bomb diffusing his life's work.

He explains that after his motorcycle accident, only two avenues were left open... work as a member of the bomb squad or work with police dogs.

Overstreet trained along with five other men at Redstone Arsenal. The bomb diffusion course lasted four weeks and included 200 hours of study. And the training came none too soon.

"Two weeks after we graduated from Redstone, five devices were exploded at some apartments under construction near Eastwood Mall," Overstreet remembers. "The timer on the one I found had already turned to zero."

He recalls clearly that a wire had come loose on the device composed of Tobex -- a then relatively new form of explosive -- and the kitchen timer that served as its detonator.

While Overstreet's face remains stoic, his inability to express his feelings give some indication of the tension he must have felt.

"It's a thing that is hard to describe... when you walk up to something and see it's a bomb with its timer turned to zero..."

Life on the bomb squad wasn't quite so bad after that, Overstreet says. He remembers disarming a few pipe-bombs but mostly doing post explosion investigation on fires.

However, the danger did not disappear.

Occasionally someone would find they had a live hand grenade as a souvenir from World War II or some gardener would dig up a live cannon shell left over from the Civil War.

Those devices would have to be diffused.

Then there was duty as the bomb specialist with the SWAT team, always on call just in case someone threatened to pull a pin.

And, Overstreet remembers at least one very nervy 60-mile ride.

"One of our special units made an undercover purchase of 800 lbs. of dynamite," the former bomb technician says. "When they called us up to transfer it, we found that all 800 lbs. of it had crystalized."

Alcohol

Hotline, program nip underage sales

Did you know the selling of alcoholic beverages on Sunday is not a violation of Alabama Blue Laws but that it is a violation of the Alabama Criminal Code?

Did you know that in Alabama it is illegal for any person under the age of 19 to purchase, attempt to purchase, possess or drink any acoholic beverage?

Did you know the penalties for underage drinkers can range from a $50 fine to a $500 fine and/or imprisonment?

And, did you know there is a toll-free hotline number you can call to stop the sale of alcoholic beverages to underaged persons or that the State ABC Board offers a Minor's Alcohol Awareness Program to school children in Shelby County?

All of the facts were reported by State ABC Agent Chuck Nabors, who serves Shelby County, and Columbiana native Lucrica Foster, who heads up the state's Minor Alcoholic Awareness Program.

The hotline number to stop the sale of alcohol to minors is 1-800-392-8011. Foster says seven to ten calls per day are already being received.

She adds the number really works, considering that hotline reports result in convictions " 50 percent" of the time.

Foster said all hotline calls are investigated.

Since May 1 of this year, the State ABC Board has made 278 cases against businesses selling alcohol to underaged persons.

Nabors said that 50 percent of the alcoholic beverages he confiscates actually comes from underaged drinkers.

And, his percentages are moderate when compared to figures reported by Harpersville Police Chief Aubrey Perrigin.

Perrigin said 80 percent of the alcohol he confiscated in the past year came from teenagers.

Because of the illegal sale of alcohol to minors, Foster said the ABC Board's Minor Alcohol Awareness Program visited 140 Alabama Schools last year. Six of those visits were made in Shelby County.

She pointed out that the program worked with over 15,000 students in a short four month period last year and that brochures on this year's program will be sent to all Alabama schools in the next two weeks.

According to Foster, all a teacher has to do is fill out the form accompanying the brochure and mail it in for the program to visit a class.

"We prefer to work with individual classrooms rather than assemblies," Foster explained, "because teenagers will talk more and listen better in a classroom situation."

She said the program looks at teenage drinking laws and discusses false identification cards, along with driving under the influence.

UM orientation

Dawn Bailey, a 1984 Pelham High School graduate, receives registration assistance from University of Montevallo faculty member Virginia Jones. The scene was a common one at last week's UM orientation session. Such sessions are designed to introduce new students and their parents to college life and to help entering students schedules in their fall classes.

UM raises education program standards

Students entering the University of Montevallo's teacher education program after May 1985 will face tougher admission requirements.

The university is raising standards for students entering the teacher education program by increasing the minimum American College Test score required for admission, said Dr. Bill Ernest, acting dean of the College of Education, in making the announcement Wednesday, July 25.

All students entering UM's program after May 1985 must have a minimum ACT score of 18. The present minimum score accepted is 16, as required by the Alabama Teacher Certification Standards of the State Department of Education.

"We believe that colleges of education must concern themselves with the strengthening of teacher education," Ernest said.

"It is our understanding, that we are the only public-supported university in Alabama to raise the minimum ACT score to 18," he added.

UM's College of Education was re-accredited earlier this year by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. The NCATE re-accreditation extends through 1991, and the visiting review team praised Montevallo's College of Education on eight program strengths, including excellence of faculty, facilities, student involvement in the program and overall involvement with the public schools.

In the past year, many calls have been made urging reform and improvement in the nation's public schools. UM officials believe that strengthening the admission requirements to the teacher education program will enhance the quality of teachers entering the work force in Alabama's public schools.

According to UM President Jim Vickrey, "While Montevallo faculty and staff have pioneered in recent years in a number of cooperative ventures designed to enhance the quality of public school education in Alabama, our greatest contribution may well be the number of good teachers we've graduated and are continuing to graduate from our teacher education program."

"WE'VE GOT IT GOOD" IN SHELBY COUNTY

UM to honor outstanding educational administrators

For the sixth consecutive year, the University of Montevallo will recognize three outstanding educational administrators in Alabama and a person who has rendered exceptional service to Alabama at UM's August Commencement on Friday, Aug. 10, at 8 p.m. in Palmer Hall Auditorium.

Dr. J. Maurice Persall, superintendent of Vestavia Hills City Schools, will receive the Dr. Kermit Johnson Outstanding Superintendent Award, named in honor of the former UM president.

Nell Salamone, principal of McAdory High School in McCalla, will receive the Dr. Lawrence Malone Outstanding Principal Award, named in honor of the former UM professor and head of the area of school administration in the College of Education.

Dr. Charles L. Payne, chancellor of the Department of Postsecondary Education and former president of Bessemer State Technical College, will receive the Kermit Mathison Outstanding Junior College Administrator Award, named in honor of the late director of Admission and Records at UM.

Each of the these awards carries a tuition scholarship to a worthy student of the outstanding administrator's choice.

The James M. Tingle Award, which is presented to a person for "service to the state above the requirements of profession, "will be presented to UM trustee, State Sen. Frank C. "Butch" Ellis of Columbiana. The Tingle Award is named in honor of the chairman of the UM Board of Trustees.

CF fund drive organizers named

Four Shelby County residents have recently been named to organize fund raising drives in their communities to benefit cystic fibrosis.

Organizers of bike-a-thons are: Sherman Holland, Alabaster; Mark Jones, Calera; Buddy Bouler, Pelham. Nancy Woosley is holding a read-a-thon in Columbiana.

Proceeds from the events will be used for research to find a cure or control for the lung-damaging disease, which is presently incurable.

Healthcare Services promotes Collard

Mary Collard has been promoted to agency administrator of Healthcare Services. She will work out of the company's original office in Alabaster.

A resident of Childersburg, Collard has been with the agency since 1980. She has helped it open nine branch offices in a six county area.

Healthcare Services employs about 180 people in its service area, and offers a variety of intermittent, skilled nursing services under the direction of its patients' doctors.

We need Harry Lyon for Circuit Judge

ATTENTION VOTERS

Dear Voters of Shelby County:

When I learned that Harry Lyon qualified as a Republican candidate for Circuit Court Judge I decided to write this letter to you. I have known Harry for over twenty years as he and my son grew up together. Some of you may not know Harry, so I want to take this time to share with you why I KNOW he is the best man for this office.

Harry always wanted to be an attorney as long as I can remember. His parents had saved money and planned for him to attend law school when he graduated from Huntingdon College. He was so eager to get into law school that he finished his four year curriculum in less than three years with a double major while maintaining a full-time job. Before he graduated from college, his father had a massive heart attack, leaving his mother and two younger sisters surviving only on social security. The savings for law school was still there, but he wouldn't take it.

With a new bride and his dream of being an attorney Harry and Vennie moved to Shelby County. Financially unable to attend law school during the day, he enrolled in a night law school and taught at a junior college during the day. Harry recieved the American Jurisprudence and Corpus Juris Secundum Awards given for significant legal achievement. One of his law professors, Pelham attorney Dan Spitler, gave Harry his start in the practice of law.

Before leaving for court one afternoon, Harry was called to the hospital, Vennie had gone into labor three months early. Her doctor recommended that her pregnancy be terminated due to the risks involved in such a premature birth. Harry's faith and moral convictions led him to reject the doctor's suggestion. After months in the prenatal care unit, a heart operation, and an intestine operation their baby boy, Daxton, finally came home. Oh what a thrill it was this summer to go to the Pelham Park and watch him play T-ball!

I've watched Harry practice law for six years. I've seen his concern, dedication and hard work for his clients. I've seen him active in his beliefs about our legal system locally and state-wide. He believes Alabama needs a strong two-party system. In 1982, he qualified as a Republican candidate for the State Supreme Court. He and mayor Emory Folmar were the only two Republicans to run state-wide that year. In 1983, when Governor Wallace appointed his relative to a judicial position, Harry filed suit because our state law clearly forbids the practice of nepotism.

I believe Harry Lyon will serve all of us in Shelby County well. I urge you to vote in the Republican Primary September 4th for Harry Lyon.

"For courage on the bench, We need a Lyon in the courthouse."

Sincerely,

Muriel Russo

'Look Who's Laughing' is rollicking midsummer night's revel

by Steve Sears
special to the Reporter

If you go see "Look Who's Laughing" at the Calera High School Auditorium this weekend, you will meet some very interesting Shelby Countians.

The John Randall play, which ran on Broadway in 1957, actually seems more appropriately staged here. It has balanced role distribution (5 female, 4 male parts) and each character is broad brushed enough to allow your neighbors in the cast to dote, float and emote to their heart's content.

Directed by Alabama artist in residence Darrell Revel, the play is double cast in about half the parts so as to give more people the chance to shine behind the footlights.

The director aptly compares the show to a cross between fifties sitcoms Happy Days and The Honeymooners. All told, it's a rollicking midsummer night's revel.

Sharon Morgan, the lady love interest, vamps nicely on stage and changes costumes every time she leaves it. The scene where she drags her fiance, Mark Cobb, out of the way of her fuming father reminds the laughing audience that Morgan's daytime job is District Court bailiff.

Donna Causey whines appropriately through her role as a put-upon but loyal wife. Betty Johnstone alternates in this part.

Amy Phillips provides a little subplot as the hard of hearing granny who shuffles around with stockings around her ankles and who amusingly mistakes nearly everything said to her. Kudoes to her makeup artist, who actually made her look old.

Melynda Farris plays the feisty, rosy-cheeked 15 year old kid sister who fears her father and likes loud music. Elizabeth Yost alternates.

Doug Trotter shouts, rants, and raves as the El Groucho father who bets his war buddy he can go for a week without losing his temper. After the bet, he regales the audience with sickeningly insincere grins and laughter as the script puts him in one unpleasant situation after another.

The development of this character is the mainspring of the plot, and Trotter makes him as disagreeable as possible. I leave to Trotter's numerous fellow teachers, students, and friends the question of whether he was typecast.

Wayne Causey alternates as this lead character. I doubt if he can fall down as heavily as the convincingly tripped Trotter, but he should do better than his fully bearded counterpart where the script requires him to shave.

Jimmy Johnstone is the white soxed war buddy deus ex machina who manipulates the plot along.

Mark (the lead in last year's CCT debut musical "Anything Goes") and Lucy Cobb are both in the play for the purpose of barging in and needling Trotter, the former as Morgan's boyfriend, and the latter as a nitwit neighbor. Both do so with verve and gusto.

George Inzer also performs this function, as Trotter's gloating competitor in the style of Uriah Heep. Alternate Mark Dyer will have to go some if he wants to be as sleazy-greasy.

Members of the Calera Community Theatre set crew went to some trouble to recreate an authentic 1957 living room. Jimmy Johnstone, Larry Farris, Lucy Cobb, Mark Cobb, Jean Godfrey, Gayle Farris, Mark Dyer, Brian Causey and Mike Causey did a fine job.

Costumers Pat Bird, Gayle Farris and cast members commendably provided 50's threads.

Peggy Dyer, Gayle Farris and cast members turned in a remarkable performance as publicity generators for the play. You have just been reading some.

Since the August 10 show was cancelled, remaining performances are Saturday, Aug. 11, at 8 p.m., and a matinee Sunday at 2 p.m. Admission is $4 at the door.

Overstreet

Crystalized dynamite can explode merely upon being touched or rubbed.

"It had to be handled verrry carrrefully," Overstreet notes.

He recalls that the dynamite had to be covered with fuel oil to stabilize it and that it had to be transported in three separate vehicles with front and rear escorts.

In 1977 Overstreet left the bomb squad to work on Chief Jack Warren's administrative staff, but he would later return to duty with more confidence than ever.

In 1982, Overstreet was made supervisor of the Birmingham Police Department's bomb squad and canine unit.

"I just let my dogs find the bombs and I let my men disarm them," he laughs. "I was in charge then."

According to Overstreet, he and his partners were never injured in their bomb work. And that, he says, was due to taking "proper procedures."

"You minimize the risk by the initial actions you take," Overstreet says with the voice of experience, "and you always work as a team."

He stressed that bombs were always worked with from a distance until it was known if they could be handled.

Only after all possibilities of explosion were eliminated, were the bombs ever rendered harmless.

While Birmingham bomb squad members were always protected with suits of Teflon-like material, face masks and helmets in his day, Overstreet says the future for folks in his old job is better.

"Now that I've retired, a bomb robot with TV console and scanner for remote viewing of an entire bomb scene has been developed," he smiles. "It's a godsend of a life-saving machine."

Overstreet says he has respect for the bomb technicians now on duty at the Los Angeles Olympic Games and that he recognizes the pressure those guys must be under.

But for him, the challenge of the bombs are over.

"I just plan to take care of my house and my place at the lake and do a lot of fishing," he says.

Remember the good ol' days?

The Shelby County Historical Society is hosting an open house at the 1854 Courthouse in Columbiana, Sunday, Aug. 12.

Visit the past

Shelby County residents will have a chance to turn their clocks back 130 years as they relive the past this Sunday, Aug. 12, during an open house at the Shelby County Historical museum on Main Street in Columbiana. The tour will be held from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served.

Turning back time

The clock on the mantle could very well be turning back the hands of time. The clock, used in the old courthouse in years gone by, now sits again in the building in what is called the Penhale Room, named for Ruth Richards Penhale (left photo). The Johnston Room, named for W.L.D. Johnston of Montevallo, overlooks Main Street in Columbiana. Silhouetted in the window is an early miners lamp which was dug from a yard in Helena (right).

DID YOU KNOW?
Nuclear fuel has lessened the need for foreign oil.
Alabama Power is not dependent on expensive foreign oil for electric generation thanks to coal, hydro and increasingly to nuclear fuel. In fact, last year we generated approximately 28% of our power from nuclear and none from oil and natural gas. In 1980, for the first time in history, utilities in the United States generated more electricity from nuclear fuel than from oil.

Roger Massey aims for District 3 commission seat

Roger Massey, lifelong resident of Shelby County, is challenging John Ames for the democratic nomination for County Commissioner in district 3.

Roger is married with three children and is a member of Central United Methodist Church in Alabaster.

He received his education at Thompson and Indian Springs School in Shelby County, then attended Georgia Military Academy and finally to Marion Military Institute.

Roger's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Horace Massey of Alabaster. Roger was also reared in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Scott Jr., an industrial, civic and political pioneer family in Shelby County.

Having grown up in this healthy environment, Roger was exposed to exemplary leadership and foresight. He has the qualities of positive leadership, integrity, and perseverance which qualify him to manage for the future and orderly growth of Shelby County.

Prior to establishing his own business, Roger was a banker for 15 years, having been with BTNB for five years and as a senior vice-president and managing officer of a subsidiary of City Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Roger is presently a builder and developer in Shelby County with three projects currently under way.

"Shelby County is the fastest growing County in Alabama and we must constantly plan for and manage the problems caused by this rapid growth," Roger said. "We must have teamwork on the County Commission so we can achieve our greater goal of doing what is always best for Shelby County and our citizens."

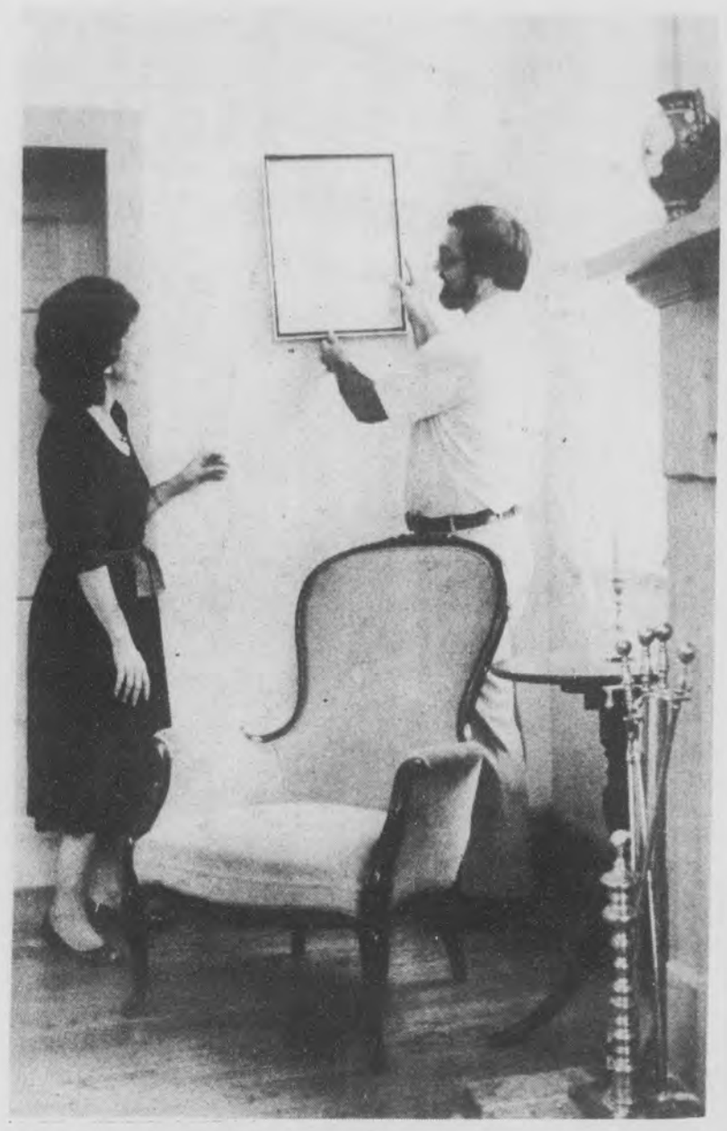
The sheriff's department donated the vintage, 1920 bottle of Vandiver moonshine. The pipe and pipe mold come from Sterrett, circa 1850. The glass, also from Sterrett, is supposedly designed to hold a double shot of whatever.



Get it straight

Historical society president Ken Penhale gets a straight suggestion from museum curator Miriam Fowler. The frame hangs in the Harrison Room and encloses a page from an 1865 "Harpers", with an account of General J.H. Wilson's Civil War raid through Alabama and Georgia.

Globe trotting missionaries are off to Central America again

Their work as missionaries has taken Al and Doris Barber a long way from their native Canada.

They spent 15 years in Central America, returning home in 1965 so their children could attend high school.

Professional opportunities then led the couple to Florida, from there to Birmingham and finally to Shelby County.

However, their dedication to the Lord's work has made them pull up roots again. The Barbers left last month for another assignment in Central America.

They'll be back though. After living in Montevallo several years and buying a house there, the couple say that is where they will settle down when their work on the mission field is completed.

Barber's latest assignment is in Honduras where he will coordinate Bible studies for pastors and lay leaders.

The classes will be taught in the evenings, Barber says, so students will be able to continue working.

Barber is affiliated with CAM, which stands for Central American Mission. He is one of approximately 1,300 people working with the international organization in Central America.

Although the Barbers will be based in Siguatpeque, a city of 15,000, he will be traveling throughout the country while his wife works locally.

"I plan to do visitation, Mrs. Barber says, "and I want especially to work with young families to help them learn how to properly rear their children."

Most of the country is accessible by road, Barber reports, except in the rainy season. But when the couple went to Central America the first time, a plane was the only way to reach some areas.

Some of those air trips made Barber hold his breath though.

Recalling the Sunday visits at one location, Barber says he uttered a little prayer each time, that the plane would stop before hitting a sheer rock wall at the end of the field.

Takeoff would be just as bad, because the plane would drop off a ledge before gaining the necessary momentum.

Speaking about their new assignment in Honduras, Barber says that there is tremendous opportunity for presenting the gospel.

"More and more, missionaries are being invited into the homes of the people," he relates, "and 35-40 friends and relatives will be invited in to study the Bible."

The Barbers say they avoid speaking English when they are on the field except to fellow missionaries.

"We don't want to appear to be exporting Americanism to their country," he explains, adding that the people there have a great culture of their own.

Although there was the obvious cultural difference to be bridged when they first arrived, the Barbers quickly adjusted to their new lifestyle.

Mrs. Barber remembers having to go to the marketplace early in the morning to get some freshly killed meat.

"And you'd have to take a container with you when you went for milk," she says, "and then boil it when you got home."

The couple went to Central America with their two girls, and their three sons were born while they were there.

Paul, their youngest, will graduate next year from the University of Montevallo.

During the years they lived in Shelby County, Barber was headmaster at Calera Christian School and at the school he helped start at Bible Baptist Church in Wilton.

He then worked as a fund raiser and recruiter for CAM.

Barbers pack up

Al and Doris Barber of Montevallo load up their camper pickup for their journey to Honduras where Barber will be coordinator for Bible studies being organized through Central American Mission International. This will be the second time the couple has worked for the missionary organization in Central America.

Lake lowering set for September 15

Alabama Power Company will lower the reservoir levels of both Lay Lake and Lake Mitchell.

The reservoir level of Lay Lake will be lowered between one and two feet on September 22 and the reservoir level of Lake Mitchell will be lowered three to four feet, beginning September 15.

The lower water levels are being scheduled to accommodate maintenance work on public boat launches by the Game and Fish Division of the State Conservation Department.

According to power company officials, owners of waterfront property on Lay Lake and Lake Mitchell may also take advantage of drawdown to improve or maintain their own shoreline facilities.

The power company warns, however, that persons with boats and other floating equipment on the lakes should be alert to these changing conditions and that steps should be taken to prevent damages.

At the lowered levels, Lay Lake's reservoir will fluctuate between 394 and 395 feet and the elevations of Lake Mitchell will fluctuate between 308 and 309 feet as measured at their individual dams.

Lay Lake will be returned to its normal operating level after September 25 and Lake Mitchell will return to its normal operating level after September 19.

The power company advises property owners and boaters that abnormally heavy rainfall could prompt changes in these drawdown schedules.

Ala. symphony auditions students

Student musicians will have an opportunity Sept. 8 to audition for the Education Division of the Alabama Symphony Association.

Auditions will be held from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. at Samford University's Fine Arts Center.

Beginning string students will be eligible for the Birmingham Strings Orchestra; intermediate level string students will be eligible for the Birmingham Prelude Strings and advanced students of all orchestral instruments are eligible for the Alabama Youth Symphony.

Through an apprenticeship program, there are opportunities for Youth Symphony members to play with the Alabama Symphony Orchestra in special concerts.

For further information on the auditions, call 326-0100.

Shelby County Fair recalls

Roman and Grecian tradition

Where did fairs come from?

The Shelby County Fair, to be held the week of September 10 under the sponsorship of the Columbiana Kiwanis Club, continues a long tradition going back to Rome and Greece and beyond.

In those early days, people with products to sell or trade lacked the facilities available in our modern world. Instead, they took their goods to the village or town on holy days when crowds gathered for religious observances.

The term fair itself derives from the celebrations incident to the festivities, feasts and rest on what we would now call holidays -- all of which will be present at the County Fair.

The fair approached its modern form as town centers for the presentation of wares, farm products and livestock, along with games and entertainment, in post-medieval Europe.

Today, modern transportation and marketing have largely replaced metropolitan reliance on such fairs, leaving the county fair the principal inheritor of this highly useful tradition of combining festivities with marketing.

This tradition continues in Columbiana, starting the evening of Monday, September 10.

TRAVEL TIPS

by
Pat Brasher

Paradise is not lost. All 21 square miles of is scenic splendor can be found just 600 miles off the coast of the Carolinas.

A semi-tropical island which has somehow managed to retain a special charm and atmosphere while the rest of the world became High Rise Haven, Bermuda abounds with beautiful beaches and waters of incredible colors. Always popular with honeymooners, the island has just as much to offer second honeymooners, families with children and just "good friends."

The Government maintains strict quality controls which enable the island to maintain its unique character so successfully. Although hotel prices have risen steeply in the past few years, there are numerous guest houses, cottage colonies and housekeeping cottage apartments which offer less expensive accomodations for those on a more limited budget.

Not only don't the brochures lie about Bermuda, they don't even do the island justice. This is one place you'll really find prettier than a picture.

It's best to book as far ahead as possible in order to obtain the reservations of your choice, as Bermuda's popularity results in limited hotel availability during peak periods. Call us today and we'll help you build a "Stairway to Paradise."

Shoal Creek... before the rush

The quiet lake, the empty bleachers, and the still weaping willow trees of Shoal Creek combine to give a lone golfer a moment to reflect on the history that will be made there this week. Beginning Thursday afternoon before a crowd of thousands and on Friday night before a TV aduience of millions, the 1984 PGA championship will be anything but a quiet afair in Shelby County. Children's Hospital left holding tab for indigent infants

by Fred Guarino

Children's Hospital in Birmingham is being left holding the bag for the post natal medical care of infants born to indigent Shelby County couples.

That's what Children's administrator John Vance indicated as he sought a contract agreement for the treatment of such infants with the Shelby County Commission, Monday.

Shelby Medical Center has contracted with Carraway Hospital for the delivery of babies born to indigent county parents. However, Vance said no provisions have been made to reimburse his hospital for the care of infants who often wind up there for later treatment.

Vance said Shelby Medical Center administrator Norman Price told him the issue was the county's problem. He said Price refused to set up a meeting with Children's Hospital, Shelby Medical Center and the County Commission to resolve the problem.

"We should be getting some reasonable reimbursements," Vance said. "I feel the children of this county need Children's Hospital and Children's Hospital needs your help."

Vance went on to call the care of indigent adults but not the children born to them by Shelby County a "gross inequity."

Vance pointed out that the hospital's only recourse is to fall back on the Alabama Health Care Responsibility Act. That law places the ultimate financial burden for such care on the individual counties.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden said that he would attempt to arrange a meeting between the three entities, but that he could not make the SMC hospital board members attend.

Vance repeatedly pointed out that the Shelby Medical Center administration does not think the situation is its problem.

He said that his hospital recently provided care totaling nearly $17,000 for two Shelby County youngsters who required special treatments.

County Attorney Frank (Butch) Ellis said he felt the situation should be addressed at the state level because counties cannot afford to pay for such care.

Commissioner John Ames pointed out that some of the figures quoted by Vance for medical care of indigent children, apart from the two recent youngsters, would take up 25 percent of the county annual operating budget.

Vance also said that some Shelby County indigents are actually being sent to his hospital, even when they could have been treated in Shelby County.

He said that in one case treatment was refused by Children's Hospital and the child was later treated at SMC.

Vance said that representatives from Children's would be willing to meet with the county commission and SMC board members anytime to resolve the situation.

He later told the Reporter that the treatment of indigent Shelby County youngsters could cause his hospital, "severe financial repercussions."

In a telephone interview after the commission meeting, SMC administrator Norman Price said that indigent infants have always been sent to Birmingham for treatment.

"We've never had a neonatal care program," he said. "Even if those babies had been delivered

Calera issue shouldn't hurt school openings

by Bert Seaman

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox predicts a smooth opening for county schools when classes begin in two weeks.

Glasscox said he did not believe there would be any problems despite the uncertainy of what will happen concerning the principal's positions at Calera High School and Shelby Elementary School.

Since he won his appeal after a hearing before the state tenure commission last week, Danny Goggins will begin the school year as princiapl at Calera High School.

In May, the Shelby County Board of Education voted to transfer Goggins to Shelby Elementary school to replace Katie Griffith as principal.

After a hearing requested by Goggins the following month, the board stood firm on its decision to transfer.

Although Goggins will begin the year at Calera, the board will have to make a decision on whether to appeal the commission's decision that he remain in that position.

That will be decided, the superintendent said, after the board has had a chance to review the commission's reasons for ruling in favor of Goggins.

Until the situation is resolved, Vincent Middle School Assistant Principal Sammy Arledge is expected to fill in at Shelby.

Arledge will be recommended for the position at Thursday's board meeting. If the board approves Arledge, he will work at Shelby on a "day to day" basis until the situation with Goggins is resolved, Glasscox said.

Someones' feelings about Goggins staying on at CHS were expressed last week with a paint brush. Written on the school door with yellow paint, were the words, "Get out Goggins."

Although the vandals have not been identified as yet, the Shelby County Sheriff's department reports there are several suspects in the case.

Pelham gasket firm goes up in smoke

Pelham fire officials were still working early this week to determine the cause of a blaze which gutted the Sepco warehouse on U.S. 31 last Friday evening.

Firefighters from five municipalities battled the flames for three hours before they were able to bring the fire under control. Some firemen remained on the scene for 16 hours dousing spot fires.

The fire broke out around 7 p.m. after the plant had closed. No employees were injured in balze.

Even though plant officals say the warehouse will be rebuilt, more than 100 employees will be out of work until operations resume.

The monetary damage to the 81,000 square foot building and its contents was not available Monday, as insurance adjusters conducted their investigations.

PFD Chief Bill Bryars said the fire probably started on the production line where oil and grease are heated.

One concern of the firmen battling the blaze was a 10,000 gallon tank of the flamable solvent, Naphtha, buried behind the plant.

Water was pumped on that area to keep the tank cool.

Sepco manufactures gaskets, mechancial packings and other sealing devices.

With many of those products rubber coated, there were five tanks containing 750 to 1,000 gallons of rubber mixture in the building at the time of the fire.

The blaze was discovered by a Pelham policeman who was investigating a burglar alarm which had apparently been set off by the heat from the already expanding fire.

More than 100 firefighters from five municipalities battled the blaze. Two Pelham fireman and one from North Shelby were treated at Shelby Medical Center for heat exhaustion and a leg injury.

Five alarm fire clouds the sky

A fire that burned out of control for three hours Friday evening, gutted the Fluorocarbon Sepco Division warehouse on U.S. 31 in Pelham. More than 100 firefighters from Alabaster, North Shelby, Montevallo and Hoover assisted Pelham firemen in battling the blaze with Helena on standby. The firemen kept the fire from reaching the manufacturing plant's office in front of the warehouse. (Photo by Jim Parks)

Commission gives twice what is asked for library books

by Fred Guarino

Mildred Harrison of the Shelby County Library Board found a visit to the Shelby County Commission well worth her while.

Monday, Harrison received approval for twice the $2,970 she sought for reference books to be used by the Pelham Libary. In fact, she received enough money for reference books to be provided for Alabaster as well.

Harrison told county commissioners that the Pelham Library circulates more books than any other library in the county, and that it was moving from a "cubby hole" to the whole bottom level of the North Shelby County Health Center.

She also commented that the newly opened Alabaster Library has "the most empty shelves in the State of Alabama."

Harrison said the county library board does not have the money to buy the general information books needed, and that it could not spend a "red nickle" on books last year.

She added that people in Inverness are also desperate for a libary of their own.

"We are here about extra money," Harrison said. She did not realize her request was on the verge of being approved on the spot. "We hope when fall budget time comes we will get some."

Commissioner John Ames then moved that twice the requested amount be granted so that two sets of reference books could be purchased for both Pelham and Alabaster.

Ames noted that Inverness did not need funds at this time becuase it did not have a functioning facility.

In other action:

While the Shelby County Historical Society did not receive approval for a $12,500 donation it sought, the society did receive approval for the request to be considered in next year's county budget.

Represented by Miriam Fowler and Nell Fulton, the historical society sought the money to finish the restoration of two rooms and a vault in the downstairs portion of the 1854 County Courthouse.

According to Fowler, if the request were granted, the historical society could proceed to raise funds on its own to complete the meeting room, courtroom and kitchenette areas upstairs.

Commissioner Jake Morris moved that the matter be considered in next year's budget, and Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden clarified that the funding would be in addition to funds already being given.

Snowden called the 1854 courthouse safer than the one now used by the county. He said he would one day like to see the county commission hold its meetings there.

The historical society did not go away completely empty handed, however. Snowden received approval to take bids at the next meeting for a copying machine to be used at the old courthouse.

County commissioners approved Central Alabama Paving as the low bid for the widening and resurfacing of County 55. While the bids were let by the state, Shelby County's cost for that project will be $126,265.74.

The commissioners also approved another state bid for bridge replacements on County Roads 26, 44 and 81. The county's share of that project will be $42,440.

County engineer Gary Ray was given approval to seek bids for the rental and possible lease/purchase of a new bulldozer for the county highway department.

Commissioners agreed that the dozer might be rented until the next fiscal year when purchase could be made.

According to Ray, a dozer now used by the county would cost up to $10,000 to repair and would still not be in good shape.

Seaman Timber Company was selected as the low bid for county highway department timber supplies.

The county also accepted bids on steel parts used by the county highway department but did not award an outright contract to one company for those supplies.

It will instead purchase the items on an indiviudal low price basis.

Ames and Morris received approval to have Signal Trail and Bill Osborne Roads paved before October 1, if funds are avilable.

If not, the two unpaved roads, which are reportedly in bad condition, will be paved from funds in the next fiscal year budget.

The county will attempt to add the two roads to its current project contracts but the county attorney will check the legality of that action.

Ellis suggested that new bids might have to be taken.

SMC cuts nurse aides' hours but gives regular schedules

by David F. Moore

Nursing assistants at Shelby Medical Center took another cut in work hours last week. But with that cut they have been placed on more regular schedules that take the guessing out of when they work and when they don't.

SMC budgeted personnel this year for 75% occupancy. However, as nursing director Brenda Carter explained, with patients filling only about 60% of the 184 active beds, there hasn't been enough full time work for SMC's 65 nursing assistants.

Because of this, assistants were scheduled for less shifts on an irregular, "as needed basis."

Beginning last Thursday, the SMC administration enacted a policy that gives most of the assistants eight work days in one two-week pay period, then gives them the next two-week period off.

Carter said the proposal had been discussed for several weeks. "It's what the assistants wanted to do, and the group supervisors who schedule them," she said.

SMC administrator Norman Price said the new system is flexible so that changes in the census can be adquately staffed. Furthermore, he said assistants can now obtain part-time jobs, collect part-time unemployment for the two-week periods they don't work, or at least not be tied to their home phones awaiting a call on whether or not they work that day.

Nursing assistants Betty and Debbie Satterfield -- a mother and daughter who live in Columbiana -- think the new system is a good idea.

"The way we were doing, we worked according to the census, and didn't know if we'd be coming in or not," said Betty, a floor assistant for three years, now working eight straight days every other two-week pay period.

"We're hoping the census is going to come up," she said. "But I think this way is going to work better than the old one. You can pretty well plan your day."

"I know the hospital has tried to keep us working as much as the could. I think they went to this schedule for our benefit, and their's, too," Mrs. Satterfiled said.

"I think everybody in our department feels that if it's for the hospital's good, that's fine," said Debbie Satterfield. A unit clerk with nine years at SMC, she was cut from ten days every pay period, to eight days every pay period.

"Like running your home, you have to be cost conscious, but we're also still very patient care conscious," she said.

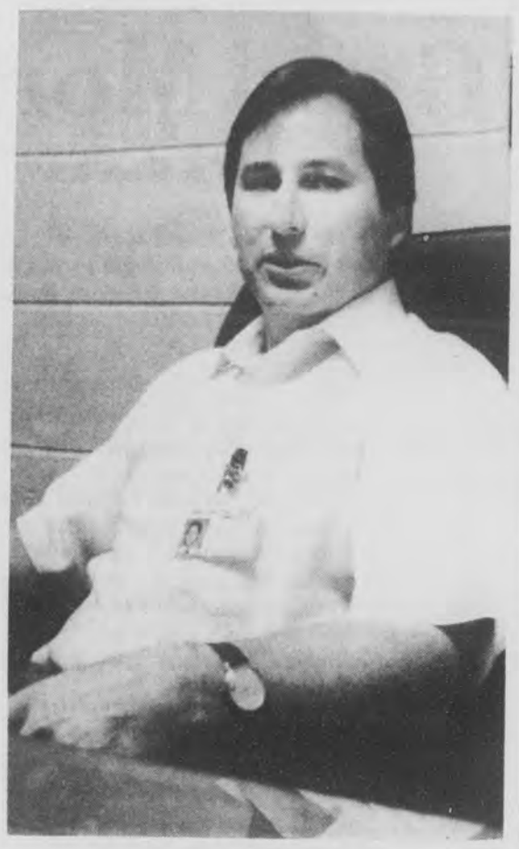
BENNIE STORIE
...taking the head post at SCHS



GLEN FREDERICK
...new principal for Chelsea School

Chelsea and SCHS get new principals

by Bert Seaman

After spending 22 years in the Birmingham School System, Bennie Storie says, "I felt there had to be other ways of doing things."

Now that he has been named principal of Shelby County High School, the 46-year-old Storie is going to have the opportunity to find out.

Storie, who has been principal of Banks High School for the past four years, says "We were growing out of kids at Banks."

When he took over the principal's position, he reports there was a student enrollment of 1,200. When he left it was down to 750.

"I think that this will be a turnaround year in education," Storie says, adding that in his opinion, the educational system in Shelby County is on the brink of being "really good."

He applied for the position at SCHS, Storie, says, "because I wanted to be part of it."

A new course that Storie is instituting this fall will prepare students for the ACT tests. The one semester course, he reports, had proved helpful to students at Banks.

In keeping with the state superintendent's plan of excellence, Storie says that the schedule will have to be changed some to provide for the required 360 minutes of instruction.

Giving his impression of the students he has met so far, Storie says he has been "tickled to death."

His interest in student activities has even taken him to Auburn, where he visited the cheerleaders at their camp.

Storie began his educational career at Mountain Brook High School where he taught science. He also taught and coached at Woodlawn and Ensley and has been principal at Barrett Elementary, Woodlawn, and Avondale and Going Elementary.

A 1962 graduate of Samford with a BS degree in physical education, Storie went on to earn an MA in school administration from the University of Alabama. He also has a AA from UAB.

Storie and his wife Frances live in Trussville. They have two boys; Phil, 18 and Ken, 16.

At SCHS, Storie replaces Don Bulger, who drowned earlier this year in a fishing boat accident.

Why would the principal of a Birmingham City High School give up that position to take over the head post at a K-12 school in Shelby County?

The answer Glen Frederick gives is that he enjoys young people of all ages.

That being the case, Frederick should have a good time at Chelsea, the job he won over a number of other qualified applicants.

The 34-year-old Frederick has been principal of Huffman High School for the past two years. Before that, he spent two years at South Eastlake Middle School as principal and he was also principal for two years at Robinson Elementary School.

"Every time I moved up," Frederick told the Reporter, "I missed the students in the age level I left."

So now -- after an elementary, middle and high school -- Frederick has it all.

An educator for 11 years, Frederick also taught social studies at the middle school level for five years.

He has been highly impressed, the new principal says, with the young people he has met since coming to Chelsea.

One of the things Frederick says he plans to do is to let the students have more input in school activities. It is also his intention, he says, to get more community involvement.

More attention will be given to the elementary school beginning this school year, with interim principal Marilyn Stutts concentrating her efforts there.

But that doesn't mean that Frederick is going to limit himself to the high school.

He reiterates his enjoyment of working with students in the lower grades as well as at the high school level.

Frederick, his wife Eva and their daughters, Marci, 9 and Lori, 15 months, are already Shelby Countians. For the past six years the family has lived in Helena.

Frederick graduated from West End High School and attended Jefferson State Junior College. He earned a BS from the University of Alabama in Birmingham in 1973 and an MA in school administration from UAB in 1978.

He is working on his AA certificate.

Inverness registration is Aug. 21

Inverness Elementary School registration will held Tuesday, August 21, from 8:00 A.M. until 7:00 P.M. in the cafetorium.

All students -- new or returning -- are to register Grades K-5.

Kindergarten and First grade students will need a Birth Certificate and an Alabama Immunization slip. New students will need a report from the transferring school and an Alabama Immunization slip.

Orientation for Kindergarten and First grade will be Friday, August 24, and school begins August 27. For more information:991-7087.

Reader says reports unfair

Letter to the Editor:

Fairness cuts both ways.

For example, the Government's Census Bureau recently issued two simultaneous reports on poverty. One showed a small increase (two-tenths of a percent to a total of fifteen and two-tenths) in the proportion of Americans whose cash income falls below the so-called poverty level (raised in 1983 to $10,178 for a family of four.) At the same time, the companion report pointed out that the number of Americans below that line drops dramatically (by an average of about two and a half percent) when non-cash income, such as food stamps, public housing, school lunches and Medicare are included.

So how is this encouraging discovery that less poverty exists greeted in America? By national media headlines proudly announcing less hunger in America? Do political opponents congratulate each other on the accomplishment? Hardly! Instead, headlines scream that the number of poor is on the rise. Presidential candidates make an issue of the first report while covering up the good news in the accompanying findings. Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., Speaker of the House of Representatives, labels it "the smoking gun" proof of unfairness, while managing to ignore the attending facts.

Like Caesar's wife, who must be beyond suspicion, the spokesman alleging unfairness on the part of his opponents assumes a special obligation to be fair when making such charges. Otherwise the speaker succeeds only in undermining his or her own credibility.

To have it both ways is neither honest nor fair.

Sincerely yours,
William C. Holcombe

Retarded need understanding

Letter to the Editor:

Mental Retardation is not catching nor is it a ticket for those who have good minds to abuse and misuse those who don't.

There are too many retarded and handicapped treated as less than human, and people need to understand that less fortunate ones have feelings too!

Theatre group thanks Reporter

Letter to the Editor:

On behalf of the cast, crew, director, and Board of Directors of Calera Community Theatre, I wish to say a very big thank you to the Reporter.

The picture and article Bert Seaman did was excellent. The review by Steve Sears was most obviously done through actually viewing and enjoying the show, and not just by reading the program. We sincerely appreciate the publicity this had given us.

"Look Who Laughing" was the second season show for Calera Community Theatre; therefore we are still a young theatre company.

Thanks to the great coverage the Reporter gave us we had a good attendance representing the entire county.

It is very refreshing to find that you can pick up a newspaper and read about something GOOD happening these days.

Thanks to your news, WQMS radio, and the many people who attended Calera Community Theatre's production of "Look Who's Laughing," we are a success and believe me you will be hearing more about CCT and what we are doing in the future.

Plans are already underway for a spring musical.

Thanks again

School lunch policy established

The Shelby County Board of Education has adopted this year's household income policy to determine the eligibility of students served by the National School Lunch and-or Breakfast Program.

Parents of potentially eligible students must first complete an application form which will be sent home along with a letter. Additional applications also are available in the principal's office of each county school.

The completed applications are confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the school year.

If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the household should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the household eligbile for free or reduced-priced meals if the household income falls at or below the prescribed levels.

Under the provision of the meal policy, the school principal will review the applications and determine eligibility.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the principal, he may discuss the issue in more detail with the school official, and if still not satisfied, a appointment may be made with county school superintendent Ellie B. Glasscox.

The free and reduced-priced meal policy does not discriminate against students because of race, sex, color, national origin or mental or physical handicap.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

The subject was exercise and how you get it, at what time and at what place.

He didn't look like an exercise bug, fat and plump as he was, with little boy cheeks and curly hair that hung halfway to his belt buckle.

He was a sitter and got his exercise in a way that most folks wouldn't have thought about. Folks are like that. One fellow said he got his exercise serving as a pallbearer for other guys who thought they needed it.

"How do you get your exercise?" I asked him one day.

"You'll never believe it."

"I'll try," I said.

He lit a cigarette and stretched his cubby legs.

"I get up and walk around during the commercials on television. It keeps me fit as a fiddle."

Her name was Sue Whistlegate. One day she parked her car directly across the street from Joe Widestop's driveway. Somebody said she was going on vacation and would be gone for days. Joe didn't see her when she parked it, but, telling me about it today, he said: "She had a surveyor with her."

"Why would she want a surveyor?" I asked.

I don't know. But she had one."

"How do you know?"

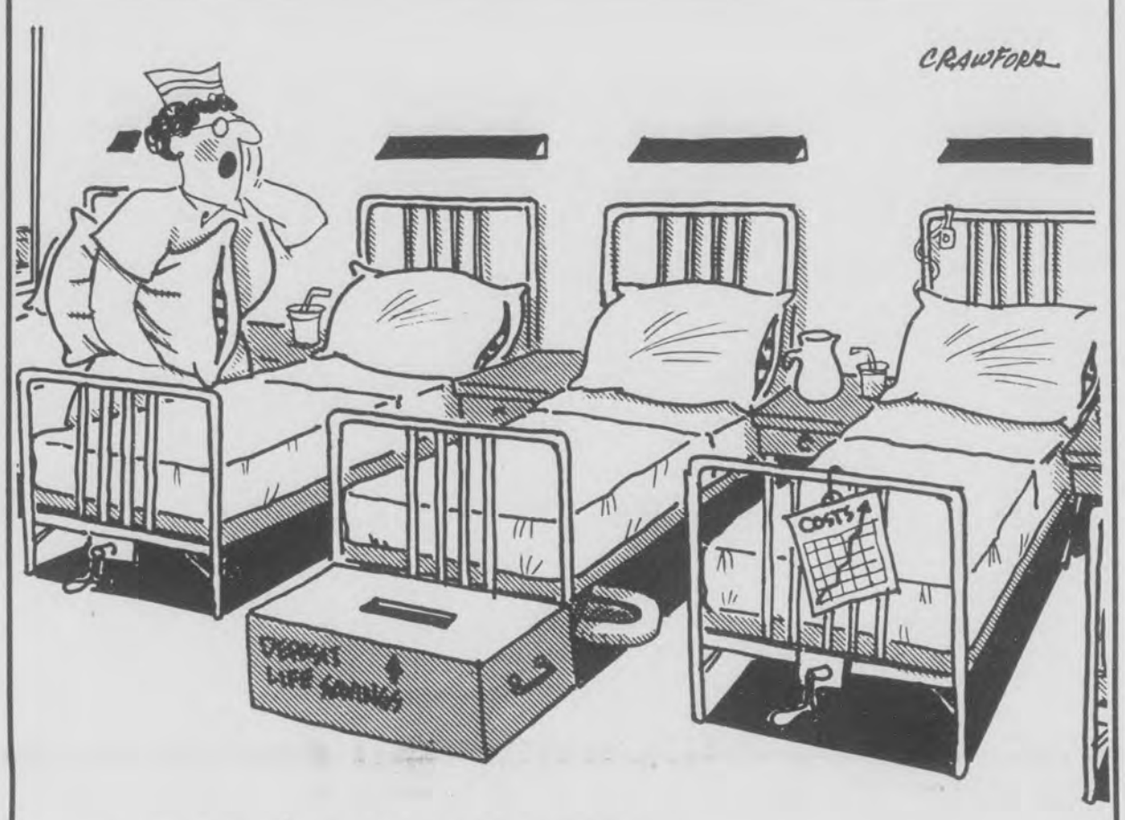
He had a cigarette in his mouth. He scratched a match down his pant's leg and held the flame to the tobacco.

"She had to," he said, "to get it directly across from my driveway."

Two weeks later Joe asked a neighbor where she had gone.

"To Hong Kong," the neighbor said.

When Joe told me about it the next day, he added: "She lost her pocketbook over there and is having to swim back."



Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

In Alabama politics it seems it is never too early to announce one's candidacy for office.

Hence it was no great surprise a few days ago when no less than three incumbent members of the State Senate publicly opined that they had their eyes on becoming the presiding officer of that assembly...the lieutenant governor...in 1986.

Sens. Hinten Mitchem of Albertville, John Teague of Childersburg and Charles Bishop of Jasper---three bonafide super-heavyweights in the legislature---all expressed their interest in the post now occupied by Bill Baxley.

Apparently all threee have concluded that Baxley really means it this time when he says he will run for governor in '86. It is doubtful that any of the three senators would run for lieutenant governor if Baxley sought a second term.

There was a time in the past when it seemed almost a requirement that the office of lieutenant governor be filled by a state senator.

Jim Allen of Gadsden moved from the senate to that office in 1950; Guy Hardwick of Dothan did the same thing four years later; so did Albert Boutwell of Birmingham in 1958.

But since then only one incumbent senator--George McMillan of Birmingham--has been able to move directly from the senate to the presiding officer's chair.

Sen. Mitchem indicated he had already accumulated a sizeable war chest to finance his campaign; Teague, who presently is president pro tem of the senate, said he expected to have no trouble getting his campaign financed. Sen. Bishop, who could finance his own race if he was of a mind to, says he is waiting on the results of a statewide poll before deciding what his future political plans might be.

* * * *

Odds and Ends---The Alabama Alliance of Business and Industry, a coalition of various pro-business associations, has created a tempest with a ranking of legislators it released last week. The rankings, based on how legislators voted on measures favored by business, didn't please some lawmakers who got low marks. Sen Teague, for instance, was given a 20 per cent ranking.

The only senators who scored 100 percent in the AABI rankings were Bill Cabiness of Birmingham and Larry Dixon of Montgomery. Both are Republicans.

House Speaker Tom Drake of Cullman, a staunch Democrat and labor supporter, scored a fat zero in the rankings.

State Revenue Commissioner Jim White said in an interview that it is high income Alabamians who are most prone to evade paying their state income taxes. The one profession which he says most flagrantly violates tax laws? Lawyers.

Will sudden wealth change family?

by Bert Seaman

They say that money changes people. But it will be hard to say what effect it has had on the Robert Stephenson family of North Shelby County.

When the Reporter called to ask about the $1.5 million that Linda Stephenson won last week in a lottery, a recording said the phone had been disconnected.

Mrs. Stephenson won the money in Washington State where she and her two children have been spending the summer visiting her parents.

The first winner of the state's Lottery Lotto jackpot, Stephenson picked all six numbers correctly on one of the ten tickets she purchased.

According to reports, the Stephensons have said they do not plan to change their lifestyle despite their new and sudden wealth.

Linda Stephenson is a 33-year-old homemaker and Girl Scout leader. Her husband is a product distributor with the Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

They have two children -- nine-year-old Dana, who will be a fourth grader at Inverness Elementary, and a son, four-year-old Chris.

The family has lived in Indian Valley for about a year.

at SMC, we would have had to transport them for medical treatment."

As to why SMC would not take resonsibility for reimbursing Children's Hospital for its indigent infant care, Price referred to the State Health Care Responsiblity Act.

"There's your answer," he said. "That law covers care that cannot be provided in the county."

Price said the responsibility law clearly places the burden of indigent cost on the county commission when such care has to be provided outside the county.

"Basically, all I told him (Vance) was that he is having the same problem that SMC is having with Chilton County," Price continued. "I told him we do not ask Chilton County Hospital for funds, but we ask Chilton County."

In light of the law, Price said he did tell Vance that he could not see the sense in Children's Hospital meeting with SMC over the situation.

He futher pointed out that SMC has no agreements with any hospital for indigent infant care.

TES plans cookie sale

Another cookie sale to raise funds for Thompson Elementary School will begin Tuesday, Sept. 4.

This will be the third consecutive year Thompson Elementary has sold cookies, with the school placing first nationwide in total sales for the past two years.

A minor change in the fundraising project has been noted, however.

"The school plans to continue with the sale of cookies, but we have gone with a Birmingham-based company -- D&S Candy Company -- in order to provide a better product for the community," said project co-chairman India White. "In addition to selling cookies, candy also will be sold."

"The support of the parents, teachers and the community is very important in this fundraiser," Mrs. White said, "because without it, Thompson Elementary would be in serious financial difficulty."

Mrs. White said $15,000 of the proceeds goes into the school budget and enables each grade level to have an additional $1,000 each year for operating expenses.

Shoal Creek

Pieces are falling together;

PGA action on tap for Thursday

by Fred Guarino

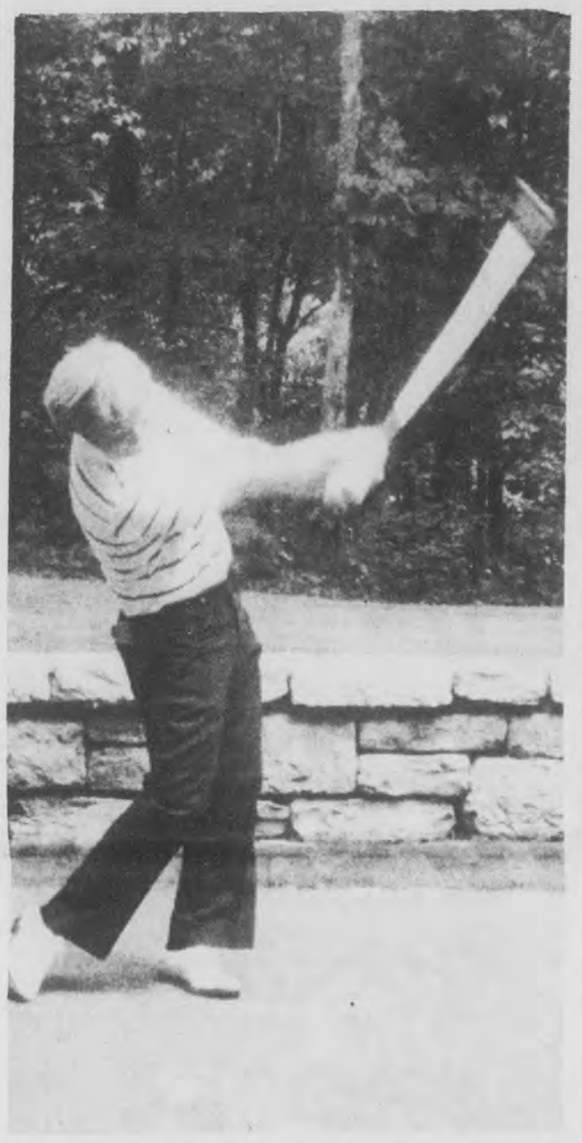
Putting together a PGA Championship is much like assembling a massive, intricate jigsaw puzzle.

In the case of the 1984 championship to be played at Shoal Creek this week, assembly of the puzzle began two years ago.

Even now, with the official start of the four-day event set for Thursday, the final pieces are still being put in place.

But the frantic last minute touches being added to this jigsaw puzzle won't go unnoticed. The finished product, set in the beautiful woodlands of North Shelby County's Dunnavant Valley, will be viewed by an estimated 30,000 golfing fans who are traveling from near and far to witness the championship in person.

Furthermore, the assembled puzzle pieces will be admired on ABC television by millions of people -- not only from coast to coast, but also by folks in distant lands like Australia, Canada, England and Japan.



Jack Nicklaus gets ready for PGA title fight

Friday morning was busy.

Like busy worker ants on display in a glass ant farm, plumbers, painters, golf course care takers, officials with the Professional Golfers Association, telephone company crews, and televison personnel scurried in, out, and round about Shoal Creek.

Their mission: to put the 1984 PGA Championship you will either see in person or on national televison this week all together.

Life for Shoal Creek's main gate keeper looked hetic as she tried to make sure only authorized personnel entered the prestigous grounds.

In the midst of all this commotion, one lady found herself having to stand patiently by while awaiting authorization to deliever a semi-trailer load of portable toilets.

Inside the Shoal Creek grounds, lawnmowers pushed by dedicated workers seemed to go 'round and 'round in endless circles. Like hungry cattle on an open range they appeared determined to gobble up every single blade of grass.

Mobile home complexes sprouted into sudden existence in the clubhouse area and along the many back service roads. They housed everything from finance offices to communications centers.

Everywhere, newly installed portable telephone centers awaited the drops of quarters.

Near a building known as "Town Hall," a giant metal press building has emerged from where nothing stood just weeks before.

Though silent for now, the new building houses 16 empty tables where electrical typewriters will soon pound out the story of Shoal Creek for the golfing world to read. The building also houses a huge leader board, blankly awaiting history to be recorded on its smooth white surface.

In the middle of this huge but otherwise empty structure, sat two plumbers. J.C. Vines of Centerpoint and Joe Shelby of Hoover had just fininshed installing restrooms there, and were awaiting the word to handle any other plumbing emergencies.

Just around the corner from the new building appeared several other people who had come to Shelby County to "work" a few days at Shoal Creek. Out for an early practice round walked the "Golden Bear" of golf, Jack Nicklaus, his son Jack, Jr. and Alabama golf pro Jerry Pate.

Inside Shoal Creek's main clubhouse, tournament director Nancy Jupp answered telephones and calls over walkie-talkies. She looked as if she could use about two dozen extra arms.

Downstairs, Shelby County Cheif Deputy James Jones met with course owner Hall Thompson, traffic consultant Nimrod Long and other police officals to discuss traffic and parking problems.

In addition to conession tents which gave the whole golf course the look of an English fair, ABC crews were everywhere. They built towers and laid record amounts of television cable.

THE COURSE

"We are not making any changes now," said Shoal Creek manager and golf pro Bob Barrett. "All of the changes were made two years ago."

At this stage of the production, all Barrett was concerned with was an immaculate manicure job on Hall Thompson's baby.

Even as Barrett spoke, workers were out making sure the roughs were up from their past 1.75-inch height to a full three inches. He said that such grass height differences alone can shorten a golf shot by 100 yards.

Workers were also busy making sure the bentgrass greens were cut to slick one-eighth-inch, and that the fairways were mowed to a perfect three-eighths of an inch.

"We're really just doing all the last minute things that will make it perfect," Barrett said.

PARKING

According to Shoal Creek traffic consultant Nimrod Long, Hugh Daniel Drive will be made into two one-way lanes entering County 41 and Shoal Creek during tournament morning hours.

That same road will be made into two one-way lanes leaving Shoal Creek on those same afternoons.

County 41 will be open at all times both ways, he said, but one lane on County 41 will be used by Dunavant residents and West Shelby County traffic headed toward U.S. 280.

Sports by Fred Guarino

Police officers will control traffic flow.

Long reported that public parking will be limited to lot number two on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. But, on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, lots five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten and eleven will be open for public use.

Signs will indicate the locations of those parking lots.

Parking lots three and four will be restricted to Shoal Creek members and PGA contestants and parking lot number one will be restricted to press vehicles.

As late as Friday afternoon, however, there were still several undecided parking issues.

Course owner Hall Thompson wanted the lots closest to the golf course opened first on tournament days, but Long wanted to fill the more distant lots first.

"I think the guy who comes early ought to be closest and the guy who comes last should have the longest haul," Thompson said.

Long countered that the best way to ease traffic congestion would be to get cars off the road and that meant filling the more distant lots first.

Golf Pro Jerry Pate also had some words for traffic control. He suggested that warning cones be placed around severe curves on Hugh Daniel Drive. He was also trying desperately to arrange some place for his helicopter to land.

A GOLFER'S POINT OF VIEW

It's fantastic, it couldn't be better," Pate later said of course conditions after he had spent the morning hours practicing the course with Jack Nicklaus.

"Everything is in perfect shape," he said with enthusiasm.

Engineer lays TV cable

"We're just waiting for Thursday and the tournament to start."

Pate -- who had been suffering from a torn muscle in his neck -- said last Friday that he has already healed.

"I feel great," Pate said. "It's all taken care of."

ABC GEARS UP

Anyone who visits Shoal Creek cannot help but notice miles of camera cable and television equipment that now cover the sprawling golf course.

But unless one actually talks to ABC construction workers, takes a ride with an ABC "runner" or talks with a unit mangers who lieterally call the shots, there's no way to know what it really takes to a golf course ready for televison coverage.

According construction man Marvin Smith of Richmond, Virginia, crews have already set up 11 camera towers and 10 forklift platforms in order to capture those expected breathtaking golf course views.

Shari Ekelchik, a unit runner or "goffer" who attends Syracuse University while working for ABC, says the work now underway culminates two years of planning.

Unit runners work for unit mangers who are the people who coordinate the power supplies, cameras, cranes, towers, the food for 150 engineers and just about anything else needed to put a show on the air.

The runners are the ones who take care of what the unit managers want done.

In addition to setting up the camera shots, unit managers even handle the hiring of local runners who join the staff ABC brings in.

For Shoal Creek, David Bradford, Kevin Johnson, Denny Bush and Alan Peavy of Montevallo have all been given a chance to work with the network pros.

Ekelchik has worked as a runner with ABC at the Indy 500, the U.S. Open, the Women's Open and even a couple of Monday Night Baseball Broadcasts.

"This is the most beautiful golf course I've been at," she beamed as she drove her golf cart toward the camera tower at the 18th green.

"There's a lot of water and everything is so natural looking," she said.

Unit Manager Leslie Harris said that ABC is laying 175,000 feet of cable for its coverage of the PGA and that "is the most ABC has ever used."

She credited the size of Shoal Creek for the vast amout of cable, but indicated that it won't be wasted.

"I think we will get some beautiful shots. We are using a 250' crane for panoramic views and another 150' crane as well. This is just a beautiful course."

Harris said that ABC has brought 220 production people to Shoal Creek. Even with that many television people alone, everything is running smoothly.

"The cooperation of the people at Shoal Creek is phenominal. We are really pleased with the helpfulness and the hospitality of the Southern people," she spouted enthusiastically.

Harris said that 18 towers will be set up on all 18 holes at the now famous golf course, and that the largest will be 25 feet tall.

Jim McKay -- fresh from Olympic coverage in Los Angeles -- will do the Shoal Creek broadcast from the 18th green, with the help of 1965 PGA winner and color man Dave Marr.

McKay planned to arrive at Shoal Creek on Wednesday.

ABC will utalize 25 cameras with cable laid to actually handle 45 different camera positions. An estimated 80 microphones will be used for commentators and for special effects.

Coverage will begin Friday night (10:30 p.m. - 11 p.m.). Saturday ABC will be on the air from 3:30 to 6 p.m., and on Sunday from 2:30 to 6 p.m.

As of press time Monday, all the jigsaw puzzle pieces that had been shuffled around for the last two years, appeared to fitting perfectly.

Amendment No. 2
STATE OF ALABAMA
PROCLAMATION
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Alabama Legislature at its Regular Session of 1984 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, set out here as Act No. 84-399, and further ordered in Act No. 84-399 that such election be held at the first statewide primary, general or special election after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984; and

WHEREAS, the date of the first statewide primary, general or special election held after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984 will be and occur on September 4, 1984; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provision of Act No. 84-399 to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in every county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election, in a newspaper published in each such county;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

"Section A. As used in this Amendment the following terms shall be given the following respective meanings:

"County" means Mobile County.

"Outstanding Securities" means any bonds, warrants, notes or other securities issued by the County subsequent to September 30, 1979, and prior to February 1, 1984, that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds received by the County from the ad valorem tax authorized by Section 215 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended.

"Outstanding Special Tax Securities" means any securities at the time outstanding that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds of the Special Tax.

"Special Tax" means the annual ad valorem tax on each dollar of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the County authorized to be levied by the County by the amendment known as Amendment XVIII to the Constitution of Alabama, as amended by the amendment to the constitution known as Amendment CLII, and also provided for in the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments C, CXXII, CLI, CXCIII, CXCV and CCC, and by procedures taken under the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments CCCXXV and CCCLXXIII.

Section B. Mobile County is hereby authorized to apply proceeds of the Special Tax to the payment of the principal of and interest on (and premium, if any) that will hereafter mature or otherwise become payable on the Outstanding Securities. The right of the County to apply the proceeds of the Special Tax for payment of the Outstanding Securities shall be subject to the provisions of this Constitution respecting the Special Tax and the pledge thereof for the benefit of the Outstanding Special Tax Securities. The proceeds of the Special Tax may be used for payment of the principal and interest on (and premium, if any) on the Outstanding Securities, whether or not any bonds are issued hereunder.

Section C. Mobile County is hereby authorized to issue from time to time its bonds for the purpose of refunding all or any one or more of the issues of Outstanding Securities. The aggregate principal amount of all bonds at any time issued under this Amendment, when added to the aggregate principal amount of all then outstanding bonds theretofore issued by the County under any other amendment to the Constitution of Alabama that are payable from or secured by the Special Tax shall not exceed 6½ per centum of the assessed valuation of taxable property situated in the County as assessed for County taxation for the fiscal year of the County next preceding that during which any bonds herein authorized shall be issued.

No bonds may be issued under the authority of this Amendment until after the question of the issuance of such bonds shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the County at an election called for that purpose by the governing body of the County and a majority of the said qualified electors voting at the said election shall have voted in favor of the issuance of such bonds; provided, that if a majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment shall vote for the adoption thereof, then the approval of this Amendment expressed by the said vote in favor of its adoption shall of itself authorize the issuance of the bonds provided for in the first sentence of this Amendment and no additional election by the electors of the County shall be required to authorize the issuance of those bonds. If the majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the adoption of this Amendment, or if the majority of the qualified electors of the County voting at any election called by the governing body of the County under the provisions of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the issuance of the bonds proposed at an election so called, the governing body of the County may from time to time call other elections hereunder on the issuance of such bonds, but not more than one such election shall be held during any period of twelve consecutive months. Any such election called by the governing body of the County shall be called, held, conducted and canvassed, and may be contested, in the manner and within the time provided by the then existing general laws of Alabama pertaining to elections on the issuance of bonds by counties.

The bonds issued hereunder shall be general obligations of the County for the payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit of the County shall be irrevocably pledged, and in addition thereto there shall be irrevocably pledged for payment of the said principal and interest so much of the Special Tax as may be necessary to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities, each such pledge to be on a parity with all valid pledges of the Special Tax at any time heretofore or hereafter made, to such extent as shall not impair the obligations of any then existing valid prior pledges.

All bonds issued under this Amendment may be in such aggregate principal amounts, may be in such form and denominations and of such tenor and maturities, may be payable in such installments and at such time or times, not exceeding in the case of each such bond 30 years from its date, and may contain such provisions not inconsistent with this Amendment as shall be provided in the proceedings of the governing body of the County whereunder such bonds shall be authorized to be issued. Except as herein otherwise provided, all bonds issued under this Amendment shall be issued in accordance with, and shall be subject to, the provisions of the general laws of Alabama existing at the time of the issuance of such bonds respecting the sale, execution, issuance and redemption of bonds by counties. The indebtedness evidenced by the bonds issued under this Amendment or under any other amendment to the Constitution which are payable out of or are secured by a pledge of the Special Tax shall be in addition to and shall not be charged against the limitation on the indebtedness of the County provided for in Section 224 of the Constitution.

So long as the principal of or interest on any of the bonds issued under this Amendment remains unpaid, the governing body of Mobile County shall continue the levy of the Special Tax at such rate as may be sufficient to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities. The rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax is hereby fixed at 6½ mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of properties subject to taxation by the County as assessed for County taxation, which rate shall be the maximum rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax except to the extent that the said rate may be increased pursuant to provisions of this Constitution hereafter adopted. Such rate shall not be subject to adjustment pursuant to the provisions of Amendment 195 to the Constitution.

Section D. The provisions of this Amendment shall be self-executing, and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder, the levy of the Special Tax for payment thereof, or the use of the proceeds of the Special Tax for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on the Outstanding Securities.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, upon the above set forth proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county, and in a county where no newspaper is published, a copy of the notice shall be posted at each courthouse and in three other places in the county.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the State Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 12th day of July, 1984.

Abercrombie: made appointed rounds

by Bert Seaman

"Home sweet home," to Gene Abercrombie is, and always has been, Sterrett.

There's probably not a crannie nor a crag that Abercrombie doesn't know about.

Not only did he roam the countryside in his boyhood days, but for 29 years of his adult life, he drove daily over hill and dale delivering the mail.

Now that he's in his 60's, however, Abercrombie has decided to taek life at a slower pace. So,last month he retired from the postal service.That doesn't mean a life of ease and never lifting a finger, though.

Over the years, the rural mailman also has operated a small appliance business. So he'll still have that work to keep him busy.

Although he's looked forward to retirement, Abercrombie say he "thoroughly enjoyed" the years he spent working as a rural carrier.

One of the amusing experiences he remembers, is the note he found in a mailbox one day, asking that if it wasn't too much trouble, to please blow his horn.

GENE ABERCROMBIE
...retires from route

He did as he was asked and found out the note writer had wanted to buy some stamps.

On another occasion, Abecrombie says he found a note asking him not to leave any mail in the box until the baby birds had flown.

A mother bird, he explains, had a nest in the mailbox and had hatched her eggs there.

He hasn't kept track of how far he's traveled delivering the mail, but in 1981, Abercrombie redieved the U.S. Postal Service Million Mile Safe Driver award.

The way the award is worded, unavoidable accidents are not counted; and Abercrombie says he has had three such mishaps. "It's frightening," he says, "to look in your rearview mirror as you sit stopped at a box, and realize that a car is coming up behind you too fast to stop."

Although his car has suffered damage, Abercrombie was never injured on the job.

When he started delivering the mail in Sterrett, Abercrombie's mother, Beula V. White, was postmaster.

"I don't much believe she wanted him to do it," laughs Abercrombie's wife, Willie Gene.

But Abercrombie was tired of the long drive to Anniston each day, so when a job became available in the Sterrett Post Office, he took the required exam and applied.

In all the years he carried the mail, Abercrombie says he missed very few days covering the route.

"About the only weather that kept me from getting around," he says, "was when it snowed."

Approximately 100 families resided in the area when Abercrombie started with the postal service. Before he retired, he was delivering mail to 540 boxes.

Other government jobs Abercrobmie had were at the ordinance depots at Childersburg and Anniston, where he worked as a mechanic.

He also spent three years in the U.S. Army, serving in England and North Africa.

Although he's sometimes fuzzy about dates, Abercrombie remembers well the day he was drafted in 1942.

"It was February 10 -- my birthday," he says with a laugh.

Abercrombie and his wife -- both graduates of Vincent High School -- were married in 1944.

They set up housekeeping in Sterrett when Abercrombie got Medical advancement helps childless couple

by Fred Guarino

Chris and Margaret Lyerly of Mooresville, N.C. are looking forward to the birth of triplets (two sons and a daughter).

And, in case you're wondering, there are good reasons for Shelby countians to celebrate the long distance happy event.

First, the 32-year-old, proud future papa is a former Shelby countian. He grew up in Alabaster with two brothers, Rick and Ron, and a sister, Jonette. And, he graduated from Thompson High School in 1970.

Second, the anticipated three new arrivals were brought about with the help of a new medical process that could bring hope to childless couples everywhere.

The expected October births represent the happy ending of six frustrating and childless years for the Lyerlys.

After two expensive operations to open blocked fallopian tubes -- a medical procedure with a low success rate -- Chris and Margaret Lyerly found their rainbow's end in a new medical procedure called "in vitro."

Basically, the new process involves the surgical removal of a follicle, containing healthy eggs, from the woman's abdominal area. After fertilization is conducted in a laboratory with the husband's sperm, the resulting embryos are later reimplanted in the woman's body.

Some people refer to this as the "test tube" method.

Up to five eggs are usually fertilized four hours after their removal and, if tests performed 48 hours later are positive, embryos are returned to the woman's body.

Actual pregnancy tests are not conducted until ten days later.

"It's just a miracle," Margaret Lyerly said during a telephone interview with the Reporter from her room at Davis Community Hospital in Mooresville.

"It's so much easier than anything else you can go through," she added. "There is virtually no pain and the success rates are equal to or better than conventional procedures."

The Lyerlys learned they were going to become parents on February 7. Nine weeks later, ultra-sound tests revealed the heartbeats of two infants.

The good news would not only have meant a first for the Lyerlys and the State of North Carolina but it signaled a conception of world significance. Only a few sets of twins have ever been conceived through the in vitro process.

But there was even more exciting news ahead.

Later tests revealed that Margaret Lyerly is not only carrying two boys, but a bonus daughter as well... triplets!

"That was a little bit of a shock that took some adjust-

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

According to Robert Zimmerman, "When you ain't got nothing, you got nothing to lose."

With that attitude in mind, I cranked up Mr. Tiller the other week, and went after my weed infested garden with a wicked vengence.

The weeds had helped Mr. Weatherman put the whammie on my garden, and despite the dedicated 30 minutes a week I worked my veggies, things finally got too far out of control.

It's true that I still have -- or had -- some fine tasting pink-eye purple hulls growing, and the okra -- now that it gets the light the weeds robbed from it -- may pull through yet.

It's true, too, that Diane and I still have a bunch of taters laid out on the back porch, waiting for an introduction to Mr. Oven, and we did eat good for a while off our squash and zucchini and Kentucky Wonders.

But toward the end of July, my veggie rows started looking like skid row. It's kind of sad watching your garden die, like maybe watching a good friend slowly sink down the tubes, or a family member slowly wither away.

As for the corn I started out being so proud of... well, we ate some corn from the garden, and it was darn good. But most of it bit the dust -- mud, to be more exact.

Ditto with the 'mater plants. John, Grant, Anthony and the crew at the Extension Center can give me a good round of "I told you so's" for not spraying for bugs and such critters.

So it goes.

"Farmer, farmer,
So regressive,
How does your garden grow?"

"With a roar of the tiller,
And a mighty 'Hi-Ho!'
Ain't got no garden no more!"

COMING SOON TO A PAPER NEAR YOU: "SON OF REGRESSIVE FARMER!" I mean, after all, you can't keep a good man down. Even if you can, you can't keep a dumb jack-donkey down, and that's for sure.

So when Mr. Tiller and I pulled a Dr. Jekyll recently and turned into the monsterous Tiller the Hun, we didn't really plow up the garden out of vengeance. It was more a combination of mercy, and the desire to start anew.

When we finished the old veggie patch, it looked a little on the bare side, but at least we had tilled under the sadness and thrown away the dead.

It's time to plant again.

Dear Regressive:

I have found the perfect way to raise tomatoes. Where many people's tomatoes fail, mine do not. My secret for perfect plants every time is as follows: First, I put a lot of leaves around them. Then I put all of the Birmingham News and Post Herald papers with all of the Jesse Jackson and Mondale manure in them around my plants, face down. You should just see how my tomatoes grow! If you would like to have my recipe, I will be happy to pass it on to some of the other ex-Democrats.

out of the Army, and today, they live only about a half mile from where they built their first home.

While he enjoyed serving the public as a mail carrier, Abercrombie says he also derived a great deal of satisfaction from serving the public through his work on the hospital board.

Appointed to the board in 1955 while Shelby Medical Center was still in the planning stages, Abercrombie served 24× years, filling the chairman's position for one term.

Even though they can arrange their daily schedule to suit themselves now, the Abercrombies say they have no definite travel plans -- except during the football season.

Wherever Auburn is playing, that is where they will be.

Their sons, both of whom are engineers, graduated at Auburn, but the couple says they were fans even before their boys went to school there.

Since Gary and Greg Abercrombie both live in Huntsville now, that is another trip the Abercrombies may make more frequently.

Gary has two boys; Rob, 10 and Scott, 8. Greg has a 7-year-old son, Matt, and a daughter, Emily, who is 4.

ment," Margaret laughed. "We always wanted a son and to have two boys and a girl means three for the price of one."

Margaret said another exciting fact about the in vitro process is that it actually is less expensive than other surgeries to correct conception problems.

Her two previous operations cost $20,000 while the in vitro investment was only $4,000.

"Depending on the individual, the process will even work for women who have no tubes at all," Maragret added with enthusiasm.

She said the only draw back to in vitro is that it is not covered completely by medical insurance.

"Still, we are thrilled to death," she said. "We've been trying for six years. It was a last resort, but you have to believe it will work and make yourself feel it will work. But you must also be able to accept it if it doesn't."

Margaret Lyerly met her husband when his parents, John and Velma Lyerly, moved from Alabaster to her Mooresville home.

She is a quality control manager for Burlington Industries there and he is a general housing contractor.

The couple often returns to Shelby County to visit Chris' old Thompson High School buddies like Kerry Rutherford, Butch Wilson and Wayne Fowler.

"We just have a good time...," she said. "And Chris has fond memories of Shelby County. He loved his childhood."

Although October 20 is the scheduled big day for the Lyerlys' new arrivals, Margaret has become so large with her triplets that she already has been placed in Davis Community Hospital.

Because she is carrying triplets, every precaution is being taken to prevent premature labor.

Margaret said people told her she and Chris would have to buy a car and build a home before she would become pregnant.

"We tried that," she giggled, "then I got a promotion and got pregnant." And so it goes.

The in vitro procedure Mrs. Lyerly underwent was peformed at N.C. Memorial Hospital's fertility clinic at Chapel Hill.

Persons in Shelby County who are interested in trying this process should ask their doctors for more information.

Editor's Note: The Reporter would like to thank Rick Lyerly, a Homewood attorney and former Shelby countian, for notifying us of his brother's happy turn of events.

Countians graduate

Matthew Ottice Heard and Katrina Faye Wallace, both of Vincent; and Luanne Moody of Montevallo are scheduled to graduate at Jacksonville State University this Friday night.

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

According to Robert Zimmerman, "When you ain't got nothing, you got nothing to lose."

With that attitude in mind, I cranked up Mr. Tiller the other week, and went after my weed infested garden with a wicked vengence.

The weeds had helped Mr. Weatherman put the whammie on my garden, and despite the dedicated 30 minutes a week I worked my veggies, things finally got too far out of control.

It's true that I still have -- or had -- some fine tasting pink-eye purple hulls growing, and the okra -- now that it gets the light the weeds robbed from it -- may pull through yet.

It's true, too, that Diane and I still have a bunch of taters laid out on the back porch, waiting for an introduction to Mr. Oven, and we did eat good for a while off our squash and zucchini and Kentucky Wonders.

But toward the end of July, my veggie rows started looking like skid row. It's kind of sad watching your garden die, like maybe watching a good friend slowly sink down the tubes, or a family member slowly wither away.

As for the corn I started out being so proud of... well, we ate some corn from the garden, and it was darn good. But most of it bit the dust -- mud, to be more exact.

Ditto with the 'mater plants. John, Grant, Anthony and the crew at the Extension Center can give me a good round of "I told you so's" for not spraying for bugs and such critters.

So it goes.

"Farmer, farmer,
So regressive,
How does your garden grow?"

"With a roar of the tiller,
And a mighty 'Hi-Ho!'
Ain't got no garden no more!"

If nothing else, I can see what all my veggies SHOULD have looked like!

"YOU GOTTA' WHAT?"

"I gotta' big zucchini," said J.J. Collier the other week, grunting as he hoisted the 10 pound 12 ouncer up so I could REALLY see it.

"You got a big zucchini," I agreed, and snapped his picture. "You grow that?"

"Actually, it was my wife, Novel. You spell it like the book."

"Zucchini?"

"No. Novel. Anyway, we grew it out at Jackson Springs. I imagine the water out there helps a lot. We've also got rich soil. We've grown zucchini every year, but not like this. And we've got cucumbers half this big."

"Jackson Springs?"

"Sure. Everybody knows where that is. I talk to people all the way over in Montevallo and they know where Jackson Springs is. I talked to a guy over at the store and he told me that if you cut off a zucchini so that an inch or two of it's left on the stem, another one grows out of the same place."

"That's neat," I said, using a word my wife says I use too much. "I'm going to try that next year. Say, can I grow more zucchini this year?"

"You can grow greens."

HOW TO TELL A CITY-SLICKER EVEN IF HE'S NOT WEARING A PINK SHIRT: The city-slicker thinks that a big squash is what people get when King Kong puts on his Nikes and goes out jogging in populated areas.

I don't know about that, but I do know that J.J.'s zucchini is the biggest one I ever remember seeing. I thought Wanza Ishee's sunflowers were big, too

"You call that a big zucchini?" someone asked when I was telling them about J.J.'s 20-incher.

"You call those big sunflowers?" someone else asked after reading about Wanza's whoppers.

Okay, okay. So here's the deal.

Everybody who's growing something in her/his garden that's worth braggin' about, bring it to the county fair next month. Tote those ribbon winners down to Columbiana. Line 'em all up and then we'll tell two things:

1)Who gets to brag.

2)Who's the city-slicker. (Hint: it's the one in front of the watermelons saying, "Oh my gosh! That's a squash?")

As for me and Dee? Will we enter something? If we do, I guess it'll have to be greens.

Sen. Jeremiah Denton sends aide to hear problems

Having problems with the federal government?

Kyle Childress, an aide to Senator Jeremiah Denton, will be in Shelby County next week to help people with such problems.

Childress will be available for questions in the County Extension Service office from 8:30 until 10 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 14.

"A great deal of people have problems that we can solve, but they don't realize we are here to help," Childress said. "Most people imagine the senator way off in Washington and as unreachable. Not enough people know that he has four offices across the state. These offices spend a majority of their time working with and for constituents with problems."

Indian spirit

Norman Blaker of Michigan has been making Indian arrowheads from flint for the past 30 years. His only tools are sharpened animal horns, a piece of rock and a piece of rawhide leather. Blaker was in Wilsonville for the world longbow archery championship recently. Looking on at the man who says he is not Indian by blood, but all Indian in his heart, are Christy McCalla of Oklahoma and Rebecca Cummins of Kentucky.

THE DIESEL LAWN MOWER.

Kubota has a whole new way to cut the grass. It's the first diesel lawn and garden tractor in the country.

Kubota's G-Series lawn and garden tractors come with water-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engines. They're built to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons.

There are four G-Series models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. They all have live front PTO shaft drive to the mid-mount mower. You can choose a hydrostatic transmission. And you can choose a variety of implements including a snowblower, tiller or front blade.

So don't let the grass grow under your feet. See the G-Series soon.

On second row are Jim Davis, Joe Downs, Collis Holcombe, Hugh Strickland and Mike Hill. In back are Jay Stuman, Conrad Fowler, Larry Watkins and Buck Clark.

Winners

Columbiana Kiwanians win Multiple Service Award

Kiwanis Club International has named its Columbiana branch as winner of the organization's Multiple Service Award.

The award was presented for support given by the Columbiana group to the people of Shelby County through sponsorship of the annual county fair.

That sponsorship involved proceeds from the sale of fair bulletin ads and fair gate receipts.

In addition to financing a long-standing scholarship program, the proceeds earned from the fair have also boosted other worthwhile efforts.

With this year's county fair slated for September 10th, the Columbiana club presents the following report on its trusteeship of these funds.

The organization will continue to sponsor the annual county fair and to finance seven scholarships per year to one graduate from each public Shelby County school.

The University of Montevallo adds an additional 50 percent to each Kiwanis grant, raising the total to a level substantially covering tuition and related costs for the freshman year.

Other Kiwanis supported endeavors include:

Financial and other backing for develpment of the County Activities Park adjoing thbe trade school in Columbiana and the County Recreation Park at Beeswax Creek. In addition, the club sponsors the Kiwanis university K Club, the high school Key Club, Scouting, the Kiwanis Club/Farm Bureau jointly sponsored Farm-City Banquet, beauty and talent pageants preceeding the county fair, the local Red Cross blood drive and the 4-H cattle show.

Still other funds are provided for child restarint seats for newborn babies, T-shirts for Special Olympics participants, the schools' Impared Vison Program, the library, the historical society, the Red Cross kitchen and other county projects.

Kiwanis Club members promise to present the best possible county fair exhibits of products, handicrafts and art, as well as livestock showings, rides and entertainment for both the young and old.

ELECT Gregg Rushton
County Commission Place 1

Let's Move Shelby County Forward on a sound, business-like Basis!

My candidacy is based on the premise that our TAX DOLLARS should bring us a better quality of life.....better health services, better education, better recreational facilities.

I would like to see our County managed soundly - just like YOU & I are required to manage our budgets at home or in our business.

I BELIEVE.....

- Sound management of tax revenues is not a hit & miss venture. It takes planning and a well thought-out program.
- Short term goals must be met in order to keep the County moving forward, but long term financial planning must be initiated NOW.
- It's time to take a good look at the services we provide our citizens. Are they adequate? Are broader services required? Shelby County is growing at a pace that demands these questions be answered NOW.
- It is the responsibility of the Commission to actively pursue continued county-wide growth and to create an environment that will invite new businesses, as well as families to our area.
- Our County Government must provide an open & receptive attitude in dealing with the concerns of citizens of THE ENTIRE COUNTY.
- THE SUCCESSFUL GROWTH OF SHELBY COUNTY DEPENDS ON THE MANNER IN WHICH THE SHELBY COUNTY COMMISSION CONDUCTS YOUR AFFAIRS.

Gregg Rushton Understands Business

- Regional Manager for 'Top 50' Mortgage Banker

College life

School days are just around the corner for both high school and college students, and Benny Keller of Vincent is just one of many Shelby County students who is getting his first taste of college life. Keller meets with Southern Union State Junior College director of counseling services Willene Green during a precollege orientation session. Other orientations for that school are August 23 and 25.

United Way serves 20,000 Shelby County residents

United Way agencies serve one third of the residents in Shelby, Jefferson and Walker Counties.

The percentages, which include 20,940 Shelby countians, were contained in study results recently released by executive director David Orrell.

That study also shows that 55 percent of the tri-county population, between the ages of six and 19, have used at least one of the United Way services offered.

And, a further breakdown of the study reveal that 53 percent of the users were female, 61 percent were white, 38 percent had incomes below the proverty level, 41 percent had average incomes and 21 percent had "confortable" incomes.

The figures, however, did not include services provided by the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Children's Hospital or the United Way Community Food Bank.

Orrell said had clients of agencies been included, the total served would be higher but that would not greatly affect the proportions of white and nonewhites, male and female, income levels or age groups.

Noting that only nine percent of the children under the age of six are served, Orrell said a newly created community-coordinated child care agency will help working parents obtain secure, dependable day care and after-school care.

Orrell said the tri-county United Way does assist agencies which provide services to local residents.

He pointed out that from money donated during last fall's general fundraising campaign, this year the organization will provide nearly $10 million to local agencies such as the Aletheia House, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Children's Aid Society, Salvation Army, Workshops, Inc., Crisis Center and many others.

UM trustee receives presidential nomination

Martha Terry Kirkland, a member of the University of Montevallo's Board of Trustees, enjoyed an unexpected moment of glory during the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco.

Even though the Escambia County probate judge was unknown to most of the people at the convention, she was nominated for the President of the United States.

The lone vote came from Kirkland's son, former State Senator Reo Kirkland Jr. of Brewton. The Alabama Delegation member said he nominated his mother because he wanted a woman's name to be put into nomination first as a "symbol" to the nation.

"Well of course I nearly fell out of my chair," the surprised presidential nominee said later. "I had no idea who would do such a thing. I thought I had misunderstood."

But even if the rest of the world didn't know who Kirkland was, folks around Montevallo did.

She is a 1940 graduate of Alabama College (now the University of Montevallo) and she was elected as the school's Alumna of the Year in 1976.

Kirkland said she "appreciated the significance" of her son's vote after learning of his reasons. "Women have a lot to offer government," she said.

Kirkland has been Judge of Probate in Escambia County nearly 15 years.

TRAVEL TIPS

by
Pat Brasher

Cruises have always been a great value and an incomparable vacation. Once considered a vacation only for the very wealthy, cruising was later discovered by "the masses" seeking the most for their travel dollar and are now within the price range of most travelers.

The cost of a cruise ticket includes not only your transportation and accommodations, (including the ship as your hotel in port) but three king size meals, mid-morning bouilion, afternoon tea, mid-night buffet, room service, (in case you get hungry in between meals), first run movies, a full program of free entertainment, a variety of sports activities, lectures, games and parties for joiners and peace and tranquility for those who desire R & R.

Can't decide between the entrees on the dinner menu? Have more than one; there's no extra charge. Want seconds? No problem; just ask your waiter. A taste of every dessert? Only your waist line will limit you. Like to dance 'til dawn? Visit the disco.

Cruising is no longer a vacation to be enjoyed only by the rocking chair set or the Rockefellers. Singles, honeymooners, young couples and families have all discovered what a tremendous value and great fun a cruise can be.

Sound tempting? Call us for information about a vacation which will make anyone feel like a Rockefeller.

New business

Dianne Baker (left) and Leigh Ann Jager put the final touches on accessories in their new business, Interior Accents, located in the Inverness Family Medical Center complex.

Interior Accents opens doors in Inverness Medical Complex

Another business has opened its doors in north Shelby County.

Interior Accents, a home and business accessory shop, opened Monday in the Inverness Family Medical Center complex on U.S. 280.

Managed by Dianne Baker and Leigh Ann Jager, the company provides design consultation for the home and office. In addition, Interior Accents displays and sells a complete line of accessories, gifts and furnishings.

Mrs. Baker has a degree in interior design from Auburn University, and began her commercial design career in Mobile. She subsequently moved to Birmingham where she continued her commercial and residential interior design work with a prominant office supply company for more than eight years.

Ms. Jager also holds a degree from Auburn and is continuing with her interior design studies. She will be active in sales and consultation work with the company.

The location on U.S. 280 was selected because of the projected growth in the area, according to Mrs. Baker.

"When you see big business and fine residential areas moving in to increase the growth rate 364 percent in the last ten years, and the projected ten-year growth is 110 percent -- from 7,900 to 15,000 -- this tells us something," Mrs. Baker said.

TRAVEL TIPS

by
Pat Brasher

Cruises have always been a great value and an incomparable vacation. Once considered a vacation only for the very wealthy, cruising was later discovered by "the masses" seeking the most for their travel dollar and are now within the price range of most travelers.

The cost of a cruise ticket includes not only your transportation and accommodations, (including the ship as your hotel in port) but three king size meals, mid-morning bouilion, afternoon tea, mid-night buffet, room service, (in case you get hungry in between meals), first run movies, a full program of free entertainment, a variety of sports activities, lectures, games and parties for joiners and peace and tranquility for those who desire R & R.

Can't decide between the entrees on the dinner menu? Have more than one; there's no extra charge. Want seconds? No problem; just ask your waiter. A taste of every dessert? Only your waist line will limit you. Like to dance 'til dawn? Visit the disco.

Cruising is no longer a vacation to be enjoyed only by the rocking chair set or the Rockefellers. Singles, honeymooners, young couples and families have all discovered what a tremendous value and great fun a cruise can be.

Sound tempting? Call us for information about a vacation which will make anyone feel like a Rockefeller.

New business

Dianne Baker (left) and Leigh Ann Jager put the final touches on accessories in their new business, Interior Accents, located in the Inverness Family Medical Center complex.

Interior Accents opens doors in Inverness Medical Complex

Another business has opened its doors in north Shelby County.

Interior Accents, a home and business accessory shop, opened Monday in the Inverness Family Medical Center complex on U.S. 280.

Managed by Dianne Baker and Leigh Ann Jager, the company provides design consultation for the home and office. In addition, Interior Accents displays and sells a complete line of accessories, gifts and furnishings.

Mrs. Baker has a degree in interior design from Auburn University, and began her commercial design career in Mobile. She subsequently moved to Birmingham where she continued her commercial and residential interior design work with a prominant office supply company for more than eight years.

Ms. Jager also holds a degree from Auburn and is continuing with her interior design studies. She will be active in sales and consultation work with the company.

The location on U.S. 280 was selected because of the projected growth in the area, according to Mrs. Baker.

"When you see big business and fine residential areas moving in to increase the growth rate 364 percent in the last ten years, and the projected ten-year growth is 110 percent -- from 7,900 to 15,000 -- this tells us something," Mrs. Baker said.

What was it like -- growing up in the South?

If you spent your childhood here, you know. If you didn't, a course being offered by the University of Montevallo will reveal that experience through the pages of literature.

The class entitled "Growing up in the South" will be taught on Tuesday evenings during the fall semester.

But books won't be the only means employed to bring out the unique character of the region, says Sarah Palmer, who will teach the course.

UM staff members and outside speakers will tell their experiences, and films depicting life in the South will also be shown during class sessions.

Palmer says she hopes that a good many people other than students will sign up for the three hour elective course for non-English majors.

dn't grow up in the South, give you a chance to learn

She is enthused about the course, Palmer says, because, as far as she knows, it has never been taught anywhere before.

In order to see the common threads of childhood -- no matter where that childhood was spent -- Palmer says that class members will write their own version of growing up.

But life in the deep South will be seen through the eyes of authors such as: Harper Lee, Carson McCullers, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, William Falkner, Eudora Welty, Ernest L. Gaines, Maya Angelou. And film versions of some of their works will also be shown.

As the class explores what characterizes life in the South, Palmer says she will touch on themes which include: religion, art, sports, food, festivities, change and the outsider.

In a show and tell vein, class members will be asked to bring memorabilia such as photographs, handmade items and recipes, to share with fellow students.

Even though the focus of the class is on the South, Palmer says the aim of the course is to "define what is universal".

After the completion of the course, it is her hope, the teacher says, that students will continue to read.

Explaining that the class may be a means of opening the door of the enjoyment of literature for some, she says that, "All literature is rooted in a region -- it has to be specific before it can be universal, and people have to see and hear before an experience can enter their souls."

Registration for the class, which will only be taught one time, is Aug. 27, 28. For more information call 665-2521, ext. 220.

University of Montevallo English teacher Sarah Palmer displays a children's story book that had belonged to a youngster who grew up in the South. Palmer is teaching a course this fall, on the distinctive features of a southern childhood as compared to what growing up is like in other sections of the country. Members of the community are being encouraged to enroll in the course which will be offered this semester only. A number of books will be available for supplemental reading and local residents will be sharing their memories of growing up in the South.

Shoal Creek produces champ; Thompson, state are proud

by Fred Guarino

It's over. Shelby County's week in the sun -- and the rain -- by way of the PGA championship at Shoal Creek has come to a dramatic close.

Lee Trevino, known as the Bob Hope of golf for his comical antics, ended a ten-year drought since winning his last PGA title. Sunday, he took top honors and top dollars at Shoal Creek with an impressive 15-under-par, 273 total score.

But the Texan left his comical antics at home when he came to Shoal Creek.

He attacked Hall Thompson's golf course, set in the beautiful surroundings of north Shelby County's Dunavant Valley, with only victory in mind.

He played such a determined game that he left golf greats Gary Player and Lanny Wadkins tied for second place a full four strokes back with 11 under-par 277's.

"A lot of people were pulling for me but deep down they didn't think I could win," Trevino said after sinking his final putt. "But when I saw this course, I knew the way to hit so that I could win."

Trevino delighted the gallery when he said Shoal Creek not only proved to the world that there are great golf courses in Alabama, but great golf fans as well.

For his efforts, the victor received a check for $125,000, a giant silver trophy, and a gold medal with a diamond in it.

While Lanny Wadkins and Gary Player may have been crying inside for their second place finish, their agony didn't last long. They both received checks for $62,500.

"The gallery was fantastic," Wadkins said, "I just want to know why the hell we haven't been to Alabama before."

He and Player, as turned it out, proved to be the comics of the day.

"I wish he'd get to the seniors' tour and get the hell away from us young boys," Wadkins said of Player.

"He hits the iron so straight that he has to lean over to see the flag," Player joked of the winner.

Except for two shortlived rainstorms that interrupted play, the PGA championship match at Shoal Creek was a smooth running affair.

Mickey Powell, vice president of the PGA, expressed his appreciation to both Shelby County and the City of Birmingham for their support.

County Democrats endorse six

by David F. Moore

The Shelby County Democratic Conference is throwing its weight behind six candidates in the September 4 primaries.

SCDC chairman George Dailey said Monday afternoon the 12-year-old black political group has endorsed:

•Don Armstrong, county commission, District 1;

•John Ames, county commission, District 3;

•Bobbie Reynolds, tax assessor;

•Claude Turner, tax collector.

The group also endorsed incumbent Circuit Judge Harold Walden who has no democratic opposition, and education board candidate Jack Zuiderhoek, whose only party opponent Raymond Rowell withdrew from the race August 3 for business and family reasons.

Armstrong faces opposition in the primaries from incumbent James "Jake" Morris, V. Wayne Causey and O.J. McCall. Incumbent Ames has democratic opposition from Jack Carlisle, James Huffer and Roger Massey.

Turner is running in the primaries against incumbent Annette Skinner. Incumbent Reynolds has party opposition from James Braden.

Dailey said that while no particular issues exist in primary elections, the SCDC is "seeking people who are sensitive" to the needs of blacks, poor people and Shelby County as a whole.

He noted that 31 of the 34 candidates the SCDC endorsed two years ago won their races.

"So some other people think the ones we endorse are good, too," Dailey said.

The endorsements were made August 11, but were kept "in the bag" until Monday. The Alabama Democratic Conference -- of which the SCDC is a chapter -- is expected to make statewide endorsements this Saturday.

Dailey said the county endorsements followed interviews with the candidates, and were voted on by the SCDC's 23-member executive board.

The SCDC has 85 members who are active in politics, voter registration drives and voter turnout.

Dailey said the group has registered some 300 voters since May -- mostly in Harpersville, Vincent and Montevallo. Another drive is planned for September, and Dailey said the SCDC wants to register another 300-500 voters.

Countywide, blacks make up about 10% of the population, and Dailey said some 2,700 of them are registered to vote.

According to Dailey, the

For whom does the bell toll?

Monday morning at 8 a.m. the bell will toll for over 12,500 Shelby County school students. August 27 is the first full day of classes for all students, and county education officials expect the day to be a good one.

"We're looking for a good start," said instruction services director Evan Major when asked if recent administration changes would cause any problems in school opening.

Major said that 707 certified teachers and administrators would welcome the students back to school. An additional 300 support personnel bring the county's opening work force to 1,000.

Pelham approves computers

by Fred Guarino

Pelham expects to put not one, but two new computer systems into service by mid October. The city is has also approved a $1.5 million bond issue for Homecrafters Warehouse.

Pelham council members voted Monday night to purchase two separate Burroughs computers to replace the system now in use.

It was agreed that $25,000 of the cost will be paid from the city's general fund, with the remainder of the $63,000 cost coming from the water department.

At a later date, other city departments will be charged a prorated part of the purchase price, depending on the extent of their computer use.

The council's decision followed the recommendation of councilman Willard Payne, who said the city's current computer was held together with "bailing wire."

In accordance with Payne's recommendations, one computer system will be used by the police and fire departments, the other by the administrative offices for water bills, accounting and payrole.

Councilman Ray Hamilton suggested that the council place the initial expense burden on the water department.

City clerk Willie Mae Dennis concurred with his recommendation, noting that the water department will use 50% of the equipment, and actually account for three quarters of the computer time used.

Dennis added that at this time, the water department was in better shape financially to handle the purchase than the city's general fund.

The council also authorized Homecrafter Warehouses to sell $1.5 million of industrial development bonds. In return, the firm will pay $5,000 annually in lieu of city and school taxes.

Because Pelham actually owns the property on which the facility will be built, Homecrafter Warehouses will lease the property and make the $5,000 payment for a period of 15 years.

If the company does not take over the ownership of the property after 15 years, it will increase the annual payments to $10,000.

More asbestos found; Goggins case appealed

by Bert Seaman

Another chapter was written at last Thursday's board of education meeting on both the continuing saga of asbestos in county schools, and the situation involving Calera principal Danny Goggins.

Tests on suspect material recently discovered in the vocational building at Vincent High School, have shown that it is indeed asbestos.

Material suspected of being asbestos first turned up last school year in 15 county schools. The cost of removing that material was $66,000.

In July, addition material was found in some of the same schools which cost an additional $10,133 to remove.

The suspect material at Vincent turned up in the second find. Becasue of the high cost involved in removing a ceiling to get to it, the school board agreed to spend $600 to test the material to make sure it was the potentially dangerous substance.

It will cost $7,984 to remove asbestos that was found above the drop ceiling in the Vincent building.

Schools where the other additional asbestos has been found and the cost of removal are: Chelsea, $1,000; Columbiana Middle School, $1,060 and Montevallo High School, $720.

The project at Columbiana Middle School is the most pressing, reported deputy superintendent of education Vern Davis, since the pipe with the asbestos wrapping runs down the ceiling in the main hall.

Vincent's project will probably be the last one undertaken since the school can open without the vocational building where the problem was found, Glasscox said.

The situation with Calera principal Danny Goggins came to light in May when the school board -- responding to a case presented by people at the school and in the community -- voted to transfer him to the principal's postion at Shelby Elementary, the system's smallest school.

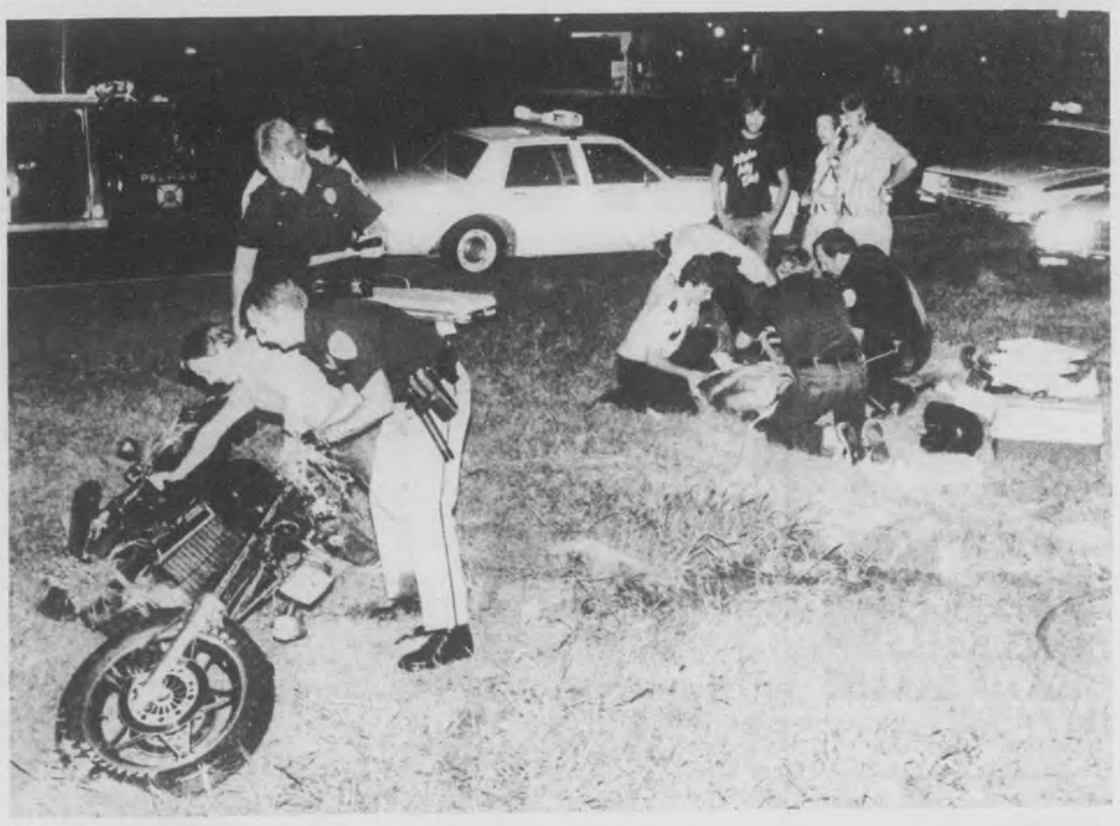
Goggins requested a hearing on the move, but the board upheld its original stand. He then requested a hearing before the state tenure commission, and was granted a repeal of the board's decision, saying that such a move would be illegal because it is a demotion.

Thursday, after going into executive executive session to discuss the ruling of the state tenure commission, the board voted to appeal the case to circuit court.

During the executive session, Goggins joked with fellow principals and showed no outward signs of strain.

Since the appeal process could go on for a year or more, Vincent Middle School assistant principal Sammy Arledge was named as interim principal at Shelby.

Arledge's former position was filled by Susan Holcombe, a teacher at Vincent Middle.



Chase ends

Rescue 85 and Helena Fire and Rescue workers attend to an injured Larry Baggett as Pelham police attempt to upright Baggett's damaged motorcycle following a high-speed chase in Pelham and Helena last Thursday night. According to Pelham police, Baggett, 32, of Alabaster, began a three minute chase with police on U.S. 31 at State 119 shortly after 8 p.m. Police said speeds climbed to more than 100 miles per hour at one point in the chase as two patrol cars attempted to establish roadblocks. The cyclist turned from 31 onto County 52 where he eventually wrecked near Plantation Pipeline Company. Police said Baggett, who was treated at Shelby Medical Center for minor injuries, was charged with speeding, attempting to elude police and DUI. (photo by Jim Parks)

Chase ends

Rescue 85 and Helena Fire and Rescue workers attend to an injured Larry Baggett as Pelham police attempt to upright Baggett's damaged motorcycle following a high-speed chase in Pelham and Helena last Thursday night. According to Pelham police, Baggett, 32, of Alabaster, began a three minute chase with police on U.S. 31 at State 119 shortly after 8 p.m. Police said speeds climbed to more than 100 miles per hour at one point in the chase as two patrol cars attempted to establish roadblocks. The cyclist turned from 31 onto County 52 where he eventually wrecked near Plantation Pipeline Company. Police said Baggett, who was treated at Shelby Medical Center for minor injuries, was charged with speeding, attempting to elude police and DUI. (photo by Jim Parks)

Columbiana youth aid officer bids farewell to city

by Fred Guarino

Judy Gilbert, Youth Aid Officer for the Columbiana Police Department, bade a tearful farewell to Columbiana City Council members last Thursday night.

Because her husband is being transferred, Gilbert submitted a letter of resignation to become effective on Thursday, August 30.

Gilbert asked that the juvenile counseling program be continued in her absence.

"I feel this position is very important to our city," she said in her letter of resignation. She also told the Columbiana Council to "thank its lucky stars" that the children she served would not go without counseling just because she is leaving.

Following that statement, Brenda Lee Rice of Shelby County Youth Services reported that Susan Johnston will take over Gilbert's case load.

Rice also used the opportunity to report that the Youth Services agency has put down earnest money on 100 acres of land on State 119. The property was formerly owned by James Putman.

She said the land has been perk tested for a septic tank, and that construction on the new Attention Home will begin in October.

Rice requested that the city council continue to provide its annual allocation to the Youth Services program in its next budget.

"The council has been reminded," replied Mayor Buck Falkner.

In another matter, Falkner reported that estimates for a sewer trunkline on County 47 North are running $44,810. The report sparked some concern.

Councilman Lewis Walker asked if the city's engineer Jimmy Ray could get estimates for the same work to be done with PVC (plastic) pipe in place of the clay pipe indicated in the estimates.

Councilmen Harold McCord and Bill Seale joined Walker in the request, but councilwoman Jessie Butler Jones was opposed.

Jones said the city should go with the recommendation of the man it hired as its engineer.

"His job is engineering, it is our business to determine how to spend our money," countered Walker.

Falkner noted that the sewer project is being funded 100% by the city.

After much dicussion, it was agreed that an alternate price be sought with PVC pipe and that both the city engineer and the contractor be asked to attend the next meeting and give their positions on PVC pipe. In other matters coming before the council:

•No action was taken on a street light request for the intersection of Reed Road and Industrial Parkway.

•A mobile home request for Owen Traywick on Jonesboro Circle was approved with only Jones abstaining.

•Falkner reported that the council's last two selections to the Columbiana Industrial Development Board -- Jimmy Lee and Hank Spires -- were illegal because those men were not members of the city's chamber of commerce.

The appointment of replacements was tabled until the next council meeting.

•Dicussion concerning the speed limit on County 47 from the funeral home south to the city limits, was also tabled.

•Bob Hume appeared before the council to find out why Columbiana's water has not been fluoridated when the water board was authorized to do so on April 1, 1982.

He also wanted to know why he wasn't provided access to public records by the water board.

Walker, who serves as chairman of the Columbiana Water Board, said the board was never instructed to fluoridate the water. He emphasized that it had only been given authorization.

Walker said public records were available on the amount of water pumped and sold by the water board.

Calera takes no action on judge but clears controversy on bids

One controversy has been cleared but one still remains following the Calera Council meeting.

The full council took no action on questions raised during its last meeting concerning the city's municipal court judge. It did clear up a question on paying two bills that might have been subject to contract bid.

Area resident Geraldine Powell appeared before the council to raise questions about municipal court judge Eason Mitchell. Mitchell was the subject of a letter presentd to the council at its last meeting by city police chief Billy O'Bryan.

The content of the letter was published in stories in the Birmingham News last week, making Powell aware of what she called "a problem" with Mitchell.

The letter, dated August 6, states that Mitchell swore under oath that he had been "involved in the use and purchase of marijuana in Shelby County within the past ten years."

In the letter, Chief O'Bryan pointed out that while Mitchell presides only over misdemeanor cases, his own admitted offense is more seroius. O'Bryan asked the council, the body that appointed Mitchell, for "direction as to how to answer the questions being presented to me."

Powell said that she had appeared before Mitchell in connection with writing bad checks and was not pleased with his ruling in the matter.

Powell further said that she felt Judge Mitchell should be removed from his position, and that she would circulate a petition calling for that action.

Council members made no comment on the matter. Following adjournment, Mayor Carl Prichard said he had "no official comment."

When Prichard was asked if he anticipated any action from the council in regard to the letter, he said their action would probably be similar to their lack of comment.

"The records of the municipal court are open for public inspection and scrutiny," Mitchell later told the Reporter.

Commenting on the record of the woman who called for action against him, he said, "Geraldine Powell has a lengthy record in many of the courts in this area, all very similar to her record in the Calera municipal court."

Mitchell indicated that he felt the issue raised by Powell had little to do with his actions as municipal judge.

"I don't think what I did in my bedroom ten years ago is her business," he said.

"All the issues involved with the police chief and city have not been aired publically," he concluded. "I feel like these issues will surface and be decided at a later date."

On the other matter, the council received a favorable ruling from the city attorney regarding possible violation of bid laws in recent paving contracts and park and recreation purchases.

The city approved purchases in each case that totaled more than the $2,000 limit for contracts without bids. Mayor Prichard pointed out that both instances involved purchases made over a period of time, not single contracts.

The council heard from a representative of Shelby County Asphalt who wanted the situation clarified, saying that the company had other contracts pending on the attorney's opinion.

The opinion issued by the city's attorney stated that there was "no willful violation of bid law" involving these contracts.

"This council did not accuse Shelby County Asphalt of wrong-doing," councilman W.B. Watts stated. The council then voted to pay the contract amounts and dismissed the issue.

Other individuals appeared before the council to request funding for various programs and equipment. Council authorized the Calera Rescue Squad to take bids on a new moniter unit that would replace broken equipment now being used.

Additionally, the council heard a request from Lamont Franklin and Tammy Arrington regarding funding for the Calera Community School program.

Franklin's request was well received by council but will not be considered until the possibility of grant funding has been explored. The program was initailly funded by the city two years ago, but was funded by a $10,000 grant last year.

The council also rejected bids for the Shady Lane Sewer Project which the city is undertaking. In a split vote, the council opted instead to let city workers do the job.

Mayor Prichard objected to the move, saying it would prevent them from carrying out other needed functions. He was supported by councilman Jeff Pilgreen, but Larry Farris, Arthur Davis, Watts, and Mark Jones voted to reject the bids.

The council moved to re-advertise for bids on park work already approved by the council. Nearly $25,000 in federal revenue sharing funds have already been allocated for the construction of a high school baseball field and a softball field at Oliver Park.

In other action:

•The council authorized the city attorney to send a letter to Seaboard Systems concerning loose tracks at the crossing on State 25 in Calera. Prichard told the council that he had talked with the people at Seaboard but had gotten no action.

The letter gives Seaboard a two-week limit in fixing the tracks. If the deadline is not met, te city can legally enforce a slow-down order for the section of track in question.

Montevallo wreck injures eight when car, truck hit near clinic

Anthony Jones was sitting in the front seat of his brother-in-law's 1979 Monte Carlo as it approached the stop sign on County 15 in Montevallo Saturday evening.

Before it reached the sign, a 1976 pickup driven by Timothy Jay "Chuck" Dailey turned off State 119, went off on the shoulder and then ran head on into the car in which Jones was a passenger.

Jones said he was thrown from the car and he remembers the truck hitting him in the shoulder.

However, the 22-year-old man was luckier than the six other passengers in the car who were still in the hospital Monday.

Police officer Jesse Payne said the impact of the collision flipped the car on its roof and spun the pickup around in the opposite direction.

Four ambulances were called to the wreck scene in front of the Montevallo Medical Arts Building. Eight people with injuries -- five children and three adults -- were taken to SMC following the 7:30 p.m. wreck.

John Battles, 23, a passenger in the truck, was treated and released.

Dailey, the 24-year-old driver of the truck, did not go to the hospital.

The other driver was 26-year-old Stuart Roberts, who had just arrived home from the army on leave. His address was listed as Woodbridge, Va.

The injured, all from Montevallo and listed in satisfactory condition Monday, were: William Burns, 10; Artrice Bolden, 5; Erical Burns, 7; Sophie Staffney, 15; Johathan Burns, 9.

Folded report cards to make way for new computerized forms

Report cards get computerized

by Bert Seaman

Report cards are going to look different this year for middle and high school students in the Shelby County School System.

Instead of being written on a folded card, computers will now run off grades, conduct and attendance information on a 7x10-inch sheet of read-out paper.

School superintendent Ellie Glasscox, who made the announcement at last Thursday's board of education meeting, said that computerized report cards should have fewer errors than the old method.

Board member Joe Coggins told the Reporter later that a teacher in one school system had made 400 errors over a six week period.

After the meeting, one county teacher said that the computer will also eliminate the possibility of students changing their grades.

A bonus for using the system, Glasscox said, was that teachers would be relieved of all the bookeeping involved in entering grades, and would have more time to teach.

"We're actually behind in taking this step," Glasscox said.

One school in Shelby County, however, is already in "step" with the computer method -- Riverchase Middle School started using computerized report cards last fall.

That program was funded by the PTO.

If the school uses the computer service for both scheduling and for recording grades, Glasscox said the charge would be $3.60 per student for a year.

With an approximate student enrollment of 7,000, the superintendent said the total cost could amount to $25,200.

The board's initial investment, Glasscox said, would be half that cost with the local schools paying the remainder of the cost.

Local schools could pay their half of the cost with fee replacement money provided teachers agreed, Glasscox said. He noted that teachers have input into the way that money is spent.

Participation will be voluntary and Glasscox said he thought that most school would want to go to the new system.

In recommending the computer system, Glasscox reminded the board of the time consuming procedure of recording grades.

A teacher has to fill in grade sheets for the subject taught, and if that teacher has a homeroom, then the teacher has the responsibility of putting those grades on report cards.

The grades are also entered in a record book and on a card for the student's file folder.

With the computer system, students names are entered one time, and all subsequent information is then fed to the computer company in Birmingham.

Schools which opt for computerized scheduling will get copies of the schedules to give each student.

The ultimate goal, Glasscox said, will be to purchase the computer equipment and do the work here.

Glasscox also said that it would enable principals to have the grade point average of every student within three days. It is also expected to help with attendance by recording absences.

Strict code of conduct awaits school students

by Bert Seaman

When classes begin in Shelby County schools next week, students will have to put away their shorts, tank shirts, flip-flops and caps.

These are some of the items that students will not be permitted to wear anymore on school campuses.

The rules appear on a list which falls under the dress code section of the Shelby County school system's first code of conduct manual. The board adopted the code at the July 24 meeting.

School superintendent Ellie Glasscox pointed out that the acceptable standard of student behavior and dress in the past was handled on a "piecemeal" basis which differed from school to school.

Speaking for the board, Glasscox said that a uniform code would not only help the administration, but would also be condusive to a good teaching and learning environment.

The committee appointed to work on the code started after the Christmas holidays, and completed the task this summer.

Committee members included parents, students, teachers, guidance counselors, principals, board member Joe Coggins, and members of the central staff. Riverchase Principal Henry Clark headed the committee.

In devising the code, the committee studied the codes of several other school systems.

"Those systems found that having a code of conduct resulted in higher student test scores," Coggins said.

The students who served on the committee, were relieved, Coggins said, to know exactly what they could and couldn't do.

The code also gives the consequences for violations.

For example, possession and use of tobacco products -- which some schools had previously premitted -- is now listed as an "intermediate" offense. The disciplinary action for first and second offenses would be to notify the parent and any of the following in-school suspension, and/or extended work assignments before or after school, detention, corporal punishment or suspension.

Among the items covered in the code are the following:

•Check-Outs -- Notes and telephone calls will not be accepted for checking a student out. A parent, guardian or designated adult must sign the student out.

•Searches -- A locker or the student may be searched if there is reasonable cause to believe the student has something which is prohibited.

•Public complaints -- These should first be directed to the teacher, then the principal, the superintendent and if the parent is still not satisfied, to the board.

•Visitors -- Everyone coming on campus must report to the principal's office, otherwise they will be considered a trespasser.

•Suspensions -- The code states that only the principal or assistant principal has the authority to suspend a student, and that a single suspension shall not exceed nine school days.

Absences from school during the time of suspension will not be excused and credit will not be given for daily work even though the student is encouraged to keep up with assignments.

Students who are suspended will still be given credit for six-week, mid-term and final exams.

•Corporal punishment -- The code permits corporal punishment, but it is to be administered only by the principal, assistant principal or a certified teacher, and it must be administered in the presence of another adult Shelby County school board employee.

Violations are divided into threee classes -- minor, intermediate and major.

"Minor" offenses include: causing disruptions in the classroom, threatening or intimidating another student, excessive tardiness, coming to class unprepared, and inappropriate public displays of affection.

When board member Paul Sumners asked what constituted the latter offense, Glasscox said that determination is left up to the principal.

"It would be impossible for the code to cover everything in detail," board member Dr. Bill Fancher observed.

Coggins noted that the code allows principals a good bit of leeway, since every situation that arises is different. For instances, wearing shorts in elementary schools will be left up to the principal.

However, Coggins noted, the purpose of the code was to standardize discipline as much as possible. In the past, he said, principals have felt there was "too much vagueness."

Another reason for not going into detail on every offense, Glasscox said, was to keep it short enough so that parents would be more likely to read it all.

Under the "intermediate" offenses listed in the document are: vandalism, possession of tobacco products, possession of a knife, defying the authority of a school board employee, fighting or skipping class.

"Major" offenses include: possession or use of drugs, arson, sexual acts, striking a school board employee, possession of a dangerous weapon or device, burglary of school property.

A code of conduct will be furnished every parent along with a detachable sheet for them to sign which will be placed in the student's folder.

Folded report cards to make way for new computerized forms

Report cards get computerized

by Bert Seaman

Report cards are going to look different this year for middle and high school students in the Shelby County School System.

Instead of being written on a folded card, computers will now run off grades, conduct and attendance information on a 7x10-inch sheet of read-out paper.

School superintendent Ellie Glasscox, who made the announcement at last Thursday's board of education meeting, said that computerized report cards should have fewer errors than the old method.

Board member Joe Coggins told the Reporter later that a teacher in one school system had made 400 errors over a six week period.

After the meeting, one county teacher said that the computer will also eliminate the possibility of students changing their grades.

A bonus for using the system, Glasscox said, was that teachers would be relieved of all the bookeeping involved in entering grades, and would have more time to teach.

"We're actually behind in taking this step," Glasscox said.

One school in Shelby County, however, is already in "step" with the computer method -- Riverchase Middle School started using computerized report cards last fall.

That program was funded by the PTO.

If the school uses the computer service for both scheduling and for recording grades, Glasscox said the charge would be $3.60 per student for a year.

With an approximate student enrollment of 7,000, the superintendent said the total cost could amount to $25,200.

The board's initial investment, Glasscox said, would be half that cost with the local schools paying the remainder of the cost.

Local schools could pay their half of the cost with fee replacement money provided teachers agreed, Glasscox said. He noted that teachers have input into the way that money is spent.

Participation will be voluntary and Glasscox said he thought that most school would want to go to the new system.

In recommending the computer system, Glasscox reminded the board of the time consuming procedure of recording grades.

A teacher has to fill in grade sheets for the subject taught, and if that teacher has a homeroom, then the teacher has the responsibility of putting those grades on report cards.

The grades are also entered in a record book and on a card for the student's file folder.

With the computer system, students names are entered one time, and all subsequent information is then fed to the computer company in Birmingham.

Schools which opt for computerized scheduling will get copies of the schedules to give each student.

The ultimate goal, Glasscox said, will be to purchase the computer equipment and do the work here.

Glasscox also said that it would enable principals to have the grade point average of every student within three days. It is also expected to help with attendance by recording absences.

Strict code of conduct awaits school students

by Bert Seaman

When classes begin in Shelby County schools next week, students will have to put away their shorts, tank shirts, flip-flops and caps.

These are some of the items that students will not be permitted to wear anymore on school campuses.

The rules appear on a list which falls under the dress code section of the Shelby County school system's first code of conduct manual. The board adopted the code at the July 24 meeting.

School superintendent Ellie Glasscox pointed out that the acceptable standard of student behavior and dress in the past was handled on a "piecemeal" basis which differed from school to school.

Speaking for the board, Glasscox said that a uniform code would not only help the administration, but would also be condusive to a good teaching and learning environment.

The committee appointed to work on the code started after the Christmas holidays, and completed the task this summer.

Committee members included parents, students, teachers, guidance counselors, principals, board member Joe Coggins, and members of the central staff. Riverchase Principal Henry Clark headed the committee.

In devising the code, the committee studied the codes of several other school systems.

"Those systems found that having a code of conduct resulted in higher student test scores," Coggins said.

The students who served on the committee, were relieved, Coggins said, to know exactly what they could and couldn't do.

The code also gives the consequences for violations.

For example, possession and use of tobacco products -- which some schools had previously premitted -- is now listed as an "intermediate" offense. The disciplinary action for first and second offenses would be to notify the parent and any of the following in-school suspension, and/or extended work assignments before or after school, detention, corporal punishment or suspension.

Among the items covered in the code are the following:

•Check-Outs -- Notes and telephone calls will not be accepted for checking a student out. A parent, guardian or designated adult must sign the student out.

•Searches -- A locker or the student may be searched if there is reasonable cause to believe the student has something which is prohibited.

•Public complaints -- These should first be directed to the teacher, then the principal, the superintendent and if the parent is still not satisfied, to the board.

•Visitors -- Everyone coming on campus must report to the principal's office, otherwise they will be considered a trespasser.

•Suspensions -- The code states that only the principal or assistant principal has the authority to suspend a student, and that a single suspension shall not exceed nine school days.

Absences from school during the time of suspension will not be excused and credit will not be given for daily work even though the student is encouraged to keep up with assignments.

Students who are suspended will still be given credit for six-week, mid-term and final exams.

•Corporal punishment -- The code permits corporal punishment, but it is to be administered only by the principal, assistant principal or a certified teacher, and it must be administered in the presence of another adult Shelby County school board employee.

Violations are divided into threee classes -- minor, intermediate and major.

"Minor" offenses include: causing disruptions in the classroom, threatening or intimidating another student, excessive tardiness, coming to class unprepared, and inappropriate public displays of affection.

When board member Paul Sumners asked what constituted the latter offense, Glasscox said that determination is left up to the principal.

"It would be impossible for the code to cover everything in detail," board member Dr. Bill Fancher observed.

Coggins noted that the code allows principals a good bit of leeway, since every situation that arises is different. For instances, wearing shorts in elementary schools will be left up to the principal.

However, Coggins noted, the purpose of the code was to standardize discipline as much as possible. In the past, he said, principals have felt there was "too much vagueness."

Another reason for not going into detail on every offense, Glasscox said, was to keep it short enough so that parents would be more likely to read it all.

Under the "intermediate" offenses listed in the document are: vandalism, possession of tobacco products, possession of a knife, defying the authority of a school board employee, fighting or skipping class.

"Major" offenses include: possession or use of drugs, arson, sexual acts, striking a school board employee, possession of a dangerous weapon or device, burglary of school property.

A code of conduct will be furnished every parent along with a detachable sheet for them to sign which will be placed in the student's folder.

Columbiana youth aid officer bids farewell to city

by Fred Guarino

Judy Gilbert, Youth Aid Officer for the Columbiana Police Department, bade a tearful farewell to Columbiana City Council members last Thursday night.

Because her husband is being transferred, Gilbert submitted a letter of resignation to become effective on Thursday, August 30.

Gilbert asked that the juvenile counseling program be continued in her absence.

"I feel this position is very important to our city," she said in her letter of resignation. She also told the Columbiana Council to "thank its lucky stars" that the children she served would not go without counseling just because she is leaving.

Following that statement, Brenda Lee Rice of Shelby County Youth Services reported that Susan Johnston will take over Gilbert's case load.

Rice also used the opportunity to report that the Youth Services agency has put down earnest money on 100 acres of land on State 119. The property was formerly owned by James Putman.

She said the land has been perk tested for a septic tank, and that construction on the new Attention Home will begin in October.

Rice requested that the city council continue to provide its annual allocation to the Youth Services program in its next budget.

"The council has been reminded," replied Mayor Buck Falkner.

In another matter, Falkner reported that estimates for a sewer trunkline on County 47 North are running $44,810. The report sparked some concern.

Councilman Lewis Walker asked if the city's engineer Jimmy Ray could get estimates for the same work to be done with PVC (plastic) pipe in place of the clay pipe indicated in the estimates.

Councilmen Harold McCord and Bill Seale joined Walker in the request, but councilwoman Jessie Butler Jones was opposed.

Jones said the city should go with the recommendation of the man it hired as its engineer.

"His job is engineering, it is our business to determine how to spend our money," countered Walker.

Falkner noted that the sewer project is being funded 100% by the city.

After much dicussion, it was agreed that an alternate price be sought with PVC pipe and that both the city engineer and the contractor be asked to attend the next meeting and give their positions on PVC pipe. In other matters coming before the council:

•No action was taken on a street light request for the intersection of Reed Road and Industrial Parkway.

•A mobile home request for Owen Traywick on Jonesboro Circle was approved with only Jones abstaining.

•Falkner reported that the council's last two selections to the Columbiana Industrial Development Board -- Jimmy Lee and Hank Spires -- were illegal because those men were not members of the city's chamber of commerce.

The appointment of replacements was tabled until the next council meeting.

•Dicussion concerning the speed limit on County 47 from the funeral home south to the city limits, was also tabled.

•Bob Hume appeared before the council to find out why Columbiana's water has not been fluoridated when the water board was authorized to do so on April 1, 1982.

He also wanted to know why he wasn't provided access to public records by the water board.

Walker, who serves as chairman of the Columbiana Water Board, said the board was never instructed to fluoridate the water. He emphasized that it had only been given authorization.

Walker said public records were available on the amount of water pumped and sold by the water board.

Calera takes no action on judge but clears controversy on bids

One controversy has been cleared but one still remains following the Calera Council meeting.

The full council took no action on questions raised during its last meeting concerning the city's municipal court judge. It did clear up a question on paying two bills that might have been subject to contract bid.

Area resident Geraldine Powell appeared before the council to raise questions about municipal court judge Eason Mitchell. Mitchell was the subject of a letter presentd to the council at its last meeting by city police chief Billy O'Bryan.

The content of the letter was published in stories in the Birmingham News last week, making Powell aware of what she called "a problem" with Mitchell.

The letter, dated August 6, states that Mitchell swore under oath that he had been "involved in the use and purchase of marijuana in Shelby County within the past ten years."

In the letter, Chief O'Bryan pointed out that while Mitchell presides only over misdemeanor cases, his own admitted offense is more seroius. O'Bryan asked the council, the body that appointed Mitchell, for "direction as to how to answer the questions being presented to me."

Powell said that she had appeared before Mitchell in connection with writing bad checks and was not pleased with his ruling in the matter.

Powell further said that she felt Judge Mitchell should be removed from his position, and that she would circulate a petition calling for that action.

Council members made no comment on the matter. Following adjournment, Mayor Carl Prichard said he had "no official comment."

When Prichard was asked if he anticipated any action from the council in regard to the letter, he said their action would probably be similar to their lack of comment.

"The records of the municipal court are open for public inspection and scrutiny," Mitchell later told the Reporter.

Commenting on the record of the woman who called for action against him, he said, "Geraldine Powell has a lengthy record in many of the courts in this area, all very similar to her record in the Calera municipal court."

Mitchell indicated that he felt the issue raised by Powell had little to do with his actions as municipal judge.

"I don't think what I did in my bedroom ten years ago is her business," he said.

"All the issues involved with the police chief and city have not been aired publically," he concluded. "I feel like these issues will surface and be decided at a later date."

On the other matter, the council received a favorable ruling from the city attorney regarding possible violation of bid laws in recent paving contracts and park and recreation purchases.

The city approved purchases in each case that totaled more than the $2,000 limit for contracts without bids. Mayor Prichard pointed out that both instances involved purchases made over a period of time, not single contracts.

The council heard from a representative of Shelby County Asphalt who wanted the situation clarified, saying that the company had other contracts pending on the attorney's opinion.

The opinion issued by the city's attorney stated that there was "no willful violation of bid law" involving these contracts.

"This council did not accuse Shelby County Asphalt of wrong-doing," councilman W.B. Watts stated. The council then voted to pay the contract amounts and dismissed the issue.

Other individuals appeared before the council to request funding for various programs and equipment. Council authorized the Calera Rescue Squad to take bids on a new moniter unit that would replace broken equipment now being used.

Additionally, the council heard a request from Lamont Franklin and Tammy Arrington regarding funding for the Calera Community School program.

Franklin's request was well received by council but will not be considered until the possibility of grant funding has been explored. The program was initailly funded by the city two years ago, but was funded by a $10,000 grant last year.

The council also rejected bids for the Shady Lane Sewer Project which the city is undertaking. In a split vote, the council opted instead to let city workers do the job.

Mayor Prichard objected to the move, saying it would prevent them from carrying out other needed functions. He was supported by councilman Jeff Pilgreen, but Larry Farris, Arthur Davis, Watts, and Mark Jones voted to reject the bids.

The council moved to re-advertise for bids on park work already approved by the council. Nearly $25,000 in federal revenue sharing funds have already been allocated for the construction of a high school baseball field and a softball field at Oliver Park.

In other action:

•The council authorized the city attorney to send a letter to Seaboard Systems concerning loose tracks at the crossing on State 25 in Calera. Prichard told the council that he had talked with the people at Seaboard but had gotten no action.

The letter gives Seaboard a two-week limit in fixing the tracks. If the deadline is not met, te city can legally enforce a slow-down order for the section of track in question.

Montevallo wreck injures eight when car, truck hit near clinic

Anthony Jones was sitting in the front seat of his brother-in-law's 1979 Monte Carlo as it approached the stop sign on County 15 in Montevallo Saturday evening.

Before it reached the sign, a 1976 pickup driven by Timothy Jay "Chuck" Dailey turned off State 119, went off on the shoulder and then ran head on into the car in which Jones was a passenger.

Jones said he was thrown from the car and he remembers the truck hitting him in the shoulder.

However, the 22-year-old man was luckier than the six other passengers in the car who were still in the hospital Monday.

Police officer Jesse Payne said the impact of the collision flipped the car on its roof and spun the pickup around in the opposite direction.

Four ambulances were called to the wreck scene in front of the Montevallo Medical Arts Building. Eight people with injuries -- five children and three adults -- were taken to SMC following the 7:30 p.m. wreck.

John Battles, 23, a passenger in the truck, was treated and released.

Dailey, the 24-year-old driver of the truck, did not go to the hospital.

The other driver was 26-year-old Stuart Roberts, who had just arrived home from the army on leave. His address was listed as Woodbridge, Va.

The injured, all from Montevallo and listed in satisfactory condition Monday, were: William Burns, 10; Artrice Bolden, 5; Erical Burns, 7; Sophie Staffney, 15; Johathan Burns, 9.

Helena pays bills

Helena's City Council meeting was short and sweet last Monday night.

Council members met to approve the minutes of their last meeting, and to approve the payment of $2,114.98 in bills.

Bills approved included:

For prisoner meals, $105.29 to Alabaster Hamburgers; for checks, ledgers and receipts to Safegard $469.88;

To the International Institute of Clerks, $35; to Helena Tire Center for the street department $15.82; to the same company for garbage truck tires, $719; to Pickel's Auto Repair for Rescue 65, $10;

To Baldwin Cooke Company for desk calendars, $53.24; to Alabama Air Cooled Motors for tractor repairs, $440.95; to Food World $3.39 for the library;

Shoal Creek gold

Most anyway you look at it, Shoal Creek was a golden opportunity for Shelby County. From stand points of exposure, image and finances, the 1984 Professional Golfers Association Championship scored winning marks all the way around.

The six days of practice and competition were attended by 138,051 people -- that's about twice the county's population. Furthermore, ABC and the international press army brought coverage to millions of viewers and readers around the globe.

Naturally, the attention focused on the world-class golfing here. But it's hard to go to a movie without noticing the theatre, and certainly it's hard to go to a golf tourney without noticing the surrounding area.

Never before has Shelby County received so much exposure.

Significantly, from all indications, all this heavy duty exposure was positive. Prior to last week, the few times Shelby County ever made national headlines, were in the form of train wrecks or wild political happenings.

What the masses saw last week was that Shelby County, Birmingham and Alabama can -- and has -- put on a class act.

Good for us. We have a lot more to offer than grits and football, and class golf is a start.

Beyond this, we hope the exposure results in future growth, which, in turn, will result in good economics down the road.

On somewhat shorter terms, apparently the week at the Creek was extemely lucrative for promoter/host Hall Thompson, and was very good for the hotels, entertainment and other businesses in the Birmingham area. Spinoffs from these revenues, even some of them are on the "other" side of the Cahaba River, will no doubt land in Shelby County.

Also, a number of Shelby County booster groups and other entrepreneurs had the initiative to take advantage of the financial inertia the PGA created. They were well rewarded for their interest.

However, some people have complained that Shelby County didn't get a fair shake from all this -- that we didn't get just publicity, that we didn't get all the money we somehow deserve just by being here.

Sometimes, we forget the PGA and Shoal Creek and all our growth didn't come to Shelby County JUST because it's Shelby County. These things happen because Shelby County is part of a greater area which, despite drawbacks, has much to offer.

We're all in this together, and tunnel vision h lps no one. It's the big picture that counts.

It seems those who are complaining are the ones who didn't care to get involved to begin with --and that's about par for the course.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

He was the last one and he passed away one day last week.

In the beginning there was Luther Saxon, a lawyer who owned a very special bird dog. And Manuel Underwood, a black man who worked for Luther more years than most folks live. And the bird dog, maybe the best one in town, if things went according to Hoyle. And a boy named Simon Finley who liked to do anything he could do in the woods. And a boy named Homer Bearden who liked the same thing.

Luther passed away first. And then Manuel followed. After Manuel, the bird dog died. Years later, Simon passed away. And last week, on a Friday, Homer passed away.

The year was 1918. In November a war ended. A war to save the world for democracy. A war that took thousands of young lives and settled nothing.

November passed and December came, December and Christmas, when boys were out of school and there was time to hunt.

Two boys, one named Simon and another named Homer, asked a lawyer named Luther Saxon, if they could borrow his bird dog.

"Do you think he'll follow you?" Luther asked.

"We think so."

"All right. Go by and tell Manuel I said to let you have him."

An hour later they crossed a ditch and climbed a fence on the other side. The dog squeezed under and loped up a little hill.

He made two quick circles around a pine thicket and froze. He looked like a log with a root on one end and a knot on the other.

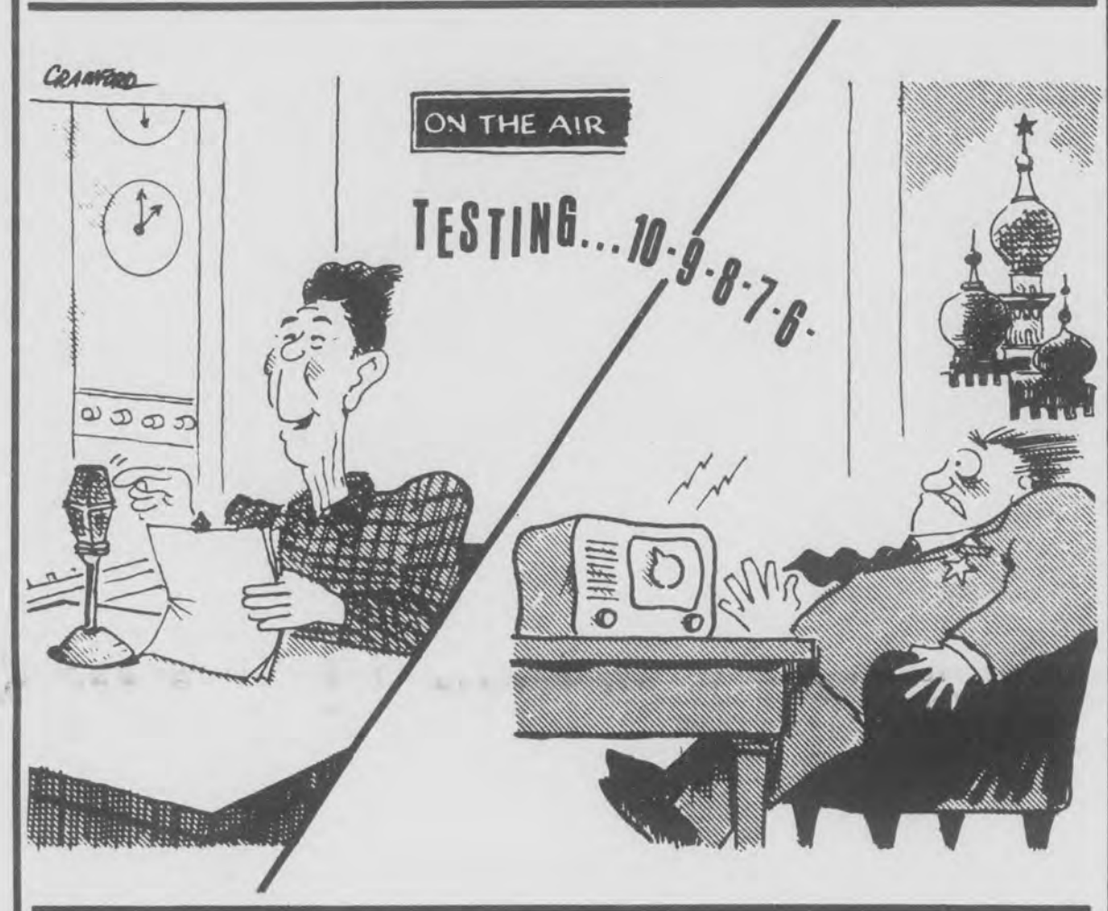
"He's pointed in that pine thicket," Homer whispered.

"I see 'em," Simon said.

The birds flushed and both boys shot two times. Nothing fell. The bird dog looked back at them for a long moment and trotted over the hill. On the other side he pointed again. Again there was four quick shots but nothing fell.

The dog didn't look back. He held his head high in the air and loped out of sight. Simon called and Homer called, but he didn't look back.

He was a good bird dog, if you hunted according to Hoyle. Maybe the best in town.



Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Hitting the high spots of the political scene...

It's attracted scant attention, but the Democratic Primary contest for Congress in the 2nd District (the district which runs from Montgomery to Dothan) has produced a candidate with a familiar name. Jack Folsom moved to Montgomery only recently, but is now a candidate for the seat held by incumbent Republican Bill Dickinson.

While admitting he's a newcomer to the district, Folsom is reminding the voters he was born in Montgomery. He was indeed -- at 1142 S. Perry, the Governor's Mansion. He was born during the first term of Gov. Jim Folsom, his father.

Nobody has yet figured out all the excitement at the Governor's Office last week. When the smoke had cleared, the three top secretarial workers in the office were long gone -- Wallace's confidential secretary Margaret McElroy, recording secretary Linda Oliver, and the official receptionist, Gloria Moseley.

To add to the soap opera-type affair, a guard was placed on duty at the office all night after they were transferred, apparently because all three had keys to the office. Later it was explained that it was nothing more than a "personality conflict" between the three that led to their transfer. That explanation didn't satisfy a lot of folks.

Alabama is the recipient of another whopping oil lease. bonanza. Bids totalling $347.5 million for 91 tracts of offshore land were received last week, to the unabashed delight (and surprise) of state officials. This was far more than the most optimistic had anticipated.

Exxon Corp. was the star of this bid opening -- it offered a total of $330 million. Exxon also left a lot of money "on the table", as they say in the trade. On one particular tract, the Exxon bid was $37 million higher than the second highest bid.

Gov. Wallace, elated at the bids, quickly promised that the money would be invested and only the interest would be spent. He also promised that never again would he seek any additional tax increases.

Five more men have been inducted into the Alabama Academy of Honor, and in keeping with a trend which has become a sensitive point to some, four of the five were from Birmingham. Of the 100 men and women adjudged to be the state's most outstanding, 46 are from Birmingham.

The Capstone Poll conducted by the University of Alabama shows President Reagan out front but Democrat Walter Mondale is closer than some expected. The poll, conducted from July 29 through Aug. 9, gave Reagan 45.7 percent, Mondale 40 percent.

Writers' opinion

Southerners are conservative

Letter to the Editor:

As it nears time for another election, I am constantly amused and concerned at the political mentality of many other-wise intelligent people. I am referring to those Southerners who refer to themselves as lifelong Democrats or "Yellow Dog" Democrats, when in reality their political views are the absolute opposite of those of the Democratic party within the state and the nation.

Face it, poll after poll has shown that Southerners are economically, socially, and fiscal conservatives. They approve of prayer in public schools, the prohibition of abortion on demand, a powerful military, a strong foreign policy, and large tax cuts at all levels of government. They are, in effect, populists, who are against gun control, the nuclear freeze, and radical environmental groups.

They resent big government, big education, big law, and big media setting ideals and expecting each and every working man and woman in American to "fall in line" so that we "can all live a better life". They believe that each family should have the right to live where they want to, to attend school where they want to (without being bussed across a large city to achieve "racial balance") and to start a small business without a large, powerful, possibly oppressive government restraining them with useless and unenforceable regulations and high taxes, which detracts from the growth of a sound business.

Most Southerners, and Americans for that matter, believe in moral absolutes, in the existance of an almighty God, and the right to life for all persons. They believe that communism is the greatest threat to personal and religious liberty and must be dealt with accordingly.

However sincere the "Yellow Dog" Democrat is in the above mentioned beliefs and ideals, he/she is equally foolish to believe that the Democratic party shares these views. The Democratic party is filled from top to bottom with economic and social liberals -- people who believe that government is the solution to every problem, therefore putting private business and other groups in a practical stalemate. Most oppose prayer in all public places, favor abortion-on-demand, propose to cut our military budget to dangerously low levels, and desire to raise taxes. They are the party of the Establishment elite, who desire to enlarge the central Federal government to a megabeauracracy far beyond the control of the "little man".

The Democratic party is the party for communist sympathizers, for the nuclear freezniks, the radical environmentalists, the homosexuals, the militant feminists, and other radical groups, who for all their good intentions threaten to destroy the very fiber of America.

Even with this sort of philosophy and people in charge, the many hordes of ordinary patriotic Americans will vote a straight Democratic ticket, just to avoid voting for the "rich Republicans". Oh, sure there a lot of Country Club Republicans and Big Business Republicans, but there are many more who are like me, conservative and concerned about the preservation of our country as a free marketplace, with freedom of the press, freedom of speech, freedom to start our own businesses, freedom to pray when and where we like, freedom to disagree with the Establishment -- composed of Big Labor, Big Business, Big Media and Big Government -- without being branded as a bigot, a right wing fanatic, or some other outlandish, ridiculous name.

As a concerned American, I beg each of you to examine the idealogical doctrines of each party, and choose the one that will do the most for the cause of free enterprise, freedom of religion, the right to life for all citizens, a smaller, less oppressive system of government -- one who will return more power to our local governments and ultimately to the people.

Above all things, register to vote and utilize this, one of the most precious rights we are now afforded.

Museum artifacts recovered

by Bert Seaman

A man recently stopped for running a stop sign in Fairfield, led to the recovery of valuable artifacts that belonged to the Shelby County Museum and Archives.

The artifacts -- worth an estimated $6,000 -- were in the car of museum curator Miriam Fowler when it was stolen from the Loehman's Village parking lot Aug. 6.

The incident that led to their recovery occurred in Fairfield a week after the theft, when officer Greg Poe stopped 25-year-old Michael Gatewood of 3030 30th St. South, for running a stop sign.

After a license check revealed the car was stolen and the true owner's identity, Gatewood was questioned about the missing artifacts.

Fairfield Police investigator, Sgt. Jerry Drummonds, said that Gatewood directed authorities to a mini-warehouse in Roebuck where they found the items carefully wrapped and neatly stored.

Gatewood knew the items were valuable, Drummonds said, because he had been buying and selling coins and other antiques since he was a youngster.

The artifacts, which were being taken to the Shelby County museum for a grand opening, included 11 counterfeit bills.

The bills -- $10s, $20s and a few $2s -- were about the only bills left from a counterfeiting ring that operated in Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee during the early 1800's.

A wedding dress that had been worn by a wife of Needham Lee, one of the county's earliest pioneers, was also in the car.

The Monday her car was stolen, Fowler said she had picked up the money from an Alabaster bank and the dress from the cleaners.

She had taken some items to a frame shop in Loehman's Village, and found her car missing when she came out.

Those items are now being kept in a Columbiana bank for security, and to make them accessible for display, Fowler said.

Gatewood was charged with receiving stolen property in the first degree and giving false information to a police officer.

After being stopped, the suspect gave two false names before revealing his true identity.

SCDC endorsement will "deliver" a candidate 60%-75% of the black vote -- or 1,600-2,000 votes.

"In most cases where it's close, we can make a difference," he said. "And when you have three or more in a race, our influence becomes even greater.

"Unless someone does something different in the next two weeks to get people to turn out and vote," Dailey said, he expects a low turnout for the September 4 primaries in Shelby County.

In light of that, and because the SCDC actively and physically helps people get to the polls, he indicated that the group's endorsement could carry even additional weight with the outcome.

The ACD was formed in 1962, but it wasn't until ten years later the Shelby County chapter was organized.

The late Rev. Sam Kidd of Vincent activated group.

Among the charter members were the late Rev. W.E. Jones and the late Rev. Roger White, as well as Richard and Barbara Kidd, Clayton Kidd, and Rev. Jim and Elloise Underwood, all of Alabaster. Dailey, who recently became Montevallo's first black councilman, also helped organize the SCDC.

To area schools

Shoal Creek meant money

Shoal Creek meant more to some Shelby Countians than a PGA championship.

For at least two high schools, Chelsea and Thompson, and the University of Montevallo Falcon Club, the tournament meant money.

For others like Inverness Country Club, Our Lady of the Valley sponsored Boy Scouts and the Shelby County Amateur Radio Emergency Services Club (see related story on Page A-2), it meant an opportunity to provide good will.

Chelsea received ten percent of the profits taken in by Morrison's Cafeteria concessions and Thompson High School band boosters and the UM Falcon Club received ten percent of the profits collected by their Coca-Cola Concession stand.

Chelsea High School fielded a volunteer "army" of 130 people for the event. Through Saturday night, that bunch earned $6,901.41 for their athletic and band programs.

Mackie West, who led the Chelsea group, said Sunday's final round sales should add another $2,000 to the total.

Among the Chelsea folks on the job Sunday were:

Assistant football coach Lee Hibbs, Glynn Henry, Hobart Shaw, Floyd Hatcher, Joe Zeigler, Gloria Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grantham, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Isbell, Mr. and Mrs. Lanny Crawford, Shirley Shaw;

Earlene Isbell, Joyce Morgan, Shannon Bradley, Kristi Smith, Tracy Massey, Theresa Cain, Diane Smith, Angel Lancaster, Jo Kelton, Gene Roberts, Barbara Weldon, Pat Byerly, Patricia Weldon; Band director Dane Lawley, Mr. and Mrs. Mackie West, Larry McCullen, Mary Tremble and Regina Isbell.

Working conessions for Thompson High School Sunday, were:

Marvin Johnson, Harold Weston, Babs Daniel, Jim Daniel, Robert Moore, Robbie Cates, Lisa and Randy Allen, Randy Aaron and Henry Payne.

Manning a conession stand for the UM Falcon Club were:

Carol Hooper, Jim Cocke, Jr., Jim Cocke, Sr., and Jim McClendon.

Other Shelby County volunteers at Shoal Creek included:

Louise McKean, who represented the Inverness County Club and who operated an information booth on the golf course grounds;

Our Lady of the Valley Catholic Church sponsored Boys Scouts, Mike Takcik, Glenn Heerten, and Chris Martin;

Other SCARES members assisting during the week were: Rick David, Paul, James, Jim and Frances Pilman, Jim and Sue Pritchard, C.R. Wadsworth; Carl Weaks, Judson Glass, Charles Stein, Sam and, Linda Spruill, John Murphy, Jenny and Woods McRoy, Larry McCrory, Luther Flowers, Bill Fleet and Paul Craft.

He also thanked Dixie Section PGA members; Shoal Creek's host pro Bob Barrett; Shoal Creek's green keeper Jim Simmons; Shoal Creek's president Gene Moore; and course owner Hall Thompson.

PGA president Mark Kizziar, called Trevino's win over Player and Wadkins, "the PGA championship shootout at Shoal Creek."

He called Shoal Creek a "superior" golf course and he said he had no idea of the magnitude and enthusiasm that would be shown by the people of Alabama.

Other top PGA finishers at Shoal Creek included:

Calvin Peete, who finished fourth with a 278 total; Seve Ballesteros, who took fifth with a 279 total; and four other players who tied at eight under-par with a 280 total, Hal Sutton, Scott Simpson, Gary Hallberg and Larry Mize.

Shoal Creek designer Jack Nicklaus finished eight strokes back with a total 287.

Peete won $35,000; Ballesteros won $25,000; and the four men at eight under won $17,125 each and Nicklaus picked up $4,506.

Return to sanity

Foreigners laud Shoal Creek

Often when an event of worldwide significance takes place in the United States, the American public and press get wrapped up in their own view of things.

The Reporter took advantage of the international press members visiting Shoal Creek last week to get some "outside" thoughts on the Shelby County "shindig".

John Hopkins, a reporter for the English "Times," said the show ran smoothly and the welcome of the Southern people was warm.

Hopkins had just five minutes to spare before he filed his last report to England, but welcomed the opportunity to talk about Shoal Creek.

"It seemed that nothing was too much trouble," he said of the media center staff. "You only had to ask for something to be done.

"It's difficult to report to a country that is six hours ahead of the action. It involves a lot of extra people but we are going to pull it off because it's worth it."

Hopkins called Hall Thompson's newly constructed media building a "fine center."

"At the British Open and the U.S. Open we just had tents," he said. "They were huge, but tents all the same."

What of Shoal Creek itself?

"The thing that pleases me most about this golf course is that it seems to be a return to sanity," Hopkins said.

"It's not such a fearsome course as Oakmont where it was so terrifying from the first tee, and the greens were fast and undulating.

"Here 16 of the 18 greens can be seen from the tee... Second, the greens are relatively flat and third, they are not as hard as they might be and not so fast."

Hopkins observed that the troublesome areas of Shoal Creek were in its roughs and he said he thought that's where they should be.

Kiyoshi Iwai, a photographer for the Japanese version of "Golf Digest," also had kind words for Shoal Creek.

"Very good," he said in broken English of the press facilities. "We had a little problem not getting our press passes fast enough but things were run very smooth. The staff was clever."

He compared the management of this year's tournament to last year's PGA.

Iwai's photographic eye was also quick to take notice of the Shoal Creek layout.

"This is very beautiful," he said. "This course was designed by Jack Nicklaus. We have two players from Japan. They say this course is very tough in the roughs. They say they have to be careful to keep it in the fairway."

Tommy Nakajima, one of Japan's golf pros, took his own advice. He shot a very respectable 281 total and won $12,083.

Crowning moment

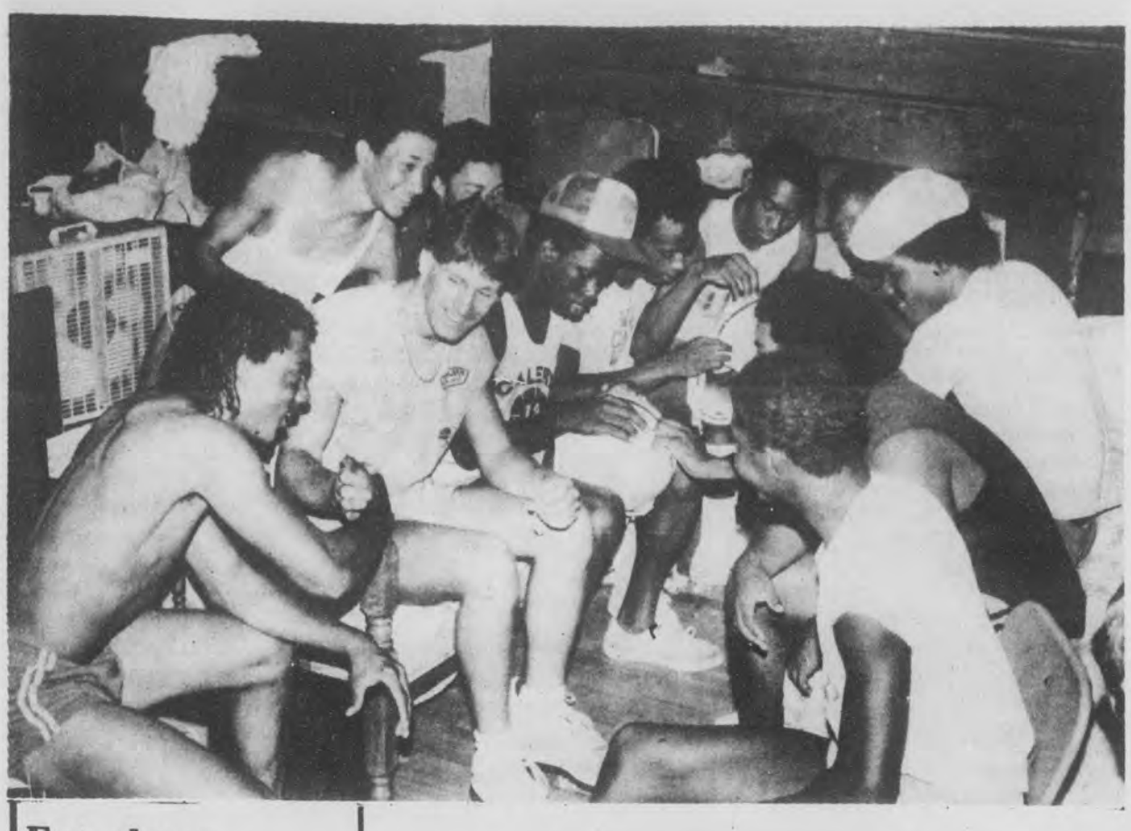
Eagle football campers don't tackle tenting



Eat, sleep, dream football

Calera High School football camp bunkmates demonstrate the camaraderie that results when a football team "eats, sleeps and dreams" football together. This year marked the tenth in a row coach Danny Alverson has held such a camp for his Eagles. (photo by Fred Guarino)

by Fred Guarino

When it comes to getting football players mentally and physically ready to play as a team, Calera High School head coach Danny Alverson is a master.

One of his secrets for the past ten years has been holding football camps where his charges do nothing but "eat, sleep and dream football" for a whole week.

This season Alverson hasn't changed the preparation script one bit. According to his senior and junior players, they have just completed his toughest football camp -- ever.

"Its purpose is to pull the guys together as one," Alverson said. "Everyone brings his own bed from home, finds a spot on the gym floor, and sets up camp."

But don't let the master trick you. He throws in a little more incentive than campout fun.

The camp is annually funded by the Lady Eagles, a booster club made up of team mothers. That means that instead of eating typical lunchroom chow for the past week, Alverson's players gained weight on good ol' home cooking.

What do the Lady Eagles expect in return?

"All they expect us to do is win," Alverson grinned.

There's apparently something else to Calera's football camps, too -- over the past ten years there's never been a discipline problem.

"They know we're here to learn football," Alverson explained.

But the real success of any teacher is not determined by what the teacher says, but instead by the performances of his students.

Dan Campbell, a senior tackle and middle linebacker for Calera, seemed to be a pretty good indication of success last week. According to Campbell, the Calera Eagles learned to respect each other and did pull closer together as a unit.

"Naturally when you stay with each other, you start understanding each other more," he said.

Darryl Griffith, a senior tailback and safety, also felt that the campout and practices at 8 a.m. and at 3 p.m. each day paid off.

While he called the 1984 camp the toughest ever, he said,"I feel that we're a lot better than last year. We put a lot more into it."

But it was probably junior quarterback Mark Jones who served as the best spokesman for Alverson's tough football camp results.

"It's not that we have a tougher schedule this year," he said, "but we are a smaller team. We've had to work a little harder to pick it up so that we can have the same strength as in past years.

"I think we're going to have a good team. We have a lot of spirit and pride and everyone is pulling together."

Maybe a little on the sneaky side, Alverson threw in a trip to see the Atlanta Braves play San Diego, and a trip to the movies to see the "Karate Kid" for good measure at his summer camp.

In any case, just how well it all works this year will begin to tell soon. Football kicks off next week.

Going through the paces

Going through the pressure of padded paces, the Eagles make the most of their annual football camp time together. Full scrimmage workouts like this were common every morning at 8 a.m. -- and again every evening at 3 p.m. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Top seniors return for UM volleyball

With four seniors on the team -- including the most highly decorated player in Lady Falcon history returning -- UM head volleyball coach Beverly Warren has good reason to be optimistic about 1984.

Back for action are Theresa "Tee" Straughn, a second team NAIA All-American, Blanche Watkins, Karen Kreger and Amy Dishroon.

With the help of these women, UM finished with a 29-21 record in 1983 and reached the national tournament at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, SC.

This season they open action in a tourney at Memphis State, September 7-8. The event follows a preseason scrimmage with UAB on August 28.

"This is an experienced group that we have back," Warren said of her 1984 squad. "The four seniors should play a key role."

Riverchase golfing aids cancer society

The 1984 Greater Shelby County American Cancer Society/Walter Hagen Men's Golf Tournament will be held this Friday at Riverchase Country Club.

The format will consist of four-man teams and best ball play. The competition will be divided into two divisions, handicap and scratch.

First place winners will automatically advance to the State of Alabama finals in October and state winners will later compete in the national tournament at Miami's Doral Country Club.

For more information concerning the event at Riverchase Country Club, contact 1984 chairman Herman Watts at 663-7161.

'Hut' hot and heavy on track to big bucks

Calera's Waymond "Hut" Stricklin has dominated the points race in the Grand American division at Birmingham International Raceway (BIR).

Now his bright orange, blue and white No. 7 racing machine is turning heads in the NASCAR All American Challenge Series.

Stricklin and the car are moving up and could win it.

If he does, it means $40,000.

He won the All American Challenge race at Greenville on August 4 and finished fourth in the Pepsi Challenge 200 at Nashville on Saturday, August 11.

In Nashville, Stricklin ran all evening with the leaders, including 1983 National Grand American champ Mike Alexander. The Calera driver also won the All American Challenge in June at Nashville.

The win moved Stricklin into third place for the series' points race, with a total of 1312. That puts him just behind second place man Mike Alexander and leader Herman Smith.

Stricklin, however, could really be in the best shape to come out on top when the final points are counted.

Reportedly, Alexander has some conflicts with his Grand National schedule. Also, Smith holds first place lead partly because of a good finish in a race most local drivers did not attend.

Ears and eyes

Keith Landrum and Jerry Caudill of the Shelby County Amateur Radio Emergency Services Club keep their trailer base command post near the entrance gate at Shoal Creek while their fellow club members keep their ears and eyes open for traffic problems on Hugh Daniels Drive.

Hams at Shoal Creek

by Fred Guarino

"It has really been a benefit. They have been the eyes and ears for us, and they called us to volunteer their services. They are very efficient people. I've seen their work and they know what they are doing."

The words of praise from Shelby County Chief Deputy James Jones were for the members of the Shelby County Amateur Radio Emergency Services (SCARES) Club members who assisted in traffic control at the 1984 PGA Championship last week at Shoal Creek.

With the aid of their mobile HAM radio equipment and their repeater tower on Oak Mountain, the SCARES volunteers helped keep state troopers and sheriff's deputies informed of traffic backups, mishaps and disabled cars.

Club president Jerry Caudill of Meadow Brook said that the volunteers worked mainly along the "very crooked" Hugh Daniels Drive.

Of ten club radio units in operation, one was located at the intersection of County 41 and U.S. 280, another at the intersection of Hugh Daniels Drive and U.S. 280, and the remainder along Hugh Daniels Drive.

Caudill said the amateurs were probably most useful during last Thursday's rain when three cars went off Hugh Daniels Drive.

"We were damn lucky" that no one was hurt in the accidents said club member Keith Landrum.

Caudill said his volunteers also communicated four cars out of gas, three incidents of vehicle breakdown, and one emergnecy medical call.

"I caught an internal security emergency service call about a man down in the second parking lot," Landrum said. "I called Jerry (Caudill) and he got an EMT on the scene immediately."

Landrum said he just happened to be in the right place at the right time. He noted that none of the internal security people were close enough to a medical station to get help.

Caudill said his volunteers numbered anywhere from 13 to 15 on each day of the tournament.

He said that when communication would have been otherwise impossible by radio, the club's repeater on Oak Mountain really proved its worth.

On at least one occasion, a golf pro also had reason to appreciate the radio amatuers.

The pro was late for his tee time and a HAM radio operator/helicopter pilot just happened to be on stand-by duty.

Caudill called the pilot and the unnamed pro was airlifted to the course right on time.

Golden Falcons name new basketball coach

The University of Montevallo has named Christy Earnhardt of Rockwell, N.C. as its new head women's basketball coach.

Earnhardt, who replaces Bud Childers at the helm of the Golden Falcons, spent the last two seasons as an assistant to Paul Sanderford at Western Kentucky University.

A collegiate basketball star for North Carolina State in Durham, she also served two seasons on the staff at Western Carolina University while earning a masters degree in physical education.

In addition to a pair of tours with Athletes in Action, Earnhardt also played professional basketball for the Dallas Diamonds of the now defunct Women's Professional Basketball Association.

Earnhardt, who will add physical education teaching duties to her responsibilities as head coach of the Lady Golden Falcons, officially joins the UM staff on September 16.

Field & Stream offers help for firefighters

Field & Stream magazine, in concert with the National Volunteer Fire Council, is funding a turkey shoot sweepstakes to help volunteer fire departments raise funds.

According to the National Fire Council, 80 percent of this country's fire protection comes from volunteers, yet those groups must rely on fund-raising events to meet their financial needs.

Interested volunteer fire departments should write Mike Edison, Field & Stream, 1515 Broadway, New York, NY 10036.

PHYLLIS HORRELL
...winning home ec. classes

Horrell has top home ec program

Phyllis Horrell is obviously doing something right in her home economics classes at Thompson Middle School.

Her students have been county, state and national winners in various contests, and Horrell herself recently received an award for having the outstanding home ec program in the state.

But the award for her program wasn't based solely on the award winning projects. She was observed in the classroom, and members of the awards committee even went so far as to talk to some of her students.

For the past two years, the exhibits entered by Horrell's seventh and eighth graders, have won first place in the Shelby County Fair.

Other honors Horrell's students have won include the national award Mandy Wiser won last year in a contest sponsored by Co-Ed magazine.

Also in 1983, Horrell had a class made up of entirely of male students, that was first runner-up in a national nutrition contest sponsored by Fleishman's yeast.

This year, an exhibit on ethnic foods done by Horrell's students won a first place award in the state, and a joint project with Jean Pryor's physical education class garnered a third place national award for the two TMS classes.

At TMS

PTO to be reorganized

Things will be different at Thompson Middle School this year.

The TMS Parent - Teacher - Organization hopes to use some new ideas to make the '84 - '85 school year at TMS a better one for students, teachers, and parents.

PTO president Prissy Green announced plans for the school year which include a re-organization of the PTO itself.

According to Green, the group will make use of a newly established PTO board as part of their plan to take a more active role in school functions.

Board and school officials have already made plans for a get-acquainted meeting in the school's gym during the first day of school on Monday. The PTO will also host a luncheon for TMS faculty and staff on Friday, August 24th, the first teacher work day of the school year.

"This will give us a chance to show our appreciation for the work done by the faculty and a chance to meet and form a good working relationship," said Green.

The PTO will also sponsor a fall fund-raiser selling sausage and cheese. The delivery date has been set early enough to include Christmas giving.

Officers for the coming year include Green as president, India White as 1st vice-president, Marilyn Minor as 2nd vice-president, Denise Herring as secretary-treasurer, and Elaine Carpenter as teacher-parent representative.

Board members include Janice Luster and Kay Weldy, co-chairmen for fund-raising; Diane Grillo, publicity; Muriel McCutchen and Betty Gilliam, co-chairmen for membership: and Linda Dorsett, hospitality.

Happy Anniversary, Honey. Let's go another four.

$40 reward offered for stolen dog traps

Who would want a dog trap?

That's what Bob Wilson is wondering.

Wilson, who is president of the auxiliary of the Shelby County Humane Society, has had three dog traps stolen.

The most recent theft was from his truck, Wilson said.

Wison explained that he was on his way to set out the trap to catch a stray dog. He said he stopped at a home for 30-45 minutes and when he came out the trap was gone.

The other stolen traps had been chained to posts, Wilson reported.

If anyone brings the traps in, Wilson said there will be a $40 reward for each of them. No questions will be asked.

Anyone with information is asked to call the Shelby County Humane Society, 669-4562.

Kids make posters for library contest

Summer vacation did not mean hanging up thinking caps for the youngsters who entered the Shelby County libraries' poster contest.

The theme of the summer reading program contest was posters dealing with Alabama's attractions.

Tia Hughes won first place in competition for those in the third grade or under. The eight-year-old, who lives on Mohawk Drive in Alabaster, designed a unique poster which said, "The great State of Alabama has many great places to visit with your family and friends."

Carisse Mizell and Charles Bogaty tied for first place in the fourth-sixth grade division.

Mizell's poster depicted cutouts of each state she'd visited, noting that Alabama was the overall best. She lives on Plantation Circle in Helena.

Bogaty's entry was chosen because of the quality and originality of his pen and ink art work. The 11-year-old lives on Caribbean Circle in Alabaster.

The finalists in the contest were judged by Shelby County Reporter managing editor David F. Moore, and will be presented summer reading program tote bags by the Shelby County Library System.

Other finalists in the contest were: Anna Howard, Christine Mizell and James Mizell, all of Helena; Dena Harris of Montevallo; Greg Harper of Brierfield; and Jim Green of Pelham.

Each participant in the party received prizes from local businesses including Pizza Hut, Buddy's Bar-B-Que, Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken, and the Shelby County YMCA.

The next function of the Alabaster Friends of the Library will be a Craft and Fun Fair. The event will take place September 15, and registrations are now being accepted at 664-2271.

You probably can't tell from reading my column, that I am a bit more suntanned than I was last week. That's because I was on V-A-C-A-T-I-O-N for 7 whole days, and it was wonderful.

I and 13 friends from the Shelby County area rented a house on the beach in Panama City, and spent last week taking in the fresh sea air, the view, and soaking up some of those rays.

One of the highlights of the trip was cleaning 10 lbs. of shrimp that we bought to cook for supper one night. Oh the aroma of ocean food... reminds me of the county landfill somehow. But it sure did taste terrific after it was cooked!

Oh well, amidst the seaweed, jelly fish, sand, and all of the other things that go along with the beach, we had a great time!

WHAT TO DO IF YOU SMELL GAS.

Natural gas has no odor of its own. We add one for your protection. Here's what you should do if you smell gas.

If the odor is slight, and it's near an appliance, it may simply mean a pilot light is out and needs relighting. But if there's any doubt, give us a call.

If the odor is strong, leave the building. Don't flip the light switches. Don't use any other electrical equipment. Don't light a match or candle or try to find the leak yourself. Be sure everyone is out, and call us from a neighbor's phone.

If the odor is outdoors, call us immediately. Don't wait for others to do it.

You can reach us anytime. If you smell gas, one of our servicemen will come right to your home and make a thorough inspection.

Natural gas is one of the safest energies you can use. And together we'll keep it that way.

Amendment No. 2
STATE OF ALABAMA
PROCLAMATION
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Alabama Legislature at its Regular Session of 1984 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, set out here as Act No. 84-399, and further ordered in Act No. 84-399 that such election be held at the first statewide primary, general or special election after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984; and

WHEREAS, the date of the first statewide primary, general or special election held after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984 will be and occur on September 4, 1984; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provision of Act No. 84-399 to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in every county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election, in a newspaper published in each such county;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

"Section A. As used in this Amendment the following terms shall be given the following respective meanings:

"County" means Mobile County.

"Outstanding Securities" means any bonds, warrants, notes or other securities issued by the County subsequent to September 30, 1979, and prior to February 1, 1984, that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds received by the County from the ad valorem tax authorized by Section 215 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended.

"Outstanding Special Tax Securities" means any securities at the time outstanding that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds of the Special Tax.

"Special Tax" means the annual ad valorem tax on each dollar of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the County authorized to be levied by the County by the amendment known as Amendment XVIII to the Constitution of Alabama, as amended by the amendment to the constitution known as Amendment CLII, and also provided for in the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments C, CXXII, CLI, CXCIII, CXCV and CCC, and by procedures taken under the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments CCCXXV and CCCLXXIII.

Section B. Mobile County is hereby authorized to apply proceeds of the Special Tax to the payment of the principal of and interest on (and premium, if any) that will hereafter mature or otherwise become payable on the Outstanding Securities. The right of the County to apply the proceeds of the Special Tax for payment of the Outstanding Securities shall be subject to the provisions of this Constitution respecting the Special Tax and the pledge thereof for the benefit of the Outstanding Special Tax Securities. The proceeds of the Special Tax may be used for payment of the principal and interest on (and premium, if any) on the Outstanding Securities, whether or not any bonds are issued hereunder.

Section C. Mobile County is hereby authorized to issue from time to time its bonds for the purpose of refunding all or any one or more of the issues of Outstanding Securities. The aggregate principal amount of all bonds at any time issued under this Amendment, when added to the aggregate principal amount of all then outstanding bonds theretofore issued by the County under any other amendment to the Constitution of Alabama that are payable from or secured by the Special Tax shall not exceed 6½ per centum of the assessed valuation of taxable property situated in the County as assessed for County taxation for the fiscal year of the County next preceding that during which any bonds herein authorized shall be issued.

No bonds may be issued under the authority of this Amendment until after the question of the issuance of such bonds shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the County at an election called for that purpose by the governing body of the County and a majority of the said qualified electors voting at the said election shall have voted in favor of the issuance of such bonds; provided, that if a majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment shall vote for the adoption thereof, then the approval of this Amendment expressed by the said vote in favor of its adoption shall of itself authorize the issuance of the bonds provided for in the first sentence of this Amendment and no additional election by the electors of the County shall be required to authorize the issuance of those bonds. If the majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the adoption of this Amendment, or if the majority of the qualified electors of the County voting at any election called by the governing body of the County under the provisions of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the issuance of the bonds proposed at an election so called, the governing body of the County may from time to time call other elections hereunder on the issuance of such bonds, but not more than one such election shall be held during any period of twelve consecutive months. Any such election called by the governing body of the County shall be called, held, conducted and canvassed, and may be contested, in the manner and within the time provided by the then existing general laws of Alabama pertaining to elections on the issuance of bonds by counties.

The bonds issued hereunder shall be general obligations of the County for the payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit of the County shall be irrevocably pledged, and in addition thereto there shall be irrevocably pledged for payment of the said principal and interest so much of the Special Tax as may be necessary to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities, each such pledge to be on a parity with all valid pledges of the Special Tax at any time heretofore or hereafter made, to such extent as shall not impair the obligations of any then existing valid prior pledges.

All bonds issued under this Amendment may be in such aggregate principal amounts, may be in such form and denominations and of such tenor and maturities, may be payable in such installments and at such time or times, not exceeding in the case of each such bond 30 years from its date, and may contain such provisions not inconsistent with this Amendment as shall be provided in the proceedings of the governing body of the County whereunder such bonds shall be authorized to be issued. Except as herein otherwise provided, all bonds issued under this Amendment shall be issued in accordance with, and shall be subject to, the provisions of the general laws of Alabama existing at the time of the issuance of such bonds respecting the sale, execution, issuance and redemption of bonds by counties. The indebtedness evidenced by the bonds issued under this Amendment or under any other amendment to the Constitution which are payable out of or are secured by a pledge of the Special Tax shall be in addition to and shall not be charged against the limitation on the indebtedness of the County provided for in Section 224 of the Constitution.

So long as the principal of or interest on any of the bonds issued under this Amendment remains unpaid, the governing body of Mobile County shall continue the levy of the Special Tax at such rate as may be sufficient to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities. The rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax is hereby fixed at 6½ mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of properties subject to taxation by the County as assessed for County taxation, which rate shall be the maximum rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax except to the extent that the said rate may be increased pursuant to provisions of this Constitution hereafter adopted. Such rate shall not be subject to adjustment pursuant to the provisions of Amendment 195 to the Constitution.

Section D. The provisions of this Amendment shall be self executing, and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder, the levy of the Special Tax for payment thereof, or the use of the proceeds of the Special Tax for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on the Outstanding Securities.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, upon the above set forth proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county, and in a county where no newspaper is published, a copy of the notice shall be posted at each courthouse and in three other places in the county.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the State Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 12th day of July, 1984.

These Americans took time off their jobs to serve their country.

Washington. Lincoln. Teddy Roosevelt. Citizen soldiers are more than just a part of our country's history. They are our country's history. For over three centuries they've been leaving their homes and jobs to defend America.

They still do today. They're the members of the Guard and Reserve. Their readiness is vital to our defense.

Be fair to them when their time comes to go on duty. Don't penalize them when promotions and raises are due. Our country's future still depends upon our citizen soldiers. They depend upon you. To find out how you can support today's Guard and Reserve write Employer Support, Arlington, VA 22209. Or call 800-336-4590.

Horton: hospital relations

by Bert Seaman

Even though she's a working mother, Tina Horton knows that on most days, she will have at least one uninterrupted hour to spend with her family.

Just exactly how much time the family is together, however, depends on how heavy the traffic is that day.

The Hortons, you see, are commuters.

With a home in the Harpersville countryside and jobs in Birmingham and Homewood, Tina and her husband Guy travel back and forth together most days.

...promoting Children's Hospital

Their three-year-old daughter Sara also rides with them and is dropped off at a church daycare center.

The Hortons both grew up in towns, Tina in Gadsden and Guy in Ensley. So after they married, they decided they wanted to live "out."

Five years ago, when they began looking for land in the country, the Hortons came to Shelby County.

They found just what they wanted on old U.S. 280 near Harpersville.

"The house was hardly more than a shell," Tina remembers, "but it had land with it and we knew we could fix it up."

Guy Horton is in the construction business, and with his know-how, the couple started working on the home each day after getting off work.

The project took six months, but Tina says it was well worth the effort.

One of the best things about driving home in the evening she says, is the ride over Double Oak Mountain. "It's so pretty."

Although she's enthusiastic about her home in the country, Tina is just as enthusiastic about her work in the city.

For the past year, the 29-year-old Auburn graduate has been the director of public information at Children's Hospital.

Her degree is in journalism and she worked for United Press International for a year after graduation, but Tina says she's sold on the work she does now.

What she likes most about her present job, Tina says, is the promotional aspect.

"And it's especially good," she explains, "because I believe so deeply in what I'm promoting -- I feel there's real worth in what I'm doing."

In the course of informing the public about the resources available at Children's Hospital, Tina still calls upon her writing skills.

She's responsible for the hospital's quarterly publication, "Off Spring," and for brochures that are put out on new medical procedures and new equipment.

Even though she doesn't have a background in the health care field, Tina says there is no problem in handling the job because of the cooperation she receives from the hospital staff.

"I always check with them to make sure I've interpreted the information correctly," she explains.

Days are never dull for this Harpersville resident. Her respon-

Ellis awarded

Columbiana resident and State Senator, Frank "Butch" Ellis, Jr. (right) is congratulated by University of Montevallo President Jim Vickrey for being selected as the 1984 recipient of the James M. Tingle Award for "Service to the State Above Requirements of Profession." The award was presented last Friday night during the August Commencement at UM.

AU head speaks at commencement

The importance of the ecucation they have received was stressed last Friday to the 117 graduates of the University of Montevallo during August Commencement exercises.

Auburn University President Dr. James E. Martin told the graduates that "there's no one in charge out there," so they will have to rely on their education and knowledge to succeed.

"Your education has taught you how to think, not what to think.

L.J. TENNYSON
...shows off baby melon

IF YOU'VE GOT IT, SELL IT
...at weekly vegetable sale

World is divided in two groups

The world is divided into two types of people -- those who can garden and those who can't.

For those regressive sorts who fall into the second category (I refuse to name anyone), there's always the Wednesday veggie sale in courthouse parking lot. Among the successful gardeners there last week were Kate and Marylin Cohill (second and third from left in the picture below by Milton Bridges).

Meanwhile, on the "other" side of the county... L.J. Tennyson, Sr., said he'd heard that some people were claiming that folks up in the north end of Shelby County didn't know beans about gardening. The 72-year old Helena man said he had at least 100 pounds of proof to the contrary in the form of a rather large watermelon.

The Regressive Farmer was called upon to investigate this wild melon claim and found that the Tennyson appears to be telling the truth. The actual weight of the melon is yet unknown because it's still hooked to the vine. But just think about that for a second -- the joker's still growing!

"I just put a little 8-8-8 fertilizer in with these special seeds I got from Mitchell Feed and Grain," Tennyson beamed from under his faded USS Arkansas cap. "After they came up I dropped out a foot or so, dug a little trench and filled it with 8-8-8. The Lord blessed me.

"My wife and I give our vegetable to people at Grace Baptist Church and people who aren't fortunate enough to be able to garden," he said. "Want to take a melon home with you?"

Wilsonville project gets $3.5 million in federal funding

The Advanced Coal Liquefaction Research and Development facility at Wilsonville has received $5.3 in federal funding.

Earlier this year, there had been some doubt that funding would be renewed after the current contract expired Dec. 31.

But Alabama Congressman Richard Shelby and others worked to save the funding which was included in the appropriation bill for the Department of Interior and Related Agencies.

The bill was passed earlier this month by the House of Representatives.

"I believe that the Wilsonville Advanced Coal Liquefaction Research and Development facility is an outstanding example of government and the private sector joining together to accomplish important objectives that could not be undertaken by private industry alone," said Shelby.

Noting that the department of energy has already spent over $40 million at Wilsonville, Shelby said he considered the expenditure and investment in the country's future.

Shelby reported that the project is now within two years of its goal of bringing coal liquefaction technology to the point of commercial feasibility, "if world events deem it attractive."

When its combined with existing petroleum refining technology, the procedure to liquify coal will provide direct replacement for petroleum derived liquid fuels for heating and transportation.

However, research and development leading to innovative improvements in the state of the art are necessary to improve the market potential of these technologies.

The measure passed by the House also included $5.8 million for continued research and development of the Eastern oil shale program.

Research in this area is currently underway at the Mineral Resources Institute of the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

Shelby explained that Alabama contains oil shale deposits which are readily recoverable by surface mining techniques.

The Mineral Resources Institute is developing a technique, Shelby said, to increase the yield of ore obtained from oil shale distilling.

Shelby pointed out that a research program is necessary to continue developing these technologies, which he said may someday be vital to our nation's security.

World is divided in two groups

The world is divided into two types of people -- those who can garden and those who can't.

For those regressive sorts who fall into the second category (I refuse to name anyone), there's always the Wednesday veggie sale in courthouse parking lot. Among the successful gardeners there last week were Kate and Marylin Cohill (second and third from left in the picture below by Milton Bridges).

Meanwhile, on the "other" side of the county... L.J. Tennyson, Sr., said he'd heard that some people were claiming that folks up in the north end of Shelby County didn't know beans about gardening. The 72-year old Helena man said he had at least 100 pounds of proof to the contrary in the form of a rather large watermelon.

The Regressive Farmer was called upon to investigate this wild melon claim and found that the Tennyson appears to be telling the truth. The actual weight of the melon is yet unknown because it's still hooked to the vine. But just think about that for a second -- the joker's still growing!

"I just put a little 8-8-8 fertilizer in with these special seeds I got from Mitchell Feed and Grain," Tennyson beamed from under his faded USS Arkansas cap. "After they came up I dropped out a foot or so, dug a little trench and filled it with 8-8-8. The Lord blessed me.

"My wife and I give our vegetable to people at Grace Baptist Church and people who aren't fortunate enough to be able to garden," he said. "Want to take a melon home with you?"

DID YOU KNOW?

There are a lot of bright ideas you can use to deal with a power outage.

First, check to see if your neighbors' lights are off. Next, check fuses or breakers in your fuse box or breaker panel. If they're okay, call Alabama Power. Give us your name, address, and how long power has been off. This helps us determine the extent of the outage and speeds repair. Also remember to keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed so that inside air will remain cold as long as possible.

Miss Alabama

Three year old Whitney Shores, center, of Pelham, and Casey Crapet, four, from Helena, had quite a thrill last week when they met Miss Alabama, Tammy Little, in the Big B drugstore in Pelham. Here Tammy autographs her picture for her two fans.

Desoto fest coming

DeSoto Caverns' wooded hillsides will come alive on September 8 and 9. That's the date for September Fest Weekend, a benefit for The American Cancer Society.

The popular outdoor festival features arts and crafts, top regional cloggers and square dancers, a jamboree of fast paced bluegrass and country bands, and other entertainment -- such as the Bunkhouse Boys' comic black powder gunfight skits, a karate exhibition and a children's theater production, "The Dragon That Giggled".

Sponsors call September Fest "a mountain-stomp'n, country-wide, frontier-style round-up to chase away any lingering summer haze in a blaze of fun, colorful music and dance."

There will be plenty of good cooking and food specialities, and those attending can pick and choose among concessions, or bring their own baskets (and a blanket, in case the tables fill up) and picnic on the hillsides of the entertainment arena.

The theme park has camping facilities, a hiking trail, DeSoto's Shipboard Playground for kids, and the caverns will be open for tours.

Festival hours are from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days. The Festival Gate is $1.; kids under age 4 are free. (There is a separate admission charge to tour the caverns.)

At least 60 percent of all gate profits go the The American Cancer Society. Over 6,000 visitors are expected to attend the weekend festival.

DeSoto Caverns is on Hwy. 76 in Childersburg, Alabama (just east of Harpersville). For additional information: (205) 378-7252 or (404) 261-6179.

Rover gets second shot at shots

If Rover or Fluffy missed this summer's countywide rabies clinic, they now have several additional opportunities this week to get their required shots.

•Makeup rabies clinics will be offered Wednesday, August 22 at the following locations:

8-noon -- Indian Springs Clinic;
1-3 p.m. -- Pelham Plaza;
1-2:30 p.m. -- Old Dunnavant Community Center;
3-5p.m. -- Old Weldon Grocery, Chelsea.
•Friday, August 24:
2:30-4:30 p.m. -- Alabaster Shopping Center.
•Saturday, August 25:
8-noon -- Indian Springs Clinic;
1-2:30 p.m. -- Valleydale Village Shopping Center;
1-3 p.m. -- Shelby County High School;
3:30-5 p.m. -- Wilsonville Baptist Church.

The shots will be given by Shelby County Rabies Inspector Dr. Lance Hill, and the deputy inspector, Dr. Robert Gaddis.

State law requires that all dogs and cats receive annual rabies shot.

The fee is $6. Dogs are required to be on a leash, and cats should be in a box or carrier.

Leach, Tucker, Lowe named to C.F. drive

Three Shelby County women have been named to direct fund-raising campaigns for Cystic Fibrosis.

Beverly Leach and Janice Tucker have been selected to lead local residents in organizing bike-a-thons to be held in Montevallo and Wilsonville, respectively.

Brenda Lowe will organize a fund-raising event to be held in Vincent.

Cystic fibrosis is a lung-damaging disease which is presently incurable and fatal in every case. One in every 1,600 Americans are unknowing carriers of the gene which can cause CF in their children.

The fund-raisers will help support Cystic Fibrosis Foundation research to enable scientists to identify carriers and produce a cure for the disease.

Classes set for families

If you're the mother of a pre-school child, the Family Resource Center is offering a class this month which includes exercises and informal discussions.

There will also be one more session this month to help children of divorced parents work through their problems.

The support program for mothers and their pre-schoolers will be held Tuesday mornings from 9:30-11 am. at the Five Points South YMCA.

The session dealing with children from broken homes is aimed at youngsters between the ages of 6-12. It will be held August 27 from 6:30-8 p.m.

Bates opens ad, PR firm

Warren Bates Incorporated, a full service advertising, marketing, and public relations firm, has recently opened it's Birmingham office at Office Park.

The company was formed in April of 1980 by Bates as an advertising agency to handle local clients. After an association with an Atlanta-based advertising and marketing agency, Warren Bates Incorporated was formed in Birmingham, adding the public relations and marketing functions the agency now supplies.

The agency serves both Alabama and Georgia clients and future plans include an office located in Atlanta to be operating within 90 days and another office to be in Charlotte, North Carolina by next spring.

A company spokesperson said the agency's clients range from large manufacturing and retail accounts, to small businesses which normally do not have enough of an advertising budget to attract larger agencies.

"We are interested in the 'forgotten man'', said president Warren Bates. "I know what it feels like to be too small to attract the interest of the 'big money boys'. Small businesses need advertising and marketing just as much as General Motors."

Bates is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis A. Bates of Montevallo.

Alabama Gas proposes refund

Alabama Gas Corporation has announced that it received an $8.9 million refund from its pipeline supplier as a result of a settlement ordered by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The company will file a request with the Alabama Public Service Commission to pass on the refund to its customers. This refund will be combined with two smaller refunds received by the company, resulting in a total refund of $13.2 million plus interest.

The average residential customer is expected to receive a refund of about $15. The refunds will be passed on to Alabama Gas customers following Public Service Commission approval and in a manner and time prescribed by the Commission.

Hospital promotes Nichols

Pamela Nichols, has been appointed director of marketing for Lloyd Noland Hospital and Health Centers.

A graduate of the University of Alabama, Nichols earned her undergraduate degree on the Tuscaloosa campus, majoring in psychology with a minor in English. She earned her MA in business administration from UAB.

She and her husband, John, have a son and daughter. They make their home in Inverness.

Briarwood wins award

Briarwood Apartments in Montevallo has won its managing agent's first place beautification award.

The award was recently presented to Briarwood resident manager Mary Ann Parker and maintenance man Danny Acker, on behalf of their work and the apartment residents "for taking pride in their homes."

Acker was also presented an award as the outstanding maintenance man.

"CLEARING WINTER STORM" - Yosemite National Park, Calif., 1966
...Ansel Adams

UM shows Ansel Adams

Twenty-five works of photography pioneer Ansel Adams will be exhibited during September in The Gallery on the University of Montevallo campus.

Adams, who died earlier this year at age 82, was best known for his majestic black-and-white prints of the American West, and is considered unequalled in the art of landscape photography.

The exhibit, sponsored by the UM Concert and Lecture Committee, opens Tuesday, September 4 and continue through September 26. A reception will be held in The Gallery in Bloch Hall on the opening day of the exhibit at 7 p.m.

In his childhood and youth, Adams studied to be a pianist and showed great promise. At age 14, he and his family vacationed in Yosemite Valley, where he first tried photography -- with a No. 1 Brownie camera given him by his parents.

Although the results were disappointing to him, the experience awakened his interest in the medium. Beginning that year, and for the remainder of his life, Adams spent his summers in Yosemite.

He still pursued a musical career but became increasingly immersed in photography. But it was not until 1930, after meeting the photographer Paul Strand, that he made the decision to become a professional photographer.

Adams' photographs evolved from those first, simple photographic records into the prevailing style of the time -- impressionistic and lyrical. He was struck by Strand's work and the beginning movement to "straight" photography. He made his choice -- music, the hobby; photography, the profession.

He and a group of friends -- among them Edward Weston, Willare Van Dyke and Imogene Cunningham -- formed Group f/64 and exhibited together. Alfred Stieglitz gave him his first important show in New York in 1936, at An American Place.

Adams helped found the department of photography at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, created the photography program at San Francisco's California School of Fine Arts, and was a founder and chairman of the board of the Friends of Photography.

Adams was a life-long conservationist and well-known for his work with the Sierra Club, of which he served as a director from 1934-1971.

The Montevallo selection of his works is taken from the collection of Peter Scotese and covers the 1920's to the 1960's. The exhibit is circulated by the Southern Arts Federation and funded in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and by special appointment on weekends. For more information: 665-2521, ext. 285 or 526.

TRAVEL TIPS

by
Pat Brasher

Hawaii is a place travel dreams are made of. When people talk about their once-in-a-lifetime travel desires, it's often Hawaii to which they refer.

Believe it or not, Hawaii can be seen and enjoyed in almost any price range. If your budget is limited, you might like to consider a hotel a block or two off the beach. Perhaps you're also willing to use public transportation to explore instead of using escorted tours. There are many inexpensive restaurants and fast food chains, so you can even eat reasonably well for very little.

On the other hand, if price isn't an issue and you enjoy the finer things in life, there are fantastic, deluxe tours which stay at the finest hotels and include all sightseeing, gourmet dinners, special evening activities and a host of other features. These tours include not only just about everything you'd want to see, but some things you never even thought of. There's no worry about baggage handling or tipping either, resulting in a carefree travel experience to one of the most beautiful places in the world.

Some packages spend a full week in Honolulu while others combine several islands. You can also cruise between the islands if you prefer.

Whether your pocketbook dictates a small hotel off the beach or a deluxe, all-inclusive package, you can be certain we'll find the best bet in any category. Just give the Hawaii experts a call.

School board to pay band, sports travel

by Bert Seaman

Local band and athletic boosters won't have to pay transportation costs for out of town trips for students at their schools -- not for the next school year anyway.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox told the school board last week that trips last year cost local groups $25,000.

The trips the superintendent had reference to were for athletic and academic competitions where the students represented their schools.

He also mentioned attendance at educational events such as the mock trial put on annually by the Shelby County Bar Association.

The trips to football games would mean providing transportation for football players and band members, the superintendent said. It would not include cheerleaders.

The scholar's bowl, in which students compete academically, would be another legitimate trip for which the board would bear the transportation cost.

"If we do that," Glasscox said, "I think it would encourage more schools to participate."

The cost of transportation has been an especially heavy burden to band boosters at schools with large bands, Glasscox noted.

As an example, the Thompson High School band ranges in members from 125-150. Five buses are required for transportation, the superintendent reported.

With a mileage charge of 70 cents, Glasscox said that added up to a high cost for that booster club. With the board responsible for transportation costs, the mileage charge would no longer come into play, Glasscox said.

He estimated the board's cost per year would amount to $13,000-$15,000.

"I think that cost could come out of the transportation budget," the superintendent noted.

Although the policy could be abused, Glasscox said that everything possible is being done to see that it is not.

The superintendent told the board that a request for the buses will have to be made in writing far in advance, to allow the transportation department time to make sure that it is legitimate request.

He said that the board's liability coverage includes all buses.

Glasscox said the policy would be tried for a year to see how it worked before making a final decision on whether it should be continued.

sibilities range from planning a telethon to arranging media coverage when a celebrity visits the hospital.

Then there are the meetings... and more meetings... and still more meetings -- with hospital volunteer groups, the professional staff and with assistants.

But Tina has no complaints about her 8-4:30 working hours. Unlike her days with UPI, she doesn't have to work on the weekend.

The Hortons, who married in 1976, met on a blind date when Tina was working for UPI.

One of the interests they share is softball.

"He got me interested after we were married," Tina says, adding that she now plays second base for a church softball league.

Guy plays on two softball teams, and young Sara goes to the games too.

Although their daughter is a live-wire, her mother reports that so far, she has behaved herself pretty well. "She seems to understand that she's to stay in the dugout and not run out on the field."

The Horton family attends the United Methodist Church now, but prior to their marriage they were both members of other denominations.

"I was an Episcopalian, Guy was a Baptist, so we compromised and became Methodists." Tina says.

With the fall semester approaching for UAB students, the Horton car pool will have to split up on Monday and Thursday.

Tina is working on her master's degree in business administration, a goal which she set for herself in 1978 and which she is determined to finish.

But despite the busy pace, Tina is satisfied with her life, and especially with the place where she and her family have put down roots.

"We have really become avid Shelby Countians," she declares.

Bible school baskets

Boys and girls who attended Vacation Bible School at Calera United Methodist Church show their new pastor Rev. Ken Dunnavant how they have been making baskets with oak splinters, first soaking them to make them pliable.

Calera VBS founds Nazareth

Nazareth Town, Calera, was founded last week at the First United Methodist Church.

However, the town was only in existence for a week.

The ninety-five young people who made up the population folded their tents Friday, when the last day of Vacation Bible School was held.

In keeping with this year's theme for VBS, participants in the week-long event dressed in the clothing worn in Bible times as they learned about daily life in that era.

That included craft work such as basket making and weaving and such culinary arts as bread making.

Biblical characters also came to the school each day to tell the youngsters their stories. The boys and girls heard from church members who portrayed Zaccheus, David, Moses, Mary and Martha and the Good Samaritan.

Activities during the school included a T-shirt day when participants received a red shirt printed with the Bible school theme, and releasing balloons to symbolize sending out love.

Former Pelham girls win Miss Hemisphere

Two sisters formerly from Shelby County recently mopped up in the Miss Hemisphere pageant.

Stacey and Tracey Wright were winners in the modeling division of the contest which was held in Miami.

The girls lived in Pelham until their father was transferred to Mobile.

Contestants in the event came from all over the United States and from several foreign countries to compete for the titles and prizes.

The Wrights each won a car for placing first in their age division in the modeling category of the contest. Stacey is 16; Tracey, 14.

They are the daughters of Diane and Larry Wright.

Epsilon Psi celebrates five

Those attending were Judy Kramer, Jeanni Harrell, Waldine Hanson, Charlene Johnson, and Ann Thienpont.

The chapter will hold "Beginning Day" activities on August 25, 1984. This will be an open brunch at the home of Waldine Hanson in Pelham. Prospective members will be invited.

vestigation continues into day care abuse

by Bert Seaman

The investigation of a Pelham day care center continues this week, following charges of sexual abuse against 61-year-old Gene Ward of Riverchase.

Ward is the husband of Esther Marie Ward, the former owner of Little Ones' Creative Day Care Center.

On Monday, the center was still in operation, but under new ownership. However, activities were being closely monitored by the State Department of Pensions and Security and local law enforcement agencies.

Ward, of 705 Whippoorwill Drive, Riverchase, is accused of fondling a 9-year-old girl in the swimming pool at Vestavia's Wald park during a field trip.

Although he was not an employee of the day care center, Ward reportedly volunteered to chaperone the children on various excursions.

The Shelby County District Attorneys office is investigating other complaints that Ward has fondled children cared for by Little Ones.

After receiving several complaints on August 16, District Attorney Bill Hill said that his office, along with state and county DPS workers, closely supervised activities at the center to make sure no child was in danger.

Ward turned himself in to Jefferson County deputies August 17 after the arrest warrant was issued by Vestavia police. He was released on $2,500 bond.

A former Homewood policeman, Ward served eight years of a ten year sentence for the 1964 shooting death of Harry S. Trent. Ward said at the time that he thought Trent was involved with his then estranged wife.

On the day the arrest warrant for abuse was issued for her husband, Mrs. Ward was notified by the State Department of Pensions and Security that the center's license would be suspended.

However, in a transaction that took place over the weekend, the center was sold to Margie Pierce of Clanton.

After assuring authorities of her full cooperation with the investigation and re-licensing of the center as a day care facility, Pierce was allowed to continue operating under DPS supervision.

Bob Hogue, assistant director of the Alabama Bureau of Family and Children's Services, confirmed that the center is being kept under close scrutiny.

"We're speeding up the licensing process and will complete it as soon as possible," he said.

Although he was unsure about the number of children withdrawn, Hogue said he did not believe it was more than three or four.

The center normally cares for 30-35 children, ranging in age from infants to 13-year-olds.

Six of the children went on the swimming field trip to Vestavia.

Sexual arrest made in Calera

All the kids liked him -- they called him "Uncle Joe."

But it appears that 62-year-old Joe Clayton Argo of Calera wasn't the kindly old gentleman that people supposed.

Argo was arrested last Wednesday and charged with five counts of enticement.

At a press conference Monday, Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow said that Argo has apparently been engaged in child molestation for "quite some time."

Several parents swore out warrants for Argo's arrest after a child reported being fondled by Argo during an outing at the Jemison Plunge.

Argo is in jail under a $250,000 bond.

The children that have reported incidents involving Argo are in the 10-11-year-old age range.

Parents did not have any qualms about letting their children go places with Argo, the sheriff said.

"He's been hanging around kids for years," Glasgow reported, "taking them places, buying them cokes. He was known as a good neighbor who wanted to do something for kids."

After Argo's arrest, the sheriff said several Columbiana woman raped

by Bert Seaman

A 68-year-old Columbiana woman who lives alone, was raped in the early morning hours Monday by a man wearing a mask.

Columbiana Police Chief Howell Horn said the assailant entered the house through the bathroom window around 1:35 a.m. He said the window had not been broken.

Horn said that the victim -- whose name was not released by the newspaper -- told him the man who attacked her was white and that he wore gloves.

He did not know whether the man left on foot or in a vehicle, Horn said.

According to Shelby County Sheriff's Department chief investigator Reed Smith, who is working with Columbiana PD on the case, the woman was not badly hurt.

She was taken to Shelby Medical Center, examined and released, he said.

Smith said there are several suspects in the case. No arrest had been made by press time Tuesday.

Inverness supervisor

"A little to the right," Inverness Elementary School first grader Chris McDaniel seems to be telling workers who built a school playground Saturday. Chris is sitting atop the multi-structure, one of the creative structures devised by Dr. Tom Jambor, an associate professor in early childhood education at UAB. For more pictures and story, see pages X-14, 15. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Caution, plane crossing

Driving down the road, one should watch for children playing, traffic merging, deer, trains -- and sometimes low flying airplanes. A bi-winged Ag-cat crop duster working in the Wilsonville area Saturday put on a show for a lot of people who came out of their houses and stopped their cars to watch. Dusting a cotton field along County 9 (above) required the pilot to pull up sharply at the pavement so he wouldn't tangle in the power lines across the steet. Though he was well above ear level, it was hard to avoid the urge to duck when the yellow plane flew over head. (photo by David F. Moore)

District Judge Teel suspended from bench pending his hearing

by David F. Moore

District Judge Robert Teel Jr. has been suspended from his court duties pending a hearing by the Court of Judiciary in Montgomery.

Teel, who lives in Rockford and has been a judge since 1977, heard cases primarily in Coosa and Clay counties. In addition to those duties, Judge Kenneth F. Ingram, presiding judge of the 18th judicial circuit, has had Teel on special court assignment to Shelby County to lighten the case load of District Judge Patti Smith.

In a phone interview from his Coosa County office, Ingram said that Teel's suspension was effective as of Friday, August 24.

According to Ingram, the suspension stems from a complaint filed by a Clay County woman whom Teel sentenced to five days in jail for contempt of court.

That complaint lead to an investigation and series of hearings by the judicial inquiry commission. The commission, chaired by Ingram, is made up of two circuit judges, one appellate court judge, two private citizens and two lawyers.

During the hearings, Teel gave "factual differences" from testimonies given by witnesses. The commission filed a complaint against Teel on Friday, which automatically suspended his judicial duties until a hearing can be held before the Court of Judiciary.

No date has yet been set on that hearing.

For the past two years in Shelby County, Teel has been hearing primarily small claims cases, non-support and criminal district trials.

Judge Ingram said that the Court of Judiciary generally tries to hold such hearings as soon as possible, and keep them from becoming drawn out.

Dunnavant gets grant: $276,000

by David F. Moore

A $276,000 community block grant has put Dunnavant residents in line for a change in lifestyles.

The money will be used in the far northern community to help build a water tie-in with nearby Leeds. Total cost of the project is expected to run $609,000, the remainder of which residents hope can be financed with a loan from Farmers Home Administration.

Presently, most of the 270 Dunnavant households have individual wells which tap into a high sulphur content water table.

Because the water has an unpleasant taste and tends to "stink" -- as one resident puts it -- most residents now drive into Leeds where they fill jugs for drinking. Dunnavant water that is consumed is usually done so under the camouflage of strong coffee or tea.

Besides the inconvenience of driving five miles every day or so to get clean drinking water, Dunnavant water is so often badly colored that most people there don't bother to wear much light clothing which would stain in the wash.

"We don't wear whites at all," said resident Margie Isbell with a dry grin. "We tend towards the dark blues and browns."

The grant was announced August 23 by Governor George Wallace, and was made available through the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs.

Isbell is chairperson of the Dunnavant Water Authority, a non-profit corporation formed one and half years ago for the purpose of pursuing money to tie in with either the Leeds Water Works, or water on the east side of Double Oak Mountain, which comes from Sterrett.

As it worked out, Leeds was the answer to where to get water, but just how to afford the tie-in has, up to now, been a mountain of an obstacle.

Isbell said that commission chairman Tommy Snowden and district commissioner Jake Morris agreed several years ago to help the residents try and find funding for the project.

The water authority -- which also includes vice-chairperson Carl D. Hulsey and secretary/treasurer Robert F. McCullough -- contracted with Montgomery engineer James Norwood of Development Research, Inc., who tried unsuccessfully last year to land a community block grant for the project.

Such funding, Norwood said, was a longshot because one had never before been granted to a rural community for a water system. But, because the area has a number of elderly and retired people on fixed incomes, it qualified this year for the funding.

This is the first time ever a county has landed a grant for such a project, Norwood said. "The water project was just ideal because of the demographics and need," he said.

Norwood, who will receive $6,000 from the grant once the county commission is assured that it is on the way, said the money should be here by the time an environmental review has been prepared.

The grant will be used to lay a system of some 14 miles of six-inch pipe throughout the community from a water tank Leeds will soon build on Oak Moutain.

Isbell said the loan is expected to come through by the end of September. That money will be used to complete the water line

A 68-year-old Columbiana woman who lives alone, was raped in the early morning hours Monday by a man wearing a mask.

Columbiana Police Chief Howell Horn said the assailant entered the house through the bathroom window around 1:35 a.m. He said the window had not been broken.

Horn said that the victim -- whose name was not released by the newspaper -- told him the man who attacked her was white and that he wore gloves.

He did not know whether the man left on foot or in a vehicle, Horn said.

According to Shelby County Sheriff's Department chief investigator Reed Smith, who is working with Columbiana PD on the case, the woman was not badly hurt.

She was taken to Shelby Medical Center, examined and released, he said.

Smith said there are several suspects in the case. No arrest had been made by press time Tuesday.

Caution, plane crossing

Driving down the road, one should watch for children playing, traffic merging, deer, trains -- and sometimes low flying airplanes. A biwinged Ag-cat crop duster working in the Wilsonville area Saturday put on a show for a lot of people who came out of their houses and stopped their cars to watch. Dusting a cotton field along County 9 (above) required the pilot to pull up sharply at the pavement so he wouldn't tangle in the power lines across the steet. Though he was well above ear level, it was hard to avoid the urge to duck when the yellow plane flew over head. (photo by David F. Moore)

District Judge Teel suspended from bench pending his hearing

by David F. Moore

District Judge Robert Teel Jr. has been suspended from his court duties pending a hearing by the Court of Judiciary in Montgomery.

Teel, who lives in Rockford and has been a judge since 1977, heard cases primarily in Coosa and Clay counties. In addition to those duties, Judge Kenneth F. Ingram, presiding judge of the 18th judicial circuit, has had Teel on special court assignment to Shelby County to lighten the case load of District Judge Patti Smith.

In a phone interview from his Coosa County office, Ingram said that Teel's suspension was effective as of Friday, August 24.

According to Ingram, the suspension stems from a complaint filed by a Clay County woman whom Teel sentenced to five days in jail for contempt of court.

That complaint lead to an investigation and series of hearings by the judicial inquiry commission. The commission, chaired by Ingram, is made up of two circuit judges, one appellate court judge, two private citizens and two lawyers.

During the hearings, Teel gave "factual differences" from testimonies given by witnesses. The commission filed a complaint against Teel on Friday, which automatically suspended his judicial duties until a hearing can be held before the Court of Judiciary.

No date has yet been set on that hearing.

For the past two years in Shelby County, Teel has been hearing primarily small claims cases, non-support and criminal district trials.

Judge Ingram said that the Court of Judiciary generally tries to hold such hearings as soon as possible, and keep them from becoming drawn out.

Dunnavant gets grant: $276,000

by David F. Moore

A $276,000 community block grant has put Dunnavant residents in line for a change in lifestyles.

The money will be used in the far northern community to help build a water tie-in with nearby Leeds. Total cost of the project is expected to run $609,000, the remainder of which residents hope can be financed with a loan from Farmers Home Administration.

Presently, most of the 270 Dunnavant households have individual wells which tap into a high sulphur content water table.

Because the water has an unpleasant taste and tends to "stink" -- as one resident puts it -- most residents now drive into Leeds where they fill jugs for drinking. Dunnavant water that is consumed is usually done so under the camouflage of strong coffee or tea.

Besides the inconvenience of driving five miles every day or so to get clean drinking water, Dunnavant water is so often badly colored that most people there don't bother to wear much light clothing which would stain in the wash.

"We don't wear whites at all," said resident Margie Isbell with a dry grin. "We tend towards the dark blues and browns."

The grant was announced August 23 by Governor George Wallace, and was made available through the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs.

Isbell is chairperson of the Dunnavant Water Authority, a non-profit corporation formed one and half years ago for the purpose of pursuing money to tie in with either the Leeds Water Works, or water on the east side of Double Oak Mountain, which comes from Sterrett.

As it worked out, Leeds was the answer to where to get water, but just how to afford the tie-in has, up to now, been a mountain of an obstacle.

Isbell said that commission chairman Tommy Snowden and district commissioner Jake Morris agreed several years ago to help the residents try and find funding for the project.

The water authority -- which also includes vice-chairperson Carl D. Hulsey and secretary/treasurer Robert F. McCullough -- contracted with Montgomery engineer James Norwood of Development Research, Inc., who tried unsuccessfully last year to land a community block grant for the project.

Such funding, Norwood said, was a longshot because one had never before been granted to a rural community for a water system. But, because the area has a number of elderly and retired people on fixed incomes, it qualified this year for the funding.

This is the first time ever a county has landed a grant for such a project, Norwood said. "The water project was just ideal because of the demographics and need," he said.

Norwood, who will receive $6,000 from the grant once the county commission is assured that it is on the way, said the money should be here by the time an environmental review has been prepared.

The grant will be used to lay a system of some 14 miles of six-inch pipe throughout the community from a water tank Leeds will soon build on Oak Moutain.

Isbell said the loan is expected to come through by the end of September. That money will be used to complete the water line

Calera budget needs $ cost to add services

by Bert Seaman

If the Montevallo Police Department hires another fulltime officer, and if the city contracts with the Shelby County Humane Society to pick up dogs, $10,000 will have to be added to the budget.

At Monday's city council meeting, finance chairman J.A. Brown reported that the budget -- complete except for those two items -- now totals $721,750.

Councilman Grady Parker, who heads the public safety committee, told the council that people want another policeman hired.

He cited an example of a "peeping Tom" who got away because the one officer on duty was working a wreck at the time.

Fights that break out on Friday and Saturday nights where young people congregate, is another reason two men need to work the 6 p.m.-2 a.m. shift, Parker said.

The public safety commissioner said that "what we're trying to do is offer more protection to our people."

During the past year, Police Chief Allen Needham has had five fulltime and one parttime officers in his department.

Starting Friday, the parttime man, Jesse Payne, will move into a fulltime position. He will replace Sgt. Tim Genry, who is going to work for the Shelby County Sheriff's department.

Councilwoman Billie Lacey and Councilman Johnny Holsomback were both absent, and no vote was taken on the matter.

Parker was asked to make a recommendation at the next meeting on hiring a new officer.

The police department budget, which includes a $6,900 figure for an additional employee's salary -- amounts to $195,131. That figure also includes a 5 percent raise which is proposed for all city employees.

In trying to come up with an [illegible] the problem of dog [illegible]ars said that he [illegible]ontracting with the [illegible]umane Society would be [illegible]ep in the right direction.

The service would cost the city $6,000 annually, but it's expected that the sale of tags and fines for violations of the dog control ordinance will bring in approximately $3,000.

Noting that it would be difficult to enforce the ordinance with cats, Councilwoman Catherine Legg suggested that proposal be tried if for no other reason than to emphasize the importance of vaccination.

Under the provisions of the ordinance, dogs need not be confined -- provided they are not a nuisance -- as long as they are wearing a tag. The tags will cost $3.

The council agreed that the matter be handled by having city attorney Jim Standridge add an adendum to the present ordinance.

In other matters, the council acted on a request from municipal judge Eason Mitchell to appoint a substitute judge.

The council appointed Bruce Green to serve in Mitchell's place when he cannot be in court. There will not be any additional cost for Green's services.

Snowden hesitant about land sale to Atchison

The question of selling a small plot of county land has re-stirred the question of building a new courthouse.

Attorney Mike Atchison, of Shelby County Abstract Company, asked the county commission Monday, if it would sell a 16x26 plot of land it owns behind the title company and next to the courthouse parking lot.

Atchison said the land is needed for future expansion by his company.

Commission chairman Tommy Snowden hedged on the proposal. He said he wanted to run an opinion question on the general election ballot to see if the public supported the construction of a new county courthouse.

If the public supported such a project -- which Snowden said would take care of space and fire hazard problems -- the land might be needed.

Atchison said that talk of a new courthouse has been going on since 1958. If the county needed the land after selling it, he indicated the matter could be worked out.

Commissioners Harold Davenport and Leon Archer said they didn't think such a small plot would be needed, and a motion was passed to negotiate the sale.

Teague speaks

In Alabama schools

'Excellence expected'

by David F. Moore

"The rubber meets the road" in 1984.

That's what state superintendent of education Dr. Wayne Teague told the educators that filled the auditorium at Shelby County High School last Thursday for the annual Teacher's Institute and Shelby County Education Association meeting.

This will be the first full year Teague's "Plan for Excellence" will be in effect statewide.

"The public is expecting excellence, and now the fish bowl that is education is more transparent than ever," Teague told the crowd. "All over the state expectations are high.

"Excellence rests with each of us. The challenge is squarely up to us. The commitment I make to myself is this: public schools in Alabama are going to be better because of me. I'd like each of you to take that same commitment."

In line providing "reality, not rhetoric," Teague said he is pushing to have the latest oil lease windfall money invested for education purposes.

He wants the governor and legislature to use the interest for bonds to finance kindergarten classrooms and gyms for elementary schools. His comments drew a round of applause from the county teachers.

Teague noted that a recent Gallop poll showed that the public once again has confidence in education. Numerous points of concern that the poll noted echoed what he and other education leaders heard from some of the 14,000 Alabamians who gave input into the "Plan For Excellence" at 16 public meetings statewide, Teague said.

According to Teague, the "Plan" addresses the public's concern for:

- Protection of instructional class time;
- Too many school day money raisers;
- A cut in school night activities;
- Kindergarten;
- Parent-teacher conferences;
- Homework policies.

Beyond the new 15% salary increase, teacher pay is major concern of his, Teague told the audience. Because so many educators leave the system after five years for better jobs, Teague predicted a serious shortage of teachers in the future.

Rex Cheatham, representing George Wallace who was initially expected to attend the meeting but didn't, said the governor "knows we need to continue the climb" in teacher pay.

Wallace, who attended the institute in Columbiana two years during the heat of his campaign, promised at that time that he would have the SCHS auditorium air conditioned. The system was installed just prior to last week's meeting.

"Cheatham," said state board of education member Victor Poole, who spoke briefly to the crowd, "you go back and tell the governor that there are a few other auditoriums in this system that are still hot, and maybe some classrooms..."

Poole complimented the educators on the high testing scores made by Shelby County students. "You're holding up this district in a lot of areas," he said.

County education board chairperson Barbara Whitman made note of the newly adopted code of conduct.

"You have for your use a fair code of conduct that can be used uniformly throughout the county," she said. "The students have guidance. You have ammunition."

The general session was preceded by a meeting of the county education association, led by group president David Little.

Following the general session, teachers spent several hours in specialized group sessions.

Commission agrees to district county

The present commission seat races may be the last time that county commissioners run at large in Shelby County.

The commission agreed Monday to have new districts drawn up, and to have a bill drafted that would set up commission elections on a district basis, as opposed to an at large election.

"I'm convinced that if we don't take this action, the feds will have to do it soon," Commissioner John Ames said.

Already, several Alabama counties are being sued in attempts to make them change their commission races to a district method.

The commission agreed to have county attorney Frank "Butch" Ellis get input from planning commission head Paul Owens, so that the new districts could be drawn up by using census tracts, in keeping with federal guidelines.

After Owens' input, Ellis is supposed to have a proposed bill drawn up for the change.

Also at the meeting, the commission's directive to have all department heads cut out employee overtime was brought up.

"Apparently this is being violated," said commissioner Harold Davenport.

Initially, he made no reference to who was still working overtime. When commission chairman Tommy Snowden asked, it was brought out that James Masone is still working 48-50 hours per week.

Masone, who gave himself the title of director of micrographics and computer indexing, is paid $6 per hour for his time.

Snowden said that the pay came from probate office funding, but Davenport and Ames noted that the checks still go through the county payroll, and therefore are subject to the no overtime directive.

Arts broaden child's base of knowledge

The proverbial "reading, writing and 'rithmatic" is crucial to the sound education of Shelby County students. Indeed, anything that can be done to achieve excellence in the education of our children should be persued.

But man shall not live by bread alone. Nor should students be educated -- in the broadest sense of the word -- with books and blackboards alone.

Just a well educated student should know how to multiply, so should that person know the difference between a ballet and bassoon, between oil paintings and water colors, between a live stage performance and HBO.

It is to such ends that the Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County is seeking to broaden the horizons of students in all the county's schools. (See story on Page X-3.)

But to do this, the council needs the support -- that's spelled M-O-N-E-Y -- of all county residents.

Without support for this group, many children in Shelby County stand the chance of growing up illiterate in the ways of arts. And that, indeed, would be sad.

Writers' opinion

In Eason Mitchell issue

Writer looks to good side

Letter to the Editor:

In delving into the private lives of public figures, we always seem to pounce on that person's worst qualities and, therefore, tend to forget their good. This seems to be the case regarding Attorney Eason Mitchell.

The recent articles in the Birmingham News, which questioned his ability to be a competent judge because of some personal problems is nonsense. Those that question his competency are few in numbers and we say, consider the source. In spite of these recent articles let's not lose sight of the good Eason Mitchell has done for individuals and families alike in Shelby and surrounding counties. Mr. Mitchell is a compassionate human being who really cares about his clients and friends. That, in itself, is a rarity to find in a young man trying to make his way in the world. When Eason Mitchell takes a case, it's not "just a job" for him. He treats each case as if it were his own problem. His personal life has never interfered with the performance of his job.

Mud-slinging always goes on in politics and it usually becomes obvious that those slinging the most mud are only trying to cover up their own faults. Of course, jealousy plays a part in it, too, and Mr. Mitchell certainly has a career to be envied.

In closing, we, the many friends and clients of Attorney Eason Mitchell, despite the many rumors, most unfounded, remain unshaken in our belief and support and continue to be 100% behind him.

Libertarian Party alive, active

Letter to the Editor:

The Alabama Libertarian Party will be alive and well this November with a nearly full slate of Federal and State candidates.

The Libertarian Party advocates the liberty of the individual, across the board, and favors government limited strictly to protecting the life, liberty and honestly acquired property of the individual, against domestic crime and foreign attack.

Our principle campaign focus this year is the Repeal of the Federal Income Tax. The Income Tax was conceived as a collectivist means of nationalizing income, and never intended to merely raise revenues for legitimate government services.

Repeal of the Federal Income Tax would be a large step toward restoring the most basic property right of all: the right of an individual to the fruits of his or her labor, savings and investment.

To those who worry about "what would the government do"and about the deficit, these thoughts:

•Income Taxes account for only a little over 1/3 of all Federal revenues;

•Deficits are a result of Congressional spending orgies; the Grace Commission Report alone shows how deficits could be eliminated today simply by applying sound management practices to existing government services.

•At least $180 Billion and as much as $200 Billion, or 20% of the Federal budget, could be saved annually by "allowing" wealthy nations such as West Germany and Japan to pay their own defense bills, currently being footed by the American taxpayers;

•Something like $100 Billion could be saved by eliminating "entitlement" programs that

Good Morning

By Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

You stop and you look back and you remember the things that are, and the things that were, and things that were before that. And you go on, stil remembering, until the years pile up, and there is more time for remembering.

There was the bluebird that built his nest in the February rose bush, and flew off before the summer was half gone, so far away in a high sky that a fellow could only hear his piping.

There was a violet patch, prettier than a young girl, that held the wind in her bright blossoms until the stalks bent over like little fairies praying.

There was the old man, stooped in front of his log fire, the flickering light showing the lines in his face where the years had walked, willing to forget all his misery except the bitter cold of February.

There was his first valentine, so pretty she made his eyes burn, who went out of his life inside of two years, and came back again after fifty lovelier than ever.

There was a bird dog on point, on a little hill with the sage blowing in his face, a little ways in front of two men who would rmember, long after the hunt was over, the friendship that lingered on.

There were the baseball games on hot summer days, and the guys who were there, and after many years, for those who were left, the thoughts that wouldn't go away.

There was the mockingbird, who built her nest in Mrs. McMillan's side yard, and spent all of her time throwing a song around instead of rocks.

There was the pear tree in Granny's back lot that a cold wind nipped, only to come again the next April as lovely as before - as if faith, somehow, had spilled over and got on a tree.

There were the noises a cemetery knows on the little hills where tall trees grew, and through the years, the words of half a hundred persons bringing hope and comfort to those who were left behind.

There were all the little folks with freckles and bright eyes, and laughter that wouldn't go away, who tramped into a fellow's day like voilets along an old road, so lovely they took his breath.

There were the sick and the shut-ins, who looked for bluebirds outside their windows, bluebirds that came in unaware that a fellow found in his day after he had gone...

Yes, it has been twenty-five years, or maybe thirty. Or longer, maybe, since who can measure time, when time itself is such a hurrying thing. But this I know. If I were starting out all over again, to put down the words that other folks would read, I would hope, in my heart of hearts, that we could walk together, the same as before, for more years than either of us could count.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Normally a political column written a few days before a statewide election in which a seat in the U.S. Senate is up for grabs would be devoted exclusively to that race. But this is not a normal election.

Howell Heflin is seeking renomination and reelection to a second term in the Senate, but voter interest in that race is almost nonexistent. It's unlikely that one Alabamian in 10,000 could even name the seven other candidates who would like to capture Heflin's seat. (For the record, they are Democrats Wayne Borden and Margaret Stewart; Republicans Doug Carter, Joe Keith, Albert Lee Smith and Clint Wilkes; and American Libertarian Yana Davis.)

To tell it like it is, only one of the seven challengers could be called a "name" candidate. Smith is a former one-term Congressman from Birmingham. The others would properly be categorized as "run-for-the-fun-of-it" candidates.

Despite the non-interest in the Senate race, a heavier-than-expected voter turnout could result because of some very spirited local elections, plus two Congressional races. Of particular interest will be the race for Congress in the 1st District (Mobile and environs) where the incumbent, Republican Jack Edwards, is retiring after 20 years in the House.

Also being watched is the 6th District race (Birmingham), where freshman Rep. Ben Erdreich, a Democrat, is seeking a second term. His biggest challenge will come in November from former Democrat state legislator Jabo Waggoner, now a born again Republican.

* * * *

Where has the time gone? George Wallace reached the age of Social Security, Medicare, etc., last Saturday. In other pursuits, upon reaching 65, he would be encouraged to retire. There is no evidence to indicate that Wallace will ever retire. He's not the retiring sort...

Few people realize it, but in his first race for governor in 1922 the legendary Bibb Graves suffered the most one-sided defeat in state political history. Four years later he was elected governor, and was elected to an unprecedented-at-the-time second term in 1934.

After that first defeat Graves was quoted as saying he "hit the ground running." The same line can be used for George McMillan, runner-up to Wallace in the 1982 primary election.

McMillan too hit the ground running and is a certain candidate for the office in 1986. He said as much in a speech last week when asked about the '86 campaign: "For a person who came within less than a percentage point of defeating a great political legend, if he didn't intimidate me, certainly no one else will."

You can count McMillan in the race...

After considerable fanfare, the first meeting of a new organization called KID-PAC was held in Montgomery last week. The political action group is intended to unite parents to work for better schools, and its founders invision it as a threat to the AEA. At the first meeting State Supt. of Education Wayne Teague was present, so were several other officials and legislators. But only 50 parents showed up. There's a moral there somewhere.

Future looks bright for Shelco; unit gets new rescue vehicle

by Bert Seaman

Shelco's fire and rescue unit had some good news recently. The unit's fire insurance rating was dropped to a "7."

Assistant chief Allen Eisenberg said that means a savings in insurance premiums will amount to as much as $170-$200 a year for some homeowners.

That, said Eisenberg, is quite an accomplishment for a unit that began "working out of a front yard."

The unit now has a building and land valued at $125,000 on County 12 near the Shelby County Airport.

Last weekend the unit acquired a new rescue van. Eisenberg said that Shelco borrowed $10,950 to purchase the van which will replace the 10-year-old vehicle that has been in service since the unit began operating.

The old vehicle will be kept in reserve, Eisenberg said. That means the unit has six vehicles -- two class A pumper fire engines, a tanker, a brush truck, and the two rescue vehicles.

Shelco presently has 20 volunteers and the unit averages seven men to a call.

"We're getting more support now than we have at any time since we started," Eisenberg said.

He reported that the unit has contracts for medical rescue services with Wilton, Aldrich, Pea Ridge and Dry Valley, as well as with a number of industries in the area.

The charge for families in Shelco's coverage area is $85 per year.

"Although it's hard to do," said former chief Lonnie Thompson, "we don't answer calls to homes that are not members."

There are homes close to the fire station where the families are not members of the organization, he said.

The coverage area Shelco serves lies basically from the city limits of Alabaster to Montevallo, and from Calera to Dogwood. The coverage includes the areas of Spring Creek, Ebenezer, Moore's Cross Roads, Ivanhoe, Southern Hills, Meadow Green, Park Forest, Oakdale, Monte Tierra, Eddings Lane, Airport, Montebello, Monte-Verde, Montala Acres, Pineville, county highways 107, 84, 87, and parts of Counties 12, 16, 119, and 31.

Jay Wilson is chief of the unit.

benefit wealthy corporate farmers, defense contractors, and similar special interest groups, none of whom have ever been "poor" or could be reasonably expected to become "poor," even without government handouts.

As a great-uncle of mine, a farmer, used to say, "If you want the hogs to stop eatin', son, quit puttin' slop in the trough."

Similarly if we want the government to stop spending, stop deficits, and stop bankrupting us, as a first step we need to cut off the largest source of revenue: the Federal Income Tax.

Neither of the "Demopublican" candidates for president, nor any of the local Demopublican candidates, see anything essentially wrong with continued government control of the personal lives and business and work activities of individuals. They merely disagree about how government policy will be set up for the benefit of their own pet special interest groups.

The plain fact of the matter is: when government policy is such that some groups are favored over others, those other lose. Ultimately, everyone loses in reduced individual liberty, reduced income, and reduced opportunity for reward according to their own talent and abilities demonstrated in the free market.

The extent to which this nation is great is the exact extent to which individual men and women have been free to work, produce, save, invest, live, worship and rear their children as they individually see fit.

The Libertarian Party wants to "Restore the American Dream" not through government but by getting government out of the way and back into its proper role as domestic policeman and arbiter and foreign sentry for Americans.

Arts broaden child's base of knowledge

The proverbial "reading, writing and 'rithmatic" is crucial to the sound education of Shelby County students. Indeed, anything that can be done to achieve excellence in the education of our children should be persued.

But man shall not live by bread alone. Nor should students be educated -- in the broadest sense of the word -- with books and blackboards alone.

Just a well educated student should know how to multiply, so should that person know the difference between a ballet and bassoon, between oil paintings and water colors, between a live stage performance and HBO.

It is to such ends that the Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County is seeking to broaden the horizons of students in all the county's schools. (See story on Page X-3.)

But to do this, the council needs the support -- that's spelled M-O-N-E-Y -- of all county residents.

Without support for this group, many children in Shelby County stand the chance of growing up illiterate in the ways of arts. And that, indeed, would be sad.

Writer looks to good side

Letter to the Editor:

In delving into the private lives of public figures, we always seem to pounce on that person's worst qualities and, therefore, tend to forget their good. This seems to be the case regarding Attorney Eason Mitchell.

The recent articles in the Birmingham News, which questioned his ability to be a competent judge because of some personal problems is nonsense. Those that question his competency are few in numbers and we say, consider the source. In spite of these recent articles let's not lose sight of the good Eason Mitchell has done for individuals and families alike in Shelby and surrounding counties. Mr. Mitchell is a compassionate human being who really cares about his clients and friends. That, in itself, is a rarity to find in a young man trying to make his way in the world. When Eason Mitchell takes a case, it's not "just a job" for him. He treats each case as if it were his own problem. His personal life has never interfered with the performance of his job.

Mud-slinging always goes on in politics and it usually becomes obvious that those slinging the most mud are only trying to cover up their own faults. Of course, jealousy plays a part in it, too, and Mr. Mitchell certainly has a career to be envied.

In closing, we, the many friends and clients of Attorney Eason Mitchell, despite the many rumors, most unfounded, remain unshaken in our belief and support and continue to be 100% behind him.

Libertarian Party alive, active

Letter to the Editor:

The Alabama Libertarian Party will be alive and well this November with a nearly full slate of Federal and State candidates.

The Libertarian Party advocates the liberty of the individual, across the board, and favors government limited strictly to protecting the life, liberty and honestly acquired property of the individual, against domestic crime and foreign attack.

Our principle campaign focus this year is the Repeal of the Federal Income Tax. The Income Tax was conceived as a collectivist means of nationalizing income, and never intended to merely raise revenues for legitimate government services.

Repeal of the Federal Income Tax would be a large step toward restoring the most basic property right of all: the right of an individual to the fruits of his or her labor, savings and investment.

To those who worry about "what would the government do"and about the deficit, these thoughts:

•Income Taxes account for only a little over 1/3 of all Federal revenues;

•Deficits are a result of Congressional spending orgies; the Grace Commission Report alone shows how deficits could be eliminated today simply by applying sound management practices to existing government services.

•At least $180 Billion and as much as $200 Billion, or 20% of the Federal budget, could be saved annually by "allowing" wealthy nations such as West Germany and Japan to pay their own defense bills, currently being footed by the American taxpayers;

•Something like $100 Billion could be saved by eliminating "entitlement" programs that

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

You stop and you look back and you remember the things that are, and the things that were before that. And you go on, stil remembering, until the years pile up, and there is more time for remembering.

There was the bluebird that built his nest in the February rose bush, and flew off before the summer was half gone, so far away in a high sky that a fellow could only hear his piping.

There was a violet patch, prettier than a young girl, that held the wind in her bright blossoms until the stalks bent over like little fairies praying.

There was the old man, stooped in front of his log fire, the flickering light showing the lines in his face where the years had walked, willing to forget all his misery except the bitter cold of February.

There was his first valentine, so pretty she made his eyes burn, who went out of his life inside of two years, and came back again after fifty lovelier than ever.

There was a bird dog on point, on a little hill with the sage blowing in his face, a little ways in front of two men who would rmember, long after the hunt was over, the friendship that lingered on.

There were the baseball games on hot summer days, and the guys who were there, and after many years, for those who were left, the thoughts that wouldn't go away.

There was the mockingbird, who built her nest in Mrs. McMillan's side yard, and spent all of her time throwing a song around instead of rocks.

There was the pear tree in Granny's back lot that a cold wind nipped, only to come again the next April as lovely as before - as if faith, somehow, had spilled over and got on a tree.

There were the noises a cemetery knows on the little hills where tall trees grew, and through the years, the words of half a hundred persons bringing hope and comfort to those who were left behind.

There were all the little folks with freckles and bright eyes, and laughter that wouldn't go away, who tramped into a fellow's day like voilets along an old road, so lovely they took his breath.

There were the sick and the shut-ins, who looked for bluebirds outside their windows, bluebirds that came in unaware that a fellow found in his day after he had gone...

Yes, it has been twenty-five years, or maybe thirty. Or longer, maybe, since who can measure time, when time itself is such a hurrying thing. But this I know. If I were starting out all over again, to put down the words that other folks would read, I would hope, in my heart of hearts, that we could walk together, the same as before, for more years than either of us could count.

Normally a political column written a few days before a statewide election in which a seat in the U.S. Senate is up for grabs would be devoted exclusively to that race. But this is not a normal election.

Howell Heflin is seeking renomination and reelection to a second term in the Senate, but voter interest in that race is almost nonexistent. It's unlikely that one Alabamian in 10,000 could even name the seven other candidates who would like to capture Heflin's seat. (For the record, they are Democrats Wayne Borden and Margaret Stewart; Republicans Doug Carter, Joe Keith, Albert Lee Smith and Clint Wilkes; and American Libertarian Yana Davis.)

To tell it like it is, only one of the seven challengers could be called a "name" candidate. Smith is a former one-term Congressman from Birmingham. The others would properly be categorized as "run-for-the-fun-of-it" candidates.

Despite the non-interest in the Senate race, a heavier-than-expected voter turnout could result because of some very spirited local elections, plus two Congressional races. Of particular interest will be the race for Congress in the 1st District (Mobile and environs) where the incumbent, Republican Jack Edwards, is retiring after 20 years in the House.

Also being watched is the 6th District race (Birmingham), where freshman Rep. Ben Erdreich, a Democrat, is seeking a second term. His biggest challenge will come in November from former Democrat state legislator Jabo Waggoner, now a born again Republican.

* * * *

Where has the time gone? George Wallace reached the age of Social Security, Medicare, etc., last Saturday. In other pursuits, upon reaching 65, he would be encouraged to retire. There is no evidence to indicate that Wallace will ever retire. He's not the retiring sort...

Few people realize it, but in his first race for governor in 1922 the legendary Bibb Graves suffered the most one-sided defeat in state political history. Four years later he was elected governor, and was elected to an unprecedented-at-the-time second term in 1934.

After that first defeat Graves was quoted as saying he "hit the ground running." The same line can be used for George McMillan, runner-up to Wallace in the 1982 primary election.

McMillan too hit the ground running and is a certain candidate for the office in 1986. He said as much in a speech last week when asked about the '86 campaign: "For a person who came within less than a percentage point of defeating a great political legend, if he didn't intimidate me, certainly no one else will."

You can count McMillan in the race...

After considerable fanfare, the first meeting of a new organization called KID-PAC was held in Montgomery last week. The political action group is intended to unite parents to work for better schools, and its founders invision it as a threat to the AEA. At the first meeting State Supt. of Education Wayne Teague was present, so were several other officials and legislators. But only 50 parents showed up. There's a moral there somewhere.

Opening of '84 football season promises fans exciting action

If you like high school football, the opening weekend of the 1984 season will be like a dream come true.

Shelby County fans will be treated to three nights of competition, with traditional county rivalries and outstanding opponents which should make each game a thriller.

The Thompson Warriors will open the '84 season on Thursday night as they travel to Jemison. This game has become a traditional one, and Doug Wheeler's Warriors will have the attention of the entire county as they showcase their talents on opening night.

Two county clashes head the Friday night action.

Montevallo Bulldog coach Richard Gilliam will take his charges to Oliver Park where they will face Danny Alverson's Calera Eagles. The battle has become a traditional opener, and a traditional grudge match for both schools

A win will be an excellent start for either club.

Pelham coach Billy Tohill will take his Panthers to Columbiana where Ricky Seales will have a bunch of Shelby County Wildcats waiting. Both schools are looking for improved seasons in '84, and a win could make believers out of either team.

Vincent faces tough out of county opposition in its Friday opener. 1983 2A state champ Oak Grove travels to 'Jacket Country to face Vincent in a game coach Harold Garrett says will tell a lot about his squad's season.

Two other county squads must open their season on the road.

Chelsea head man Richard Conkle will be "back in the saddle again" as he takes his Hornets to Thorsby. Conkle feels his team can compete with the opponents on his '84 schedule, and an opening win on the road would be a big boost to moral at Chelsea.

The Coosa Valley Academy Rebels travel to Warrior Academy to open their season. Bruce Breland's boys went through a football camp last week to have them ready to roar in their opener.

The Shelby Academy Raiders provide a third straight night of football action on Saturday. Dewayne Kervin's team will host Escambia Academy at home near Montevallo. The Raiders hope their experience will provide the edge needed to start 1984 on the right foot.

Briarwood is the only county school not opening its season this weekend. First year head man Rick Sayle will have to wait until September 7, when he'll see his host Lions in action against Shelby County High.

Comin' at ya

High school football action is comin' at ya' full speed -- much the same as Thompson quarterback Kenny Johnson was running theWarrior offense one night last week during practice. Next time Thompson takes the field under lights, it will be for the real thing. (photo by K.A. Turner)

For the record...

The fall hunting season draws closer, and local hunters are beginning to get ready.

Officials at Oak Mountain state park are anticipating the hunting season as well. In an effort to help local marksmen prepare for the coming season, the park will sponsor a hunter education class.

The class will be taught by assistant park superintendent Talmadge Butler, who has taught this type class in the past. Past classes, he said, have been well – received by area hunters.

Topics include gun safety, the proper way to handle a gun, parts of the gun, and some hints on successful – – and safe – – hunting technique.

The class will meet from 6:30 – 10:30 p.m. on September 4 and 6. Attendence on both nights is encouraged.

There is no fee for the class. Those interested are encouraged to pre – register by calling Butler or Brian Phillips: 663 – 6783.

University of Montevallo basketball coach Bill Elder recently filled two vacancies on his Golden Falcon staff by turning to a pair of men with UM ties.

Calvin Cochran, a graduate assistant under Elder during last year's 19 – 11 season, has been hired to replace Terry Sellers as the Falcons assistant coach.

Former UM player Jeff Daniels will assume the duties of graduate assistant while persuing his masters is physical education at UM.

"Calvin did an excellent job for us as a graduate assistant," said Elder. "We feel like he is well – rounded in basketball fundamentals after playing at the University of Tennessee – Chattanooga."

Cochran will be primarily in charge of Falcon recruiting with some on – the – court duties.

Daniels played guard for UM from 1981 – 83. He lettered twice and won the Dean's Trophy for the UM senior athlete with the highest grade point average.

"I consider Jeff one of the better coaching prospects I've ever coached," Elder said.

The 120 – pound Thompson Youth Warriors scored a victory over Pelham last week.

The squad scored first half TD's on a run by Brian Bunn, an interception by Jason Stonicher, and a pass from Brady Thames to Jeremy Perkins.

Alan Barefoot added a two – point conversion and the Warriors posted a 16 – 0 lead at halftime, enroute to a 16 – 6 win.

Former University of Montevallo All-American basketball player Wylie Tucker has found his way back to the basketball court. Tucker, who has been serving as director of Career Planning and Placement at Talladega College, has been named as the school's basketball coach.

Tucker received his Bachelors Degree from Montevallo in 1978 and his Masters in Guidance and Counseling in 1982

"It was one of my goals," Tucker said about being named to the post. "I wanted to start where I could get some experience and I'm going to do the best job I possibly can."

K.A. Turner replaces Guarino at sports desk

by David F. Moore

Shelby County Reporter sports editor C. Fred Guarino has been replaced by veteran sports reporter K.A. Turner. The announcement was made this week by Reporter editor Jim Parks.

Guarino, who had been with the Reporter for six years, left his position to become a court reporter.

His successor should have no trouble finding her way around either Shelby County or stadium sidelines. She brings with her four years of experience from the now defunct Shelby County News, where she was both a sports writer and photographer.

"Fred has done a good job covering the immense territory in Shelby County, and we hope the best for him," said Parks. "We are very fortunate to be able to fill his position with someone as talented and dedicated as K.A."

"I've enjoyed working with all the coaches, the kids, the whole thing," said Guarino. "Most of them are real good kids, carry themselves with respect, and show pride for their schools and towns.

"Every time I've interviewed a kid, I've always been real impressed," he said. "Of course they all want you to take their picture and put them in the paper..."

Guarino, a native of Bessemer, graduated in journalism in 1976 from the University of Alabama. He worked two years at the Ceadartown (Georgia) Standard covering everything from sports to the state legislature, before coming to work as the editor of the Childersburg Star and Coosa Press, both of which were then owned by the Reporter.

Two years ago he moved to the Reporter where he worked both general assignments and sports. He said that covering the recent Shoal Creek PGA Championship had to be the highlight of his sports coverage.

Guarino said the most intriguing assignment he covered was the "Jack and Jill" story, in which he escorted two minors to various beer and liquor outlets where they made illegal purchases.

"What we suspected was true," he said. "I'm not sure what we accomplished as far as alleviating the problem, but we did put the public spotlight on it."

Guarino said the one aspect of his job he would miss the least, is the frozen feet he got from covering football games in the winter.

"To Katherine Ann Turner I bequeath my chewed-up styrofoam coffee cups, my writer's cramps, my bloodshot eyes -- and my frozen feet," he said.

With four years of sports coverage under her belt -- or motor-driven Nikon, as the case may be -- Turner is well aware of what she's geting into, and looking foward to it.

"It's nice to meet old faces and friends," she said. "I've always enjoyed sports and I'm a fan. It's nice to work at a job you like. I'd be watching the games even without the job."

Turner is a native of Auburn who grew up in Montevallo. She graduated from Shelby Academy in 1976, and from the University of Montevallo with a BS in music in 1981.

She went to work at the Shelby County News in 1976 as a photographer and darkroom technician. She quickly moved into sports coverage and was associate editor under News editor Kenny Hoblitzell when she left in 1980.

With her help, the News won the Alabama Press Association's Better Newspaper Contest for "Best Sports Page" in 1980. The Reporter won the same award the following year, as well as "Best Sports Feature."

"Obviously, Shelby County athletes and coaches offer the potential for good sports coverage," Turner said. "I am very pleased that Jim Parks wants to continue the tradition of good sports coverage for the fans in Shelby County. I look foward to meeting the challenge. It's nice to feel like you're where you're supposed to be."

For the past two years Turner taught music and math at Cahawba Christian Academy in Centreville, where she also coached girls basketball and softball. She is now enrolled at UM where she is working towards her teaching certificate in math.

"When I was playing high school basketball, the neatest thing was to have your name and your team's name in the newspaper," she said. "So to me, the most important thing in our coverage will be the kids. Big program or little program, I want them to feel like they have my attention and that someone cares about what they're doing."

Hello, goodbye

Why are these people smiling? Two reasons. K.A. Turner is smiling because she has a new job as Reporter sports editor. Fred Guarino, whom she replaces, is looking foward to going back to school where he'll study to become a court reporter. The two worked together to produce the stories and pictures for Football '84, a special 40-page section in this week's newspaper. (photo by David F. Moore)

Scouting report

Vincent Jackets charge toward tough opener

The Vincent Yellowjackets enter the 1984 season looking good on paper.

Harold Garrett's squad has experience at key positions, a stable of fine running backs, and good team speed and quickness.

"They probably have the best athletes in the county at Vincent," one area coach said during the August workouts.

But the Jackets also have one of the toughest starting assignments you could ask for Friday night. Garrett feels the contest will tell whether or not his "winners" on paper can be winners on the field.

Vincent will host Oak Grove at home to begin their '84 campaign. Oak Grove – – the 1983 2A state champs – – is an unknown quantity for most county fans, but Garrett and his staff respect the visiting Tigers.

"We'll definitely know what we are made of after Friday night," Garrett said. The Jackets are coming off a break – even season, but look to have a much – improved squad this year.

On the other hand, Oak Grove piled up a 12 – 3 mark enroute to the championship last season. The Tigers of Ronnie Gilliland have proven ability, and much of it returns for the '84 campaign.

"I don't know much about Vincent," Gilliland said when the Reporter spoke to him last week. "They seem to have a lot of speed, probably more than we do."

Because the Jackets did not see action in the spring, Gilliland has not been able to scout them effectively. "I think he (Garrett) has scouted us though," Gilliland said.

"We're planning to keep winning," Gilliland said when asked about his plans for the Vincent game.

The three year head man also indicated that his team will not look very different from its championship season style. The Tigers return 11 starters from the '83 season, seven on offense.

Tackles Danny Parsons and Butch Otwell anchor a line that averages over 200 lbs. The Oak Grove wishbone is ignited by runningbacks Tony Beckwood and Mark Burchfield.

As Gilliland expected, Garrett has scouted the Tigers, and has a good feel for what they will try to accomplish on the visit to the Jackets nest.

"If I were Oak Gove playing Vincent, I'd try to control the ball and keep it away from us," Garrett said. "They have a big fullback in Burchfield and will probably try to run straight at us.

"Bekwood can score on any play, so they'll also try to get him loose outside."

Garrett feels that the inside game will be the key to the contest, however. The Jackets return all – county noseguard Douglas Datcher, and Garrett feels he must have a good game for the Jackets to be successful. If he does, the Jackets' team speed should take care of the Oak Grove outside rush.

Garrett feels the middle of the defense will also be a key for Oak Grove. Burchfield was a second team all – state performer at middle linebacker, and the Tigers pretty much leave the middle defense to him.

"If Burchfield can cover the inside, then they can outnumber us outside," Garrett said. "We have to establish something inside – – run right straight at him and make him get some help. Then we can be free to use our speed outside."

Although the Vincent players respects their opponents, they are not in awe of them.

"I don't think our kids are intimidated," Garrett said. "We've been telling them all along that we want to give ourselves a chance to win in the fourth quarter. We've put a lot of effort into conditioning and we think we can make something good happen late in the game.

"Of course," he added, "we can't be behind 30 – 0 in the fourth quarter then win the thing."

Sibling netters set for tourney

For a young tennis player, to play in Flushing Meadows – – the site of the U.S. Open – – would be a dream come true.

That dream is now a reality for two young Shelby Countians.

Patrick and Bridget Herren, a brother – sister doubles team from Briarwood High School, play in Flushing Meadows next week.

The duo – – children of Wade and Vivien Herren of Cantebury Lane – – were the regional winners of the Equitable Family Challenge tennis tournament held recently in Memphis.

Although the Flushing national finals are not an actual part of the U.S. Open, the two tourneys – – both held in New York – – will run simultaneously, September 6 – 9.

According to their mother, Patrick and Bridget are "really excited" about the opportunity to play almost like they were in the Open. "They'll get to use the same locker rooms as the pros and get to meet some of them," she said.

Mrs. Herren went on to say the Family Challenge Tournament is special because it encourages family teamwork in competition. The parents will accompany the brother – sister team on their trip to New York.

Patrick, 17, and Bridget, 14, both play on the tennis team at Briarwood. In addition, both youngsters have been ranked among the top ten players in the state in their age division for the past several years.

Benefit tourney set

Shelby Countians have a chance to play golf with benefits.

Buxahatchee Country Club in Calera is the sight of the annual Ross Mullins Memorial golf tournament. This year's edition is scheduled for play Saturday, September 1.

The tournament is sponsored by the First National Bank of Columbiana. All proceeds go to benefit the athletic club at Shelby County High School.

Tournament play will extend throughout the day with shotgun starts. The tourney will be stroke play, with several flights based on handicap.

Entrance fee for the event is $25. Provided as a part of the fee is a cart, green fees, and lunch.

To enter, contact William Rasco at 669 – 3158 or 669 – 6009.

Chelsea cheerleaders

Varsity cheerleaders for the 1984-85 sports season at Chelsea High School are Shannon Bradley, Shelly Lee, co-head; Tracy Massey, head; Theresa Cain, Diane Smith, Kristi Smith and Kelley Kelton. Scouting report

Pelham, SCHS Cats set to scratch it out Friday

by K.A. Turner

County football fans can look for a real "cat fight" in Columbiana Friday night.

The Shelby County High Wildcats will host the Pelham Panthers to begin their 1984 season. Both squads expect the game to be a battle.

For one reason, Wildcat head man Ricky Seale and Panther mentor Billy Tohill seem to respect each other.

"Coach Seale is a fine young man and a good football coach," Tohill said.

Seale was also quick to praise his competitor, saying "Coach Tohill has them on a good weight program and I expect them to be a fundamentally sound football team."

A second reason to expect a battle is that both head men use the same basic offensive and defensive sets. Their squads feature an "I" formation on offense and operate from a "50" defense.

Because they are so similar, it stands to reason that both Seale and Tohill would see similar keys to winning their opening contest.

"Mistakes and turnovers worry me," Seale said. "Pelham is the kind of team that can take advantage of the mistakes you make."

Tohill echoed the feeling. "Because it's an opening game, I think mental mistakes could make the difference. We can't have unnecessary penalities and turnovers."

The quarterbacks from both clubs look to figure prominently in the contest.

Shelby County's field general is rich in experience. Kenneth Jones started several games at quarterback as a freshman, got all but one of the Wildcats starts as a sophmore, and started every game last year as a junior.

"I think we have one of the best quarterbacks around," Seale said.

Pelham's quarterback has a different background. Mike Bramblett was a starter last year -- as a linebacker. The offensive action he saw was on the other end of the snap -- at center.

But Tohill is not worried that Bramblett can do the job.

"If being a competitor and being intelligent and working hard can get the job done... he has all those qualities," the head man said.

While eliminating mistakes seems to be a big concern for both coaches on offense, Pelham's Tohill also has a defensive worry:

"We've got to eliminate the big play from Shelby County. They have a big play back in (tailback) Ambrose Woods and he ran all over us last year."

The Panthers hope to counter this year with a more aggressive defensive unit.

'We'll play basically the same defense we've played in the past, but I think we have people in positions now that are a little hungrier to go after the football," Tohill said.

While the Panther defensive faces are new, most of the Wildcat faces Seale will see are familiar. "We have a lot of returning lettermen and I think our kids know what to do," he said.

Seale indicated the biggest job for his squad will be executing what they know they must do to win.

Coach Seale and the Cats also have an additional worry with the opening contest -- it's a designated area contest and that could be crucial down the road.

The Cats hope to make the long trip to the state play-offs, and Seale indicated the contest could count in certain tie-breaker situations.

County connects with UM v'ball

There's a Shelby County connection in the University of Montevallo gym this fall.

The UM Lady Falcons volleyball team attacks its 1984 season with Wilton's Janeice Scoggins expected to contribute quickly.

Scoggins, a 5 – 6 setter – hitter, was heavily recruited by the Falcons after captaining the Thompson Lady Warriors volleyball team in 1983. She led the squad to a state championship, winning personal all – state recognition as well.

"I've liked her attitude all along," UM coach Beverly Warren said of Scoggins. "She's a very intense player."

The UM mentor also went on to compliment the Thompson program that sent Scoggins to UM."She comes from a winning program, and that will help her."

Warren was pleased with Scoggins play in the Lady Falcons pre – season practice sessions. Scoggins won the Hustle Award for pre – season in an informal awards ceremony last week.

To play a lot for the Lady Falcons this season, Scoggins still has to work very hard.The UM squad, which has made post – season tournament appearences for the last two years, agains appears to have good talent throughout.

Warren's squad boasts a returning second – team All – American in senior Theresa Straughn.Three additional seniors – – Blanche Watkins, Karen Kreger, and Amy Dishroon – – are expected to add valuable experience and maturity.

Transfers Candi Nichols and Cass Cluckey,returning blocker Kristy Golden and freshmen Donna Jenkins and Laurie Washburn round out the Lady Falcon squad.

Warren will need all of their talents. The Lady Falcons schedule offers the biggest challenge of the 1984 season. A lot of road games and an abundance of Division I opponents make the slate a rough one for the NAIA Lady Falcons.

"It's a tough schedule, but I purposely did that,"Warren said. "I believe in a tough schedule and feel that you need one to do well in post season play."

Shelby Countians get their first chance to see the Lady Falcons in action Tuesday, September 4. The UAB Lady Blazers will provide the competition that night in a scrimmage contest slated for 6:30 p.m. The Lady Falcons then prepare for their season opener in the Memphis State Tournament September 7.

The home opener for the squad will be September 11, as the team battles it out with the women from the University of Mississippi for Women. Match time is 7:30 pm in Myrick gym on the UM campus.

Speeding is way of life for 'Hut'

Waymond "Hut" Strickland continues to gain attention for speeding -- speeding, that is, on NASCAR All – American Challenge Series racetracks.

Strickland posted a victory in the Highland Rim series race in Goodlettsville, Tenn., last weekend. The win pushed him to second in series point standings, a scant 10 points behind leader Mike Alexander.

The All – American series is new to NASCAR, but that doesn't mean the competition is shabby.

Strickland, of Calera, took the checkered flag in Sunday's race a full lap ahead of second place finisher Bobby Allison. Alexander finished third. Red Farmer nailed down fourth.

"I was a little lucky," said Strickland of his third top finish of the season. With luck like that, competitors in series must be growing tired of it.

Strickland has devoted full time to his racing this year, despite the fact that his team does not have a sponsor.

"We've entered every race in the series this year, and I do think my experience is beginning to help," he said.

Strickland plans to drive his 1984, red and white Pontiac Trans Am -- #7 -- in the remaining six challenge races.

One of the coming events is the Coors 100 on Labor Day evening at Birmingham International Raceway. BIR officials view Strickland as the favorite in that race.

Inspiration

There's nothing like a little chat with the coach to get a player fired up to deliver a good strong lick, and that's what happened with one Montevallo defender (left) during practice last week for the 'Dogs opener against Calera. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Scouting report

Neighbors feud at Oliver Park

by K.A. Turner

Good neighbors are nice to have -- most of the time.

For 51 weeks out of the year, Montevallo High School and Calera High School are good neighbors. This is the week they aren't.

Richard Gilliam's Bulldogs travel to Calera to face Danny Alverson's Eagles Friday night. Local fans can bet the close ties that bind the two teams will do nothing to make the action less aggressive.

The annual Calera – Montevallo clash is not an area contest. Throughout its history, the game has only figured into area comptition twice. Still, the clash continues to be BIG for both schools.

"It's such a big game because we're neighbors," Alverson said. "It's a game of pride for us. A lot of our kids have friends who play for Montevallo."

Gilliam's involvement with his "neighbors" is even greater. The MHS mentor lives in Calera, has a daughter who twirls in the Calera band, and a son who plays junior high football for the Eagles.

Add to that the fact that Gilliam coached at Calera for seven years – – years in which Danny Alverson wore the Calera blue and played for him.

"Part of my heart is still in Calera, but it doesn't mean we don't want to beat them," Gilliam said.

But beating the Eagles – – who won four of the neighborhood wars in a row before the Dogs shot down the Eagles last season – – won't be easy according to Gilliam.

"If they have a weakness I can't see it," he said. "They are not real big but i. most positions they are bigger than we are."

Alverson sees the size match – up a little differently.

"Their line is much bigger than ours. It will be hard to control the line of scrimmage but we have to do it to be successful," Alverson said.

The Calera head man also thinks his squad will need some big plays to stay in the contest. The Eagles will depend on a stable of fine runningbacks plus the experience of quarterback Mark Jones to turn in the crowd – pleasers.

Gilliam feels his Dogs must stop the big play, and is concerned about the talent in Calera's "skill" positions.

"They are so deep in the backfield and they've got that big quarterback," he said. "We'll have to work very hard to control them."

Alverson feels his Eagles are the team with their work cut out for them. "I think they're ranked number three in the state in 3A," he said.

"That big line with (Lonnie) Layton and (Johnny) Holsembeck will go against our line that averages 170 pounds. We'll have to rely on our God – given speed and hope we can make something happen."

The Calera – Montevallo tilt will take place FRIDAY evening at Calera's Oliver Park. The game was originally scheduled for Thursday evening competition, but home team Calera made the change official early this week.

Of the change, Alverson said, "With all the emphasis from the state on excellence in education we felt we needed to play on Friday night."

Social deadline: noon Monday

Dear Reader,

In recent weeks an unusual amount of attention has been focused on political signs mushrooming on the high-ways and by-ways. The Primary election will occur on Sept. 4th, so the appearance of the signs is not surprising. AS ONE ONE OF THE CANDIDATES, I concur fully that the signs are unsightly and obtrusive, and the motorist and the property owner cannot turn off as could a T.V. ad be turned off. The roadway signs intrude without your invitation, and in some cases, without your needed permission. I am not aware of any of my signs being on private property - but as a candidate I ask for forebearance for just a while longer. As a winner or loser in the election (Nov.) you will not see my signs for 6 years.

J.R. (Bob) Thompson

Amendment No. 2

STATE OF ALABAMA
PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Alabama Legislature at its Regular Session of 1984 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, set out here as Act No. 84-399, and further ordered in Act No. 84-399 that such election be held at the first statewide primary, general or special election after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984; and

WHEREAS, the date of the first statewide primary, general or special election held after the expiration of three (3) months from the final adjournment of the Regular Session of the Legislature in 1984 will be and occur on September 4, 1984; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provision of Act No. 84-399 to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in every county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election, in a newspaper published in each such county;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

"Section A. As used in this Amendment the following terms shall be given the following respective meanings:

"County" means Mobile County.

"Outstanding Securities" means any bonds, warrants, notes or other securities issued by the County subsequent to September 30, 1979, and prior to February 1, 1984, that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds received by the County from the ad valorem tax authorized by Section 215 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended.

"Outstanding Special Tax Securities" means any securities at the time outstanding that are payable in whole or in part out of proceeds of the Special Tax.

"Special Tax" means the annual ad valorem tax on each dollar of the assessed valuation of taxable property in the County authorized to be levied by the County by the amendment known as Amendment XVIII to the Constitution of Alabama, as amended by the amendment to the constitution known as Amendment CLII, and also provided for in the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments C, CXXII, CLI, CXCIII, CXCV and CCC, and by procedures taken under the amendments to the constitution known as Amendments CCCXXV and CCCLXXIII.

Section B. Mobile County is hereby authorized to apply proceeds of the Special Tax to the payment of the principal of and interest on (and premium, if any) that will hereafter mature or otherwise become payable on the Outstanding Securities. The right of the County to apply the proceeds of the Special Tax for payment of the Outstanding Securities shall be subject to the provisions of this Constitution respecting the Special Tax and the pledge thereof for the benefit of the Outstanding Special Tax Securities. The proceeds of the Special Tax may be used for payment of the principal and interest on (and premium, if any) on the Outstanding Securities, whether or not any bonds are issued hereunder.

Section C. Mobile County is hereby authorized to issue from time to time its bonds for the purpose of refunding all or any one or more of the issues of Outstanding Securities. The aggregate principal amount of all bonds at any time issued under this Amendment, when added to the aggregate principal amount of all then outstanding bonds theretofore issued by the County under any other amendment to the Constitution of Alabama that are payable from or secured by the Special Tax shall not exceed 6½ per centum of the assessed valuation of taxable property situated in the County as assessed for County taxation for the fiscal year of the County next preceding that during which any bonds herein authorized shall be issued.

No bonds may be issued under the authority of this Amendment until after the question of the issuance of such bonds shall have been submitted to the qualified electors of the County at an election called for that purpose by the governing body of the County and a majority of the said qualified electors voting at the said election shall have voted in favor of the issuance of such bonds; provided, that if a majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment shall vote for the adoption thereof, then the approval of this Amendment expressed by the said vote in favor of its adoption shall of itself authorize the issuance of the bonds provided for in the first sentence of this Amendment and no additional election by the electors of the County shall be required to authorize the issuance of those bonds. If the majority of the qualified electors of the County participating in the election on the adoption of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the adoption of this Amendment, or if the majority of the qualified electors of the County voting at any election called by the governing body of the County under the provisions of this Amendment should not vote in favor of the issuance of the bonds proposed at an election so called, the governing body of the County may from time to time call other elections hereunder on the issuance of such bonds, but not more than one such election shall be held during any period of twelve consecutive months. Any such election called by the governing body of the County shall be called, held, conducted and canvassed, and may be contested, in the manner and within the time provided by the then existing general laws of Alabama pertaining to elections on the issuance of bonds by counties.

The bonds issued hereunder shall be general obligations of the County for the payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit of the County shall be irrevocably pledged, and in addition thereto there shall be irrevocably pledged for payment of the said principal and interest so much of the Special Tax as may be necessary to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities, each such pledge to be on a parity with all valid pledges of the Special Tax at any time heretofore or hereafter made, to such extent as shall not impair the obligations of any then existing valid prior pledges.

All bonds issued under this Amendment may be in such aggregate principal amounts, may be in such form and denominations and of such tenor and maturities, may be payable in such installments and at such time or times, not exceeding in the case of each such bond 30 years from its date, and may contain such provisions not inconsistent with this Amendment as shall be provided in the proceedings of the governing body of the County whereunder such bonds shall be authorized to be issued. Except as herein otherwise provided, all bonds issued under this Amendment shall be issued in accordance with, and shall be subject to, the provisions of the general laws of Alabama existing at the time of the issuance of such bonds respecting the sale, execution, issuance and redemption of bonds by counties. The indebtedness evidenced by the bonds issued under this Amendment or under any other amendment to the Constitution which are payable out of or are secured by a pledge of the Special Tax shall be in addition to and shall not be charged against the limitation on the indebtedness of the County provided for in Section 224 of the Constitution.

So long as the principal of or interest on any of the bonds issued under this Amendment remains unpaid, the governing body of Mobile County shall continue the levy of the Special Tax at such rate as may be sufficient to pay the said principal and interest at their respective maturities. The rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax is hereby fixed at 6½ mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of properties subject to taxation by the County as assessed for County taxation, which rate shall be the maximum rate at which the County may levy the Special Tax except to the extent that the said rate may be increased pursuant to provisions of this Constitution hereafter adopted. Such rate shall not be subject to adjustment pursuant to the provisions of Amendment 195 to the Constitution.

Section D. The provisions of this Amendment shall be self-executing, and authorization from or other action by the Legislature shall not be a prerequisite to the issuance of bonds hereunder, the levy of the Special Tax for payment thereof, or the use of the proceeds of the Special Tax for the purpose of paying the principal of or interest on the Outstanding Securities.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election to be held on Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, upon the above set forth proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 4th day of September, 1984, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said county, and in a county where no newspaper is published, a copy of the notice shall be posted at each courthouse and in three other places in the county.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the State Capitol in the City of Montgomery on this the 12th day of July, 1984.

2 The Plaintiff, Myrtice Wilson Watts, is the executrix of the estate of Albert Herman Sanders and claims an interest in the above styled real estate.

3. The plaintiff, by and through her attorney, has made reasonable and diligent search and inquiry, which search was laborous and required a considerable amount of time and expense to determine all the persons who own an interest in the property described in Paragraph One and those persons and their interest are set out in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated by reference as if set out fully herein. The plaintiff further claims that the plaintiff has paid taxes upon the aforestated real estate and is entitled to reimbursement and has gone to considerable expense to determine most of the persons who claim an interest in the property described in Paragraph 1 hereof and that it would be just and equitable for the plaintiff to be reimbursed her expenses and for the court to determine an attorney's fee to be awarded to plaintiff's attorney. Plaintiff further avers that it would be in the best interest of all the parties to this action and to all the persons who claim an interest in this defendant land that the cost of title insurance, if an insurance company licensed to insure title in the State of Alabama will issue a policy, be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.

4. Plaintiff further alleges that there are certain persons who may claim an interest in the property as described in Paragraph 1 hereof and who may be of unsound mind or who may be minors and that it would be in the best interest and welfare of said persons, if any exist, if a guardian ad litem were appointed by the court to protect the interest of any minors or any persons of unsound mind.

5. The Plaintiff further avers that it is impossible to make an equitable division of the property described in Paragraph One hereof and that it is necessary for said property to be sold and the proceeds of sale, after payment of expenses, be divided according to the interest that this court shall determine each party may have in the described premises.

WHEREFORE, Premises considered, Plaintiff demands judgment as follows:

a) That this Honorable Court will appoint a guardian ad litem to represent any and all unknown parties who may claim an interest in the defendant land and any and all unknown parties who may be minors or persons of unsound mind and any and all persons who may be in the Armed Forces of the United States and to represent any and all persons who may come under any other legal disability.

b) That this Honorable Court will issue an Order and Decree determining the interest that each and every person may have in the defendant land and order that the defendant land be sold by order of this court in a manner according to law and that the proceeds be divided according to the court's order, after attorney's fees and expenses of sale.

c) Plaintiff further prays that this Honorable Court will order that the Plaintiff be reimbursed plaintiff's expenses and that the Plaintiff's attorney be awarded a reasonable attorney's fee, considering the extraordinary amount of time that has been required to be devoted to this case to be paid from the expenses of sale. Plaintiff further prays that the plaintiff be granted the cost of this suit and all costs of title insurance, if attainable, be reimbursed to the Plaintiff.

d) The Plaintiff further prays for such other, further and additional relief as this Court may deem just, proper and equitable.

In memory of Dorothy Elizabeth Martin who was laid to rest December 11, 1983.

On Aug. 22, 1983
You wandered away,
For you could not see,
You could not hear
Those who called
Yet they were so near.
You died all alone
In forest land
With no one around
To hold your hand
God used his eyes
To watch each step,
His ears to hear your cries
He took your hand
And lead you home
To His Promised Land
No more sorrow you will have
No more fear or pain
We love you and we'll miss you Dot,
Until we meet again.

Toast of Dunnavant

Dunnavant Water Authority chairperson Margie Isbell, county commission chairman Tommy Snowden and authority secretary/treasurer Robert McCullough use jars of dirty water from Dunnavant wells to toast the $276,000 grant which will help them tap on to city water from Leeds. Isbell said that others who helped secure the loan include (second row) Senator Frank "Butch" Ellis, Rep. Sonny Moore, Rep. John Tanner, (rear) engineer James Norwood and commissioner Jake Morris. and defray the cost of residential hookups to qualifying households.

According to authority secretary/treasurer McCullough, the entire project will take 12-18 months to complete.

The funds for the project will be funnelled through the county commission after it takes bids on the project.

"It's all begining to materialize now. The grant will get us started," said Isbell. "We're thinking positively about the loan. We want to do the project in one phase, not two.

"We're trying to keep the cost (of the project and the water to be purchased from Leeds) as low as possible. A lot of people in Dunnavant are retired and elderly," she said.

Isbell and McCullough were thankful for the assistance the community received from Snowden, Morris, Norwood and members of the Shelby County legislative delegation, all of which they said helped land the grant.

"It was a team effort," she said. "They sacrificed their time to do this for us."

"It's been a long time for the people in Dunnavant," said Snowden. "But they had the faith and worked and wouldn't take no for an answer."

McCullough and Isbell said that people in the community are excited about the prospects of having good water, and several have already tried to pay tap on fees -- which, along with the water billing costs have not yet been determined.

Isbell said that the community would throw a big tap turning celebration upon completion of the project.

"We'll have a big day of it," she grinned, "and I'll be wearing a white blouse."

Damaged house concerns Montevallo

by Bert Seaman

Bats have taken up lodging in a Montevallo house formerly occuppied by college students.

Montevallo Mayor Ralph Sears told council members Monday that a letter from the Shelby County Health Department says the city should declare the house a public nuisance.

Sears said that a neighbor who lives next door to the house on the corner of Valley and Wills, complained that the bats which roost in the storm damaged house fly into their yard.

With bats, there is always the fear of rabies, Sears said.

Although the council members agreed that action should be taken to remedy the situation, they realized they must be cautious because of litigation already in progress involving the house.

Wyman Brown, owner of the property, filed suit against the city after a tree fell through the roof of the house during a violent storm late last year.

The council turned the matter over to city attorney Jim Standridge to determine what action should be taken.

Other rental property that needs looking after was brought to the council's attention by John Miller.

Miller represented the Highland Neighborhood Association.

He said that grass growing around the Gray Gables apartments on Hedgerow and Moody has not been cut all summer, and is 3-4 feet high.

If there is no response after the owner has been notified that the property should be cleaned up, the city can have the grass cut and bill the owner.

Councilman Grady Parker, who lives in the neighborhood, said that that there has also been no maintenance on the buildings, and that they are deteriorating.

Complaints have also been received about a house on State 119, reported city administrator Don Hughes.

The area is zoned for single family units, which only allows two unrelated people to occupy a dwelling. But Hughes said that there are usually four or five cars in the yard.

It is difficult to enforce the zoning regulation, Hughes said, because people claim they are just visiting.

The reason for having the ordinance, the city administrator explained, is because the amount of refuse and cars increases in proportion to the number of people in residence in a dwelling.

While Miller was addressing the council, he called the council's attention to other matters of concern of the Highland Association.

He asked the council to consider taking action on the following: reducing the speed limit, posting signs for children at play and for residential parking, and putting a four-way stop sign at Highland and Moody.

Announcing the resignation of Montevallo librarian Mayme Yarbrough, who has held the position a number of years, Councilwoman Catherine Legg said that applications are being taken for a replacement.

Humane society requests barn to keep burros

The county commission agreed Monday to survey land it owns near the animal shelter, so that the humane society will have a place to build a barn.

The request was made by society director Anne Speakman, who said the group was contracting for burros from a western firm. The burros would be sold locally and create at least enough money to cover the cost of caring for them, Speakman said.

Wood for the barn was donated by Alabaster policman James Lumpkin, and Speakman said the rest of the materials and labor would also be donated.

Acknowledging that the $24,000 the county budgeted for the society last year, Speakman put in a plea for an additional $12,000 this year. She said the society and the shelter give the county a return of $3 on every $1 budgeted.

"If the budget is approved," she joked, "we won't bring 80 burros and turn them loose in the parking lot."

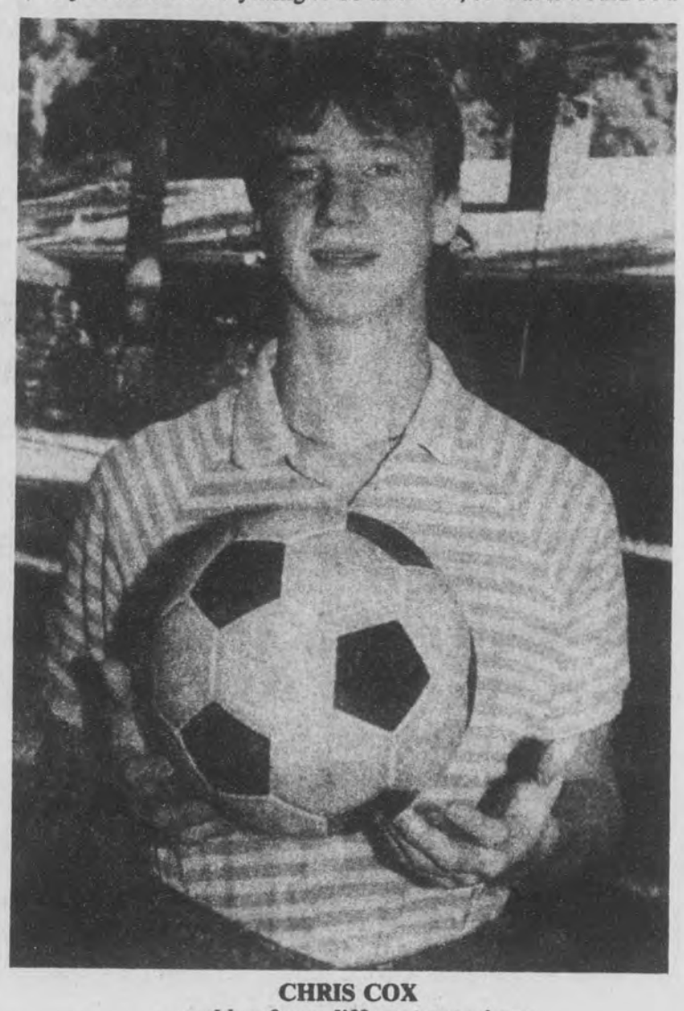
Cox: off for something new

by Bert Seaman

When it was time for him to go to college, Chris Cox decided he wanted it to be a long ways off.

"I just wanted everything to be different, so that it would be a completely new experience," explains the 18-year-old Wilsonville youth.



CHRIS COX
...seeking for a different experience

With that in mind, Chris chose Yale, one of the country's oldest universities located in New Haven, Connecticut.

Weather is one thing that will be a completely new experience, so Chris says he's been buying plenty of warm clothing to make it through a frigid northern winter.

His mother, Marie Cox, has been scouting around for sheets for his dormitory bed. Since Yale is an old school, Chris explains that the beds are seven feet long.

Chris explains that the reason he chose Yale over MIT and some other northern schools, is because it has a more diversified program. Although he expects to major in mechanical engineering, he says he's interested in more than just engineering.

At Indian Springs -- the private institution in North Shelby County where Chris went to high school -- he says he enjoyed taking Latin and French, and was a member of the teams that competed both within the state and nationally.

English was another favorite subject. "I love to read," Chris says, "especially the classics."

One of his favorite books, which he says he has read through twice, is the three-volume work, "Lord of the Rings."

But even though he likes the languages, it's physics and calculus that drew most of his attention.

"I'm interested in technology," he explains. "That's why I decided to study mechanical engineering." He goes on to say that because the environment has been changed so much, he feels it's important to know a lot about it, too.

As for personal goals after college, Chris smiles and says he wants to make a lot of money by the time he's 25, so he can buy a yacht, do some traveling, and write a novel.

Although he made top grades at ISS and was a national merit scholarship finalist, one would be hard pressed to call Chris Cox a "bookworm." He likes the outdoors too much for such a label, and is interested in most any kind of sports -- especially soccer.

A fullback with the ISS soccer program, Chris reports that the team has had a winning season since he has been at the school.

Even though he hasn't had the opportunity to participate in track, Chris says he likes to get out and just run. "I've just been Sickle of death?

Silhouetted against the sky, the blade of this antique power mower sickle is rusty and non-functional, except as a conversation piece. The sickle is located near the Regressive Farmer's suffering veggie patch in the Kingdom Community. As a long standing symbol of death, does this signify the end of the Regressive Farmer? You'll find the answer on Page X-2. (photo by David F. Moore)

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

Smoky Robinson and the Miracles once sang that one of the saddest things in the world is "the tears of a clown, when no one's around."

The song conjures up a melancholy image in my mind. I can picture an empty big top in a far away cold city, and up in a dark corner of the tent, soiled popcorn scattered around his size-24 shoes, sits a lonely Bozo, sobbing bitterly so that the warm tears cause the bright makeup of his smile to run together in ugly smudges and drip off his chin onto a tattered costume that's supposed to look funny, but instead looks depressing as it drapes over his slumped frame...

But if you think the tears of a clown are sad, you haven't lately seen my garden -- or what's left of it.

There's some things I've seen are sad
But ain't nothing quite so bad
As my dry, brown garden,
And my dirt that's a hardin'.
My dry brown garden,
And my dirt that's a hardin'.

MY GARDEN IS DEAD. Kaput. Terminated. It doesn't work any more.

Bruised, brown, soggy tomatoes drip yuck from the three drooping plants that are still standing. I pulled out the sorry corn stalks several weeks ago because it pained me too much to see them bent over, rattling in the wind.

Once majestic squash plants, slowly at first and later much faster, withered into dead white plants that look like empty-handed skeletons.

Much of what I had grown was fried by the sun. What the sun didn't cook -- my peas, for instance -- made for a hearty picnic for the horde of avaids that brazzenly appeared one day.

"Hey!" the little jerks hollered at the back door. "You got some bacon dripping for these peas?"

To be honest though, the Regressive Farmer was probably his own worst enemy. I can't -- actually, I CAN, but I SHOULDN'T -- blame all my veggie failures on the weather, on Ma Nature's little bug friends, or on my total lack of gardening knowledge and common sense.

My biggest problem with the garden is that I simply didn't spend enough time working it. Part of that's because it's so time consuming being a "mild-mannered reporter" at the newspaper. As far as that goes, I have honestly spent more time writing ABOUT my garden, than I have working IN it -- which ought to help put my gardening ways into proper perspective.

But I really can't place all the blame for my dead garden on my job. I mean, I can remember several nights this summer when I got home before 10:30 and still had pretty good moonlight left by which to work...

So it goes,
And so it went.
I gave it try,
Now my garden's spent.

TOSSING IN THE TROWEL, SO TO SPEAK: The garden didn't die all at once. It had been working its way up to it -- or down to it -- since July.

Since then, I made several attempts to revitalize my veggie patch, but they were sort of half-hearted licks with a dull hoe. After a while, things reached the point that it was simply too sad, too depressing to even walk out to the garden.

Some people joke about their "brown thumbs." Not me. I'm serious about mine. Not only are my veggies dead, but even the big, soft rubber, anti-wabbit Boa Constrictor I put out in the garden died. One day I picked him up to wipe the mud off his once green body, and the sucker broke in half.

Once I tried to fool myself into thinking I would plow up the veggie patch again and put out a second crop -- even if it meant growing greens.

"Baby, there's no point in doing that," my wife said. "You won't have enough time. And you shouldn't feel too sadly about the garden, anyway. We got lots of good things out of it."

Nice try. But still, I was sad. Watching your garden die is about as fun as watching the man at the garage add up how much it's going to cost you to have your car engine rebuilt.

There was nothing to do but throw in the trowel.

THE SPILLED MILK PHILOSOPHY: As we all know (or are supposed to know), there's no point in crying over spilled milk -- not unless you get a good spanking for it, anyway.

With that in mind (the old saying, not the spanking), I got to thinking about Don Klasing, an easy going friend who died this spring. Don was famous for saying, "Whatever..."

With his easy going philosophy in mind, I dedicated my garden to him after he died.

The other day I forced myself to look at the remnants of that garden, and I had a little chat with myself while I did this.

"Self," I said. "It was fun while it lasted. And you did manage to grow some tastey vegetables before everything turned brown. And certainly there's something to be said for the feeling it gave you when you helped bring forth life from the ground. So you gotta get over this silliness."

After this self-guided pep talk, I felt somewhat better; but dang it, I still couldn't shake all the sad feelings I had for the loss of my garden.

There's some things I've seen are sad,
But ain't nothing quite so bad...

AHH, BUT IF ONLY YOU OPEN YOUR EYES. It seems like I could remember some of the simple lessons and truths to be found in life. But more often than not, I forget them, close my eyes to them, or simply get so wrapped up in my own problems that I lose my proper perspective of the big picture.

Now I realize that my dead brown garden with its last dripping tomatoes rotting on the vine is not even close to being as sad as I thought.

I had my eyes opened the other day when I saw a youngster who was badly handicapped, who never in his life will know the joys of hiking to the top of mountain, hoeing a garden or even having a job that keeps you running all the time and working too many hours.

The crying clown with the size-24 shoes may be sad, but at least he has legs. The youngster I saw the other day had no legs. But if he was sad, he certainly wasn't wasting any time on the matter. The kid was too busy playing, to busy living, to busy GRINNING to show sadness.

I don't mind being regressive in the ways of farming, but crying over a dead garden is more regressive than I need to be.

So the avaids came, the sun did some cooking, the weeds got neglected. SO WHAT? I'll show 'em. I'll plant another garden next year.

Whatever...

And with the garden down the ol' tubes, what sort of fate awaits the Regressive Farmer?

Well, I can tell you this, it's going to take a lot more than a few weeds and avaids to keep the Farmer from writing his column.

What I've decided to do is move the Regressive Farmer to the "A" section of the Shelby County Reporter. I think planting him on Page 5 -- next door to the editorial page -- might be a good place for him.

With the proper fertilizer -- and some could slop over from Page 4 -- who knows what the Regressive Farmer might produce?

Arts council urgently seeks funding for school programs

by David F. Moore

The Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County is seeking to brighten the cultural horizons of county school children. That goal, however, is being threatened by lagging donations individual and corporate donations to the arts council.

To date, some $3,600 has been donated by concerned citizens and corporations towards bringing a rounded slate of arts programs to all the county schools during the upcoming year.

The cost of programs is about $10,800. A grant for $3,800 has been awarded from the Alabama State Council on the Arts and Humanities, but even with that, the arts council still needs to raise $3,400 more than it has already collected.

Programs proposed for the 1984-85 school year include:

•Dance, music and drama presentations for all seven high schools, presented by the Alabama School of Fine Arts.

•Twenty-three lecture/demonstrations for all county schools, presented by the State of Alabama Ballet.

•Performances by Children's Musical Theatre in all 18 elementary and middle schools.

•Lecture/demonstrations by three members of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra in all 23 county schools.

•Programs presented by the University of Montevallo, including pottery demonstrations by Ted Metz, entertaining art appreciation slide shows by Dr. Frank McCoy, and a traveling art exhibit for all the schools.

"This is what we propose to bring to the school children of Shelby County," said arts council president Pat Bird of Calera. "But if we can't get all the money that's needed, the proposed schedule will have to cut back."

Council officers are making a renewed effort to enlist new members and additional donations, and hope to reach the goal soon so that final scheduling for the programs can be made.

A report on the drive will be given Thursday, September 20, when the arts council holds its first of four public meetings. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Thompson Elementary cafeteria.

A November 13 community meeting is set for Montevallo, and other meetings are scheduled for Pelham and Columbiana in February and May. All the meetings include brief business sessions, refreshments, and arts performance or program.

The Thompson High School band will perform at the September meeting, and arts council officers are negotiating for the appearence of a second performing group.

Past features at the community meetings have included performances by the State of Alabama Ballet, the Red Mountain Chamber Orchestra, and members of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

Anyone wishing to join the arts council may do so at the community meeting. Individaul memberships are $10, family memberships are $15, and businesses, clubs and other institutions can join for $25 per year.

Sustaining memberships are available for $26-$50, sponsorships are available for $51-$100, and patronships can be secured for donations over $100. All memberships are tax exempt, and can also be made by mailing a check to: Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County, P.O. Box 1392, Alabaster, AL, 35007.

UM honors birthday of Bach

Two series of concerts and special events have been planned by the University of Montevallo Music Department to join the world commemorating the 300th birthday of Johann Sebastian Bach in 1985.

The first series, "Phenomenon-Bach: I," will begin Thursday, Sept. 6, Karyl Louwenaar presents a harpsicord concert of Bach's "The Goldberg Variations."

The public is invited to to this free concert,which will begin at 8 p.m. in the LeBaron Recital Hall on the UM campus.

Dr. Louwenaar, a professor of music at Florida State University, has performed throughout the United States and in western Europe. Her New York debut was held in the Merkin Concert Hall of the Abraham Goodman House in 1982.

She serves as president of the Historical Keyboard Society and is chairman of the society's international harpsicord competition. For 1983-84, Dr. Louwenaar received a Solo Recitalist grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Arts council urgently seeks funding for school programs

by David F. Moore

The Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County is seeking to brighten the cultural horizons of county school children. That goal, however, is being threatened by lagging donations individual and corporate donations to the arts council.

To date, some $3,600 has been donated by concerned citizens and corporations towards bringing a rounded slate of arts programs to all the county schools during the upcoming year.

The cost of programs is about $10,800. A grant for $3,800 has been awarded from the Alabama State Council on the Arts and Humanities, but even with that, the arts council still needs to raise $3,400 more than it has already collected.

Programs proposed for the 1984-85 school year include:

•Dance, music and drama presentations for all seven high schools, presented by the Alabama School of Fine Arts.

•Twenty-three lecture/demonstrations for all county schools, presented by the State of Alabama Ballet.

•Performances by Children's Musical Theatre in all 18 elementary and middle schools.

•Lecture/demonstrations by three members of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra in all 23 county schools.

•Programs presented by the University of Montevallo, including pottery demonstrations by Ted Metz, entertaining art appreciation slide shows by Dr. Frank McCoy, and a traveling art exhibit for all the schools.

"This is what we propose to bring to the school children of Shelby County," said arts council president Pat Bird of Calera. "But if we can't get all the money that's needed, the proposed schedule will have to cut back."

Council officers are making a renewed effort to enlist new members and additional donations, and hope to reach the goal soon so that final scheduling for the programs can be made.

A report on the drive will be given Thursday, September 20, when the arts council holds its first of four public meetings. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Thompson Elementary cafeteria.

A November 13 community meeting is set for Montevallo, and other meetings are scheduled for Pelham and Columbiana in February and May. All the meetings include brief business sessions, refreshments, and arts performance or program.

The Thompson High School band will perform at the September meeting, and arts council officers are negotiating for the appearence of a second performing group.

Past features at the community meetings have included performances by the State of Alabama Ballet, the Red Mountain Chamber Orchestra, and members of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

Anyone wishing to join the arts council may do so at the community meeting. Individaul memberships are $10, family memberships are $15, and businesses, clubs and other institutions can join for $25 per year.

Sustaining memberships are available for $26-$50, sponsorships are available for $51-$100, and patronships can be secured for donations over $100. All memberships are tax exempt, and can also be made by mailing a check to: Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County, P.O. Box 1392, Alabaster, AL, 35007.

UM honors birthday of Bach

Two series of concerts and special events have been planned by the University of Montevallo Music Department to join the world commemorating the 300th birthday of Johann Sebastian Bach in 1985.

The first series, "Phenomenon-Bach: I," will begin Thursday, Sept. 6, Karyl Louwenaar presents a harpsicord concert of Bach's "The Goldberg Variations."

The public is invited to to this free concert,which will begin at 8 p.m. in the LeBaron Recital Hall on the UM campus.

Dr. Louwenaar, a professor of music at Florida State University, has performed throughout the United States and in western Europe. Her New York debut was held in the Merkin Concert Hall of the Abraham Goodman House in 1982.

She serves as president of the Historical Keyboard Society and is chairman of the society's international harpsicord competition. For 1983-84, Dr. Louwenaar received a Solo Recitalist grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Getting ready

Thompson High School is moving into the computer age this year and that means lots of extra work for people such as (left to right) Gail Daniel, Vickie Livengood, Harriett Davis and Judy Brantley. Last Wednesday the women were working hard towards a Thursday deadline for building student schedules for the new computer system, and for smoothing out scheduling conflicts. (photo by Fred Guarino)

Humane society seeks city co-operation

by Bert Seaman

The Shelby County Humane Society called a meeting of local mayors last week to discuss problems with animal control.

Only one mayor showed up for the meeting.

Mayors who are leaving office and their successors were invited last Tuesday to tour the Humane Society shelter in Columbiana, and to talk about ways they might work with the society.

At the present time, Pelham is the only city that has contracted for services. An animal control officer works in the city 20 hours a week for a monthly fee of $1,000.

Burk Dunaway, who will step down as mayor of Pelham in October, was the only mayor to appear at Tuesady's meeting.

"We get more phone calls complaining about dogs than about anything else," the mayor reported.

Pointing out that animal control is the biggest problem that most cities have, society director Anne Speakman said that it's an area where the least money is spent.

Society members visited every council in the county this year in an effort to get cities to work with the Humane Society on animal control.

"The cost would depend on the size of the city and how many hours would have to be spent there," Speakman said.

As such, she noted that it would cost less for a city the size of Montevallo or Columbiana to contract for services, than it would for a city the size of Alabaster.

In order to better handle the load they already have, and to offer more services, the Humane Society has nearly doubled its proposed budget for the 1984-85 year.

Last year's budget was $49,500 -- the budget proposed for this year is $91,000. That includes a $1,000 increase that will be requested from the Shelby County Commission, which has been paying $2,000 a month.

"If every city would participate, we could do a better job," Speakman said.

A breakdown of animals brought to the shelter during the month of June is as follows:

- Alabaster -- 70
- Pelham -- 65
- Columbiana -- 85
- Montevallo -- 70
- Calera -- 20
- Harpersville -- 15
- Vestavia -- 14
- Birmingham -- 13

The Shelby County Humane Society has acquired a blowgun to catch stray dogs. It should be more effective than methods used in the past says Humane Society Director Anne Speakman, who shows Pelham mayor Burk Dunaway how the gun works.

in some fun runs to raise money for various things," he says.

At Yale, he hopes to include track along with playing soccer.

Other activities that appeal to Chris are water skiing, hunting, fishing and archery.

One more unusual thing that he gets a kick out of is the art of juggling. "I just decided it would be fun, so I taught myself how to do it."

Chris has exhibited his skill at the annual Pop-Out fairs at ISS, using axes, and torches as well as the conventional pins and balls in his performances.

And he's even demonstrated his skill for a college interviewer. "I guess he just wanted me to prove I could do it," Chirs laughs. "He gave me three glass mugs to juggle."

He passed the test, Chris says.

A native of Wilsonville, Chris was born several months after his family moved into the comfortable one story brick home on Spearman Street where they still live.

Coming from a large family has its advantages, he says. "It helps you accept the differences in people."

Chris has two brothers -- Steve, 34 and Mark, 23 -- and two sisters -- Melissa, 21 and Jan, 31.

To earn money for college, Chris worked on a farm this summer with Mark, who has now gone to work as band director at Calera High School.

"I like working on the farm," Chris says. "It's an escapist sort of thing."

Chris' father, Travis Cox, is a locomotive engineer at the A.E. Gaston steam plant. His mother operates Columbiana Jewelers.

Citizen group in North Shelby to hold county political forum

A new group called Concerned Citizens of North Shelby County is holding a political forum Thursday, August 30.

All candidates running for office in Shelby County are being given four-minutes to introduce themselves and answer questions asked by moderator Everett Holley of Channel 13.

After that, candidates will be given a one-minute limit to answer questions from people in the audience.

According to Louis McKean of Inverness, one of the group's organizers, 30 politicians have agreed to show up, including several candidates for U.S. Senate.

"We are witnessing phenomenal growth in North Shelby County," said McKean. "It is time to get involved."

Sherry Glenn of Cahaba Beach Road and Katie Arnold of Inverness helped form the group.

This the only forum which has been announced prior to the primary elections on September 4.

The forum will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium at Inverness Elementary, and the organizers urge all concerned county citizens to attend.

ELECT Gregg Rushton

County Commission Place 1

Let's Move Shelby County Forward on a sound, business-like Basis!

My candidacy is based on the premise that our TAX DOLLARS should bring us a better quality of life.....better health services, better education, better recreational facilities.

I would like to see our County managed soundly - just like YOU & I are required to manage our budgets at home or in our business.

I BELIEVE.....

- Sound management of tax revenues is not a hit & miss venture. It takes planning and a well thought-out program.
- Short term goals must be met in order to keep the County moving forward, but long term financial planning must be initiated NOW.
- It's time to take a good look at the services we provide our citizens. Are they adequate? Are broader services required? Shelby County is growing at a pace that demands these questions be answered NOW.
- It is the responsibility of the Commission to actively pursue continued county-wide growth and to create an environment that will invite new businesses, as well as families to our area.
- Our County Government must provide an open & receptive attitude in dealing with the concerns of citizens of THE ENTIRE COUNTY.
- THE SUCCESSFUL GROWTH OF SHELBY COUNTY DEPENDS ON THE MANNER IN WHICH THE SHELBY COUNTY COMMISSION CONDUCTS YOUR AFFAIRS.

Seeks quality students

UM launches national campaign

The University of Montevallo is launching an advertising campaign to recruit students.

But it isn't a numbers game says University President Dr. Jim Vickrey.

He says the University wants to build on the quality of students coming to the Montevallo school.

In order to attract the attention of a nationwide audience, UM has employed Kimbrough and Associates Advertising agency at $1,500 a month.

The ads, to be placed in Time, Newsweek and Sports Illustrated, are aimed at attracting more students from out of state.

Vickrey would like to increase the present four percent out-of-state enrollment to ten percent.

Along with magazines, radio and television will be used also in the advertising campaign, and there are plans to run a film clip prior to movie previews at Cobb Theatres.

Information about the university will also come out this fall when the New York Times publishes an educational supplement.

One of the things that will be mentioned in the advertising, Vickrey says, is the tuition cost of $1,000 for two semesters.

That is a good price for a public school, he notes.

By disseminating infomation to a nationwide audience, the school hopes to draw more out-of-state students.

Currently, only four percent of the university's 2,600 students fall in that category. Vickrey would like to see it at ten percent.

UM also is seeking to increase its black enrollment from approximately eight percent to ten percent.

Another goal of the campaign is to narrow the gap between male and female students. It is presently 63 percent women, 37 percent men. It is hoped more men will apply, thus changing the ratio to something like 55-45.

Although Vickrey says he wants to keep the school a small, quality institution serving mostly Alabamians, he adds that "a more diversified student body will add to the education of our students."

Part of the funding for the advertising campaign will come from UM's $14.6 million operating budget, recently adopted by the university's trustees.

The budget is the largest in Montevallo history.

Seventeen-year-old Mike Martin of Montevallo is one of 37 students from across the nation who attended the first National FFA Seminar on Computers in Agriculture in Washington D.C. Mike was a state winner of the FFA Computers in Agriculture Award, sponsored by AgriData Rescources, Inc. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. He is the son of David and Donna Martin.

MMI makes changes

A number of personnel and organizational changes have been announced by Marketing Management, Inc., a national mass-marketing company, based in Pelham.

The reorganization comes just short of four months of Robert W. Sosna succeeding Ken Williams as president and chief executive officer of MMI.

"The move was made bringing marketing and underwriting under one umbrella to maximize our strengths within MMI," Sosna said. "Additionally, this will provide stronger marketing and sales response for our customers, and better position us in the marketplace to accomplish our short and long range plans."

Reuben T. Bryant has been appointed to the new MMI executive position of vice president/controller. Bryant comes to MMI with ten years experience in upper-level management positions.

Bryant will direct and monitor the entire MMI corporate budget, systems operations, all planning processes, and a new program within MMI -- Human Resources.

Bryant was formerly controller for Harbert International Inc. He has a BBA from Baylor University and is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Coincidental with the company's reorganization is the resignation of Bob Cleveland, MMI's senior V.P.-marketing who has chosen to engage in field consulting and training within the insurance and sales industry.

Arthur Swenson, MMI vice president and program manager, will be responsible for all commercial lines underwriting and marketing with the exception of MMI's Jewelry Program. Swenson, who joined MMI in 1982, was formerly underwriting manager for the insurance group of Crum and Forester.

Carol Basden will continue working with the MMI Jewelry Program and will be responsible for underwriting and marketing of this program. Basden joined MMI in 1982 and has a CPCU professional designation.

Marketing Management Inc. has a network of 300-plus contracted local agents throughout the Northern Hemisphere. The company has long been recognized as a pioneer of commercial mass marketing.

What every county voter should know

The voting process is simple enough, but there are a few things Shelby County voters should remember before heading to the polls next Tuesday.

The Sept. 4 primary election is designed to select candidates for the Democratic and Republican parties who will run against each other in the Nov. 6 General Election.

At the polling place, voters will be required to declare which party they wish to vote in since the election is to pick a candidate only.

Voters cannot split the ticket in a primary election, and each voting machine will be set for whichever party the voter chooses. Voters also cannot write in a vote. These practices are allowed only in the General Election.

If more than two candidates are running for the same office in the same party, the two receiving the most votes will run against each other in the primary run-off scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 25.

However, if one candidate receives more than half of the total votes cast for an office, then no run-off is required for that place. A candidate who has no opposition in a primary will not be listed on the ballot at all.

Shelby County has 23 beats and some of the larger beats have two or more boxes. Each registered voter is assigned a voting place, according to where they reside, and only voters registered on the qualification list will be allowed to vote.

The polls in Shelby County will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

At the polling place, registered voters will be checked off the qualification list. A list of registered voters was published in the Shelby County Reporter on August 8. Any voter not on the list should check with the Registrars office before the election.

After being checked off the list and having declared party preference, voters then will be directed by poll workers to a machine. Each voter should make sure the machine is set for his or her party preference.

Voters needing assistance in voting may select a person to help them after filling out the proper paperwork.

To vote, voters first must move the red switch, located on the upper left side of the machine, to the right which closes the curtain. The levers next to each candidate's name then can be flipped down to show an "X." Should a voter change his mind or make a mistake, the lever simply can be flipped back up.

After all the correct choices have been made, the voter then must move the red switch back to the left, which will automatically raise all the levers, register each vote and open the curtain.

During the General Election, Nov. 6, all candidates running for office will be listed on the ballot, regardless of whether they have opposition.

Voters also may split their vote or write in someone's name not listed on the ballot.

Poll workers assisting Shelby County voters are appointed by a committee composed of the probate judge, the sheriff and the clerk of court. Nominations are made by Jim King, chairman of the Shelby County Democratic Party; and David Bradley, chairman of the Shelby County Republican Party.

When a member of the committee is running for re-election, a substitute is designed to act in his place for that election.

PTO posters

Lisa Hatcher, Karen Ziegler and Ryann Stanton were some of the youngsters from Chelsea who made posters to promote the PTO's membership drive which is aiming at 100 percent participation this year.

Chelsea PTO gets school in shape

Members of Chelsea's PTO rolled up their sleeves last week to help get the school in shape for the fall semester which began Monday.

The group of workers who went to the school Monday and Tuesday put a fresh coat of paint on several classrooms in the high school and elementary school.

It was a first step for the PTO in making Chelsea the number one school in the county, said membership chairman Kaythia Stanton.

Besides trying to get 100 percent participation this year, the goals of the Chelsea parent-teacher organization also include providing academic support, making an indoor play area for the elementary school, and landscaping the school grounds.

The PTO's membership drive began August 27, and will continue through Tuesday, September 11, when the group's first official meeting of the year will be held.

Officers of the organization are: Joe Ziegler, president; Karen Mitchell, 1st vice-president; Connie Ziegler, 2nd vice-president; Pepper Edwards, 3rd vice-president; David Sherrill, treasurer.

Rolled sleeves, walls

Members of Chelsea's PTO rolled up their sleeves last week to get the school ready for opening day Monday. The painters here are Connie Ziegler, Judi Hatcher and Lois McAliley.

PHS cheerleaders

Varsity cheerleaders for the 1984-85 sports season at Pelham High School are Holly Hightower, Lisa Bates, Leah McCoy, Cheryl Chambers, Laura Phillips, Kristi Hicks, Tish Willingham, Rhonda Shealey and Sheri Mooney.

PHS cheering squad is tops

Three cheers for Pelham!

The Pelham High School Panthers will have winning cheers behind them this year. Their cheerleading squad won honors recently at a clinic held at the University of West Florida.

The clinic was sponsored by the National Cheerleaders Association.

The cheerleaders brought home a coveted "spirit stick" award from the competition. Pelham was also named one of five finalists in the competition that involved 40 squads.

Sponsor Fran Taylor said she is very proud of the group, and of one member in particular. Lisa Bates was selected as a nominee for All-American. Bates was one of six chosen from the 300 cheerleaders who participated in the clinic.

AG says ed board may back trustees

by Bert Seaman

The Shelby County Board of Education's motion to dismiss a complaint filed against it by Pelham trustees Jim King and Robert Gardner has been denied.

The trustees filed their suit earlier this month after getting an attorney general's opinion that said that the local board of education may pay costs to defend school trustees in litigation, if proper interests of the board are involved.

The two trustees, three Pelham teachers and Principal Dr. Ed Belue were sued in April -- each for $150,000 -- by the parents of a cheerleader candidate who did not make the squad.

William Kennedy of Montgomery -- who filed the suit in behalf of his daughter, Kelli, a former PHS student -- contended that Pelham officials had made slanderous statements about her.

The alleged statements, concerning drunkeness and theft, were made at a meeting between Kennedy's parents and school officials after she did not make the cheerleader squad.

Kelli Kennedy transferred to another school following the incident. In the suit, her father claimed that his daughter's reputation was impaired, and that she had suffered extreme emotional and mental anguish.

The school board, in its attempt to dismiss the trustees' complaint, claimed that the trustees were not acting as their agents in the matter.

School board attorney William Justice said the board did not authorize the trustees to hold the meeting with the Kennedys, or to make the alleged statements.

The trustees filed a complaint against the board, after the board refused to provide assistance with the cost of their legal defense.

The trustees are seeking a judgment against the board for all damages which may be assessed against them in case with the Kennedys.

Inverness Lions build instant playground

PTO member Alvin Harris does some high work on the teepee

by Bert Seaman

Members of the Inverness Lion's Club got up early Saturday morning to start -- and finish -- an important project.

And members of the Inverness Elementary School PTO set their alarms early too, so a playground at the school could be finished by sundown.

After deciding in June they would build a playground at the east end of the school, the Lions Club hired UAB associate professor Tom Jambor as coordinator.

Jambor is noted for the creative play structures he designs, and for the short time in which his playgrounds can be constructed.

Jambor told the Reporter that the secret of an "instant" playground is a lot of preplanning before the actual day of construction begins.

"There have to be committees to get volunteers," he said, "committees to get materials, dig holes, set poles, prepare food."

If everyone does their job, then the project runs smoothly on the day the playground is constructed, Jambor said.

Charles Point, who headed up the project for the Lions, said that five work days had preceded the Saturday erection.

"We cleared the land," he said, "had it graded, got materials, supervised the drilling of holes, set poles and poured concrete."

Point said that about 50 percent of the materials had been donated, and that hardware items had been purchased at cost.

Between 100-150 volunteers showed up Saturday to build structures such as: a tire tepee, tire trail, cable ride, rope swing, climbing tower and other play apparatus.

Jambor said the play equipment is designed so that it not only helps the child develop physically, but also serves as a place for the children to socialize and work out any conflicts they may have.

He said that the natural setting in Inverness, with trees on one side of the playgroud, is very good.

The natural outdoor playground setting is a far cry from what physical education teacher Jean Bonavitch has been used to.

Most of her classes so far have been limited to the school's indoor activity area, Bonavitch said, because there hasn't been a suitable place to play outdoors on the sloping site where the school was built.

The one flat area large enough for games is the asphalt drive in front of the school, she said.

The Lions' future plans for the site include the construction of ballfields and a track adjacent to the playground.

"Adults from the neighborhood will be able to use the track since this area is really for the entire community," Bonavitch said.

Point's co-chairmen on the project are Mike Hill and Bill Lalor. Frank Taylor is Lion president; Ernie Lee, vice-president.

"SLURRY SEAL COATING"

It does for your asphalt what paint does for wood!

The coal tar pitch emulsion that preserves, protects and beautifies asphalt pavements. It's water and fuel resistant.

Despite its appearance, asphalt is an extremely porous substance, susceptible to damage by rain, sunlight and chemicals such as fuel oil and gasoline. Left unprotected, an asphalt driveway or parking area will fade, soften and pit (especially where it is exposed to gasoline and motor oil), eventually crumble, requiring major repair.

JOHN AMES IS ON THE JOB...

LET'S KEEP HIM THERE!

John Ames is a business man who takes his job seriously. Since his appointment by Governor Fob James in December, 1982, he has strived to move Shelby County forward.

He has shown his support for the new libraries and his personal concern for the road and school paving projects. His greatest satisfaction is seeing the new branch license office finally in operation. After only four months in office, John Ames saw the need for the branch license office, made the motion, and directed its passage, ending years of political rhetoric. Kitten kabootle

These six week old kittens at the Shelby County Humane Society didn't want to sit in a basket and look cute for the Reporter camera. They wanted to be out romping around. If anyone would like to have one of these playful kittens romping around their home, contact the Humane Society at 669-4562. The kittens are part of a new, regular feature in the Reporter which will show some of the animals available for adoption at the animal shelter in Columbiana. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Mega melon

Paul Cost, 59, of Elliottsville, must have something of a green thumb. Using ordinary barnyard fertilizer, the backhoe operator, who has been gardening in his spare time for the past four years, recently grew one cantaloupe that weighed in at 26 pounds recently. He also grew another one that weighed 21 pounds. Cost ate the 26-pounder before the Reporter could get to him for a picture, but he proudly showed off a 21-pounder scheduled for his next meal. 19% Voter Turnout

Election tallies posted

by Reporter Staff

Voters turned out in weak numbers Tuesday to pick their party preferences for the general elections in November.

In doing so, 11 local candidates bit the political dust -- at least for now -- and four candidates earned outright party nominations to the November 6 general elections.

However, before then, another four candidates face runoff races for the Democratic nomination to two county commission offices.

Six Republican candidates face primary runoffs in the races for the Circuit Court Judge, District 18, Shelby County Commission, District 1, and Place 1 on the board of education.

Unofficial voting tabulations for the 36 boxes and absentees ballots were completed by the Sheriff's department and county party officials by 10:30 p.m. The Shelby County Reporter made special arrangements to delay its normal Tuesday press deadline 11 hours in order to publish the results this week. (Official results will be published in next week's edition.)

In the circuit court judgeship race, Republicans Ron Jackson and W.W. "Bill" Rabren face a runoff to see who takes on lone Democratic candidate, incumbent Judge Harold Walden.

The primary results were:

(R) Ron Jackson	889
(R) Harry Lyon	465
(R) W.W. "Bill" Rabren	1,003

For the office of Shelby County Tax Assessor, incumbent Annette D. Skinner (D) will run in November against J.R. "Bob" Thompson (R).

Unofficial primary results in those races were:

(R) Tom Cory	878
(R) J.R. "Bob" Thompson	1,264
(D) Annette D. Skinner	3,587
(D) Claude Turner	1,199

Incombent Bobbie Reynolds (D) now faces Billy G. Gardner (R) in November for the office of Shelby County Tax Collector.

The unofficial primary results in the party races are:

(R) Billy G. Gardner	1,041
(R) Ken Kirkpatrick	769
(D) James E. "Jim" Braden	1,622
(D) Bobbie Reynolds	2,608

No Republicans qualified for Shelby County Commissioner, District 3, but two of the four Democrats who did -- incumbent John Ames and Roger Massey -- are in a runoff.

Posted race results were:

(D) John Ames	1,746
(D) Jack Carlisle	963
(D) James W. Huffer	120
(D) Roger Massey	1,497

Two runoffs will be held for the office of Shelby County Commissioner, District 1 -- one between Democrats Don Armstrong and incumbent James E. "Jake" Morris, the other between Republicans Michael F. Jones and Gregg Rushton.

Results posted showed:

(R) A.E. Etress, Jr.	431
(R) Michael F. Jones	727
(R) Gregg Rushton	1,004
(D) Don Armstrong	1,900
(D) V. Wayne Causey	436
(D) O.J. McCall	210
(D) James E. "Jake" Morris	1,928

Jack Zuiderhoek, Democratic candidate for the board of education seat, will face the winner of the Republican runoff between Jane D. Bedford and Donna R. Morris. Posted results were:

(R) Jane D. Bedford	605
(R) Jim Branch	525
(R) Donna R. Morris	1,011

In state races, Shelby County posted the following unofficial results:

U.S. Senate

(R) Doug Carter	330
(R) Joe Keith	196
(R) Albert Lee Smith	1,736
(R) Clint Wilkes	53
(D) Charles Borden	533
(D) Howell Heflin	3,696
(D) Mrs. Frank Ross Stewart	378

Court of Criminal Appeals, Judge

(D) Claude Allison	413
(D) Don Harrison	1,390
(D) Dan McCoy	340
(D) H.W. "Bucky" McMillan	1,534

Approximately 35,000 people are registered to vote in Shelby County. With some 4,616 Democrats voting, and 2,357 Republicans voting, that gave the county a 19 percent turnout.

Election officials called the turnout light, and said they expect it to be higher for the general elections.

Booze money released

by Bert Seaman

Christmas will come a little late this year for Shelby and the 66 other counties in the state.

But no complaints over the delay are expected from either county governments or the 291 municipalities that will receive $1.6 million from the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

A portion of the tax money from alcholic beverages was withheld by the state to allow the ABC board to accumulate working capital.

With the release of that money, Shelby county will get $4,016.03 -- eight municipalities will benefit to the tune of $7,569.73.

Calera will get the biggest share of the funds -- $1,194. Other municipalities will receive the following: Columbiana, $1,446.18; Harpersville, $387.00; Helena, $521.37; Montevallo, $1,778.82; Vincent, $1,140.60; Wilsonville, $696.79; Wilton, $404.32.

ABC administrator Henry B. Gray III said that the money varies from as little as $27.39 for Lynn in Winston County to as much as $288,948.52 for Birmingham, the state's largest city.

For the counties, Jefferson will receive the lion's share of the money, $69,766 -- Coosa County will get the smallest share, $1,683.46.

The distribution of the money is based on how the money was withheld from each of the city and county governments in 1946 and 1947. Cities incorporated since that time will not receive the extra money.

Tom White, accounting chief for the ABC board, said that 291 Alabama cities will share in $1.2 million of the funds, and the 67 counties will receive a total of $400,000.

In 1949, the Alabama legislature authorized the ABC board to withhold the money in increments of $50,000 until $4 million was accumulated as working capital.

The state used $2.4 million of that money in 1951 for general fund purposes, leaving the ABC board with a $1.6 million reserve.

Then in 1982, the legislature passed a bill changing the way the ABC board handles its working capital. Rather than having a fixed cash reserve, the ABC board is to delay payments of funds to agencies for 120 days.

The delay of payments is being phased in one month at a time until Sept. 30, 1987, when all payments will be delayed for 120 days.

The 1982 bill also authorized the February release of the $1.6 million.

'Rocket blood' leads to launch

by David F. Moore

Dane Corn has a little rocket in his blood. It landed the Inverness man and his north Shelby County friend Paul Fish at Kennedy Space Center last week for the maiden launching of NASA's newest space shuttle, Discovery.

When he was a youngster living in Cocoa Beach, Dane Corn recalls watching a space bound rocket arc across the sky.

"I remember standing outside the apartments watching one (launch) go over," Corn says. "I think maybe it was (astronaut John) Glenn. I just knew that sucker was big flying by."

At the time the late Harold Corn worked for NASA. Corn says with pride that his father was the engineer who came up with the idea of the giant crawler that last week carried the space shuttle Discovery and its massive boosters -- once again -- to the launch pad for an attempt at their maiden flight.

The Discovery's launch was scrubbed twice last

Pay-Up hits those who don't

September is the month for Project Pay-Up.

The statewide campaign is aimed at collecting delinquent child support payments.

Last year's campaign in August yielded $793,000, the most collected for any single month in the history of the child support program.

The total amount collected statewide during the year was $8 million.

In Shelby County, a total of $165,000 was collected during the 1983 fiscal year. Through July of this year, $125,000 has been collected in owed and unpaid child support.

The district attorney's office reports that there are currently 819 children on Aid to Dependent Children rolls.

The campaign is sponsored by the state Department of Pensions and Security, the Alabama Child Support Association and the Office of Prosecution Services.

"Only a samll percentage of parents who owe support actually make the payments," said Leon Frazier, state DPS commissioner.

However, new and tougher laws and campaigns such as Project Pay-Up, are making parents take their obligations more seriously, Frazier said.

A new state law which allows wages to be withheld for child support is expected to increase collections considerably.

The new law allows courts to order employers to deduct child support obligations from wages when the parent falls 30 days behind in making court-ordered payments.

"Failure to pay child support is a crime, and any parent who does not meet his obligations faces the possibility of a jail term or the confiscation of property which

Blast off... finally

With the thunder of seven million pounds of thrust, Discovery climbs away from its pad at Kennedy Space Center last Thursday. After three frustrating delays, the shuttle got off to what was a near perfect six day-mission. Shelby County photographers Paul Fish and Dane Corn captured the action for the Reporter shooting a 210 mm equiped Minolta at f5.6 and 500th of a second.

Stabbing

A crowd gathered outside the Columbiana Post Office Friday following a stabbing incident. Members of Rescue 88 and Harpersville Ambulance personnel treated the stabbing victim before she was transported to Shelby Medical Center.

No charges filed

Woman stabbed in argument

An argument between two women at the Columbiana Post Office shortly after 3 p.m. Friday, ended up with one of the women being stabbed.

Thirty-one year old Bonnie Kidd received four or five wounds in the chest and two to three in the back. She was stabbed with a kitchen paring knife.

Soloine Madison, 27, was taken to the Shelby County jail for questioning, but was later released with no charges being filed.

According to a report from the Shelby County Sheriff's department, Madison claimed she acted in self defense after Kidd hit her.

Both women are from Columbiana.

Kidd's wounds were reportedly superficial and she was released from Shelby Medical Center Sept. 2.

SouthTrust to build branch bank on 280

SouthTrust Corporation has announced plans to build a new branch bank on U.S. 280 in north Shelby County.

The new office will be located in the River Hills Shopping Center currently under construction at the intersection of 280 and Inverness Parkway East. The site is next to the existing Wendy's restaurant.

SouthTrust Corporation, a multi-bank holding company, is headquartered in Birmingham.

Including its lead bank, SouthTrust Bank of Alabama, SouthTrust is composed of 23 banking and seven bank-related affiliates which represent more than 130 offices throughout Alabama.

June because of a series of back-to-back technical problems with computers and engines. The delays were frustrating not only to the astronauts, but also to Corn and Fish who had made the 1,200-mile roundtrip drive to photograph the launch.

Despite not getting any pictures, the trip was not a total waste, because what they learned is that they needed press credentials to get close enough for good photos. After reviewing Corn's resume and portfolio, the Shelby County Reporter agreed to provide the press credentials in return for a launch picture.

Cleared through NASA, they left again last Monday, driving all night to get to the cape in good time for the proposed Wednesday takeoff.

"We were a little short on sleep," admits Corn. "But we wanted the pictures.

"We heard Tuesday afternoon that there were some computer problems again, but about 7 p.m. NASA said they were set to go. They put us on busses to the launch pad and we got sunset pictures of the shuttle.

"But we wondered about the launch," Corn says, "because they never rolled back the platform that encloses the shuttle. At 10 o'clock we heard the launch was put off 24 hours, until 8:36, Thursday."

Frustrations? "Oh, my goodness," grins Corn. A small jinx was threatening epidemic proportions. Making matters worse, the latest delay was not in the motel budget and Corn and Fish found themselves fighting off mosquitos all night while trying to sleep in the car.

"Thursday, we heard one hour before the launch about a software problem," Corn says. "Then they said a rain was coming and there would only be an 18-minute window (in the gathering) at launch time."

The rain didn't show, the software bug was quickly worked out, but, at T-minus nine minutes, a small plane was spotted near the shuttle. "There was even a rumor about a Russian trawler pulling in for a peak too close to shore," Corn says.

Frustrations were threatening again. Then the countdown resumed and once again the excitement began to grow.

"I was excited, but I was trying to restrain myself," Corn says. "I didn't let myself get too excited until about ten seconds before the launch."

Along with the birth of his son, Corn says that what happened next was one of the most intensely exciting things he'd ever been a part of.

"Watching the launch on television just doesn't do it justice," he says. "It's invigorating. You could feel the sound beating you. It just beats you to death.

"It was really a magnificent sight. Everybody cheered. It's hard to believe they get all that metal off the ground. It takes a long time to drive down there, and once it's gone, that's it."

Would he do it again?

"I hope to. It's really something."

Records case undecided

by Bert Seaman

The case of the relocated mortgage records went to court last week, but the outcome is still in the mill.

After listening to five hours of testimony and examining the several locations where records are kept, Circuit Court Judge Robert Armstrong took the matter under advisement.

Probate Judge Tommy Snowden said that the mortgage records dating from 1911-1959 were moved to the restored 1854 courthouse because of lack of space in the present day courthouse.

Other reasons for their being moved, he said, were because they created a fire hazard in the records room, plus the fact that conditions for their preservation are more favorable in the museum building.

But Shelby County Abstract Company in Columbiana, which filed suit against Snowden July 17, claims that moving the records has hurt their business.

Five other title companies have also joined the suit.

Jim Standrige, the attorney for Shelby County Abstract, said his client has had to spend extra time and labor in getting to the records since they were moved.

Other disadvantages he mentioned were the lack of indexing and the absence of personnel from the probate office to certify copies of mortgage satisfaction.

He said that microfilmed records of mortgages were not satisfactory since they do not have the marginal notation of satification which a title company must have.

An attorney general's opinion mentioned at last week's county commision meeting says the original record ceases to be the "official record" once it has been microfilmed.

According to the opinion: "The Probate Judge of Shelby County is not required to go back to the original mortgage and note in the margin an assignment or satisfaction which has been filed by separate instrument.

will be sold at auction to satisfy their debt," Frazier said.

The stiffer laws requiring parents to support their children relieves taxpayers of the burden.

However, Frazier pointed out that it is the children who are the ultimate beneficiaries, because they are assured of getting the money they need.

Final pleas taken in gambling cases

When two men pled guilty to gambling charges last week, it wound up 24 cases which stemmed from a gambling raid on the Amvets club in Pelham last year.

Alabaster police lieutenant Leroy Davis and bondsman Johnie Crawford of Columbiana were each fined $50 after pleading guilty to simple gambling.

Neither was in the club at the time of the July 9 raid, but club records and identification by an undercover ABI agent led to their arrest.

Since simple gambling is a misdemeanor charge, Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter said Davis' job would not be affected.

Nine men had previously pled guilty to promoting gambling, 12 to charges of simple gambling, and the indictment against one individual was dismissed.

These included English and Western, showmanship and halter, road ponies and racking horses. A new class for the young people was called the critter class.

Kelly Booth from Helena was high point youth rider for the show.

The show, which was sanctioned by the Alabama Show Horse Association and Alabama Horsemen's Association, offered $1,500 in prizes.

Band boosters report making somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,500 from the annual event which will be used to support the band program at MHS.

One of the biggest attractions at Monday's day in the park was the dunking booth which was occupied by MHS principal Norman Payne and others.

The crowd was also treated to a water olympics put on by the Montevallo Fire Department.

On the midway, there were arts and crafts for sale, including those in the booth of Indian chief Joe Stewart from Alabaster.

A potter also had his wares for sale and an artist offered a variety of designs for air brushing on T-shirts.

In addition to a performance by the Troubadour band, there were also Bluegrass groups playing throughout the day.

'WE'VE GOT IT, AND WE'VE GOT IT GOOD'

Editorial comment

Positive changes expected

Education is returning to center stage. After an apparent decline in public interest, the education students are receiving is once again coming under scrutiny. This is good, because education has a lot of problems.

As state superintendent of education Wayne Teague told Shelby County teachers two weeks ago, education is like a fish bowl in that everyone can see what's going on inside. This too is good.

Teague also noted that with all the publicity his Plan for Excellance has received, people are not only looking closer at education, but are actually expecting to see some positive changes. This put the pressure on our school system to deliver, but we view this as being good also.

If parents take an active role in the system and with their children, if the new conduct code proves effective, if the Plan continues to get support, if teachers and administrators do what they're being paid to do -- and what most of them conscientiously want to do -- then the world hasn't yet seen the good that can come out of our schools.

And now, on center stage, Act I...

Writers' opinion

Dear Mr. Folmar...

Letter to the Editor:

Although I am one of strong and hopefully well thought out political convictions, I am not the type who makes a habit of publicly voicing my opinions without extreme prodding. Having studied political science and history for four years at Samford University -- a notably conservative institution -- I feel that my convictions are based upon extensive academic research and logical reasoning rather than emotion or asinine demagoguery.

In response to Damon Folmar's recent absurd letter, let me assure you that this is one such "otherwise intelligent person" who knows the issues, knows the party philosophies, and knows exactly where he stands.

To fully address all of the issues to which Folmar only feebly eluded would require volumes. I will try to condense my thoughts.

To be sure, I am one "liberal Democrat" who is a devout Christian, believing firmly in the power of prayer and our precious freedom of religion. At the same time, I, and other intellectual liberals, believe just as firmly in the inalienable right of others not to believe in my God. This is freedom of religion.

Organized prayer in public schools is a blatent violation of separation of church and state. The home and church have spiritual responsibilities -- not the State. However, no one can, or wants to, prevent the individual from praying -- anytime, anywhere. To suggest that Democrats, any of them, are opposed to prayer, is a bold face lie and a low life political tactic.

Indeed, it is the narrow mindedness of Mr. Folmar's own Republican leadership that threatens this sacred liberty. This is evident in the admittedly right wing platform adopted by the Republicans in Dallas. They openly advocate replacing freedom of religion with their own self-righteous values. Americans should beware of this fascist thinking that hides behind the labels of conservatism and Christianity.

It seems that Folmar is offended to be branded a "bigot, a right wing fanatic, or some other outlandish name". He seems quite comfortable, however, to brand Democrats as "communist sympathizers", "nuclear freezniks", "homosexuals", "militant feminists", and other equally outlandish names.

Democrats certainly do not sympathize with communism, but with the Soviet people-creations of God Allmighty and victims of an oppressive socio-economic form of government.

Democrats certainly do support a nuclear freeze. Even an overwhelming majority of the delegates to the Republican National Convention support a verifiable bilateral freeze of nuclear insanity.

However, strongly we may detest their lifestyle, Democrats certainly welcome homosexuals in our party. When confronted with the gay rights issue, Ronald Reagan himself will safely reply that he does not support discrimination or bigotry in any form.

Yes, most Democrats do proudly support ERA! Read it. You may support it too. Betty Ford does.

How can one be radical about the environment? Look it up. God only gave us one.

I agree with Folmar that there are a lot of Country Club and Big Business Republicans in his party and that most of the rank and file members are more like him - "conservative". He obviously does not recognize the fact that it is the Country Club and Big Business Republicans that fund and acutally control his party; i.e., Joseph Coors (Coors Beer), The Hunt Family (Placid Oil and numerous other megabusinesses), George Bush (Mr. Country Club himself), and the list goes on.

Maybe Mr. Folmar and other disillusioned Republicans would actually feel more at home in the Democrat party. We certainly value the input of various opinions.

Sincerely,
Marlin D. Smith

School still a family affair

Letter to the Editor:

It's been said that selling is like shaving because if you miss one day you become a bum. Just as meaningful is the "selling" job we all must do each year and everyday as to the importance of providing the greatest education - teachers, students, parents and administrators - must rededicate to the task at hand and join hands in a cooperative manner to achieve the greatest success for our children.

Each year for the recent past, all Shelby County schools opened their doors for an evening when parents might become better acquainted with their child's school and teachers. While this one encounter is not the ultimate in parental involvement, it is a first step whereby lasting and meaningful cooperation, apprecation and understanding occurs. This year's open house dates are Tuesday, September 11, for the high schools; Thursday, September 13, for middle schools; and Tuesday, September 18, for the elementary schools.

As is the usual tradition, the various schools will be competing for a parental participation plaque which will reside at each winning elementary, middle, and high school. The real winners, however, will be those students whose parents have committed themselves to a cooperative effort with their local schools in working for the best for their child. Please support your child and your local school by attending open house. A warm welcome and interesting program awaits you!

Let's not forget missing men

Letter to the Editor:

The people of Alabama need to know over eleven years have passed since the end of the Vietnam conflict, but yet we still have 2,490 American servicemen unaccounted for from every state in the nation, with 45 being from the State of Alabama.

It's not too late to do something. You can help by writing letters to the Representatives and Senators of your State. You can even write to the President of the United States to act immediately and expeditiously to secure from the government of the nations of Southeast Asia a full accounting of the 2,490 Americans captured or missing in Southeast Asia as a result of the Vietnam conflict.

We need to work for the immediate release of each living American listed by the Department of Defense as a prisoner of war (POW) or missing-in- action (MIA) in Southeast Asia, and the immediate return of the remains of all American POW's and MIA's who have died in Southeast Asia.

There are more than 200 reports of sightings of Americans in Southeast Asia being held against their will.

A special thanks goes to Secretary of State Don Siegelman for the Alabama State flag. I and other Vietnam Veterans will take this flag to Washington, D.C., and stand vigil at the Vietnam Veterans' Memorial. The mission is for the return of POW/ MIA's. "No other issues" will be discussed. If you are a veteran or just wish to help, contact me by writing to:

Dress code ignores sweltering classrooms

Letter to the Editor:

The attempt to set up "standardized" rules and dress code for all Shelby County schools has a flaw: 74% air conditioned vs. 90% plus non-air conditioned.

THS made national news last year with its so called liberal dress code (shorts, sandals, etc.), yet one of the most respected high schools in our county remains 'hot', terribly overcrowded and in pitiful need of remodeling.

A handful of teachers furnished their own fans. Can one small fan cool 40 sweaty kids? Can our kids remain alert and actually learn in this?

I'll bet both students and teachers might hunt excuses to visit that cool office.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

Before you get there, you'll have to go through Virginia. Maybe it'll be the prettiest sight you'll see. I know it will be unless you sleep all the way from Knoxville to Washington.

Remember the song: "In the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia on the Trail of the Lonesome Pine". If you remember it, you'll remember lanterns and high stiff collars and pine knot fires and home-made sausage.

And if you think Caroline is something to look at with her blue eyes and cornsilk hair, she is. But so are the mountains of Virginia.

But we've got to get on to Washington, D C. Where everybody is heading for work twenty minutes late. You give me a hundred honest men and a hundred spots to put 'em on and have 'em charge every guy and gal going over 55 miles an hour a dollar each and I'll straighten out that budget business quicker than a country dog can get to town.

I saw one old gink -- maybe a country guy like me -- slow down to gawk at a statue of some hero and three cars and a truck hit him. He opened his mouth to testify, but didn't get to, since another truck side-swiped a fender. His mouth closed shut like the jaws of a sprung steel trap.

We, along with hundreds of others, parked two miles from what we wanted to see. They said it was two miles. But that's riding. When you're walking it's more like five miles.

We saw the Lincoln Memorial. Old Abe just sits there and looks, wondering, I suppose, if this was worth giving his life for. Some guy, standing in front of me, swore he saw tears running down his cheeks. But I didn't see 'em. Maybe because I was looking at the back of the great man's head and not his cheeks.

Somewhere I read -- or maybe I dreamed it -- that Abraham was sort o' close with his pennies. If he was, one wonders what he thinks about a debt wallowing in the billions and heading for the trillions faster than a six-year-old can swallow ice cream.

There's more to be said. A lot more. But this is the end of my paper. Maybe next week, if we are all still around, there'll be more. I hope you'll wait.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

There's a lively debate raging in Montgomery these days in the wake of last week's visit by Geraldine Ferraro, the Democratic nominee for Vice President.

The question being debated is who benefitted the most from her visit -- Mondale or Reagan?

One old-line Republican, confidence oozing from every pore, suggested that if "that little woman will come back to Alabama a couple of times more before the election, then Reagan won't have to campaign in this state."

Whether that is a valid statement remains to be seen, but the reason for Ferraro's visit was difficult to understand. She came to address the Alabama Democratic Conference, the predominantly black group headed by Joe Reed.

Why she felt it necessary to speak to that organization was a mystery because the ADC members are already in Mondale's corner. They don't have anywhere else to go. It was sort of like a preacher laying his sermon on a church full of saved.

Be sure that during her stay here Ferraro made the standard - and - seemingly - required a visit to the Mansion to see Gov. Wallace. When Wallace was in Rome recently he paid homage to the Pope. When presidential candidates are in Montgomery, they pay homage to Wallace.

It is not known what the two talked about in their private 10-minute session, nor is it likely Wallace will ever tell. He is very uncomfortable in his relatively new role of a loyal Democrat, and while he has said publicly he will support the Mondale-Ferraro ticket, when he says it the expression on his face is more like that of a man suffering a world class bellyache.

While the governor may be a reluctant supporter of the Democratic ticket, there is nothing reluctant about the lieutenant governor, Bill Baxley. He was very prominent in the goings-ons at the ADC meeting, attacking the Republican ticket with gusto. Whether some of these words will be played back to him in some future gubernatorial campaign remains to be seen.

"A white southerner has no more business being in the Republican Party than Joe Reed has running around Alabama with a sheet on his head," Baxley said.

Odds and Ends --- Mayor Larry Barton of Talladega last December presented the key to his city to a visiting celebrity, Miss America, Vanessa Williams. She was in the city to participate in the annual Christmas Parade.

Only last week did His Honor happen to see the photographs of Williams in Penthouse. Once he got over the shock he wrote the former Miss America and asked that she return the key.

Feelings are running high in Montgomery again after a policeman shot and killed a black man near a nightspot. The officer said he fired when the man made a sudden move toward his pocket. The victim was unarmed. Black leaders, contending that it is "open season for blacks in Montgomery", are demanding a federal investigation.

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

Granddaddy was a good man.

But I wouldn't say that they -- you know who THEY are, don't you? -- threw away the mold after they made Granddaddy. To start with, Granddaddy deserves better than a cliche.

Furthermore, in Shelby County or most anywhere else you'd know to look, one can still find good men and good women. It's not like the world is now void of good people, so the bit about throwing away the "mold" just doesn't seem quite right for Granddaddy. But it sure comes close.

Sacre Frazier Lawson, born in Provo, Kentucky, in 1894, did a bunch of things before I ever popped into his life. He went to school, was a navy radioman in in WW I, went to more school, taught eight grades in one room in rual Warren County, married one of the world's finest women, raised a farm and garden that would turn someone the likes of the the Regressive Farmer pea green with envy, raised my mother and her brother, moved the family to Cincinnati, worked for Crosly radios and was in the neighborhood deli business with his family.

The city move was never permanent, and Granddaddy always was bound to the land and his farm. After Mom and my uncle finished college, he and Grandma returned to the country.

When I was a youngster and my father would go off to summer army reserve camp, he would deposit Mom, my brother and I on a train to spend two weeks with Grandma and Granddaddy.

I remember a lot of things about Granddaddy from those days, but don't want to bore anyone into snoozing with my recollections. Still, several things stand out in my mind and warrant mention:

Granddaddy was a cleancut man, but after a day or so, his beard -- seemingly always grey -- felt rough to touch. But when you're young, you look up to a man like that.

Granddaddy was wise in the ways of things such as the names of trees and the names of birds, and -- despite his knowing better -- he was always interested in helping a few young lads try to save a baby bird if a strom blew it out of a tree. When you're young, you look up to a man like that.

Granddaddy was loving. Not only did he send five dollar bills inside birthday cards, but he hugged my mom whenever he saw her, and he hugged Grandma with -- considering his straight upbringing -- what I would call unabashed affection. When you're young, you look up to a man like that.

He was deeply religious and well respected, and at the small country church he attended, Granddaddy was often called on to lead the prayer. When you're young...

Well, when you're young and grow up looking up to your grandfather in such ways, then when he dies you tell your grandmother that, yes, you would be honored to be a pallbearer. And that's what I told Grandma last Sunday night when I got the news about my grandfather.

Granddaddy was a good man.

He suffered a severe stroke while I was hiking the Appalachian Trail in 1981, and his mind was never the same again. He was in out of the hospital several times, and nearly died there a few weeks ago. But he couldn't -- or wouldn't -- die there, and waited until he returned to the farm.

They didn't throw THE mold away when they made him, but I did help bury one such life molder on Tuesday morning in Kentucky.

Granddaddy helped mold me into a better person than I would have been otherwise.

If I could make a wish now, it wouldn't be that my garden suddenly started sprouting again, but that all young people had someone like my grandfather to look up to.

Don't despair... there's next year

Dear Mr. Regressive Farmer:

It has been interesting reading, keeping up with you and your garden this summer.

Too bad your garden fizzled up and died. But don't give up. Just look forward to next year. Gardens don't always turn out the same.

One year my brother and his wife, Ray and Onzell Walton and I raised so many vegetables, I wrote a poem about it. Name of poem, 'Summertime in the Country', and believe me, it covers a lot of territory.

If you are interested in printing it, give me a call.

Better luck next year.

Stocking shelves

David Lanier, manager of Columbiana's new supermarket, works with his staff on stocking shelves in preparation for the store's grand opening Sept. 20.

Joy Supermarket

Columbiana store sets opening for Sept. 20

by Bert Seaman

When the extensive remodeling of a Columbiana supermarket is completed, the store promises to be just what its name implies.

Owners are calling the new store -- which replaces the old Super Foods -- Joy Supermarket. Store manager David Lanier says the new grocery will definitely be a store with a difference.

If all goes according to plan, the new supermarket on Depot Street will open September 20, and be open around the clock.

One of the unique features of the store, Lanier says, is a produce tunnel designed to attract customers.

Lanier says that produce will be conveniently placed on small tables in the middle of the large wooden "tunnel," and in bins along the sides.

Another plus for the supermarket will be a deli and bakery with cakes made to order.

Initially, 35-40 employees will be hired, Lanier says, adding that he wants to hire as many local people as possible.

The chainstore group which now includes the Columbiana store, locates in small communities, Lanier says. Most of the stores are in North Alabama and Mississippi.

Lanier says the philosophy of the chain is to locate in small communities and to get involved in community activities.

A Birmingham native who recently moved to a house near Shelby County Airport, Lanier is actively involved in Kiwanis and Boy Scouting.

"So far, we've done real well with our philosophy," he says.

As for Columbiana, Lanier says, "We plan on being here for a long while!"

He says that the chain eventually plans to build other stores in this area.

UM offers special math course

In a continuing effort to assist K-12 education in Alabama, the University of Montevallo is offering a course in Advanced Topics in Mathematics for qualified area high school students.

Students enrolled in the class, which will meet every Saturday during the fall semester, beginning September 8, from 9 a.m. to noon, will receive three hours of credit at UM.

The tuition free course is being offered to qualified high school students who have completed coursework in Algebra II and Geometry.

This innovative course, designed by UM assistance professor of mathematics Dr. Gene Garza, draws from many different mathematics courses and is to serve as an introduction to advanced concepts in mathematics at an elementary level and to elementary topics at an advanced level.

The course is not a calculus course, Garza said, but should prepare the students for a better understanding of college calculus through a better understanding of advanced mathematical concepts.

Enrollment will be limited to approximately 15 student. Students interested in applying for the course should contact Garza, Station 112, or Dr. Elaine Highes, Station 151, University of Montevallo, Montevallo, Ala. 35115. Applications should include recommendations from the student's high school guidance counselor or principal.

Argo still in jail

Charges to be heard Sept. 20

A Calera man charged with enticement remains in the Shelby County jail under a $250,000 bond.

Joseph Clayton Argo, 62, will appear in district court Sept. 20 to hear the charges against him.

It will be determined at that time whether a preliminary hearing will be held.

Argo was arrested Aug. 22 and charged with five counts of enticement.

Warrants for his arrest were sworn out by parents of the children he allegedly enticed for immoral purposes.

Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow said that parents have been letting their children go places with Argo for years without being worried.

A recent trip to the Jemison Plunge, and complaints from the children about Argo's misconduct, led to his arrest.

Roth to present free recital

Mezzo - soprano Shari Boruvka - Roth, associate professor of music at the University of Montevallo, will present a free recital Monday, September 17, at 8 p.m. in LeBaron Recital Hall on the UM campus.

Roth will sing her favorite songs and operatic arias accompanied by fellow UM faculty member Kathy Vines on piano. Her recital will include works by Debussy, Verdi, Purcell, Mahler, Wagner and Bizet.

Investigation continues

Columbiana residents are still somewhat edgy about a rape committed in the city Aug. 27.

Although several suspects have been questioned, no arrest has been made.

A 68-year old woman who lives alone was raped by an intruder who entered her home in the early morning hours.

The rapist wore a mask and gloves.

Columbiana police and the Shelby County Sheriff's department are continuing the investigation.

For the record...

If you noticed several breaks in the play of your favorite high school football game last weekend there is a reason.

Again this season, the Alabama High School Athletic Association has provided for more time – outs during football games during the early part of the schedule.

The time between quarters is increased from one minute to three minutes. In addition, referees will also call a one-minute time – out during each quarter of play. The time is to be used by players to rest and take fluids.

According to the AHSAA, the extra time will continue as long as the weather dictates.

Jackets fly past champs

by K.A. Turner

"We felt like our players are good, but they hadn't been tested," said Vincent head coach Harold Garrett following last Friday night's season opener with Oak Grove.

The Jackets passed that big test when they stung the defending 2A state champs, 21 – 14.

They passed the test with flying colors.

"We pretty much controlled the game, but we still gave them some chances to win," Garrett said. "I talked to their coach afterward and he told me it would have been an injustice for them to win the way we played."

The Jacket offense rolled to 24 first downs and 330 yards in total offense during the win.

In the end, however, it was the Jacket defense that had to preserve the victory.

"We really passed some licks," Garrett said. The Vincent defensive squad played with their backs to the wall throughout the fourth quarter but turned in some big plays late to preserve the win.

Several individuals caught the attention of the Vincent coaches while catching opposition runners.

67	passing	119
24	first downs	18

"Our secondary really shut down their option," Garrett said. He complimented the play of Reginald Riggins, Gary Peterson and Jimmy White in the defensive backfield.

Linebackers Cedric Riggins, Vernon Kidd, and Derek Whitfield were also cited for their defensive play.along with tackles Bruce Hamilton and Cornelius McGinnis and noseguard Rouglas Datcher.

While Garrett was pleased with the play of his defense, he was "tremendously proud" of the Jackets offensive effort, especially the play of the line.

Tackles McGinnis and Jimmy Richardson, guards Scottie and Jeffery Kelley, and center Jimmy Howard anchored the line. Derek Whitfield did "a heck of a job subing all along the line" according to Garrett.

Fullback Vernon Kidd took full advantage of the good line blocking, running "better than he's ever run " said his coach.

Cedric Riggins also turned in some good runs from the fullback spot, while his brother Reginald Riggins and youngster Pat Yough looked good in the tailback spot.

Garrett was also pleased with the way his quarterback situation resolved itself. "We didn't know who our quarterback would be until game time."

Senior Heath Reynolds got the okay from the doctor to play on Wednesday, but he hadn't practiced with the team.

Bubba Moore, who had gained the number one position in practice, twisted a knee late in the week, and the Vincent coaching staff decided to hold him out of the game.

"I think Heath did real well under the circumstances," Garrett said. "He ran the team real

Scores 31-0 rout of Thorsby

Chelsea cuts loose for win

by K.A. Turner

The Chelsea High School Hornets had forgotten that football was supposed to be fun.

"These boys had begun to think football was a drudgery," said Chelsea coach Richard Conkle.

His Hornets probably don't think so now.

Conkle's second time around "debut" as a head coach was one for Chelsea fans to remember. The Hornet squad stung Thorsby 31 – 0 in their season opener on the road Friday night.

"Those kids really had themselves a good time," Conkle said, "and I guess I had as good a time watching them."

The fun did not begin early for the Hornets. "We made to many mental mistakes and errors in the first half," Conkle said."I guess it was just some first-game jitters."

The early miscues left the Hornets clinging to a slim 7 – 0 lead at halftime.

Walt Tatum gave the Hornets that margin with a four yard TD run late in the first half. Alan Moody added the PAT.

It was in the second half that the Hornets superior effort began to show. Tatum added his second TD of the night on a 12 yard scamper.

Reporter Team of the Week

Then quarterback – turned – runningback Mike Fant really broke the game open. He carried for TD's of one, 16 and 27 yards, bringing the Hornet touchdown total to five.

"Somebody asked me on the way home when was the last time Chelsea scored 31 points," Conkle said."I told them I didn't know, but it sure was a long time ago."

Conkle felt his squad's conditioning had a lot to do with their second half success. "We just really wore them down and over – powered them at the end," he said.

In addition, Conkle termed the effort a real team win, despite some outstanding individual performances.

"The line blocked well and our backs ran hard," he said. "Our seniors really came through for us and that made a difference."

Conkle did cite the individual efforts of three of his running backs. Larry Alford was the games leading rusher with 77 yards. Tatum and Kerry Shaw followed close behind with 73 yards each.

Defensively, the head man saw good things from his entire unit. "Anytime you shut them out the whole defense has to play well," he said.

Conkle did specify the efforts of Mort Moody and Tim Williams as being especially good. "That Williams is a little boy, but he really comes up and hits you," Conkle said.

Matt Russell, Joe Lee, Kerry Shaw and Mike Beavers also turned in defensive plays that made their coach take notice.

Perhaps the biggest difference in the game, and in the entire Chelsea program, had nothing to do with the Hornet players. Conkle feels his squad can be more competitive this season because they are playing schools more their own size.

Friday's action gave him no reason to change his mind.

"They had 22 players just like we did, its just our 22 were a little better," he said.

"I really thought we could compete with this schedule, but I'm not coach of the year yet."

Conkle said early in the August practice sessions that winning two games should bring him that honor. For the first time in a long time, the Hornets are halfway there after an opening game.

Panthers prove feisty felines

Wildcat claws sharpest in OT

by K.A. Turner

"I was really proud of the way they hung in there," said Shelby County coach Ricky Seale.

His Wildcats had just won a battle of endurance with some cross – county felines, the Pelham Panthers.

Shelby County won the contest 6 – 0 in overtime in Columbiana Friday night.

The visitors from Pelham did not surrender the victory easily. Twice during regulation the Cats drove within the Panther ten yard line. Twice the Panthers turned them back.

The last time it happened with 40 seconds left in the contest, and the game finished in a scoreless tie.

It took a 25-yard TD pass from Kevin Jones to Gary Lewis to braek that tie in OT, giving the Cats and their fans a chance to celebrate.

"I was worried about our kids at halftime," Seale said. "They knew they had missed some good chances and they were pretty upset. I was afraid they would lose their composure."

But it was a composed Wildcat team that made the difference in overtime.

An interception in the endzone by Ambrose Woods stopped Pelham from scoring. Despite a penalty, the Cat offense then put the ball in the end zone.

Pelham coach Billy Tohill found reason to be pleased with his defensive team. "We made some big plays when we had to," he said. "Some crucial mistakes in alignment ended up hurting us."

Sophomore tackle Joey Lutz, quick-side linebacker Brady Stephens and end Greg Franks anchored the Panther defense that played so gamely through four quarters.

The Pelham offense was another story.

"You have to do four things well on offense," Tohill said, "block, run hard, throw to the right person and catch the ball. We didn't do any of those things in the game, but we're going to learn to do them this week."

SCHS		Pelham

The Wildcat defense had a lot to do with Pelham's offensive problems.

"They threw some alignments at us we weren't expecting," Tohill said. "We had a meeting about it late in the week, but we didn't adjust well."

Seale was pleased with his defensive effort. "We really didn't have any breakdowns," he said.

The SCHS head man cited the play of Mark Cardwell and Edmund Buie as standouts.

Linemen Leroy Martin, Kerry Horton, Jasper English, Mark Tidmore and Billy Seale also drew praise, along with linebackers Kevin Jones and Gary Lewis.

The Shelby County offense was paced by Ambrose Woods. The tailback gained 133 yards in 28 carries on the night.

Mark Cardwell rambled 61 yards in only 13 carries, while the arm of Kevin Jones added 67 yards with three complete passes.

Winfred McCall and Mike Bramblett headed the Pelham attack with 23 and 24 yards respectively.

Bramblett had his troubles throwing the ball, however. The Pelham quarterback was one of nine for only 10 yards. He also suffered two interceptions.

Calera Eagles edge out OT victory

Montevallo Bulldogs fall just short 3-0

by K.A. Turner

"It wasn't one of our most impressive wins, but it may be one of the sweetest."

That's the way Calera Eagle head coach Danny Alverson described his club's over-time win against Montevallo Friday night.

It took some time and a big right foot to do it, but the Eagles took a 3-0 win in their season opener.

The game was billed as a match-up of speed versus strength, size versus quickness.

The big, strong Montevallo Bulldogs brought a number three state ranking to Oliver Park.

The small but quick Eagles wanted to avenge a defeat that knocked them out of a number three ranking last season.

The two squads went after each other for four quarters. At the end of regulation, the issue had not been settled.

"We think we're a little stronger than they are," said Bulldog captain Andy Brindley before the game.

"We'll just have to be strong inside then work to contain them," added co-captain Anthony Prentice.

Eagle runningbacks Kenny Johnson and Darryl Griffith planned to work as a team to counter the Bulldog strength.

"We'll have to block for each other and work as a group," Johnson said. "We can break some tackles and get some big plays," Griffith said.

In the first half, the Dogs strong line dominated play.

Calera		Montevallo

11	passing	12
8	first downs	9
71	penalty yards	66
4	turnovers	1

Calera had the better of the fight in the second half, but costly turnovers kept the score knotted at zero.

In the end, the Dogs strength or the talented Calera backfield did not decide the contest.

Eagle Steve Ellison booted a field goal to make the difference in overtime.

Calera tailback summed up the Calera overtime advantage. "The better we play, the more encouragement everyone will have. Then they'll all get fired up," he said.

"We've kept each other up since the beginning of training camp," said tight end Scottie Wells. "We stick together like brothers."

Alverson stressed that being patient was part of the Calera strategy. "We kept telling the kids the longer we stayed in the ballgame, the better our chances to win."

Montevallo mentor Richard Gilliam agreed that his team miscued on early chances.

"We got down close on our first drive, but our quarterback turned the wrong way," he said.

"On our second drive, we had a score called back on a clipping call," he added.

The Dogs continued to press the Eagles throughout the first half, but the momentum shifted to Calera during the third quarter.

In the overtime period, even Alverson admitted that things went well for his team.

"I have to admit, we gave them all the breaks during the game, but we got the breaks in the OT," he said.

Both coaches saw efforts during the game they were pleased with.

Gilliam cited the total play of Anthony Prentice. As a tailback, he carried for 104 yards in 27 attempts.

On the defensive side, Prentice racked up seven solo tackles and five assists.

The MHS head man also liked the defensive play of defensive back Trey Hughes, noseguard Quinten Chism, and lineman Lonnie Layton.

Alverson liked the play of his entire defensive unit."Please mention all of them," he said, "because they all played real well."

Darryl Griffith, Keith Dowdell, and Derek Herndon anchored the secondary.

Linemen Chuck Amos, Russell Crowe, Joey Harkins, Jeff Hyde, and Scottie Wells were standouts.

Linebackers Dan Campbell, Barry Pickett, Mike West, and Kenny Johnson round out the defensive squad.

Kicker does his part

by K.A. Turner

"I'm not a world famous place kicker," said a modest Steve Ellison.

But after Friday night's overtime win, the senior Eagle place kicker won't have a hard time being recognized in Calera.

Ellison booted a 17-yard field goal to give the Eagles a win over arch-rival Montevallo.

"I guess that's the highlight of my kicking career," Ellison said.

Calera's head coach Danny Alverson always seems to come up with a place-kicker.

"We had to look for Steve last year," he said. "We start at the beginning of the year looking for someone who has the talent to kick."

"Some small schools don't think it's very important," Alverson said. "We think its another way to score points, and Steve works hard on it in practice."

Ellison follows Johnny Ryan, Raymond King, Derrick Merritt, Ricky Posey and James Blanchard as a successful Calera kicker.

Several of them had great moments against Montevallo teams, with a Raymond King PAT being the difference in 1980 and a James Blanchard field goal the difference in 1982.

Ellison's role is a bit different, however, because he doesn't play a lot except in the role of a kicking specialist.

He works on his kicking alone during practice, kicking 50 PATs and about 30 field goals daily.

His longest in practice kick is 52 yards. In a game, his top distance is 31 yards. That field goal came against Montevallo last year, then he duplicated the distance against Jemison.

The role of a specialist is sometimes tough for Ellison.

"Sure, sometimes I feel like I want to play more," he said, "but it's something you've just got to get used to. I am glad because I feel like I'm doing my part."

Ellison hopes his foot will not need to be the difference in all of Calera's games.

"If they do need me, I'm just going to try my best," he said.

Friday night his best was good enough, and for a while, all of the hard work will be worth it.

well despite no practice with them."

Cedric Riggins capped a 73-yard drive with a one yard TD run to give the Jackets an early lead. The PAT failed and left a 6-0 score.

Reginald Riggins completed the brother sweep when he scored on a 12 yard jaunt late in the firt quarter. The run ended a 65 yard drive. When Hugh Kidd added the two point conversion, the Jackets led 14-0.

Oak Grove drew closer with a 35-yard scoring toss late in the second period.

The Jackets marched 60 yards for their third score, with Vernon Kidd giving the Jackets another brother scoring combo. His touchdown run covered 11 yards, and the PAT he kicked afterward give the Jackets a 21-7 margin at the half.

Oak Grove scored again early in the fourth quarter and threatened several times. Interceptions by Hugh Kidd and Reginald Riggins helped to seal the Jacket win.

Gaining ground

21-3 gap

THS axes Jemison

by K.A. Turner

"Kenny and I talked and decided since I'm 6'6", it would be easy to throw to me."

Kenny is Thompson Warrior quarterback Kenny Johnson. The tall receiver is tight end Preston Hansford.

Together, the two teamed to make it look easy in leading the Thompson Warriors to a 21 – 3 win over Jemison.

Coach Doug Wheeler's squad is often called the "Big Red Machine." Thursday night, the tribe did nothing to shame their nickname.

The Warriors mixed a menacing defense, a methodical ground game, and some timely passing to win their season opener.

"This feels great," said defensive lineman Homer Threatt after the ball game. "Since I'm a senior, it was real good to come down here and beat them this last time."

Wheeler was also pleased, but a little less exhuberant than his players.

"We played pretty good overall," he said, "but we've still got some little, big things we need to work on."

At least the big mistakes that sometimes haunt an opening game did not come to bother the Warriors.

One interception and one five yard penalty were all the charity the Warriors would offer Jemison.

On the other hand, the tough Warrior defense robbed the Panthers twice. Demetrius Gaiters and Otis Bivins each recovered a fumble, both of which set up THS scoring drives.

Even when it wasn't stealing the football, the THS defense was stingy.

"We knew if we could just shut down their offensive line we could win," said hard – hitting linebacker Kevin Ballard.

The Warriors won the battle for the line of scrimmage, allowing the Jemison offense only one real drive on the night. That drive resulted in the Panthers' only score, a 26 yard field goal by Lawrence Mims.

Thompson put together drives of 59 and 86 yards to post a 14 – 0 half – time lead.

Todd Harris capped the first with a TD run of two yards. The big play in the drive was a pass from Johnson to Hansford that carried to the two yard line.

Harris picked up 48 of his 139 yards on the next touchdown burst. Johnson again connected with Hansford for the two – - point conversion.

The Warriors final score came in answer to the third quarter Jemison score.Again, it was the Johnson – Hansford connection providing the punch.

THS		Jemison

To finish the scoring, the duo notched a 35 yard TD strike ,capping a short drive. After Randy Littleton kicked the PAT, the scoreboard registered the winning margin, 21 – 3. Wheeler cited several individuals whose play caught his eye.

Split – end Kevin Duke drew praise for his blocking, especially on the final TD pass play. Duke also had two receptions on the night for a total of 23 yards.

Tight end Hansford turned heads for blocking and receiving. "This year is the first that Preston has played offense. I though he did real well," Wheeler said.

Hansford had three receptions for 69 yards, one touchdown, and one two – point conversion.

Quarterback Johnson was cited for his passing arm,completing 6 of 12 passes for 99 yards.

The Warrior field general was a sizzling 5 of 7 in the first half.

Sophmore defensive back Shane Horrell gained attention for several big plays. Wheeler particularly remembered a defelection late in the third quarter that saved a touchdown.

Defensive standouts Homer Threatt, , Kevin Ballard, Dennis Null, and Preston Hansford were seen by their coaches as the anchors of the defense.

Stoudt is Stallion's best

Cliff Stoudt is the Birmingham Jaycees "Stallion of the Year".

Stoudt was joined by guard Buddy Aydelette, runningback Joe Cribbs, tackle Pat Phenix, linebacker Herbie Spencer, and safety Chuck Clanton in receiving awards at a recent banquet.

The Jaycees also saluted Stallion team president Jerry Sklar for his work in bringing pro football to the Birmingahm area -- and keeping it here.

CVA eeks out win

by K.A. Turner

One thing that's worse than playing well and barely winning, is playing well and losing.

So, at least Coosa Valley Academy coach Bruce Breland has something to be thankful for. His Rebels met Warrior Friday night and took a 7 – 0 win in their 1984 season opener.

It could have been much worse.

"We were inside the 20-yard line five times and only scored once," Breland said.

Seventy – two yards in penalities had a lot to do with stalling the Rebel drives. Breland feels his squad must correct that problem if they are to keep winning.

Coosa Valley had to travel to open their season. But the Rebels suffered no "jet lag" and jumped on Warrior quickly.

Coosa Valley took the opening kick and drove 45 yards before stalling. Mike Gragg's 42-yard field goal attempt fell just short, and CVA saw its first scoring opportunity go by the boards.

Throughout the half the offense continued to roll, only to see other opportunities come and go.

Meanwhile, the Rebel defense made sure that Warrior never threatened, holding their opposition to only one first down the entire half.

"We really knocked some heads and stuck some people out there," said Breland. "That's probably the only really good thing I saw all night."

Breland finally saw his offense sparkle in the second half.

CVA		Warrior
217	rushing	68
43	passing	15
15	first downs	4
72	penalty yards	24

Late in the third quarter, with the Rebs driving, Gragg broke loose on a 40-yard jaunt that carried to the four.

Another penalty threatened to stop the march, and the Rebs were backed up to the nine. But this time, Coosa Valley refused to be denied.

Three plays later, Brett Strickland scored on a two-yard plunge. It was all the points the Rebs would need.

Strickland added the PAT, and the margin stood 7 – 0.

Strickland's performance on both offense and at weak safety was one of the best of the game. "Mike just played an outstanding game," Breland said.

Breland also liked the defensive play of tackle Dennis Robertson, linebackers Gragg and Bobby Glass, and strong safety Jeff Martin.

Breland added that his entire defensive unit had been "very aggressive" throughout the entire game.

The Rebel defenders gave up only four first downs during the entire contest.

Although the Rebel offense sputtered at times,. Breland did note a good performance from tight end Scott Thompson.

"He caught two nice passes in traffic," Breland said.

Breland and his Rebels don't have long to savor their opening win.

Coosa Valley travels to South Alabama to take on Escambia Friday night. The Escambia Cougars traveled to Shelby County last weekend for a Saturday date with Shelby Academy. The Raiders won that game 10 – 6.

Shelby snares Escambia for 10-6 win

by K.A. Turner

"Tonight was crucial," said Shelby Academy coach Dewayne Kervin. "We really needed to gain some confidence after a rough year last year."

The Raiders should have a pretty good shot of confidence after Saturday night. They defeated a large size Escambia team 10-6 in a hard-hitting opening contest.

"Coach Kervin told us all through August that if we hit somebody else as hard as we hit each other, we'd be OK," said Shelby senior tailback and linebacker Robert Thomas.

The Raiders did what the coach said. The defense stuck Escambia time and time again and managed to salvage the win in the fourth quarter.

Shelby charged out of the blocks early. The Raiders took the opening kick-off and marched 65 yards to paydirt.

The drive took eleven plays. It was capped by an eleven-yard pass from Doug Thomas to Kelly Tibbals.

Vince Pickett added the extra point to put the Raiders up quickly 7-0.

Two possessions later, Shelby began to drive again. When the march stalled, Pickett kicked a 19-yard field goal to put the Raiders up 10-0.

At that point, the game began to change its complexion. The squads sparred like heavy-weights through the remainder of the half.

In the third quarter, Escambia put together a 35-yard drive and closed the score to 10-6.

SA		Escambia
160	rushing	96

It was up to the Raider defense to win the contest in the fourth quarter, and the team forced two turnovers late in the game to preserve their opening win.

"Depth hurt us some late in the game," said SA quarterback Doug Thomas, "but we had some young guys that came in and did a real good job."

The Raiders lost the services of linemen Ched Burton and Rod Weis for part of the contest. When the two did play, they contributed some big plays.

"We worked real hard on conditioning in August," Robert Thomas said. "Coach Kervin used a successful basketball conditioning drill to get us ready, and I think we were in good shape."

Both of the Thomas brothers also thought their team's unity made the difference when the going got tough.

"We're all just like brothers," said Robert. "We do everything together so we can count on each other when we play."

Kervin also felt the win was a real team effort. "Everybody that walked on the field did well, especially on defense. We got real aggressive with them, and I had hoped we could do that."

The week before the opener, Kervin took his club to Bessemer for a scrimmage contest. "We didn't look good in that game," he said. "We were tentative and turned the ball over a lot.

"We set as our goal this week not to turn the ball over, and except for one good lick, we didn't," he said.

Kervin singled out the efforts of Robert Thomas, Burton, and Weis.

Thomas accumulated 90 yards in 14 carries on the night.

Weis was bothered by a shoulder problem through much of the contest. "He made some really big plays when he was in though," Kervin said.

Other offensive leaders were Mike Upton with 44 yards on 11 carries, and Doug Thomas who threw for 68 yards and one TD.

Defensively the Raiders were led by Upton with nine tackles, Dennis Attaway with eight, Jeff Dunaway with eight, and Vince Pickett with seven.

New areas fan the flames of more play-off fever

by K.A. Turner

The goal of high school football squads everywhere – – winning a trip to the state playoffs – – will be reached by almost three times as many teams this year.

"We go from 64 playoff teams last year to 192 teams this year," said Alan Mitchell, director of publicity and relations for the Alabama High School Athletic Association.

The increase will be one of the most noticeable changes in the new classification being used by the AHSAA this season.

In recapping the classification changes, Mitchell said classification is no longer based on arbitrary enrollment figures.

"Each of the football playing schools in Alabama were arranged in order according to number of students, one through 417," he said. "Then the top 64 teams were made class 6A, the next 64 made 5A, etc."

Each classification now has an equal number of football playing schools. The actual number varies slightly from class to class with the addition of some schools which only have basketball programs.

Areas are then determined geographically, with four teams per area preferred.

The new classification system will be in effect for the next two seasons. After the '85–'86 school year, the system will be evaluated and possible reclassification will occur.

Despite the addition of a number of teams to the playoff picture, the actual length of the football season remains the same. After 15 weeks, the state championship finals will be played on December 7.

There will be an additional week of playoff action, with a team now needing five wins rather than four to take a state title. That week will replace the off–week that was a feature of the regular season in previous years.

Shelby County has no 1A football squads.

Calera and Chelsea compete in 2A area 10 with Brighton and St. Clair County.

Montevallo competes in 3A area 5 with Oak Grove and West Blocton.

Vincent competes in 3A area 7 with Lineville, B.B. Comer and Randolph County.

Shelby County competes in 4A area 9 with Abrams, Dallas County and Jemison.

Pelham and Thompson compete in 5A area 9 with Homewood and McAdory.

When Briarwood becomes an official member of the AHSAA in December they will participate in 3A competition in the same area as Montevallo.

Hornets cop first honor in weekly awards

The Chelsea Hornets are the first Shelby County Reporter Team of the Week of the 1984 season.

The award will be given to a county squad each week. It will recognize outstanding effort by county teams in big–game situations.

Richard Conkle's Hornets took the award for the 31–0 pounding of Thorsby last Friday.

The win is one of the biggest in the last decade for Chelsea.

The decision was a tough one, as every county team that faced outside competition came out a winner.

The Chelsea win was even bigger in that it marked the successful return of a "legend" in Hornet football.

Each Team of the Week will be presented a certificate recognizing its achievement. At the end of the season, the Reporter will also honor a Team of the Year.

2. The Plaintiff, Myrtice Wilson Watts, is the executrix of the estate of Albert Herman Sanders and claims an interest in the above styled real estate.
3. The plaintiff, by and through her attorney, has made reasonable and diligent search and inquiry, which search was laborous and required a considerable amount of time and expense to determine all the persons who own an interest in the property described in Paragraph One and those persons and their interest are set out in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated by reference as if set out fully herein. The plaintiff further claims that the plaintiff has paid taxes upon the aforestated real estate and is entitled to reimbursement and has gone to considerable expense to determine most of the persons who claim an interest in the property described in Paragraph 1 hereof and that it would be just and equitable for the plaintiff to be reimbursed her expenses and for the court to determine an attorney's fee to be awarded to plaintiff's attorney. Plaintiff further avers that it would be in the best interest of all the parties to this action and to all the persons who claim an interest in this defendant land that the cost of title insurance, if an insurance company licensed to insure title in the State of Alabama will issue a policy, be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.
4. Plaintiff further alleges that there are certain persons who may claim an interest in the property as described in Paragraph 1 hereof and who may be of unsound mind or who may be minors and that it would be in the best interest and welfare of said persons, if any exist, if a guardian ad litem were appointed by the court to protect the interest of any minors or any persons of unsound mind.
5. The Plaintiff further avers that it is impossible to make an equitable division of the property described in Paragraph One hereof and that it is necessary for said property to be sold and the proceeds of sale, after payment of expenses, be divided according to the interest that this court shall determine each party may have in the described premises.
WHEREFORE, Premises considered, Plaintiff demands judgment as follows:
a) That this Honorable Court will appoint a guardian ad litem to represent any and all unknown parties who may claim an interest in the defendant land and any and all unknown parties who may be minors or persons of unsound mind and any and all persons who may be in the Armed Forces of the United States and to represent any and all persons who may come under any other legal disability.
b) That this Honorable Court will issue an Order and Decree determining the interest that each and every person may have in the defendant land and order that the defendant land be sold by order of this court in a manner according to law and that the proceeds be divided according to the court's order, after attorney's fees and expenses of sale.
c) Plaintiff further prays that this Honorable Court will order that the Plaintiff be reimbursed plaintiff's expenses and that the Plaintiff's attorney be awarded a reasonable attorney's fee, considering the extraordinary amount of time that has been required to be devoted to this case to be paid from the expenses of sale. Plaintiff further prays that the plaintiff be granted the cost of this suit and all costs of title insurance, if attainable, be reimbursed to the Plaintiff.
d) The Plaintiff further prays for such other, further and additional relief as this Court may deem just, proper and equitable.

Walden: growing strong roots

by David F. Moore

Life hasn't been particularly easy on Margaret Walden, but without asking a few personal questions one would probably never know that.

Growing up poor in the Kingdom Community during the depression caused certain hardships in her early days, she says in answer to questions, sitting in the comfortable family room on the eastern outskirts of Columbiana.

"We were poor. We lived everywhere around here. Daddy was a farmer and worked hard. But with six children..."

The first house built by her father, John Baskin Boaz, which is on County 77, has been remodeled, bricked and now has a swimming pool out back. Margaret recalls being able to see the stars from there at night from between the split shingles on the walls. There was no ceiling, only part of a floor, and sometimes a snake nested in the rafters by the double chimney.

Later, he built another house, across County 28 from Dogwood Hill where Margaret, the oldest of the six children, now lives, and the family grew there, both in size and closeness. Her sister, Fay Frederick, now lives in that house.

"We are a very close family," Margaret says. "My sister in Oklahoma calls every few days. So does my brother in Gulf Shores."

MARGARET WALDEN
...with Bird of Paradise plant she grew

Life hinted that it would ease up on Margaret when she married Byron Gladney, a GI from Mississippi who had just been discharged from service in WW II because of his nerves.

They moved to Mississippi where they began raising a family. Margaret opened and worked in a small store and also a restaurant.

However, Byron and his nerve problems kept him from steady work and a steady income, but he was not one to accept any handouts, Margaret says.

They had two daughters, Linda, now a Crenshaw, and Patsy, now a Coley. After Margaret became pregnant with Rhonda, now nearly 20, the family moved back to Birmingham.

Shortly thereafter, Byron died tragically. In 1964, after 19 years of marriage, Margaret was left with three girls, very little insurance, and small checks from social security and the Veterans Administration.

"But we made it fine," Margaret smiles, despite the hard times.

Still, she admits, it was hard for her to pick up the pieces and go on with her life, and perhaps even harder sitll on her girls.

One thing that helped save her was her family, a group strongly bound together by their Shelby County roots. Within an hour of Byron's death, all five of her brothers and sisters were there to help her and the girls.

"I couldn't have made it without them," she says. Nonetheless, pressures continued to build on the woman.

'I guess my nerves were overtaking me," Margaret says. "The doctor said I'd have to get something to do, other than just raising a baby."

What happened is that her Shelby County roots led, so to speak, to more roots in Shelby County. On New Year's Day, 1967, while visiting her sister Jackie at her home on Dogwood Hill, Margaret decided to something she had always wanted to do -- build and run a greenhouse.

Across the road from the family homestead, she bought four acres from Jackie and built a 16x20-foot, plastic covered greenhouse. Raising tomatoes, she managed to pay off the greenhouse the first year and have $14 left over -- before paying her own salary.

She moved back to Shelby County, living on her land on Schools schedule fourth open house

Calera Elementary School is trying to make it three in a row for winning the school night open house competition.

The competition was started four years ago to encourage parents to turn out for the annual event in their local schools.

"One of the most important reasons for the open house," says Thompson Middle School Principal Randy McDonald, "is for the parent and teacher to make contact."

McDonald, who is county chairman of this year's open house event, had the biggest turnout for a middle school in last year's competition.

"We want to start out the school year in a positive manner," McDonald says, "and open the lines of communication between the parent and school so we'll be ready in case a problem occurs."

According to McDonald, each school will set their own hours and plan their own program.

The TMS event will begin at 6 p.m. with a spaghetti supper, followed by a general assembly. Parents will then go through an abbreviated schedule of their childrens' classes.

"It's important to us," McDonald says, "for parents to feel that the school is inviting -- for them to see the building and meet the teachers."

The participation award -- a plaque -- is figured on a percentage basis according to the size of the school with only one representative per child being counted -- which is why Calera

CPR class offered

You can learn to save someone's life from choking, heart attack or stroke by enrolling in the CPR class being offered by the Shelby County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Up for adoption

It's a dog's life...but it doesn't have to be. Not if someone adopts one of these pups or any of the other animals at the Shelby County Humane Society before they are put to sleep. Anyone can get a pet by visiting the humane society office, located just off U.S. 70 in Columbiana, or by calling 669-4562. A small adoption fee will be charged. (photo by David F. Moore)

Grab partner, learn dancing

If you have always thought that square dancing looked like a lot of fun -- you were right. And in just two weeks, you can get into the swing of things.

The Columbiana Reelers will begin 26 weeks of classes on Tuesday evenings, beginning September 11.

To get a preview of the Reelers in action, interested persons are invited to the Albert L. Scott Memorial Library in Alabaster on Saturday, September 15.

The Reelers are giving an exhibition then from 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. during an arts and crafts fair being sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Reeler president Dot Harrison says that her group is a "fun club" for members anywhere from 10 to 70 years of age.

Comfortable clothing and sneakers or some type of shoe that won't fall off should be worn to the lessons which will be given at the Community Services building in Colubiana.

Lessons run from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. with a charge of $4 per class per couple, or $2 for singles. If at all possible, the club would like people to come with partners.

For further information, call Harrison: 669-9285.

Vincent pastor, students honored by national student society

Ten high school students from Vincent join a local pastor in receiving a national honor.

The students -- all members of the First Baptist Church of Vincent -- have been accepted for membership in the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

In addition, the society presented a National Appreciation Award to Dr. H.L. "Lindy" Martin, the pastor of the church.

"This award was made in acknowledgement of untiring efforts and steadfast dedication on behalf of students" a society release read.

Those students listed for 1984 are: Darin Roberson, Joy Garrett, Angela Hughes, Russell Campbell, John T. Beavers, Robin Hughes, Noelle Bouchet, Leah Anne Smith, Emilie Bouchet, and Kim Oakes.

The students were chosen on the basis of excellence in academic achievement and participation in extra-curricular and civic activities.

SC artist shows work at BMC

The Baptist Medical Center Princeton Gallery will feature the works of Shelby County artist Bill Cleere during the month of September.

Cleere is a member of Vestavia Hills Art Association and paints in acrylics and watercolors. His exhibit will include rural landscapes, wildlife and seascapes, ranging from soft expressionism to highly detailed earthtone paintings.

Cleere describes his painting as an attempt to preserve today's natural setting for future generations.

He lives in Maylene.

Where's the lettuce?

Winfred Jones grew a 3.25-pound cucumber in his Calera garden. His friend, Wesley C. Mullen, also of Calera, grew a 1.5-pound tomato. All they need now is a rather large head of lettuce and bottle of dressing, and they'd have a salad big enough to feed the six people who work with them in the lab at the Blue Circle, Inc. cement plant. Healthy snacks for youngsters

"What do we have to eat?"

That's almost a universal question when youngsters come home from school.

Though common, it's also the type of question that can send a mother into a tizzy -- unless she's ready with some tasty snacks.

While it's easier to pick up potato chips and sweets from the store, professionals strongly note that children will benefit much more from eating something nutritious.

Recipes for some of these easy to make snacks were provided for Reporter readers by Shelby County County Extension agent Gail Reagan.

SNACK PIZZAS

Makes 10 pizzas
Calories per pizza: About 105
Ingredients:
- Refrigerator biscuits, flaky, 9½ oz. pkg. (10 biscuits)
- ¼ cup tomato paste
- 1 tsp. Oregano
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1/3 cup canned mushrooms, chopped
- ½ cup Natural sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded

Directions:
1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. (hot).
2. Grease baking sheets.
3. Pat each biscuit round into a 4-inch circle on baking sheets.
4. Mix tomato paste and oregano. Brush on each biscuit round.
5. Mix onion and mushrooms. Sprinkle over tomato paste mixture. Top with shredded cheese.
6. Bake until crust is lightly browned (about 8 minutes).

NOTE: Other ingredients such as cooked ground sausage or ground beef, thin strips of salami, chopped green pepper, or chopped anchovies may be used in place of onion and mushrooms. Calories for a pizza will vary according to ingredients used.

STRAWBERRY-YOGURT POPSICLES

Makes 12 popsicles
Calories per popsicle: About 70
Ingredients:
- 2 cartons, 10 oz. each, frozen strawberries, thawed
- 1 TBS unflavored gelatin
- 16 oz. plain yogurt
- 12 paper cups (3 oz.)
- 12 wooden sticks

Directions:
1. Drain strawberries.
2. Place drained liquid in a saucepan and sprinkle with gelatin.
3. Mix strawberries, yogurt, and gelatin mixture in a blender until smooth.
4. Place cups on a tray or in a baking pan. Fill with blended mixture and cover cups with a sheet of aluminum foil.
5. Insert a stick for each popsicle by making a slit in the foil over the center of each cup.
6. Freeze popsicles until firm.
7. Run warm water on outside of cup to loosen each popsicle from the cup.

GRANOLA BARS

Ingredients:
- ½ cup sugar
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1/3 cup peanut butter
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- 1 egg
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 3½ cups quick oats

Directions:

In a large mixer bowl beat sugar, butter, peanut butter, honey and corn syrup till light. Add egg, beat until fluffy. Add vanilla and cinnamon. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bake in a greased pan. (8x8 will make bars 3/4" thick. Use a larger pan if thinner bars are desired). Bake in a 350 degree oven about 25 minutes or until golden brown. When cool, cut into bars.

Where's the lettuce?

Winfred Jones grew a 3.25-pound cucumber in his Calera garden. His friend, Wesley C. Mullen, also of Calera, grew a 1.5-pound tomato. All they need now is a rather large head of lettuce and bottle of dressing, and they'd have a salad big enough to feed the six people who work with them in the lab at the Blue Circle, Inc. cement plant. Healthy snacks for youngsters

"What do we have to eat?"

That's almost a universal question when youngsters come home from school.

Though common, it's also the type of question that can send a mother into a tizzy -- unless she's ready with some tasty snacks.

While it's easier to pick up potato chips and sweets from the store, professionals strongly note that children will benefit much more from eating something nutritious.

Recipes for some of these easy to make snacks were provided for Reporter readers by Shelby County County Extension agent Gail Reagan.

SNACK PIZZAS

Makes 10 pizzas
Calories per pizza: About 105
Ingredients:
- Refrigerator biscuits, flaky, 9½ oz. pkg. (10 biscuits)
- ¼ cup tomato paste
- 1 tsp. Oregano
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1/3 cup canned mushrooms, chopped
- ½ cup Natural sharp Cheddar cheese, shredded

Directions:
1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. (hot).
2. Grease baking sheets.
3. Pat each biscuit round into a 4-inch circle on baking sheets.
4. Mix tomato paste and oregano. Brush on each biscuit round.
5. Mix onion and mushrooms. Sprinkle over tomato paste mixture. Top with shredded cheese.
6. Bake until crust is lightly browned (about 8 minutes).

NOTE: Other ingredients such as cooked ground sausage or ground beef, thin strips of salami, chopped green pepper, or chopped anchovies may be used in place of onion and mushrooms. Calories for a pizza will vary according to ingredients used.

STRAWBERRY-YOGURT POPSICLES

Makes 12 popsicles
Calories per popsicle: About 70
Ingredients:
- 2 cartons, 10 oz. each, frozen strawberries, thawed
- 1 TBS unflavored gelatin
- 16 oz. plain yogurt
- 12 paper cups (3 oz.)
- 12 wooden sticks

Directions:
1. Drain strawberries.
2. Place drained liquid in a saucepan and sprinkle with gelatin.
3. Mix strawberries, yogurt, and gelatin mixture in a blender until smooth.
4. Place cups on a tray or in a baking pan. Fill with blended mixture and cover cups with a sheet of aluminum foil.
5. Insert a stick for each popsicle by making a slit in the foil over the center of each cup.
6. Freeze popsicles until firm.
7. Run warm water on outside of cup to loosen each popsicle from the cup.

GRANOLA BARS

Ingredients:
- ½ cup sugar
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1/3 cup peanut butter
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- 1 egg
- 1 cup raisins
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 3½ cups quick oats

Directions:

In a large mixer bowl beat sugar, butter, peanut butter, honey and corn syrup till light. Add egg, beat until fluffy. Add vanilla and cinnamon. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bake in a greased pan. (8x8 will make bars 3/4" thick. Use a larger pan if thinner bars are desired). Bake in a 350 degree oven about 25 minutes or until golden brown. When cool, cut into bars.

Cymbalism?

Melanie Burnette and Karla Hawks show some of the hard work that goes into making the Montevallo High School Marching Troubadours performances something to look forward to. Despite the sweat and the long hours, the two seem to be making their "work" a lot of fun. (photo by K.A. Turner)

THE DIESEL LAWN MOWER.

Kubota has a whole new way to cut the grass. It's the first diesel lawn and garden tractor in the country.

Kubota's G-Series lawn and garden tractors come with water-cooled 2- or 3-cylinder diesel engines. They're built to outlast ordinary gas mowers by several seasons.

There are four G-Series models, from 10 to 14 horsepower. They all have live front PTO shaft drive to the mid-mount mower. You can choose a hydrostatic transmission. And you can choose a variety of implements including a snowblower, tiller or front blade.

Champions

Jessica Eisenberg of Montevallo looks proudly at her horse, Lochan Ora, with whom she won two first place awards at a regional show in Montgomery. One of the prizes was a green horse cooler with the 4-H emblem, proclaiming Lochan Ora a regional champion.

Eisenberg wins blue in regional horse show

Competition for prizes at the Southern region 4-H horse show was hot and heavy.

Despite the stiff competition, Jessica Eisenberg of Montevallo walked off with four ribbons -- two of them blue.

Riders from 13 states took part in the event which was held recently in the coliseum in Montgomery.

There were the 346 horses in the four day event, with entries numbering 1,450.

Eisenberg, a member of the Shelby County 4-H club, won first places in English showmanship and English halter, a 3rd in saddle seat equitation, and a 10th in hunter showmanship.

She was also in the top 19 in a class of 120 in hunt seat equitation, and again in the top 19 pulled in by the judge in a 150 horse Western pleasure class.

Max Eisenberg tied with his sister for a 5th place ribbon in team demonstration showmanship.

Learn how to write fiction

All those long hours spent dreaming over romance novels can be put to creative -- and possibly financial -- use.

Romantic souls with a little flair for the written word can learn more about writing fiction, especially romance stories and novels, in UAB Special Studies' "Fiction Writing" class this fall.

Award-winning author Carolynne B. Scott will teach students with no writing experience, but lots of interest and energy, to master the techniques of fiction writing. She will emphasize characterization, point-of-view, pace, structure, dialogue and other technical aspects in the eight one and a half-hour Thursday night classes.

Class begins at 6 p.m. Sept. 20, and cost for the course is $65.

For more information or to register: 934-3870.

won the award for elementary schools last year.

Chelsea won the competition for best high school open house attendance last year.

"It was felt that the precentage basis would be the fair way to do it," McDonald explains, "since some children only have one parent."

The open house events will be held in the high schools this year on Thursday, September 11; middle schools will hold their open houses Thursday, September 13, and elementary schools will hold their's on Tuesday, September 18.

Walden

Dogwood Hill in a mobile home.

The second year she built a 30x100-foot greenhouse, and concentrated on growing winter tomatoes. When the books were closed, she had managed to pay off the greenhouse and buy a new pickup truck for $2,700.

"But we didn't have any money left," she laughs.

One day in Midfield, at a birthday party for a family member's in-law, Margaret met Willis -- or Bill -- Walden. "He was a widower and I was a widow..."

A few months later, Bill came down and spent a day working in the greenhouse.

"He was here just about every day after that, and three months later, July 3, 1969, we got married," Margaret says. "I couldn't stand people saying I had a boyfriend!"

There was still some adjusting to do, but life was finally cooperating some. The Waldens built a nice house around the trailer and bought 11 more acres on Dogwood Hill.

Bill, who works at the former Ingalls Iron, still helps in the greenhouse. After he retires in July, they may take a trip to visit daughter Patsy and her family in Oregon.

"It's so beautiful there," she says. "If I didn't have roots here, I'd move out to Oregon."

Besides her family roots keeping her here, there's still the roots in her greenhouse, which, despite a lack of profit, still keeps her attention.

"I don't like to clean house," she says. "I love to work outside. I love to see things grow, to work with my hands. I can't stay in the house."

Margaret also has strong roots in Good Hope United Methodist Church, where over the past six years she's been very active with the youth at the church. She has organized their rummage sales so they could help the church buy an acre of land for a playground, and has given them jobs in her greenhouse so they could pay to have a choir director.

"So many people don't understand children," she says. As unofficial youth director, she has more or less created a second family of some 21 youth. She and other church workers took them all camping two weeks ago.

A lover of kitchen cookery, Margaret also loves to bake -- a passion which landed her a summer job as a cook at the State 4-H Center four miles away on Lay Lake. Last week she started a parttime job as a backup server at the Country Cupboard restaurant in Columbiana.

Her latest project is trying to raise $13,000 to invest in a perpetual care fund for Williams Cemetery on County 61.

A life that was once so rough, is now very busy. Indeed, in the course of a 45-minute morning talk, her home phone rings seven times. Her 81-year old mother, Louise Boaz answers most of them. Mrs. Boaz is temporarily living with her daughter.

"My husband says I bite off more than I can chew," Margaret says.

"Sometimes she does," agrees Louise, retruning from the phone to the beans she is shelling. "But she finally gets it chewed up enough so that she can swallow it..."

"I always believed that an idle mind is the devil's workshop," Margaret says in good natured defense. "If you're not busy, you're not doing the best you can. I think the Lord put us here to work."

And working, and having a good family, she might add, is how she chooses to keep her roots strong and viable, despite what life throws her way.

DID YOU KNOW?

It would take a lot of windmills to replace a nuclear power plant.

Much talk has been made about using the wind as a source for electricity. The most advanced wind turbines available are rated at about 4 megawatts. Assuming a continuous wind speed of 20 miles an hour—a pretty stiff breeze—you'd need at least 250 of these towering machines to equal the capacity of a single 1,000 megawatt nuclear plant.

Fair comes to county

The Shelby County Fair is in Columbiana through this Saturday, offering an array of exhibits, shows and rides. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana, the fair is being held next to the Shelby County High School football field, and the midway opens daily at 5:30 p.m. Hanging out the welcoming banner last week were Alabama Power workers John Jones (left) and Glen Smith. County adopts new insurance for employees

by David F. Moore

A committee of Shelby County employees and officials have unanimously endorsed a Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance package.

The package -- approved Monday by the county commission in the face of rising employee insurance premiums -- ends a year-long search for a new policy. It also ends the month-by-month existence under which the old policy has operated since last March.

Significantly, the new three-year package will cost the county $731,748 per year -- that's $217,752 less than what present Blue Cross premiums will jump to in October.

Until October, the county will continue to pay premiums for 211 employees and former employees at the present monthly rate of $259 per person, or $655,788 per year. The same package would have jumped in October to $375 -- or $949,500 annually -- had the new package rate of $289 not been adopted.

The committee also studied a self-insuring package offered through the Association of County Commission of Alabama (ACCA). That package would have would have cost the county $521,511, or $205 monthy per employee.

However, commissioner John Ames, who headed the insurance committee, said that the ACCA's self-insuring program had the major drawback of writting no more checks starting the day the plan might be dropped.

Similar self-insuring programs in the past have caused problems for the county, Ames told the commissioners prior to thier vote of approval for the new Blue Cross package.

Ames indicated that both packages call for some overall cuts in coverage, but, importantly, the county will continue to pay all premiums for employees and retirees under age 65 who are now covered and are being grandfathered into the new policy. The new package also calls for:

- A $100 hospital deductable;
- A $25 co-pay provision for days 2-11;
- A $100 major medical deductable;
- Eighty percent coverage up to $2,500, and full coverage afterwards.

Judge orders records returned

by Bert Seaman

Probate Judge Tommy Snowden says he doesn't know where he will put the mortgage records that a court order says must be returned to his office.

Because of space shortages, Snowden, in July, moved the records dating from 19ll-1958 to the 1854 courthouse a block from his office.

Last week, an order from Circuit Court Judge Robert Armstrong said that Snowden must bring the records back to the probate office, as soon as practicable.

And responding to a clarification of the motion requested by Snowden, Judge Armstrong said Monday the records should be returned immediately -- that means as soon as possible, he said.

Monday afternoon, Snowden said he had not been notified of the order. And Jim Masone, who is in charge of microfilming records, said that recent surgery and a heavy workload will delay him somewhat.

However, Masone said he hoped to get the records moved back by the end of the week.

In his order last week, Judge Armstrong said that it was unlawful County land deal hits snag

by David F. Moore

The apparent cut and dry deal on the sale of a piece of county property big enough to hold two parked cars, may have hit a snag Monday.

The 400 square-foot piece of land is part of the tract owned by the county, next to the courthouse parking lot and immediately behind Shelby County Abstract.

The county commission agreed two weeks ago to sell the land to the abstract company if representative Mike Atchison and county attorney Frank "Butch" Ellis agreed on a deal. Atchison said his company had been talking over the sale with the county since May, and that the land was needed for possible business expansions next year.

However, Monday, when Atchison presented the commission with a $600 check -- $100 over the price it been appraised for -- and a deed he said Ellis had asked him to draw up, he found that Alabaster realtor Sherman Holland wanted to bid more money on the land.

Also, commission chairman Tommy Snowden hedged on the apparent sale, saying that the land might be needed if a new courthouse, or some sort of extension is built in the future. "I don't think we ought to sell anything," he said.

Holland revealed no proposed use for the land. He said the county shouldn't even sell it, but if it did, bids should be taken and the land should sell to the highest bidder.

"I think I have figured out where the property is," Holland said. "I'm interested in it. I will bid more than their (Atchison's) offer."

Commissioners Leon Archer -- who initially moved that the sell be worked out with Shelby County Abstract -- and John Ames indicated that the county was obligated to deal with Atchison, pending Ellis' approval.

Atchison said that bids were not required and that Ellis had verbally approved the deal. Holland -- who presented a written bid of $1,200 for the land -- said such approval should be in writing, and the commission agreed.

Ellis could not be reached Tuesday morning for comment.

Two men wounded in shooting

by Bert Seaman

Two men were wounded in a shooting Wednesday evening on the Egg and Butter Road in Columbiana.

Twenty-year-old Larry Thomas Carter of Chelsea was arrested Saturday and charged with two counts of assault second degree.

The shooting was the third incident of violent crime in Columbiana in as many weeks.

At the time the shooting occurred, Paul Coshatt and John King of Tarrant City were reportedly getting some items belonging to Coshatt's mother. The items were stored at the home of Emma Lane, who lives in Egg and Butter Road just south of town.

Birdshot from a shotgun hit Coshatt in the face and left shoulder; King was hit in the face, abdomen and left arm.

According to police reports, Carter and three friends drove by the Lane home and there was an excange of words between them and the Tarrant City men.

Carter and his friends reportedly drove off, returning a short while later with a gun.

The incident occurred between 7-7:30 p.m.

Wilsonville resident drowns

by David F. Moore

A Wilsonville man drowned Sunday evening when he was apparently flung from his 150 horsepower fishing boat in a slough on Beeswax Creek.

Rescue workers from Harpersville recovered the body of Jeffrey Lynn Raia, 24, at 6:35 a.m. Monday.

"It was still daylight," said Edith Smith, a Tarrant woman, who was staying with her husband, Darol, at their Lay Lake home near the site of accident. "It was quiet, other than the sound of (Raia's) boat.

"I heard a loud hissing sound from his motor. The boat shot up in the air. My husband said, 'My God! He's been thrown from his boat.' He (Darol) was there in two or three minutes at the most in his boat," Mrs. Smith said. "He never could find the kid."

She called the Shelby County Sheriffs Department at 7 p.m. Eight members of the Lay Lake Rescue Squad, along with deputies and personnel from Rescue 88, Harpersivlle Ambulance and Wilsonville police searched water with drag lines throughout the night.

County families host students from abroad

by Bert Seaman

Valerie Ysambert is amazed by drive-in's and mystified by hot cakes.

After visiting a drive-in restaurant and bank, the French student -- who is staying with Mike and Charlotte Holder of Pelham -- told her hosts, "Now I understand why everyone in America has a car."

Valerie is one of the four foreign students now in Shelby County as part of the Educational Foundation for Foreign Studies.

"This is the most marvelous experience we've ever had -- a real eye opener," Mrs. Holder said.

Laughing about the hot cakes incident, Holder said she was surprised to see Valerie watching her hosts to see what they would do with them.

"She didn't like the taste of maple syrup, so I gave her strawberry jam to put on them," Holder said.

Valerie and the other students have fit in well at the schools they attend, reported Mina Farmer, who, with her husband Don, has been an area representative for EF in Shelby County for the past three years.

For example, Valerie is a member of the girls' volleyball team at Briarwood where she attends school.

After watching 12-year-old Francie Holder and the other Briarwood cheerleaders, Valerie was so impressed that she plans to organize groups to cheer at basketball games when she gets home.

Another student who has found a niche for himself is Patrik Steen from Sweden. Since Trea Johnson -- the son of his host parents -- is a band member, Patrik became band manager for the Marching Southern Sounds at Thompson High School.

He even attended band camp, said Brenda Johnson. Mrs. Johnson and her husband Marvin are one of the Alabaster families participating in the program.

Tom and Shirley Mulrooney, the other Alabaster family, is hosting Torunn Feragen from Norway.

Willem Markies of Holland is the other foreign student living in the county this year. He is staying with Bill and Brenda Shaw of Inverness and attending Pelham High School.

Farmer said that all the students are seniors and able to speak English.

The program accepts students from 15-19 years of age. Farmer said the average age is 16.

Students who have participated in the program over the last three years have hailed from 14 countries, including Germany, Finland, Norway, Sweden, France, Italy and Holland.

The present group arrived in mid-August and will remain until the end of the school year.

A get together with participants who are living in Jefferson County was held Sunday at Oak Mountain State Park.

Other gatherings during the year will be held at Halloween, Christmas, Valentine's Day and a final farewell party in the spring.

Records

for Snowden to remove the records from the present courthouse and place them under the care and custody of the Shelby County Historical Society.

The same day the order was issued, Snowden asked for clarification on where in the courthouse he can put records and whether the order applied to records other than mortgages.

Records are now stored in the attic and an old jail area of the courthouse.

The only records that must remain in the probate office, Armstrong said Monday, are those affecting the title of real property.

Title companies, which use those records on a daily basis, objected when the records were moved in July, and filed suit against Snowden.

Attorney Jim Standridge, who represented Shelby County Abstract in the suit which was heard in late August, said the move hurt the firm's business.

Since the 1854 courthouse is a little over a block from the present day courthouse, the attorney said it cost time and money to have to travel between the two places.

He also pointed out that no personnel from the probate office were at the old courthouse to certify that mortgages had been satisfied.

Although the defendants claimed the records at the museum were on microfilm in the courthouse record's room, the judge noted that the microfilm does not show all the entries on the mortgage books which title companies must have.

Microfilming of those records, including the marginal notations, was in progress at the time of the trial, but had not been completed.

Snowden said that if the microfilming had been finished, he felt it might have made a difference in the judge's decision.

Looking at the cramped record's room after the judge's order, Snowden said he does not intend to put the mortgage records back in their former position in front of the room's lone window. He said that the window is the only escape from the room should a fire break out in the courthouse.

In order to find out what fire safety measures should be taken, Snowden said he has asked the state fire marshall to inspect the entire courthouse.

Since the judge specified in his order that his ruling only covered records affecting property, Snowden could presumably move marriage records and other records out of the probate office to gain more space.

Shooting

Three weeks ago, a 68-year-old woman was raped in her Columbiana home. Police are still investigating the crime.

Two weeks ago, a woman leaving the Alabama Power office across the street from city hall, was stabbed by another woman. No charges were filed in the incident.

Ingram elected

Judge Kenneth F. Ingram of Ashland was elected President of the Alabama Circuit Judges Asociation at its annual conference held recently in Mobile.

Ingram is the presiding Circuit Judge of the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit for the counties of Clay, Coosa and Shelby.

He is also Chairman of the State Judicial Inquiry Commission.

During his seventeen years as a circuit judge, he has presided over numerous trials throughout the state on special assignment; served on the original drafting committee for the criminal code; was chairman of the state committee which developed the new civil court forms; and is a frequent lecturer to new judges at the Alabama Judicial College.

who helped the rescue crew, said that Raia had been fishing Sunday with a friend, and had let the friend out of the boat shortly before the accident.

Austin, who was also a friend of the victim, said Raia bought the bass boat -- complete with a 150 horsepower Blue Max outboard -- only two months ago.

After Raia was apparently thrown from the boat, it circled out of control for 35-40 minutes until running out of gas. Marine patrol officer Raymond Webster said that Raia had been hit on the feet by the motor's prop as he dove to avoid the circling boat.

After a futile night of searching, four members of the Harpersville rescue squad relieved the Lay Lake volunteers at 6 a.m. Terry Nappier pulled Raia's body from 15-20 feet of murky water at 6:35.

Shelby County coroner Billy Thompson and Lay Lake rescue coordinator A.E. Etress, Jr., said that the drowning was the first in Shelby County this year.

Raia, who lived on Ball Park Road with his wife, Cathy, was supposed to start a new job Monday morning, his friend Austin said.

Commission

Under the present policy, claims have out-distanced premiums by $300,000. Of those claims, $155,000 have been made in the last three months -- all of which is adding to rising insurance cost, Ames said.

In view of the rising costs, Ames said the "employees realized that even if the county is paying the entire premiums, if we can't set controls over it, we can't even consider things like raises."

Working on the committee were: Gloria Wyatt, commission office; Annette Martin, Civil Defense; Nathalie Hamilton, Jeanette Tidwell and Pat Sewell, probate office; Leida Nicholson, Ricky Mitchell and Gary Ray, highway department; Brenda Lee Rice, Attention Home; Camille Drake, sheriff's department; Estelle Sumners, tax accessor's office; Frank "Butch" Ellis, county attorney.

David Kelly digs sewer lines with a backhoe in front of Davis Plaza in Columbiana Monday. Columbiana extends sewer lines on 47 N

by Bert Seaman

Calbert Joiner's home on County 47 is one of the six additional homes that will now be hooked onto the Columbiana sewer system.

Last year the city received a $240,000 Community Development Block grant to extend and upgrade sewer lines. But the project stopped short of Joiner's and the other homes when the grant ran out.

In order to extend the lines all the way to the city limits, the council agreed last Thursday to use city money to complete the project.

Joiner said he will be glad to get on the sewer as long as the tap on fee isn't too high. (The fee is $75.) "I've had to dig up and unstop the lines to my septic tank twice in the three years I've been here," he said.

The line will now be extended an additional 2,472 feet from where it stopped at Bud Lansford's house.

Councilwoman Jessie Jones urged that the work be done, saying it would only cost more in the future. Councilmen Harold McCord, Frank Owen and Lewis Walker were in agreement.

But mayor Buck Falkner made the point that the work would have to be funded 100 percent by the city.

He suggested that it might be better to wait for a grant when the city would only be responsible for 20 percent.

"A grant might be a long time coming," Jones said, emphaasizing the need to remedy area sewerage problems soon. "There could have been plague out there already that might have wiped us all out."

If the contractor working on the sewer project will do the work, project engineer Jimmy Ray said the cost will be $45,000.

According to city clerk Mary Largin, money in the sewer fund is derived from a one cent sales tax, and now totals $80,000.

However, the council also agreed Thursday to use $25,000 from that fund -- an unexpected expense -- to bore a tunnel under the railroad tracks on County 47 North.

The tunnel will be big enough, Ray said, to accomodate any lines the city may have to put through there in the future.

Ray reported that the sewer project is now 55 percent complete. All of the pipe should be in the ground by the second week of October, he said.

Bringing up the subject of the type of pipe being laid -- a point questioned at the last council meeting -- Ray defended his choice of vitrified clay as opposed to the plastic PVC.

Walker had thought the PVC would be less expensive, But Ray explained that because of the amount of stone bedding that must be used with the flexible PVC, it costs more in the long run.

Calera tables building offer

by K.A. Turner

A small metal building at the old landfill site was again a topic of conversation at the Calera council meeting last week.

The building is currently used by firemen in Calera for drills and practice.

Last Tuesday, Calera Mayor Carl Prichard presented to the council a proposal from B.H. Sanders to purchase the building.

Sanders, whose property adjoins the site, also sought to buy four or five acres of land at the old landfill from the city.

Sanders offered $4,000 for the building and $1,000 per acre for the land.

After some discussion -- during which council members indicated the building was a valuable tool for the firefighters -- the group tabled the matter.

The council also opened bids on a new defibrillator unit for the city's rescue squad. The group accepted a bid from Datascope of $6,323 on a unit that includes a phone-patch capability.

In other action, the council approved a request from the Calera and Shelby Railroad Museum to vacate four streets, avenues and alleys that adjoin the museum's property.

The streets, which cut through the museum property, appear on an old map of Calera. They were, at sometime, dedicated but had never been opened to traffic.

The council approved a request from a representative of Tac-Can cable company to raise basic service to $12.75.

The cost for basic had been $12.50, but the extra 25 cents reflected a rate hike from the ESPN network.

The council noted the work done on the railroad crossing on State 25 in town. That crossing repair had been requested by the council, and was completed late last week.

Project embarrassing

Some laws are just plain embarrassing to our society, and it's a shame Alabama lawmakers must legislate our morals.

But in the case of child support -- the financial plague of the State Department of Pensions and Security -- something along strict legal tones had to be incorporated to force parents do what parents are supposed to do.

Project Pay-Up, a statewide campaign aimed at collecting delinquent child support payments, and the new law allowing courts to order employers to deduct child support obligations from wages when the parent falls 30 days behind court-ordered payments, are valuable tools in forcing parents to do what is right. But, yet, the overall program and tough new law seem so unnecessary.

Why should the state DPS, the Alabama Child Support Association and the Office of Prosecution Services have to pinch unwilling parents on their ears and lead them down the path of righteousness, so to speak?

One would think state DPS commissioner Leon Frazier would have better things to do than chase down parents who don't support their children. It's embarrassing.

Embarrassing, indeed.

Chamber leader reviews year

Letter to the Editor:

It has been my pleasure to serve as Pelham Chamber President this year. I want to express my appreciation to the members for affording me this opportunity, to Mary Sue McClurkin, our chamber representative, and to the chamber officers and directors who ably served the organization during my term.

1984 was a very successful year. Several of the highlights were the launching of Phase II of our Prepared City program. As a result of this movement an audio visual presentation and revised brochure about our city are being prepared for business prospects; and other key committees have been organized to meet with economic development prospects and answer their questions about available sites.

Recognition was given to several of business leaders for opening and maintaining attractive stores and places of business within Pelham. Our appreciation award was given to Moore-Handley for its attractive facility and civic and economic contribution toward the improvement of our city. Our chamber scholarship was awarded to Ricky Hayes for his outstanding scholastic and academic record at Pelham High School.

In connection with elections, the Chamber held an informative political forum for mayoral and council candidates which was attended by over 300 citizens.

Great fellowship was enjoyed by everyone at the seven Chamber luncheons which featured several notable community and business leaders. Our banquet, which many people attended, was a tremendous success with Charles Graddick as our guest speaker.

I wish to thank everyone for the support given me, and know they join me in wishing our new president, Donn Stone, and his administration, continued success next year.

Sincerely,
Tom Lloyd

Platform, not opponent should be campaign aim

Letter to the Editor:

I have read articles and heard statements about the elections and the candidates. I can't understand why candidates cut their opponents down with remarks against them; why they allow their campaign managers to say these kind of remarks.

To me, the candidate and their campaigns should strictly point out their own platforms, their abilities -- "theirs," not their opponents' shortcomings.

In doing what they do, I think they have all lessened themselves as men, especially men to represent American's in government.

Stiff sentencing laws still crucial

Letter to the Editor:

Many Alabamians worked very hard in 1979 for a number of amendments to strengthen the Alabama Criminal Code. The keystone of our effort was the Habitual Offender Law, which today is doing exactly what we want it to do: enabling us to make real progress in reducing crime.

The Legislature's Joint Prison Committee currently is considering proposals to weaken the Habitual Offender Law, which some say is too tough. It is important for us to impress upon this legislative committee and all other legislators the value of the Habitual Offender Law to law enforcement.

While the crime rate has been decreasing somewhat in this country in the past few years, Alabama's rate of serious crime, which is the type of crime targeted by the Habitual Offender Law, has decreased significantly more than the national average. For example, FBI Uniform Crime Reports show that murder decreased 11 percent nationally and 20 percent in Alabama, and robbery decreased five percent nationally and 15 percent in Alabama between 1980 and 1982.

Critics contend that the Habitual Offender Law is filling up the jails with minor offenders, but this is not true. In every case, the actual punishment range for any convicted habitual offender is a product of both his prior record and the seriousness of the latest felony for which he is being punished. 'The only Habitual Offenders who can be sentenced to life without parole are those with three previous felony convictions who then commit murder or a life endangering offense.

Given the tendency of the Corrections Department to create more and more release programs, it is crucial for us to keep a stiff sentencing law on the books.

Sincerely,
Charles A. Graddick
Attorney General

Harmful lesson learned by coach dismissal

Letter to the Editor:

Little league has traditionally been used to teach our youth valuable lessons in team work, responsibility, and sportsmanship as well as to improve athletic ability. Unfortunately, recently in Alabaster, one group of little leaguers learned that responsibility to one's job can be punished.

Junior Dunaway, a concienscious, well-liked coach volunteering his time to help the youth of his community, was unexpectedly detained at work one evening and couldn't make it to a scheduled practice. Because of unusual circumstances (he was assisting ABC at the PGA on a day when rain delayed the game and he couldn't leave at the expected time) he could not reach a phone to cancel the practice.

Three days later he learned from a team parent that the team had been notified that he was no longer the coach.

The evening he was delayed he called the home of every team member and apologized to each parent he could reach.

Dismissing this dedicated young man is ridiculously severe, and will only serve to teach the children that unavoidable circumstances in performance of duty can be unjustly and severely punished.

Sincerely,
Margaret Lovelady

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

We're back in Washington again. Still watching the folks and looking at the things folks have made.

Once we went thirty minutes without seeing a member of the white race. There were Chinese and Japanese and Koreans and Indians, but not a single white person for thirty minutes.

We saw enough sarongs, in a hundred different colors, to make a tent for the Barnum and Bailey show. I never could tell exactly how they got in 'em, but they did, and got around as well as the rest of us, though they hung on 'em like wet wash on a line.

For every guy my age there was from one to a hundred little guys, in assorted sizes and colors, running around like ants on a pole, apparently not caring that hotdogs were a buck and a half and soft drinks 60 cents. Once I saw a dozen kids chasing pigeons. Some guy would toss out a wad of popcorn and the pigeons would congregate, hanging around until the little hands got within two inches of 'em, before they flew away.

Other folks, with wasted lives behind them, foraged in trash cans, picking out little scraps of food and gulping it down faster than boys can swallow raw oysters.

Where they lived and where they came from, I didn't know. Maybe from old-time Washington, that looked like an old western ghost town; or Arlington, maybe, where, if they tore down all the apartments, would be just another big corn field.

Finally we went to the Smithsonian. If you haven't been, go. Even if you have to walk. If they haven't got it on display here, forget it. For they haven't made it yet, and probably never will.

We saw the Washington Monument. In Washington this monument is like Pike's Peak in Colorado. You never get completely out of sight of either no matter where you go.

We saw the Capitol from a distance and the White House from a distance. That's probably as close as I'll ever set, since I care about politics the same as most women care about mice.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Picking up some loose ends from the last weeks lackadiasical primary...

How about Andrew Folsom, whose claim to fame is that he was born in the Mansion in Montgomery when his daddy was governor. He moved to Montgomery about 90 days before the primary, gave as his residence a vacant townhouse, then ran for Congress. Incredibly, he polled 41 percent of the vote in the 2nd District and qualified for the run-off. All of which suggests that some times the voters simply mark a ballot for a familiar name...

The vote in the primary proved again that the Alabama Republican Party fares best when it can persuade Democrats to switch parties and run for office. The Republican nominee for Congress in the First District is A.C. (Sonny) Callahan. That's the same Callahan who served 12 years in the Legislature and then ran for lieutenant governor in 1982...as a Democrat. And the Republican nominee for Congress in the 6th District is Jabo Waggoner. That's the same Waggoner who served 16 years in the Alabama House. Yes...as a Democrat...

The voter turnout last week was abysmal, as expected. But you can look for a record-breaking vote in November. One of the biggest misconceptions about voting patterns in Alabama is that the race which really draws the crowds is when a governor is being elected. Not so. The biggest draw are presidential elections. More than 1.3 million votes were cast in the Reagan-Carter race four years ago, and Carter-Ford in 1976 attracted 1,163,000. The biggest vote in a gubernatorial campaign was the bitter Wallace-Brewer run-off in 1970 when 1,085,000 went to the polls. Don't be surprised if a new record isn't set in November...

Speaking of the presidential election, many Democrats on the national level take hope from the fact that Reagan carried Alabama by less than 19,000 votes four years ago and with the huge increase in black voters, Mondale has a good chance of turning the tables this time. What they don't take into consideration is that the Democrat nominee four years ago was next-door-neighbor Jimmy Carter, and even though he was unpopular he still garnered some support simply because of geography. Mondale doesn't have that appeal in Alabama. The latest poll (admittedly commissioned by a group leaning toward the President) gives Reagan a solid 12 point lead in Alabama...

It created a lot of excitement, what with paramedics rushing to the Mansion, but Gov. Wallace was not in any life-threatening situation last week. He had a bad reaction to some blood pressure medication he was taking, and purely as a precautionary measure the paramedics were called. That he was doing fine was clearly evidenced two days later when he flew to Texas for a meeting with several other governors.

Scouting Report

Shelby County teams continue to do well against outside competition.

After two weeks of football, county squads boast a 10–1 record against "foreigners."

Intra–county clashes between Calera and Vincent, and Montevallo and Shelby County highlight this Friday's action.

Briarwood, Chelsea, Pelham, Shelby Academy, and Thompson face out of county foes.

The Coosa Valley Rebels take the week off.

Vincent at Calera

Two county squads that possess excellent quickness square off in Calera. Both the Eagles and Vincent enter the contest with 2–0 records and state rankings to uphold.

The key to the game for both teams is defensive containment, since both backfields are capable of the big play.

Players to watch for Calera: QB Mark Jones, runningbacks Kenny Marsh and Kenny Johnson, and , in a pinch, kicker Steve Ellison.

Players to watch for Vincent: noseguard Rouglas Datcher and runningbacks Vernon Kidd and Cedric Riggins.

SCHS at Montevallo

The Wildcats bring a 2–0 record to Montevallo to face the 1–1 Bulldogs. But the Cats have had trouble putting the ball in the endzone when they get close. Missed chances against Montevallo could be dangerous.

Both defenses have been stingy in previous contests, Montevallo giving up nine points total and Shelby County only six.

Players to watch for Montevallo: new backfield combo of Anthony Prentice and Andy Chism, and the offensive line.

Players to watch for Shelby County: Ambrose Wood, last week's offensive player of the week; quarterback Kenneth Jones, and fullback Mark Cardwell.

Briarwood at MMI

The Lions of Rick Sayle will try to bounce back from an opening loss to SCHS. They face an 0–1 Marion Institute team that Chelsea waxed last week 26–0.

Marion features a single wing offensive set and a balanced attack.

A possible problem for the Lions is the probable absence of quarterback Jimmy Collier who was injured against SCHS.

Chelsea hosts Marbury

It's homecoming for the 2-0 Hornets, who are enjoying their best start in years.

Marbury enters the contest with a 1–1 record as they evened their season with a 21–7 win over Billingsley last week.

Players to watch for Marbury: tackle Jerry Goodin (6'7" 230 lbs.) and guard Ricky Mitchell.

Pelham hosts Berry

The Panthers are off to a rocky 0–2 start while always tough Berry enters Friday 1–1. Pelham's Tohill feels Berry's 14–3 loss to Minor last week will only make them mad.

Another problem for Tohill is his 6'3" son, Kelly, who holds down the tightend position for Berry.

The key to the game will be offensive improvement for the Panthers.

Players to watch for Berry: tailback Robby Robinette, tackles Eric Warner (6'4" 220 lbs.) and Wes Akins (6'4" 225 lbs.), noseguard Lee Hall, and college prospect Thad Lowery at center.

Shelby at Cahawba

The Raiders travel to Centreville and try to bounce back from a loss. Cahawba enters with an indentical 1–1 record after beating Fort Deposit 12–6 last week.

Players to watch for Cahawba: fullback – linebacker Sammy Kornegay and tackle Darryl Mathews.

Thompson hosts Chilton Co.

The Warriors try to protect their state ranking as they host 5A Chilton County.

Wins against 2A Holtville and 1A Verbena give the Chilton County squad a 2–0 record as they enter the contest. But the CCHS starters have not logged a lot of playing time or been tested in their two previous contests.

The Warriors have already accumulated valuable experience under pressure with their win over Bibb County.

Players to watch for Chilton County: QB Rick Davis, runningbacks Anthony Wright and Chris Dennis, and linebacker Ronnie Parrish.

For the Record...

Buxahatchee champs

Buxahatchee Country Club recently held its club championship golf tournament.

Jim Threet of Alabaster won the 1984 club championship. This marks the second straight club title for Threet, the first time a champion has ever repeated.

Dusty Ellison finished second and Hugh Morrison third in the A–division.

The B–division winner was Robert McCartney. Second place went to Terry Duncan and third to Dave Ellison.

Jim Duncan won the first flight. Bill Allen finished second and Bill Geeslin third.

Second flight winner was Oliver Head. James Alston finished second and H. Blankenship third.

Larry Paterson was the low man in the third flight. Ronald Johnson finished second and Bill Schroeder third.

Fourth flight winner was Ricky Winterbottom. He was followed by Howard Hall in second and Larry Farris third.

Carol Alston won the women's division of the tournament. She was followed by Lois Blair and Pete Cowart.

Pauline Ellison and Freda York turned in low net scores.

Strickland racing

Calera's Waymond "Hut" Strickland ran into some bad luck in the Coors 100 race at BIR on Labor Day.

First, the race was interrupted by a rain delay and had to be finished Tuesday evening.

Strickland then led for most of the 85 completed laps before his car started smoking late in the race.

He was black-flagged during the 90th of 100 laps, and could not finish the race.

Strickland still retains his second place position in the All-American challenge series points race, but the margin is very small.

Warriors whack Bibb; named 'Team of Week'

by K.A. Turner

It may be early in the year, but the Thompson Warriors won a BIG game Friday night.

It took a fourth quarter drive to paydirt to power the Warriors to a 14–7 win over rival Bibb County.

"It was a big game for us," said THS coach Doug Wheeler.

Reporter Team of the Week

"We were really looking forward to the game after they beat us last year."

Last week's rankings for high school football teams certainly did nothing to dampen the Warriors enthusiasm.

After wins in their opening contests, both squads appeared in the state sports writers top ten for 5A schools.

As Wheeler's tribe hosted the Choctaws from Centreville, they laid their number six state ranking on the line.

The Choctaws entered the game ranked ninth, and for a while it looked like the Bibb squad would have the better of the battle between the ranked foes.

The two team fought to a scoreless tie after one half. But in the third quarter, the Choctaws put together a long drive for a touchdown to go up 7–0.

On their next possession, the Choctaws again drove deep into Thompson territory. This time, Manny Swain fell on a Choctaw fumble at the THS four, and the Warriors had dodged a bullet.

Thompson waited until the fourth quarter for its heroics.

After a short punt, THS moved 30 yards for a score. Todd Harris got the final six yards on a sweep, but a missed extra point still left the Warriors trailing 7–6.

Thompson got the ball again with less than three minutes remaining. Quarterback Kenny Johnson found his favorite receiver, Preston Hansford, for a six-yard scoring toss that gave the Warriors the win.

THS added insurance with a Johnson to Todd Harris two point conversion pass.

"Our kids hung in there all night," Wheeler said. "When we got some breaks in the second half they took advantage of them to win."

THS		BIBB CO.

In individual effort, the THS coaches liked the offensive play of Todd Harris. The junior tailback tallied his second 100+-yards rushing game with 114 yards on 26 carries.

Defensively, the secondary of Clarence Carter, Shane Horrell, Jimmy Frazier, and Otis Bivins pleased their coaches, while Hansford turned in a good game from his defensive tackle post.

Eagles protect state ranking

Calera turns back Tarrant

by K.A. Turner

"We had our backs to the wall several times but the kids just wouldn't give up."

That's how Calera head coach Danny Alverson described his team's 24–17 win over 4A Tarrant on Friday.

Indeed, the Eagles had every opportunity to fold on their first road trip of the season.

"We were behind 17–7 and could have given up," Alverson said. "But the kids just kept on fighting their way back, and it made a real good victory possible for us."

The Eagles - ranked number 8 in the state last week - have recorded two wins against higher classification opponents.

The Eagle offense had geared up from their scoreless four quarters in the Montevallo opener. However, Alverson still felt his defense was the difference in the contest.

"Our defense really had to hold together," he said. "They had over 200 yards of offense in the first half, but we shut them down completely in the second half of the game."

The Eagles limited Tarrant to only 39 yards total offense during the entire second half.

Due to the shaky start on defense, Calera fell behind early, 3–0. But the Eagles offense answered with a 73-yard scoring drive on their first possession of the ballgame.

Quarterback Mark Jones got most of that mileage on a 59-yard TD romp. Steve Ellison added the PAT to give the Eagles a temporary lead, 7–3.

Tarrant reeled off 10 unanswered points before Calera scored again late in the first half.

Mike West hit Scottie Wells on a razzle–dazzle halfback option pass to cap a 65-yard drive. Again Ellison added the PAT to bring the Eagles to within three at 17–14.

Ellison's foot was again called on in the fourth quarter. This time he tied the contest with a 21-yard field goal.

A Kenny Johnson interception stopped a Tarrant drive on the Eagle three-yard line late in the game. Johnson returned the stolen pass to midfield, where the Eagles began their march to victory.

West capped the drive with a one-yard plunge with less than one minute to play in the game. Ellison added the final point in the Eagles 24–17 win.

Individually, Alverson cited the efforts of running backs West and Kenny Marsh.

West rushed for 124 yards during the contest, while Marsh collected several key first downs on big runs.

CALERA		TARRANT

275	rushing	215
23	passing	58

In addition, "Scottie Wells made a fantastic catch on that touchdown pass," Alverson said.

Alverson also noted the play of quarterback Jones, saying "His leadership on the field is so important to us."

Defensively, Johnson turned in a sparkling performance with 14 tackles and the big interception.

Jeff Hyde, Dan Campbell, and Barry Pickett also gained a word of praise from their coach for their play on defense.

Ellison's leg -- which beat Montevallo with a overtime field goal -- again played an important part in the win. Ellison now has nine points on the year.

Biker is tops in class

by K.A. Turner

Thanks to Brad Birdwell, Pelham can now boast a national champion.

The 13-year old BMX racer used a second place finish in national competition to win the National Bicycle League points championship.

Birdwell raced at the NBL grand championship race in Louisville, Kentucky over the Labor Day weekend. His second place finish gave him the points to secure the season point title in his "13 expert" classification.

Racers in the division have to qualify in at least five national races to gain a place in the grand national race.

Birdwell raced his 20-inch bike through 18 of the 24 national races sponsored by the NBL this season.

Each racer's top five finishes were kept and applied to his total point standings. The grand national race then counted as double points.

Winning finishes in races at Middleton, New York and Indianapolis, Indiana gave Birdwell 338 of a possible 340 points.

High finishes at Pompano Beach, Florida; Memphis, Tennessee; and East Greenwich, Rhode Island left him with a hot 838 of a possible 850 points going into the grand national race.

Birdwell piled up the totals despite having a broken hand in one race and taking a three-week layoff for a broken rib late in the season.

He came back to finish second in the grand national race.

This gave him a point total of 1,174 – – 11 better than his nearest rival – – just 16 points short of a perfect 1,190 points.

Although this finish is Birdwell's best, he has been making a name for himself through four years of competition.

Birdwell finished second in points in 1981, third in 1982, and 7th in 1983.

In addition to winning the 20" division this year, Birdwell also placed fourth in the 24" cruiser class point standings.

Birdwell is factory sponsored by the Thruster manufacturing company. He is one of an elite group of bikers nationwide who have full factory sponsorship.

Shelby County had other faces at the grand national race.

Pelham's Brian King competed in the "15 expert" class.

Jimmy Fortenberry competed in the 13 expert class while his brother Jason rode in the 9 expert class. (See related story in the X-tra section of today's Reporter.)

National number one...

Pelham's Brad Birdwell will soon change the number seven plate on his bike to a number one. The BMX racers will ride under the number one plate for a year after winning the national points title in his division. This action picture was taken by his father during a recent competition.

SCHS wins as Cats and Lions scratch it out

by K.A. Turner

The Shelby County High School Wildcats took their second win of the young season Friday night -- but not before they lived through a bad dream.

A determined group of Briarwood Lions held the Cats at bay for one half before falling in their opener 20 – 6.

SCHS was plagued in its opening game against Pelham by failure to score after long drives.

Against Briarwood, the Cats took the opening kick – off, reeled off a nicely executed option run by Kenneth Jones and Ambrose Woods, and found themselves with first and goal at the Briarwood two.

Enter the bad dream -- and a "bad" defense.

The Lions held the Wildcats on four downs, and SCHS head man Ricky Seale began to wonder what was happening.

Briarwood then exploded with fireworks of its own. On a third and ten call from his own one-yard line, Lion quarterback Jimmy Collier faded into the endzone and hit Bob Farris with a 20-yard strike.

The senior end did not stop until he had turned the play into a 99 yard TD jaunt.

The Lions missed the extra point, but jumped out on top 6 – 0.

For a while, it appeared the score would stay right there.

Shelby County again drove to a first down inside the Briarwood ten. This time, a hard hit on Ambrose Woods caused him to fumble at the goal line, and the bad dream appeared again.

"I was beginning to feel snake – bit," Woods admitted.

But Wildcat lineman Mark Tidwell said didn't let the Briarwood defensive worry him too much.

"I wasn't scared when we didn't score," said lineman Mark Tidwell. "I've got confidence in our team. We just needed some time to come together."

A missed punt snap early in the third quarter gave the Cats just the chance they needed.

Following the miscue, Ambrose Woods scored on a three-yard run to knot the score, 6 – 6.

The Cats added another TD minutes later when brother David got into the Woods scoring act. His one-yard plunge capped a 40-yard drive and put SCHS ahead 12 – 6.

Ambrose finished off the touchdowns in the fourth quarter with a 21-yard jaunt off an option play.

Kenneth Jones hit his brother Kevin with a two – point pass, and the Cats had posted a 20 – 6 victory margin.

"We played them pretty good," said first-year Lions head man Rick Sayle. "I was not at all dissatisfied with the effort our boys gave."

Sayle said John Kirkpatrick and Will Burke turned in outstanding efforts. In addition, sophomore quarterback Brad Gray did well subbing for Collier.

"We must have had some interior linemen play well on defense too," he said after thinking about the Lions' goal – line stands.

Wildcat head man Seale had praise for his sophomore runner Ambrose Woods. Woods totaled 251 yards and two touchdowns in 37 carries against the Lions.

Woods, who knows where his success starts, was quick to praise his offensive line.

"They really started blocking good and opened some big holes," he said.

CVA Rebels in rout down south

by K.A. Turner

Coosa Valley had to go a long way to get it, but the Rebs from Harpersville returned from a trip to south Alabama with their second win of the season.

CVA whopped Escambia 21 – 0 Friday night, then took a well – deserved rest day at the beach on Saturday.

"We played much better than we did last week," said CVA coach Bruce Breland. "I thought we were more consistent on offense and our passing game looked good."

Rebel quarterback Ricky Sprouse gets much of the credit for that improvement.

"I thought Ricky ran the offense real well. The tempo of the game was good, he ran the option well, and passed with a lot of poise," said Breland.

Sprouse was 6 – 11 passing for 128 yards, setting up one TD. Jeff Martin was on the receiving end of three of those tosses for 75 yards.

Sprouse also added 55 yards and one TD rushing.

Tailback Mike Gragg also gained attention from his coach for his 83 yards and two TD's. "He did some hard and determined running," Breland said.

Fullback Bobby Glass also proved his worth to the CVA offense, rambling for 56 yards in only five carries. "Glass doesn't get the ball much but he ran well when he had it," said Breland.

COOSA VALLEY		ESCAMBIA

2	turnovers	3

Brett Strickland added 54 yards to the CVA rushing total.

The CVA defense was the only real problem spot, but even that was not without promise.

"We didn't play with the intensity we had on defense last week," Breland said. "We just didn't seem to concentrate as hard and our technique and fundamentals were not as good."

Breland was pleased with the play of his secondary, however.

"Escambia has a real fine quarterback who can throw the football," Breland said. "I thought our best defensive area was our secondary, because they pretty well shut him down."

Corners Scott Thompson, Toby Green, and Darin Robertson, and safeties Brett Strickland, Mike Payne, and Tolva Harmon make up the secondary unit.

The Rebs drove the ball on their first two possessions, only to have the marches stopped by penalties.

But on their third possession, a Sprouse to Martin pass carried 25 yards to the Escambia one. From there, Gragg scored then added the PAT for a 7 – 0 lead.

The march covered 58 yards.

Just before halftime, the Rebels put together a drive of 63 yards for their second score.

Bobby Glass had the big play on a 33 yard jaunt, and Sprouse scored on a sneak from the one. Gragg's second PAT left the score 14 – 0 at the half.

Escambia mounted their only serious threat in the third period. The Rebs gave ground to their own 30 before taking over on downs.

From that point, CVA started its final scoring drive.

The march was capped by Gragg's four-yard run, with big plays coming on runs by Gragg and Sprouse and a pass from Sprouse to Scott Thompson. Again Gragg added the PAT to give CVA a 21 – 0 win.

Youth Warriors open season

The Thompson 95 – pound Warriors chalked up a 38 – 0 win over Parkwest in their season opener last Thursday. Coach Billy Shanahan called the effort a team win.

Captains for the game were Brian Young, Brian Boyington, and Andy Jones.

The story for the 80 – pound Warriors' opener with Parkwest was a little different.

The squad suffered a tough 7 – 0 loss. Both teams moved the ball up and down the field but failed to score.

Parkwest mounted a drive to go ahead with four minutes remaining in the contest.

A drive by the Warriors stalled on the opponents' 30 as time expired.

Game captains were Eric Smith and Blaine Douglass.

The next games for both the Warrior teams are Thursday in Gardendale.

Dogs do in Panthers

by K.A. Turner

Two teams, both trying to bounce back from overtime losses in openers, met in Montevallo Friday night.

Richard Gilliam's Montevallo Bulldogs came away with a 12 – 6 win, their first of the 1984 camapign.

Billy Tohill's Pelham Panthers were left to search for victory number one.

"We pulled a secret weapon on them," Gilliam said. "We shifted some people around in our backfield and it worked out real well for us."

The Dogs moved tailback Anthony Prentice to the fullback slot and moved Andy Chism into the backfield. As a result, Prentice had his second 100+-yards game in as many weeks, while Chism gained 50 yards in 12 carries.

MHS		PELHAM

236	rushing	70
41	passing	24

Tohill felt his defense may have contributed to the new backfield's good showing.

"Defensively we just didn't play as well as we did last week," he said. "We missed some tackles and weren't as intense."

"I think we improved offensively," he said. "There are still some fundamental things we don't do well, but our kids are willing to keep working at it.

Had it not been for an early clipping penalty, the Pelham offense would have added 64 more yards and another TD -- and the game could have posted a quite different outcome.

On the fourth play from scrimmage, Pelham tailback Tony Hill broke a 64-yard run for an apparent touchdown. But the play was called back on a clip, and the first quarter eventually ended at 0 – 0.

Later in the second period, the Dogs broke the scoring ice on a 26-yard TD pass from Ricky Gaddis to Freeman Rutledge. The play capped a 6- yard Bulldog drive.

Pelham blocked the PAT attempt, but the Dogs led 6 – 0.

The Panthers drove to a tying TD later in the period. Hill scored from one yard out after Winfred McCall got the Panthers down close.

The Pelham PAT also failed, and the two teams went into halftime at 6 – 6.

Anthony Prentice put Montevallo ahead for good in the third period. He scored on a 14-yard jaunt, and the Dogs had the 12 – 6 margin they needed to win.

On offense, Gilliam cited the play of his new backfield combo -- Prentice and Chism -- and the blocking of his entire offensive line.

Defenders Lonnie Layton, Quinten Chism, Andy Brindley, Prentice, and Hughes gained mention from their coach.

Tohill did not choose to single out any individual efforts after the contest. Instead, he spoke of his squad's improvement over their opening loss

Raiders beaten but get better

by K.A. Turner

It's tough to play "better" and lose, but that's what happened to the Shelby Academy Raiders.

"We really played better tonight than we did last week," said coach Dewayne Kervin. "We just played a much better football team."

The Raiders opened their season two weeks ago with a good effort and a win over Escambia. Last Friday, an even better effort against South Choctaw netted them only a 35 – 22 loss.

"I'm not dissatisfied with the effort our people gave," said Kervin. "We were probably even more aggressive (against Choctaw) than we were in our win.

"But they were bigger than we were all across the front," said Kervin. "They may have been a little stronger too."

In view of this mis – match, the Shelby squad could not overcome what Kervin called a passive start.

Choctaw scored on its second possession of the game. The visitors capped a 60-yard drive with a short TD run, and the Raiders fell behind for the first time this season.

Shelby answered with a touchdown of its own with a 30-yard pass from Doug Thomas to Mike Upton, but failure to convert the PAT and trailed 7 – 6.

SA		SOUTH CHOCTAW
6	first downs	13
154	rushing	209
81	passing	74
20	penalty yards	50
4	turnovers	2

Just before the end of the first half, Choctaw hit a long TD pass.

"The score just before the half really got us down," Kervin said.

Before the Raiders could bounce back, South Choctaw added two quick scores early in the third quarter. The added points left the Raiders facing a 27 – 6 deficit.

But the Shelby team did not give up -- a fact that pleased Kervin.

SA put together an answering score, with Upton sprinting 57 yards to paydirt. The run topped a 70-yard drive, and with a Jeff Dunaway to Dennis Attaway conversion pass good, Shelby pulled closer at 27 – 14.

But the Raiders were not to overcome that deficit, as the two teams traded touchdowns in the final quarter of play.

Shelby's final tally came on a 15-yard run by Upton. It was topped off by a two – point conversion run by Dunaway leaving the final score 35 – 22.

The game was not without its bright spots for Shelby. Rod Weis recorded 13 tackles during the contest on his way to what Kervin called an outstanding game.

Upton was a pleasant surprise on offense, gaining 94 yards on 13 carries.

Upton also figured in each Raider score.

Shelby has some worries about injuries following the bruising physical contest.

Quarterback Doug Thomas missed the entire second half of the game with an ankle injury.

His runningback brother, Robert, sustained an arm injury, while Ched Burton saw no action at all due to an injury from the Escambia game.

Jackets sting Lincoln

by K.A. Turner

The Vincent Yellowjackets upped their season record to 2–0 Friday with a 7–6 win over Lincoln.

The game was every bit as close as the score. But for Vincent seniors -- who had been beaten by Lincoln for three straight years -- one point was as good as 100.

"We wanted to beat them bad," said fullback – linebacker Cedric Riggins. "We hadn't beat them in three years so we just couldn't get down."

"I guess we just barely got by," said split end/defensive back Jimmy White, "but it still meant a lot to us. We wanted this one and our dedication to the team made it possible."

After the Jackets win over Oak Grove a let down could have been expected. That win gave the Jackets a number 5 state ranking in class 3A to take to Lincoln with them.

Did the ranking have anything to do with their inconsistent play?

"We didn't have the big head or anything," said Riggins.

"It just took us until the second quarter to get started," said White.

"We didn't look like the number five team in the state," said Vincent coach Harold Garrett. "We didn't play pretty but we did hang in there to win. In some ways, we didn't play that bad."

Lincoln stung the Jackets early.

They took their first possession and drove 90 yards to paydirt. A missed PAT left the score at 6–0.

Then the fireworks fizzled out. The Jacket defense stiffened, and Lincoln never really threatened again.

Vincent's offense continue to misfire, and the score held at 6–0 through three quarters.

VINCENT		LINCOLN
14	first downs	16
157	rushing	186
0	passing	22
20	penalty yards	15
2	turnovers	3

Midway through the final quarter, Heath Reynolds gave the Jackets just the break they needed when he returned a punt to the Lincoln 12-yard line.

After a pass interference penalty, Vernon Kidd drove to a touchdown from the two. Kidd added the PAT to give Vincent a 7–6 lead with five minutes remaining in the contest.

The Jackets faced one more test, but held a driving Lincoln squad with two minutes remaining.

The Jackets regained possession on their own 20 and ran out the clock.

The Jackets defense did a yoeman's job on Lincoln's Bernard Gaston. After a three TD performance last week, the Jackets kept Gaston clear of the endzone.

Garrett cited the play of linebacker Vernon Kidd, noseguard Rouglas Datcher, strong safety Gary Peterson, and defensive end Bruce Hamilton.

Offensively, Garrett called the Jackets effort inconsistent.

Vernon Kidd led the Jackets on offense, gaining 77 yards in 17 attempts.

Hornets handle MI for second win

by K.A. Turner

"We've been beaten all our lives and we want it to be different now." That's how Mike Fant summed up the feelings of the Chelsea Hornets as he watched the last seconds of Friday's game.

Richard Conkle's team ran its record to 2 – 0 Friday with a 26 – 0 thumping of Marion Institute. No one would have thought that the Hornets -- who in past year's have been pressed to win two games, period -- would now be 2 – 0 after two weeks of action.

No one, that is, except the Hornets themselves.

"I knew we could do this," said senior running back Walt Tatum. "We've really come together as a team and we've got great coaching."

"The seniors here are ready to win," said Mort Moody. "We're all working real hard to do it."

CHELSEA		MARION
11	first downs	4
326	rushing	77
0	passing	21
60	penalty yards	55
2	turnovers	3

"This is Fun with a capital F," Moody continued, while Matt Russell said simply "I love this."

In the middle of the fun, all the players named another reason for the Chelsea success.

"Coach Conkle is the difference," said Mike Beavers. "We just have a different attitude now."

Conkle, however, seems somewhat skeptical of his role in the Hornets' success.

"The senior leadership we've had is the difference in this team," he said. "They all love each other and help each other to win."

Whatever the cause, the Hornets win over Marion gives them their best start in years. Chelsea was in command of the game from the beginning.

Two first quarter touchdowns from Walt Tatum spotted the Hornets a 12 – 0 lead.

The first score came on a one-yard plunge to cap a 61-yard drive. Tatum then recovered a fumble on the MI four to set up his second TD run.

The Hornets never looked back.

Chelsea iced the victory cake with touchdowns in each of the third and fourth quarters.

In the third period, Kerry Shaw broke free on a 36-yard gallop to paydirt.

Freshman quarterback Allen Moody added the conversion on a pass to Mike Beavers, and the score stood 20 – zip.

Fant got the final score of the night on a 41-yard burst. Although the PAT failed, the Hornets had nailed down a 26 – 0 win.

The shut – out was the second in as many games for Chelsea, which last week earned honors as the Shelby County Reporter's Team of the Week.

When asked to explain the defensive success, Russell said, "We're just out there scratchin' and grabbin' like coach said to."

The Hornets' "grabbin'" paid off, as they held Marion to less than 100 yards in offense and only four first downs. Meanwhile, Chelsea piled up 326 yards on the ground enroute to the win.

In looking for outstanding efforts, Conkle could not single out any one of his players.

"The whole line blocked hard, all the backs ran hard," he said. "I'm just real proud of all of them."

For the second week in a row, the stinging Chelsea Hornet defense recorded a shut – out of opposition offenses. Here the Hornets give a lesson in gang tackling to a Marion runner. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Lady Falcons are fifth

The University of Montevallo Lady Falcons opened the 1984 volleyball season by traveling to the Memphis State/Athletes Foot Invitational Tournament and coming home with a fifth place finish.

On Saturday, Montevallo showed the form that has carried them to consecutive NAIA National Tournaments by handily downing St. Louis University and Indiana State.

Following Tuesday's home opener against Mississippi University for Women, UM will take to the highway again Containing 0.56 acres, more or less. Less and except any easements of record.

2. The Plaintiff, Myrtice Wilson Watts, is the executrix of the estate of Albert Herman Sanders and claims an interest in the above styled real estate.

3. The plaintiff, by and through her attorney, has made reasonable and diligent search and inquiry, which search was laborous and required a considerable amount of time and expense to determine all the persons who own an interest in the property described in Paragraph One and those persons and their interest are set out in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated by reference as if set out fully herein. The plaintiff further claims that the plaintiff has paid taxes upon the aforestated real estate and is entitled to reimbursement and has gone to considerable expense to determine most of the persons who claim an interest in the property described in Paragraph 1 hereof and that it would be just and equitable for the plaintiff to be reimbursed her expenses and for the court to determine an attorney's fee to be awarded to plaintiff's attorney. Plaintiff further avers that it would be in the best interest of all the parties to this action and to all the persons who claim an interest in this defendant land that the cost of title insurance, if an insurance company licensed to insure title in the State of Alabama will issue a policy, be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.

4. Plaintiff further alleges that there are certain persons who may claim an interest in the property as described in Paragraph 1 hereof and who may be of unsound mind or who may be minors and that it would be in the best interest and welfare of said persons, if any exist, if a guardian ad litem were appointed by the court to protect the interest of any minors or any persons of unsound mind.

5. The Plaintiff further avers that it is impossible to make an equitable division of the property described in Paragraph One hereof and that it is necessary for said property to be sold and the proceeds of sale, after payment of expenses, be divided according to the interest that this court shall determine each party may have in the described premises.

WHEREFORE, Premises considered, Plaintiff demands judgment as follows:

a) That this Honorable Court will appoint a guardian ad litem to represent any and all unknown parties who may claim an interest in the defendant land and any and all unknown parties who may be minors or persons of unsound mind and any and all persons who may be in the Armed Forces of the United States and to represent any and all persons who may come under any other legal disability.

b) That this Honorable Court will issue an Order and Decree determining the interest that each and every person may have in the defendant land and order that the defendant land be sold by order of this court in a manner according to law and that the proceeds be divided according to the court's order, after attorney's fees and expenses of sale.

c) Plaintiff further prays that this Honorable Court will order that the Plaintiff be reimbursed plaintiff's expenses and that the Plaintiff's attorney be awarded a reasonable attorney's fee, considering the extraordinary amount of time that has been required to be devoted to this case to be paid from the expenses of sale. Plaintiff further prays that the plaintiff be granted the cost of this suit and all costs of title insurance, if attainable, be reimbursed to the Plaintiff.

d) The Plaintiff further prays for such other, further and additional relief as this Court may deem just, proper and equitable.

CLASSIFIED DEADLINE: 5 P.M. MONDAYS. 669-3131

The Regressive Farmer

by David F. Moore

In case you've never noticed, a lot of things in life don't make a whole lot of sense, but end up being true anyway. For instance: logically speaking, the faster one attacks a given task, the sooner one should finish with it -- right? Wrong.

But with all due respect to my college logic professor and Dr. Spock from the starship Enterprise (and all my English teachers for that matter), this just ain't so. The truth of the matter lies in those little signs that hang over the desks of frantic folks that read "The more I hurry, the behinder I get." That's what I call a truism.

I may or may not know what part of the body a "behinder" is, but I certainly understand the gist of the saying. I spend 90 percent of my life hurrying just so that I can slow down.

EXAMPLE ONE: WEEKENDS. Tell the truth. How many times do find yourself hurrying through your job so you can get semi-caught up enough to just maybe enjoy a weekend off?

Now, tell the truth again. After busting whatever part of your body you use the most at work -- in my case, my "behinder" -- how many times have you then found yourself too pooped to party and play over the weekend?

What also happens when I run a fifth gear Friday so I can hurry up and slow down for the weekend, is that I forget to do something or call someone or check on something, and it bugs me all weekend while I'm supposed to be recuperating from work.

EXAMPLE TWO: FLYING REGRESSIVE "FARMERS:" Speaking of worthless fifth gear hurry-ups, what about all the Red Farmer Juniors that fly past you on the road, only to make you stop a block later so they can make a lefthand turn?

As much as I mull it over in my mind, it just doesn't make much sense to hurry up and slow down.

EXAMPLE THREE: FIATS FUNDAMENTALLY FIT THE MOLD. I used to own a Fiat and enjoyed cruising country roads with the top down. Good, breezy fun. But my experience was that before I ever slowed down life enough to enjoy the car, I had to hurry up and fix whatever was broken that day.

(Later, I was told that FIAT stands for "Fix It Again, Tony...")

Once I read something else about Fiats and other Italian sports cars that fundamentally fit into the hurry up and slow down syndrome. These cars are designed to be driven two and only two ways: with the accelerator flat to the floor, or the brake pedal to the metal. Hurry up so you can slow down. Maybe I would have made a good Italian racer.

EXAMPLE FOUR: VACATIONS. Oh, boy. To get away for vacation first requires that you lay the basic hurry up framework that you would for a weekend. Rush, rush, rush. Now multiply that rush by the number of days you'll be gone.

Assuming you don't stroke out by the time you leave town, you'll then be in the position to divide your R&R by two. (For those who don't know, "rest and recuperation" divided by two equals recuperation -- all of which makes a vacation about as much fun and relaxing as a hospital stay.)

EXAMPLE FIVE: HURRY UP FOODS. I admit that not ALL fast food joints are like this, but my wife and I stopped the other night for a quick burger and all we got was, well, behinder.

I should have known something was regressive when I had to run over the buzzer at the drive-in window seven times. Finally we ordered and drove to the pickup window. Nothing happened.

Sometime later the girl awoke us and asked me to move the car up. "We'll hurry up and bring your order out," she said. "Just relax..."

Where, I wondered, have I heard THAT before?

About then, Dee noticed that four other cars parked in the lot had sleeping drivers and families inside. Dubious and hungry, I too tried to sleep, but instead only got cramped behind the wheel.

Normally, I am not like this. But finally I got out of the car, went inside and asked for my money back.

"You don't want your six Super Doodle Whoopers?" asked a flustered counter girl who was as "behinder" as anyone I've ever seen.

"No thanks," I said. "I want to hurry up, get home and relax."

Open house

Kovakas Center, located on Highway 25 in Wilsonville, is hosting an open house this Friday an Saturday from 8 a.m.-- 5 p.m. each day. Refreshments will be served. The 1,500 square foot building houses Kovakas Realty, managed by Jim and Penny Kovakas and agent Sue Hope; the Wilsonville branch office of Miller and McKenzie, CPA firm, managed by Elaine McKenzie Woolsey; and Dot's Antiques No. 2. Dot and Cecil Dennis, owners of Dot's Antiques and Collectables, still manage their main showroom on Highway 61, Wilsonville, but have added a display of several antique furniture pieces in the reception area of Kovakas Realty. Debbie Gann serves as receptionist for Kovakas, Miller and McKenzie and Dot's. Within the next several years, the Kovakases hope to expand Kovakas Center into something of a plaza for professional offices and specialty shops. (photo by Jim Parks)

'Separate Tables' has auditions

If you're between the ages of 20 and 80 and like to act, you could land a part in the Shelby County Community Theatre's next production.

The play, "Separate Tables," will be performed Nov. 1-3.

Auditons for parts -- three men and eight women -- will be held Sunday at the recreation building in Montevallo's Orr Park.

For further information: 665-2714 or 665-2521.

Fortenberrys: love of racing

by K.A. Turner

Jason Fortenberry is pretty much a normal nine-year-old. He likes to swim, skate, jump on a trampoline, and play pool.

Jason also has a brother named Jimmy. Jimmy's pretty much a normal 13-year-old who likes many of the same things Jason does -- except being older, Jimmy even has a "girlfriend."

But the two Alabaster boys love one thing more than anything else. They love to race.

JASON AND JIMMY FORTENBERRY
...taking to the air

The two ride BMX -- or bicycle moto cross -- bikes, and their involvement in competition has carried them across the country.

Jason's favorite subjects in school are social studies and math. He has gotten a chance to bring his social studies learning to life in new places this summer.

"It's fun to see those different places and how they look," Jason said.

Those different places include stops in Georgia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and Tennessee.

In all those places, the Fortenberry brothers raced -- and raced well.

Jimmy, being the oldest, was the first to get into BMX racing. He is now a licensed racer in two different bike sizes, competing in the expert division of races sanctioned by the National Bicycle League (NBL).

As Jimmy started bringing home those big, shiny trophies, little brother Jason naturally took an interest.

Jason had ridden a bicycle since he was four years old. His dad, James, and his brother helped him convert his old Western Flyer into a racing-type bike.

Although the bike was much too heavy for competition, Jason did get in some good practice on the old yellow bike.

When he became ready to ride in events, he got his first BMX racer -- a Laser 3000. The bike weighed only 26 pounds, and it carried Jason through many trophy rides.

"I have a couple more (trophies) than Jimmy does now," said Jason.

The boys mother, Sandra Fortenberry, is proud of both boys. She was quick to explain that Jason is doing very well, but Jimmy is doing well in his own right in a larger division.

The family travels to events in the Grand National racing season of the NBL. This year, the family participated in six of the 20 Grand National races. Jimmy hitched a ride with friends to two additional races.

The boys will continue to race throughout the fall, then are looking forward to the '85 Grand National season which begins this winter.

Although both the boys really like the racing, it does take up a lot of time. The two gave up football and baseball to devote all of their time to the two-wheeling sport.

They ride an average of two hours a day on the BMX track at Oak Mountain State Park.

In addition, they ride near their home in Alabaster to help them stay in good shape. A couple of days off the bikes, and the One, two, three...

Youngsters in kindergarten have a lot to learn -- for instance, counting to three, how to (try and) sit still, and the teacher's name. In this case, the teacher's name is Cynthia Pinkard. She has one of three Thompson Elementary kindergarten classes which have to meet in a mobile home unit. (photo by Bert Seaman)

Kindergarten gets off to good start

by Bert Seaman

The kindergarten enrollment in the Shelby County school sytem has nearly doubled this year. But school officials were ready.

By shifting classroom space and using four mobile classrooms for kindergarten units, there was enough room to house the 840 pupils who registered.

With state funding making public kindergarten available to every eligible child for the first time this year, school officials here had estimated that the enrollement would be around 900.

However, some parents elected to send their children to the church kindergartens which are available in several areas of the county.

With an enrollment of 169 students, Thompson Elementary School has the school system's largest kindergarten. Three of the seven units there are housed in mobile classrooms.

Calera houses one kindergarten unit in a mobile classroom.

Athough school officials and the board of education members do not like to use mobile units, they say they have had no other choice because schools are already crowded and limited capital outlay funds for building.

Whenever possible, schools have shifted classes into their mobile units so that kindergarten children could be in the school building.

With state provided funding for kindergarten, a unit has also been established at the Center for Exceptional Children for those youngsters not able to function in a regular classroom setting. Eight children from around the county are enrolled this special class in Columbiana.

Rebecca Nail, coordinator of elementary instruction, said the space problem for kindergarten units was eased somewhat when the state board of education allowed 25 children per unit instead of 20.

That meant fewer units than initially expected, and Nail said that the board only had to hire 12 new teachers this year to handle all the classes.

Although there were minor problems when school opened, Nail said she was extremely pleased with the way things went the first week.

At a meeting last June, the board of education gave school superintendent Ellie Glasscox permission to go ahead and order furniture for the kindergarten classes.

So tables and chairs -- as well as materials students needed for classroom work -- were in most of the classrooms when school opened.

Calera library schedules fun filled day

The park next to the Calera Public Library promises to be full of activity on Saturday, September 15. It's Library Day, with Calera participating in county-wide efforts to increase awareness of public library services.

Bargains will be available at the used book sale and early birds can pick up early Christmas gifts at an arts and crafts booth.

T-shirts can be purchased for all of those who want to be a "FRIEND" of the library.

Those who are hungry can fill up on hotdogs, popcorn and cotton candy, and helium balloons will add to all the fun, according to librarian Peggy Crowson.

Also, WBYE will have live broadcast from the library.

Those who would like to register to vote in the November elections can do so from 1-2 p.m.

Masons find historic momentos

by David F. Moore

A block of history was drilled and chiseled out of the wall of a Columbiana store last week.

The two-story building that is now the Western Auto store, was originally built in 1926 as the meeting place for Shelby Lodge No. 140. At the time of construction, lodge members placed a corner stone in the building.

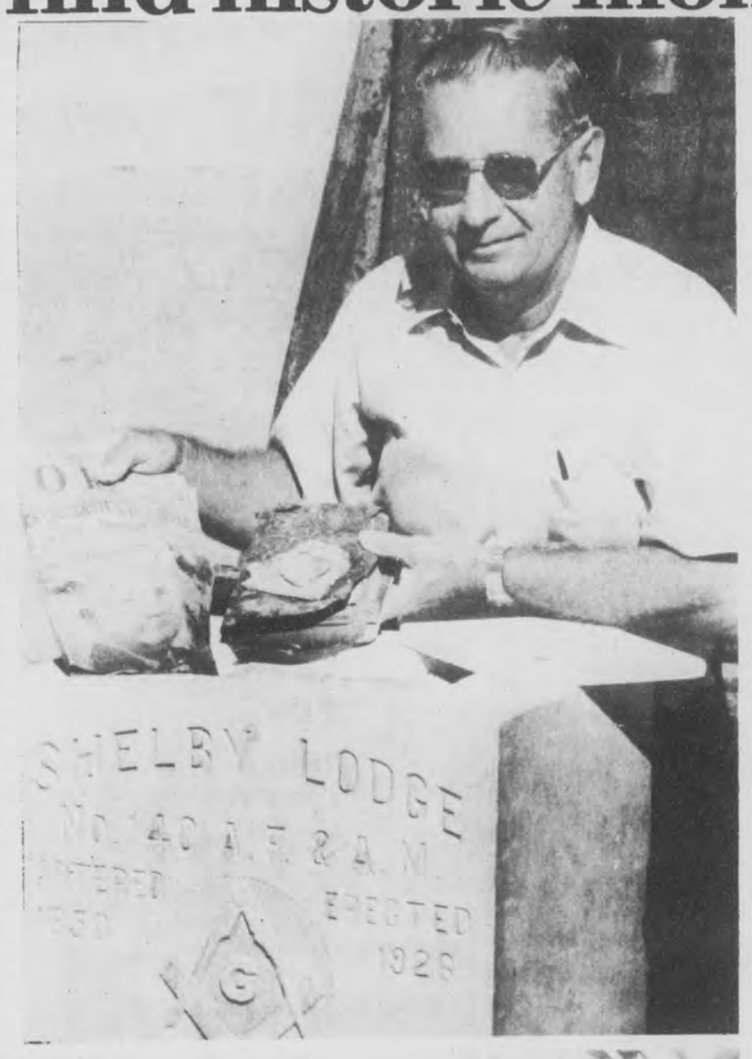
During the Depression, the lodge members were unable to keep the building.

They sold it, but thanks to an arrangement with owner J.T. Stone, they were able to continue meeting upstairs. During remodeling over the years, the stone was reset on the front of the building, facing Main Street.

After a stint as a movie theatre, Linda Jones Starnes opened Western Auto there. Her father had willed that the lodge could continue meeting upstairs as long as the building remained in his family.

Two years ago lodge members had the opportunity to buy the old Standard Oil building on Depot Street. Starnes told them she would notify them if she ever did anything that would effect the cornerstone.

Because she is now having the building remodeled, lodge members removed the stone last Thursday evening, hoping to discover something inside.



To begin with, the stone was much bigger than anyone suspected, and it took until 7:30 p.m to drill and chisel it out.

"When we finally got it out," said past worshipful master Truitt Ray, "it looked like a solid stone and there weren't any articles behind it."

"But I got to feeling the mortar on top of the stone and noticed some ridges. I took a chisel, knocked away the mortar and found a lid concealed underneath it."

Naturally enough, the find was exciting.

When members opened the stone, they found a deteriorating Bible, a rotted list of old lodge members which is indecipherable, a 1910 penny -- the date of which no one yet knows the significance -- and an issue of "Labor" published in Washington D.C. on July 24, 1926.

The four page broadsheet is headlined "Voters of Ala. send "Breck" Musgrove to U.S. Senate." The issue carries extensive coverage of Musgrove's election.

Pinned on top of page one is the name Parker Shealy.

Etched into the side of the stone are the following names: L.H. Ellis -- Worshipful Master, J.B. King -- Sr. Warden, R.I. Dyer -- Jr. Warden, L.E. Christian -- Sec., C.P. Smith -- Treas.

Ellis, Harry Gordon, W.F. Atchinson, and King are listed as members of the building committee and F.A. Church is shown as superintendent of the building.

Ray said that members of the lodge plan to reset the cornerstone when they brick the building they're in now.

When they do, he said they'll keep the original articles inside the stone, as well as including modern artifacts such as this issue of the Shelby County Reporter, photographs of the stone and other memorabilia.

Cornerstone

King, Jr., and others helped remove the stone Thursday evening from what is now the Western Auto building. (photos by David F. Moore)

Cup o' fun

Not too many people have the disposition to put up with a barrel of monkeys, but a cup full of kitty isn't really too much trouble -- especially a well mannered one that wants to be a model. This and numerous other kittens are in need of homes at the Shelby County Animal Shelter. The $25 adoption fee covers spaying or neutering, rabies and distemper shots, worming, and a trip to the vet. At UM

Stage fright seminar offered

Cold hands, weak knees, queasy stomach, rapid heartbeat.

A rare disease? Hardly. The malady is practically a fact of life -- stage fright.

It can strike anyone who faces an audience -- from the actor and musician, to the athlete and politician. Many experience the "disease" even if they aren't facing an audience but simply encountering another person or situation -- for example, job seekers before interviews, sales persons with new products, or students before exams.

Stage fright, for most of its victims, is a dreaded experience to be avoided at all costs.

At least one person, however, thinks otherwise -- Robert Triplett, one of the few specialists in the country who helps stage fright victims in all fields to relieve their performance "nerves."

Triplett, from Lisbon, Iowa, travels throughout the U.S. presenting lectures and workshops called 'Befriending Stage Fright." He also works with private clients and operates a consulting service from his home.

The University of Montevallo Department of Music will present Triplett and the 'Befriending Stage Fright' seminar on Friday and Saturday, October 12-13. There is no fee for any of the program activities.

Triplett will deliver an informal lecture on the general topic at 8 p.m., Oct. 12, in LeBaron Recital Hall. On Saturday, starting at 9 a.m., Triplett will hold various group activities and demonstrate visualization techniques and breathing and relaxation exercises.

Triplett will also hold an open-ended session for those persons who would like to perform for the group, utilizing his 'Befriending Stage Fright' process. Saturday's activities will be held in the bandroom of the music building.

The Friday night lecture is open to all interested persons, but the Saturday sessions will be limited to 50 participants. Reservations should be made as soon as possible and will be filled on a first come, first served basis.

For reservations or more information call: Dr. Betty Louise Lumby: 665-2521, ext. 381.

Shelby County school children are getting and will get a better education because of the efforts of

JANE BEDFORD

There is now an emphasis on excellence because some folks who really care didn't give up!

JANE BEDFORD believes that our Shelby County Schools can and should provide an outstanding education for our children!

You should see the volumes of correspondence she has had with our local and state officials urging them to:

- Adhere to the academic day
- Strengthen curriculum
- Insure discipline for classrooms conducive to learning
- Set up standards of excellence for teachers, administrators & students
- Reward achievement of students and teachers
- Provided needed library books, lab equipment and other tools for learning

JANE BEDFORD'S actions for excellence are known to a few people. All Shelby County parents, taxpayers and teachers should know the whole story and elect to the Shelby County Board of Education!

JANE BEDFORD

Sickle cell detected by simple blood test

A simple blood test can detect sickle cell anemia, a severe blood disease which strikes about one out of every 500 black Americans.

In order to focus attention on the disease, the Alabama Department of Public Health is designating September as National Sickle Cell Month.

Special funding by the state legislature allows county health departments to conduct routine screening and counseling for patients in maternity clinics, children in well child clinics and patients referred by private physicians and others who request it.

In Shelby County, general clinics are held at the health department in Columbiana Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, from 8:30 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m.

General clincs are also held at the health department in Pelham Wednesday and Friday from 8:30 a.m.-noon and from 1-4 p.m.

Well child and maternity clincs visits are held only in Columbiana by appointment.

The genetic trait for sickle cell is carried in one of every 10-12 black Americans and occasionally in persons of Mediterranean descent.

The disease is caused by abnormal hemoglobin in red blood cells. Shaped like a hooked metal blade, the cells cannot carry enough oxygen to different parts of the body, so they prevent normal blood flow.

People with sickle cell traits have less of the slightly changed hemoglobin in their blood than those with sickle cell anemia, and they usually lead normal lives.

When a man and a woman both have sickle cell trait, each of their children has a one in four chance of having sickle cell anemia and a one in two chance of having sickle cell trait.

If both carry the trait, the couple must decide whether they will risk having children that may inherit sickle cell anemia.

Relax.
Medicare's new payment system won't affect the quality of your treatment or personal health benefits.

A new Medicare payment system is now in effect at Shelby Medical Center. This new plan affects the method of payment the government makes to hospitals but does not affect the quality of treatment patients receive, or their personal health benefits.

Here's how the new Medicare plan could affect you:

1. Your doctor may require some tests and surgical procedures be done on an outpatient basis.
2. Unless it's a life-threatening situation, your doctor is required to validate your admission with Medicare before you're admitted to the hospital.
3. When admitted it is essential that you bring all insurance cards and numbers with you, and that you know your birthdate.

As a result of Medicare's new plan your hospital stay should be shorter and fewer tests may be given. This does not mean you won't get the important care you need. It only means that the care you will receive is tailor-made to your particular illness.

This new payment system is a challenge to the health care industry to streamline operations and discourage long hospital stays and unnecessary tests, in order to reduce the cost of the national Medicare program. For it to work, a cooperative effort is required from everyone—the hospital, the doctor and you, the patient.

At Shelby Medical Center we're doing all we can to continue our high-quality care, with no anticipated increase in cost to our Medicare patients. If you have any questions, ask your physician or call our Medicare Coordinator at 663-8181.

Wish comes true for Alabaster youngster

by Bert Seaman

When you wish upon a star
Your dreams comes true.

That's almost the way it was for three-and-a-half year old Trip Kitts of Alabaster, whose dream was to have a 3-wheel motorbike.

Trip recently had his dream fulfilled by the Starlight Foundation -- a Los Angeles based organization whose purpose is to grant the wishes of chronically and terminally ill children.

When he was an infant, Trip was diagnosed as having cystic fibrosis, a disease with no known cure.

However, to look at him sitting proudly on his new bike, no one would supect that the bright eyed, blonde headed youngster had anything wrong with him.

TRIP KITTS
...riding a dream come true

But the Kitts already know all too well the end result of the disease. This past March, it took the life of their six-and-a-half year old son, Stennis.

When the first letter from the Starlight foundation arrived a couple of months ago, Nancy Kitts said it was addressed to both boys.

She said she and her husband John wish it would have come sooner so their oldest son could have had a wish too.

The letter asked Trip to make three wishes.

He had seen older youngsters in his neighborhood riding the three-wheeled motorbikes, his mother said, so that's the wish that topped his list.

Wishes two and three were to meet Michael Jackson, or Vern and Ernie, two people from a television commercial.

Since both their boys had CF, the Kitts say the risk of another child having it is too high to take, so they don't plan to have any more children.

"I just don't think it would be fair to the child," Mrs. Kitts said.

Although the death of Stennis left a void, the family has pulled themselves together. Their basic attitude is one of acceptance of his death, and they say they realize that life must go on.

A deathbed experience with their son, during which they believe he was speaking with angelic beings, gives them great comfort.

A part of that experience was related in a memoriam at his funeral service at Faith Presyterian Church, where they are members.

McRee is a law enforcement specialist with the 3902nd Security Police Squadron at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb.

Getting ready for company

"I want it shiny," Cahaba Valley VFD chief Grady Gulledge (rear) told volunteer firefighter Jerry Thompson. Considering the reflections Thompson's getting off the bumper of the department's pumper truck, the chief ought to be proud of what his company will see this weekend at Open House and Fun Days. Vandiver's Brasher Brothers will perform at the event on Sunday afternoon. (photo by David F. Moore)

Firefighters show off station at weekend open house event

Volunteer firefighters for the Cahaba Valley Fire and Emergency Medical District have been busy in past months, and they're now ready to show off what they've been up to.

The volunteer department is holding a free Open House and Fun Days from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday.

Tops on the show-off list is the new fire station, which has finally been finished on the inside.

Activities include a Sunday afternoon performance by the Brasher Brothers, and on both days a dunking machine, cake walk and games such as darts. Refreshments and food will also be available both days.

Free blood pressure tests will also be given.

The large firehall on U.S. 280 at the foot of the mountain east of the rest area has been carpeted throughout the personnel quarters, and the kitchen/meeting hall section boasts a complete kitchen.

Several offices, a bathhouse/locker room, and entrance hall with a reception window through to the dispatch room.

According to CVFD chief Grady Gulledge, all the work has been done by the 13 volunteer firefighters and other supporters of the group. The money came from a series of fund raisers.

Gulledge said that some people in the district have not yet seen the $90,000 pumper purchased two years ago. This truck and other equipment will be on display during the open house.

All the firefighters with the department have also recently completed a First Responders course, along with some volunteers from the fire departments from Westover, Vandiver and Shelco, Gulledge said.

Furthermore, the upgraded equipment and training made available through fire dues and fundraisers, recently enabled the fire district to earn an 8/9 fire rating which means a savings in fire insurance for businesses and residents in the area, Gulledge said.

JOHN ★ AMES
COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Shelby County District 3
Suite 202 - 2700 Hwy. 31 So. - Pelham, Al. 35124

Dear Voters:

My sincere thanks to the people of Shelby County for the vote of confidence given to me on September 4.

I would also like to compliment Jack Carlisle for his hard working, open and positive campaign. I wish him well.

The Shelby County Commission has made great strides in the last two years in fiscal management and planning to cope with the complex issues associated with being Alabama's fastest growing county, but much more needs to be done.

I urge each of you to consider these accomplishments and the rest of a very positive performance in 1983-84 when you vote. I pledge to each of you that I will continue to insist on honest, open and responsive government in Shelby County during the next 4 years.

Your vote on September 25 in the Democratic Run-Off will be your decision for the next 4 years, there is no Republican opposition for this office.

I ask you to vote for continued progress in better government by casting your ballot for John Ames.

Sincerely,

John W Ames

Earl's Garage

The business recently was purchased by Dave Reaves, an independent Goodyear dealer. Earl Morris, the former owner, has opened a used car business next door. (photo by Jim Parks)

Gene Smith, Jerry Watkins and Howard Hughes show off the new FMC micro-computer wheel balancer at Earl's Garage and Warehouse Tires, located on Highway 25 by-pass in Columbiana.

Columbiana garage changes hands

An old Columbiana business has a new owner.

Earl's Garage and Warehouse Tires, formerly owned and operated by Earl Morris, recently has been purchased by Dave Reaves of Gardendale.

Reaves comes to Columbiana with more than 15 years experience in the tire business having managed an independent Goodyear dealership in Gardendale for the past several years. He continues as a local independent Goodyear dealer and offers Silver Card quick credit, and accepts all major credit cards.

Morris, who ends his automotive repair career of 35 years, has entered a new business venture selling Earl's Used Cars just next door to the garage, located on Highway 25 by-pass.

Morris began his career in automotive repair at McDow Motor Company in 1949, and worked there until 1973 when he went into business for himself. He operated Earl's Garage on Highway 25 for the past 11 years.

Reaves is keeping the familiar business name on the outside of the building, but has made some drastic changes inside the garage.

Since he acquired ownership the first of August, Reaves has sunk approximately $75,000 in several hydrolic lifts, exhaust system equipment designed to provide a custom fit and a state of the art FMC micro-computer wheel balancer.

Garage service also includes paint and body work, wheel alignment and brake and shock work. The business also carries a full line of Goodyear tires for passenger cars and trucks.

Working for Reaves are three experienced automotive repairmen: Gene Smith, Jerry Watkins and Howard Hughes.

BMX'ers

Jason Fortenberry(left) and big brother Jimmy, practice the art of bicycle maintenance on the front wheel of one of their BMX racers. (photos by K.A. Turner) boys will feel the effects in their next race.

Bikers

With all their riding, the boys have little time for anything else but homework.

"This is the first time I've raced with studies too," Jason said,"but I still get all my homework."

With all the biking, it would seem the boys would have little time for hanging around with friends. But for Jimmy, that's not a problem.

"All my friends race," he firmly said.

One of Jimmy's friends is also his best competitor.

Brad Birdwell, from Pelham, recently won the Grand National Championship in his division. (See related story on the sports pages in the main "A" section of this week's Reporter.)

The competition in the BMX races is fierce, and it's every man for himself. It is this difference from football or baseball that attracts all the Fortenberrys to racing.

"This is a one – on – one competition," said their father. "All I could do was sit and watch them play football, but I can be involved in this with them."

"It's a family thing," Sandra said. "I'm real involved with this."

Her boys are more than involved. They are dedicated to their favorite sport.

"I'd just sit at home if I wasn't racing," said Jimmy. "Anything that would stop me from racing would stop me from football or anything else."

Ca... ve... park

by Jim Parks

A single dissenting vote at Monday night's Calera council meeting put to halt the immediate further development of a city industrial park.

Councilman Arthur Davis raised the ire of several industrial development board members when he voiced the lone objection to Mayor Carl Prichard's call for unanimous consent for consideration of a resolution to earmark $177,000 for industrial development.

The lack of unanimous consent killed the proposal outright. Joe Middlebrooks, an angered member of the industrial development board, interrupted the meeting by standing up and asking to have his name withdrawn from board membership.

"What's the worth of attending the meetings if we don't have anything to work with," Middlebrooks asked. "It's like going to buy a new truck without any money."

"I think it's disgraceful," Prichard said. "But all is not lost because we still have the interest money coming in. Stay on the board because we need you."

Fair view

Somehow, the world looks different -- perhaps like a carnival -- when viewed from a horse on a merry-go-round. Nine-year-old Eugene Poe of Shelby (front) and eight-year-old Kerry Swain of Harpersville were some of the 5,960 Shelby County Fair visitors last week, many of whom took a ride on the merry-go-round. County may get 'college center' in Pelham area

by K.A. Turner
and David F. Moore

A new junior college will not be built in Shelby County. That recomendation was made Tuesday morning by a Shelby County task force in a report to Dr. Charles L. Payne, state chancelor of post-secondary education.

However, the task force recommended that a Shelby County Community College Center be established in the Pelham area and be operated jointly by four area technical colleges and the University of Montevallo.

The task force was formed in April as part of Directions 1984, Payne's plan to review post secondary education in Alabama.

The data collected by the task force showed that post secondary education services are limited in access to North Shelby County. But the task force concluded that "the establishment of a junior or community college... in Shelby County at this time would draw students from the existing colleges and universities, and affect their operations adversely."

Several factors led to task force's decision:

•Financial support for rapidly growing Shelby County schools was already $200 below the state's per pupil average in 1981.

•A survey of area business and community leaders showed that only 7% thought a new two-year college was needed.

•Cost of building such a college -- $4-$6 million initially and $2 million annually -- are prohibitive.

The community college center would be managed by a council composed of Payne, the presidents of the involved colleges and the probate judge of Shelby County. Nunnelley State Technical College would handle fiscal and administrative duties for the center.

Shelby County will have to provide a facility for the center.

The recomendation of the task force is subject to approval by state educators. No time frame was outlined at the Tuesday meeting held at Shelby Medical Center, but Payne promised "the process will move as quickly as possible."

News briefs

Valley celebrates 20

Valley Elementary School celebrates its 20th anniversary with a program and landscaping dedication at 9:30 a.m., Friday.

Participating in the special program will be the schools first two principals, Robert Brasher of Shelby and Bertha Cosper of Wilsonville. Also on the program will be former school superintendent Elvin Hill and former county commissioners Ned Bearden and J. Alpha Lowe.

Valley principal Dr. Norma Rogers said that donars to the school's recent $12,000 landscaping project will be recognized during the dedication.

Mortgage records

Mortages records were returned from the Shelby County Museum to the probate judge's office last Wednesday.

The return was ordered by a Shelby County court following a suit filed by several title companies.

Some of the mortage records have been reshelved, while others were placed vertically along the floor so as not to cover a window in the records room.

Indexing director Jim Masone said a storage problem still exists, and that a fire marshall has pointed out problems with storing records in the courthouse attic.

The only records that were not returned were marriage records prior to 1900, and old birth and death certificates.

Weather

The National Weather Service is calling for dry weather with partly cloudy skies on Thursday and Friday.

A chance of widely scattered showers is predicted for Saturday.

Highs for the three days are expected to be in the low to mid-80's, with temperatures at nights in the 60's.

Pelham licenses restaurant

by David F. Moore

A lame duck Pelham council toasted itself farewell Monday night with the approval of two liquor licenses requests.

The night marked the last council meeting for outgoing Mayor Burk Dunaway and councilmen R.E. "Ray" Hamilton and Bob Cleveland.

A liquor/restaurant license was requested by Joey's Restaurant and Lounge which officially opened two months ago. Under previous ownership the lounge was known as Fargo's.

Attorney Mike Kendrick, representing Joey's stockholders Joe and Martha Fugera, told the council the new owners have extensively remodeled the building on U.S. 31, and are seeking to improve the clientel that frequented Fargo's.

"We want to serve food. Expand. Maybe get a different crowd than we had before," Kendrick said. "We want to get away from the stigma (of Fargo's)."

Coucilman Ken Maynard said that Fargo's was "notorious" for problems and generated numerous complaints from residents in Indian Hills.

Police chief Dave Watson, in answer to a question from Maynard, said there had been no problems at Joey's since it opened. "It's definately been upgraded," Watson said.

"That worries me," Maynard said, "because of where it was upgraded from."

Councilwoman Beverly Hall said based on her knowledge of the Fugeras, she thought the license should be granted. The motion carried over Maynard's opposition.

"We want to have a real fine restaurant," Fugera said after the meeting. "We want a place where a family can feel relaxed in a friendly atmosphere."

Fugera said his wife was formerly in charge of the Riverchase Middle School cafeteria, and they have lived in Pelham four years.

BILL SCHROEDER

"...Any community that's successful has to be sound in body and mind. It's fundamental to provide sound mental health for the betterment of the Chilton-Shelby community..."

DR. W.S. MITCHELL

"...The mentally retarded are human beings. Now, thank the Lord, we have specialists in this field that can bring out their positive traits so that they can help themselves..."

Mental health center begins 2nd decade

by David F. Moore

The Chilton-Shelby Mental Health Center is celebrating a decade of service to the area. The last 12 months of the operation have earned the distinction of being called "the year shirttails were flying off backs."

Last Wednesday at the group's annual board meeting at its main office in Calera, first year executive director John Brumley noted several reasons why shirttails have been flying.

During the year, services in Pelham were expanded and mental health offices moved into the new North Shelby Health Building next to the city hall there. Also, mental health services were started in Harpersville, Brumley said.

Furthermore, the organization opened Mitchell Center this year at the former Calera car lot owned by Dr. W.S. Mitchell. The center provides day treatment for the chronically retarded, as well as prevocational training for retarded adults.

Brumley noted that the $40,000 center was opened with considerable assistance from the community.

Plans are underway to obtian a new building in Clanton this year, and expand services there.

The public transportation system which went into effect in Shelby County in March, is co-ordinated throughout the mental health center, and, Brumley reported, its success continues to grow.

The total volume of clients in the past year has increased 10 percent, Brumley said.

While some $300,000 in indigent health care was written off in 1983-84, Brumley said that fees collected have almost doubled. That increase, along with legislation, has rocketed the center's budget from $460,000 for the 1983-84 year, to $750,000 this coming year.

Out patient services and evening hours have helped expand business, Brumley said, as have the three doctors and one consultant which have been added to the staff. The staff now consists of 23 fulltime workers and 10 parttime staff members and consultants.

"The staff is tired and weary," Brumley said, "but we're also excited and enthusiastic."

During the meeting, board president Jean Hamilton recognized Joan Robinson and awarded her a watch "and lots of hugs for 10 years of constant dedication."

Dr. N.S. Xavier was recognized for five years of service. Director of mental retardation Lou Vick, and receptionist Ruth Littlejohn were recognized for three years of service. Brumley noted that average mental health workers "burn out" after two and a half years.

Certificates for special merit were awarded to Shelby County Area Vocational School and its director Dan Acker, and to Charles Collum and Trio Electric Company.

Certificates were also awarded to the Shelby County Chapter of the Association of Retarded Citizens, and association president Nelson Franklin and his wife, Betty, of North Shelby County.

The C-SMHC's distinguished service plaque went to Calera banker Bill Schroeder. Dr. Mitchell, also of Calera, was awarded the community service plaque. Schroeder served on the mental health board from 1979-84, and Mitchell allows the center free use of his former car dealership.

Clanton attorney John Hollis Jackson was awarded the outstanding leadership plaque. Jackson is a charter board member of the Chilton-Shelby Mental Health Center.

Officers for the year are: president Hamilton of Jemison, vice president Carrie Gray of Clanton, secretary Nancy Cadenhead of Pelham, and treasurer Conrad Fowler, Jr., of Columbiana.

Liquor

With no opposition, North Shelby resident James Bishop received a transfer of his license for his Pelham-based retail liquor store, Mr. Bottle Shoppe.

Bishop said that he plans to build a 6,900 square foot facility on U.S. 31, just north of Ray's Radiator at the site of an old service station. He said several other businesses probably would rent space in his new facility when it was completed.

In other matters:

•Councilman Hamilton presented a resolution honoring Bill Bryars for the ongoing job he does as Pelham fire chief. "Life for those in the city is better for him being here," Hamilton said. brought the department up to "the best in the state."

Hamilton asked that the city have the chief's name inscribed permanently on one of Pelham's three fire trucks. The motion carried unanimously.

Pelham library opens

Pelham's out-going Mayor Burk Dunaway cuts the traditional grand opening ribbon across the front door of the new library next to Pelham City Hall. A moderate crowd gathered at last Saturday's grand opening ceremony as Dunaway praised city employees and private contractors for "building a quarter-million dollar library for only $75,000." Dunaway said the new 6,000 square foot facility is a vast improvement over the city's original 300 square foot library. Among the features at the library is a 32-inch lighted globe, the only one of its kind in Alabama. (photo by Jim Parks)

Pelham jewelry shop hit by burglar

Pelham police say they have a suspect in the burglary of a Pelham jewelry store last week. However, according to PPD Sgt. Donnie Guyer, investigators are seeking additional information from anyone who might have been in the area at the time of the breakin.

Guyer said the burglary occured at 11:30 p.m., Tuesday, September 11, when someone broke out the door glass of Zeigler's Discount Jewelry in the Pelham Mart shopping center on U.S. 31.

The breakin immediately triggered the store's alarm system, and police were there in about a minute, Guyer said. He described the operation as a "hit and run" breakin, and said the suspect only had time enough to grab some small necklaces from one display case.

Police said the breakin appears to connected to a series of similar recent jewelry store burglaries in the Birmingham vacinity, and that other area stores have been put on notice.

Calera

night, did not run for re-election and will relinquish his chair to mayor-elect George Roy in October.

"This would have been seed money to help us grow," Prichard said. "It would have been capital expenditure that would have come back to the city when we sold the industrial sites. It would have been a much wiser use than to take those dollars and put them into the general fund to be spent on every little piddlin' thing you want in your budget."

The $177,075, which the city industrial development board has sought for several years, is the balance of a five-year loan extended to Abex Corporation by Calera through an Urban Development Action Grant.

The council already had pledged the interest of the loan -- 10 percent annually -- to the industrial development board and, so far, the city has secured 20 acres toward an industrial park.

"We're only five acres away from developing an industrial park and becoming a Prepared City," out-going councilman Mark Jones said after the meeting. "I'll bet the council spends every bit of that money on the new sewer system."

Jones who lost his bid for mayor's office in the city election, will continue as vice president of the city's industrial development board.

During the meeting, Jones made a second plea for Davis to reconsider his vote.

"I haven't said anything about the money going into the general fund, and I'm not against the industrial development board," Davis said. "I'm just not in favor of committing that much money at this time when we've got other major considerations, like the new sewer system and housing projects."

Following the meeting, Davis said, "The industrial development board probably will get what it wants." However, Davis did not commit himself to a favorable vote should the council again consider the proposal.

Center

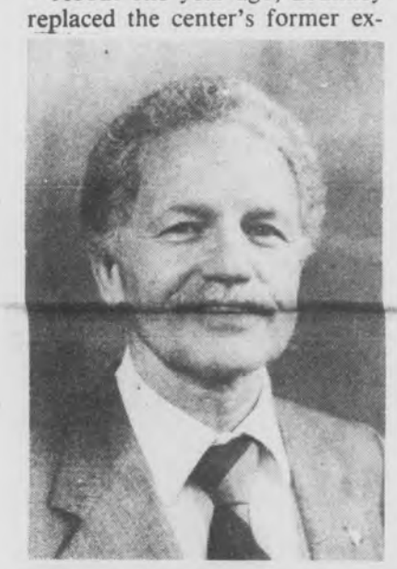
About one year ago, Brumley replaced the center's former executive director Jerry Jackson, who went into the banking business in Birmingham.



Jackson, along with Joan Robinson, were the first two employees when the center opened on July 1, 1974.

At a reception following the Wednesday meeting, staff members cut a birthday cake in honor of the center's ten years of service.

Can lame ducks fly?

It's hard to get a lame duck to fly gracefully.

Likewise, it's hard sometimes to get a government to govern gracefully when it's lame -- specifically, during the period between elections and the swearing in of a new majority in the governing body.

Sometimes a lame duck government can do a lot of harm. It can take parting shots at the new government which has been voted in, by appointing cronies to positions of power, or spending money in areas that don't need it, or at times when there is no money to be spent.

At the other extreme, some parting governments do absolutely nothing. Time and money slip away and gather dust while progress marches on elsewhere.

Monday night in Calera produced some curious examples of lame duck politics.

There's no question in our minds that an industrial park in Calera would greatly behove the city. As a town, Calera's time should be right around the corner, and it needs to be ready when it comes.

As such, one might question councilman Arthur Davis' lack of support for earmarking a needed $177,000 for the industrial park.

But, four short years ago, a new government -- the one now leaving -- took office and found its hands tied with previous financial obligations.

Is there a record stuck somewhere?

We certainly hope that the new govenment which will be sworn in on October 1 will have the foresight to pursue the type of growth that will create a better quality of life for the taxpayers.

If you ask us, most of the good people there probably don't care too much who gets the job done, as long as someone does it, and does it right.

Too, we think that lame duck sessions -- at least on all city levels -- should be arranged so that wounded birds don't have fly quite so long.

Readers' opinions

Hyprocrisy rings

Letter to the Editor:

Politics and religion got mixed in my mind at an early age. At church, I would hear hypocrits and publicans denounced, then back home my uncles would censure the Democrats and Republicans. To my young ears, the pronunciation for hypocrits sounded like the word Democrats, and publicans came out Republicans. Somewhat jokingly, I suggested years later that I was right in those first conclusions.

To this day, hypocrisy rings in my mind as the prime sin damning people of otherwise good character -- so pervasive that a hypocrit who judges another is considered to be doubly guilty.

It is in this context that I view the current assaults on the role of religious leaders in politics. Critics cite the U.S. Constitution's single reference to religion as banning such activities -- the first amendment, stating only that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof..." (Implicitly, the U.S. Supreme Court is prohibited from making any such law, or any law.)

Despite the nevertheless free interpretations by the Supreme Court, I see no way the simple constitutional language can be rationalized to prohibit the political participation or religious leaders in this or nay other election. Worse, the accusers are selective in their condemnation, striking out at those who oppose their political views, while praising or ignoring the similar or greater activities of their supporters. They can't have it both ways.

Self-serving judgments can slip easily into hypocrisy.

Stop trash problems

Letter to the Editor:

I would like something to be done about the billboards on the side of the road. Also, I would appreciate it if something was done about the trash, too.

How do you like to see that stuff on the road?

Please do something about it.

Thank you.

Trash irks student

Letter to the Editor:

I am 12 years old, and I am a student at Our Lady of the Valley. I would like you to know that there is too much trash along the side of the road. You could get together a group and pick up the trash. It really wouldn't have to be adults, it could be kids. Thank you dearly for taking time to read this.

Too much pollution

Letter to the Editor:

I am a 12 year old student greatly concerned about pollution.

There is too much pollution in Alabama waters. Not only fish are dying, but animals that drink the water such as deer, raccoon, and otters. It also can pollute water we drink from wells or springs. There should be stricter laws against people who make pollution. This includes factories that dump their waste in rivers or lakes. It also includes chemical factories that bury their toxic waster near lakes.

Sincerely,

Patrols too strict

Letter to the Editor:

I feel very strongly about the neighborhood patrol in my neighborhood. They spot light me every night. If anybody is riding a bike or something like that on Navajo Trail, they will stop and ask you questions.

I have never seen Alabaster police do anything like that in another neighborhood. They just patrol too much.

I'm 13 years old, and I'm in the 7th grade. I wish you would put this letter in your paper.

Sincerely,

Stop polluting!

Letter to the Editor:

I am a 12 year old student and I think you should clean lakes and rivers. Also the trash on the roads and highways should be picked up. A lot of people are getting sick of the pollution in the air. Ask the people to quit polluting. I want you to read this carefully.

Construction leaves litter

Letter to the Editor:

I am very upset about a construction job that was started but never finished. Now there is trash and bottles everywhere. It looks like a dump. It lowers the land rate. I think something should be done.

Why swear allegiance to parties?

Letter to the Editor:

"By casting this ballot I do pledge myself to abide by the result of this Primary Election and to aid and support all the Nominees thereof in the ensuing General Election."

Everyone who voted in the Democratic or Republican Primary on September 4th affirmed the above oath with his signature. The Democratic and Republican parties established this oath in order to restrict the right of voters to elect whomever they want to public office.

Because Alabama conducts open primaries (no voter registration), any eligible voter may vote in either the Democratic or Republican primary. He need not belong to any political party nor need he state his party affiliation. Open primaries are better than closed primaries because open primaries give more political power to individual voters and less political power to parties.

In order to exercise more control over the outcome of primaries, the Democratic and Republican parties of Alabama have designed a way of preventing non-party members from participating. Under the present system a voter cannot vote in a party's primary unless he pledges himself to vote for the nominees of that same party in the following general election.

Elections are funded by taxes paid by everyone. Why must we all swear allegiance to the Democratic party or to the Republican party in order to vote?

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member FDIC.

A letter in the mail from Mary Cagle Whitburn. Mary would like a few words here about her mother, Mrs. Essie Cagle, who passed away recently. Essie Cagle has been my friend for years and years. To me, she was a fine little lady, who found life a little harder than most, but who lived her life in a fashion that would make anybody proud. I'm a thousand times glad she came my way.

A short visit with the boys at Jim Rowe's place on Main. We settled an election and sold a tomato crop and caught a mess of crappie and ate Jim's peanuts. I guess these guys have more fun than anybody -- Norman Lefkovits and Albert Walton and Leon Dorough and Eunice Jones and Cecil Davis and Hank Spires and Jay Falkner and many more -- I'm a thousand times glad they came my way.

A short trip to see some old friends. Once or twice every year I try to get out to see Elbert and Hazel Gibons. Going to see them is like going to see Aunt Jenie sixty years ago. There's always goodies to be had. His mother has gone to live with her daughter in Gadsden, having reached the age where she can't live by herself. I'm a thousand times glad they came my way.

A few days and it's time for the dove hunters to get in the fields. Bub Gordon and Jack Stone and Jim Merrell and Herman Strong and Garvin Baker and Nobie Payne and Tag Elliott and Leon and Buddy Kelly and many more who spent golden hours in fields from here to yonder.

Royce Morris' grass patch and Tom Morris' corn field and Hugh McDaniel's corn field and Frank Wheeler's field, each one a spot where a fellow could find fellowship and excitement up to his ears. I'm a thousand times glad they came my way.

The football team has one two games up at Alma's Place. Maybe they'll win a dozen before it's over. Lawrence Elliott and Fred Frost and Howard Hill and Bill Whorton and Simon Finley and Karl Harrison and Lawrence Looney and Ehney Camp and Earl Peers and John Stinson and Gerald Fulton and Conrad Fowler -- just to name a few of they many who passed that way and played for Alma. Some of 'em gone and some of 'em still around, but all of 'em a prt of a fellow's life. I'm a thousand times glad they came my way.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Gov. George Wallace found himself in the rather awkward position last week of belittling a a report on Alabama's business climate which had been authorized by one of his own agencies.

The Alabama Development Office (ADO), an agency closely linked to the governor's office, hired the Fantus Co., a consulting firm, to do a survey to ascertain how business and industry perceived Alabama as a site for plant locations. ADO paid the company $85,000 for its survey.

The report returned a series of blistering indictments against the state, including an anti-business legislative climate, inferior public schools, co-employee lawsuits, and a perception that the people of Alabama have a "red-neck type of mentality."

Gov. Wallace was quick to take issue with the report. Especially the red-neck reference.

"I guess that's people who work in the sun and get a little red on the neck," he said. "We've got people like that."

Otherwise, Wallace insisted that his conversations with industrialists around the world indicated that they have very positive impressions about the state.

ADO Director Red Etheredge, whose face was probably the same color as his nickname, conceded that he was somewhat disappointed with some of the report.

Odds and Ends -- Dr. Leon Howard, the new president of troubled Alabama State University, has added to that institution's troubles. Dr. Howard has recommended to the ASU Board of Trustees that his wife be hired as a professor. His proposal brought an immediate protest from the State Ethics Commission staff, which contended the action was an apparent violation of the sate nepotism law...

The state stands to recoup more than $550,000 which has been paid in fines by Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick and Prison Commissioner Freddie Smith. Both were found in contempt of court by U.S. District Judge Robert Varner late in 1983 and ordered to pay a fine of $1 a day for each inmate in the state prison system. Graddick paid $468,000 in fines, Smith $83,000. However last week the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned Judge Varner's ruling...

Former State Sen. Don Harrison of Montgomery has accused Democratic Party officials of "rigging" last week's vote count in the contest for the stae Court of Criminal Appeals. The Democratic Executive Committee ruled that some 35,000 votes cast for Dan McCoy should not be counted, since McCoy withdrew from the race several days before the primary. With his votes not counted, H.W. (Bucky) McMillan won the judgeship without a run-off; had the McCoy votes been counted, Harrison would have qualified for the run-off.

Keith Heartsill has been named assistant administrator for finance at Shelby Medical Center.

He was formerly associate executive director of finance at Humana Hospital in Enterprise, and has five years experience in hospital finances.

"We are pleased to have a chief financial officer of Keith's background and credentials join us at Shelby Medical," said SMC administrator Norman Price.

"During these times of day to day changes in hospitals, a strong finance department is vital to a successful operation. SMC has pledged to provide optimum care to the citizens of Shelby County at the lowest possible cost, and sound financial practices originate with the finance department," Price said.

Heartsill fills the vacancy created last spring by the resignation of Kathy Sayler. Comptroller Janice Gill has been acting assistant administrator for finance in the interim.

Heartsill is a native of Pensacola, Fla., and a graduate of the University of West Florida. He and his wife, Amy, have two childen and live in Alabaster.

Forum canceled

The first session of Shelby Medical Center's Third Thursday Health Forums has been canceled.

The cancelation came Monday after an advertisment on Page X-18 of this week's Shelby County Reporter had already gone to press.

The free forum, scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 20, was postponed because the wife of the program's specialist, Dr. William Denton, had surgery, a SMC spokeman said.

Other health forums are still planned for the third Thursdays in October and November.

Scouting Report

Shelby County at Vincent

A battle of the unbeatens heads county action this week. While the Wildcats seemed to put it all together last week against Montevallo, Vincent lacked offensive consistency in its win over Calera. The contest should go to the club who makes the fewest mistakes.

Thompson at Montevallo

Both squads try to rebound from defeats last week with Thompson emerging in better shape physically. Possible problem for the Dogs is an injury to lineman Lonnie Layton that may keep the big one out of action. The Warriors took their share of licks against Chilton County, but all should be ready to go in the traditional grudge battle against the Dogs.

Calera at Fultondale

The Eagles continue to face above class opposition in the 4A Wildcats. Fultondale come in with a 1 – 2 record after a 35 – 3 loss to Gardendale last week. The Wildcats have speed in the backfield and a good passing game. Players to watch for Fultondale: tailback Otis Benson, quarterback Gene Smith, and receiver Wendell Hardaway.

Chelsea at Brighton

The Hornets will carry a 3 – 0 record into their first area contest with the Brighton Bears. The Bears once possessed a 49 game losing streak – – it ended the final game of 1983 – – but have already won a game this year. Players to watch for Brighton: halfback Tanonance Morrer, quarterback Donnie Whitt, center Govan Averhart, linemen Frank Brown, and Charles August.

Pelham hosts Tarrant

The Panthers hope to notch their first win of the season over a team with an identical 0 – 3 record. The 4A Tarrant Wildcats losses include a 24 – 17 decision against Calera two weeks ago. Players to watch for Tarrant: tailback Mark Johnson, quarterback Alan Evans, center Micheal Keith, linebackers Mike Caswell and Steve Staton, and defensive tackle Mike Trammel.

Briarwood at West Blocton

Briarwood enters the contest with a 1 – 1 mark while the West Blocton Tigers enter at 1 – 2. The Tigers lost to 4A Hillcrest last week. Blocton runs a five man front on defense and alternate between a split backfield and an eye set on offense.

Coosa Valley hosts South Choctaw

The Rebs may appreciate their week off as they face 3 – 0 South Choctaw. The visitors will come in two sizes – – big backfield and bigger line – – and according to CVA head man Bruce Breland they run the option very well.

Shelby Academy at Grove Hill

The Raiders face a tough test as they travel south. SA head man Dewayne Kervin knows very little about Grove Hill except what he's heard through the grapevine. He's heard they may be the best team in private school 2A football.

For the Record...

GRAB YOUR GUN FOR STATE DOVE SEASON

The Alabama Department of Conservation has announced the seasons and bag limits for dove hunting in 1984.

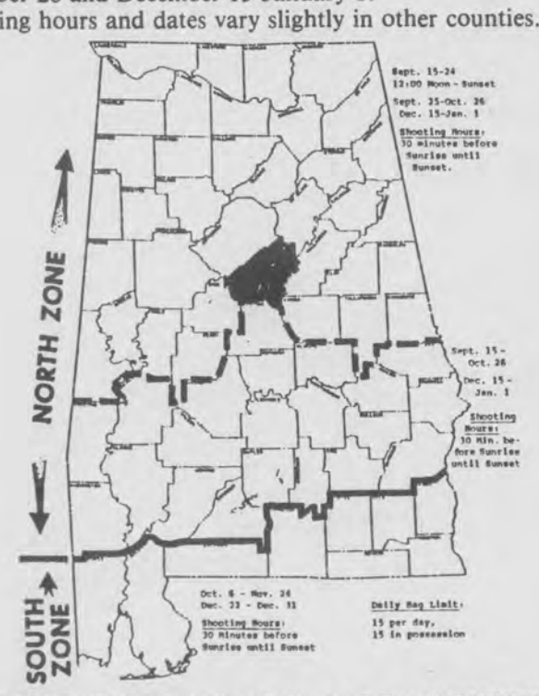
Daily bag limit will be 15 per day--15 in possession, very similar to the limit last season.

In Shelby County, the first of the split seasons will run September 15-24.

Shooting hours for this portion of the season are noon until sunset.

Shooting hours of 30 minutes before sunrise until sunset will govern the remainder of the split season that runs September 25-October 26 and December 15-January 1.

Shooting hours and dates vary slightly in other counties.



GRAB YOUR ROD AND REEL FOR BASS FISHING

Several area anglers will participate in a field of 70 expected for the Bama Division bass tournament to be held on Logan Martin Reservoir September 23.

Brent Barrow of Columbiana, Michael Steve Brasher and Larry Ferguson of Sterrett have all registered for the tournament which is the final event on the Red Man Tournament Trail this season.

Going into the event, Chelsea's Bill Spratlin leads the Bama Division points standing race.

GRAB YOUR BIKE FOR MONTEVALLO RIDE

Grab a bike and jump into your peddle pushers. The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is holding a bike-a-thon at 8 a.m. this Friday in Montevallo Park.

Chairpersons Beverly Leach and Harriet Jackson say sponsor sheets for the four-hour ride are available at the three Montevallo schools.

"Thon" peddlers who collect $30 get T-shirts. Those collecting $75 get a digital watch, and those collecting $150 get the watch and an AM-FM radio with earphones. Cash and gift certificates also will be awarded.

No cure has yet been discovered for the fatal disease, but research funded by such projects has added years to the lives of children with CF.

SCHS stops Montevallo

by K.A. Turner

"These kids are a joy to coach. They believe in each other and have enough confidence in themselves to be winners." – – Ricky Seale.

"I really feel for these kids. Take the mental errors out, and they would be 3 – 0." – – Richard Gilliam.

The comments from the two coaches pretty well tell the story of Friday night's meeting between the Shelby County High Wildcats and the Montevallo Bulldogs.

The Cats lifted their season mark to 3 – 0 with a win that was not always pretty, but a win none the less.

The Dogs fell to 1 – 2, but coach Richard Gilliam could name about 10 plays that would make his team the undefeated one instead.

SCHS began the contest on a much more positive note than their last two outings.

The Cats took advantage of a Bulldog turnover when Billy Seale recovered a fumble on the first MHS offensive play. Shelby County found itself deep in enemy territory on first possession.

Nothing new there, but when Ambrose Wood scored, the Cats had broken a jinx that plagued them in their opening contests.

"It was great to see him score," said senior center Kerry Horton. "It was the first time since the season opened that we had done what we were supposed to do with the first possession."

"I knew the jinx was gone then," said guard Leroy Martin. "Then all we had to do was pull together and concentrate on what we could do together, instead of as individuals."

The initial scoring series covered 23 yards in six plays, with Wood's final run a four-yard effort. The Cats missed the PAT, but led early, 6 – 0.

For Montevallo, that same first series illustrated Gilliam's point.

"We can't beat ourselves," said Montevallo wingback Trey Hughes before the game. "We have to have really good offensive execution."

A slight slip in execution and the Dogs were behind early.

The Wildcats, still looking for a way to put pressure on themselves early, returned the turnover favor

Quinten Chism scooped up the loose ball for the Dogs, and Montevallo was in business on the SCHS 20. No faulty execution on this drive. Bulldog quarterback Ricky Gaddis connected with Hughes on the first play.

The pass covered the necessary distance to paydirt, and when Johnny Holsemback added the PAT, the Dogs pulled ahead 7 – 6.

Following the kickoff, SCHS was held on three downs. As the Cats tried to punt, the Montevallo mental errors surfaced again.

Two straight offsides penalities against the Dogs gave SCHS a first down.

That little bit of help was all the Wildcats needed, and they began a 15-play march to paydirt.

David Wood got the tally on a nine-yard pass from Kenneth Jones. After brother Ambrose had added the two-point conversion, Shelby County regained the lead at 14 – 7.

Shelby County added another score right before the half when Ambrose Wood reached the end-zone after a six-yard run.

The play capped a 61-yard drive and, with a successful Kevin Jones PAT, SCHS led 21 – 7.

Still the Dogs fought back gamely, hitting passes to Steve Spears and Anthony Prentice that carried deep into Shelby territory. But the Cats put out the Bulldog fire with an interception by David Wood, and the halftime score stood 21 – 7.

Montevallo took the momentum early in the third quarter, and the Dogs rode that high tide to a score as Andy Chism hit paydirt from the one.

The drive capped a 52-yard march for MHS, and despite a blocked PAT attempt, the Dogs appeared ready to make a game of it.

Reporter Team of the Week

But on their next possession, a fumble put a snag in the Montevallo drive causing them to punt. Shelby County took over and put together a time – consuming march that carried into the fourth period.

The Cats added an insurance score late in the contest on a halfback pass from Ambrose Wood to brother David. That left the margin at 27 – 13, which stood till the final horn.

Offensively, the Wildcats' head man praised the play of his offensive line.

"We played a lot of people there," Seale said, "and I think they all performed well."

Defensively, Leroy Martin and Kerry Horton got approving comments from their coach. Jasper English was cited for his consistant play on defense throughout the Montevallo game and the season.

Two "little linebackers" – – Kevin Jones and Gerry Lewis – – also received mention from their coach.

Gilliam's best performers on offense did not play the entire game due to injury.

James Lucas was hurt early, but did return late in the contest at less than full speed.

Lonnie Layton was taken to the hospital with a possible neck problem during the third quarter.

Two – fold good news is that Layton's injuries are not severe, and that he played well until having to leave the game.

Freeman Rutledge gained his coach's favor on both sides of the ball, blocking well on offense and leading the team in defensive points.

Anthony Prentice, Quniten Chism, Clint King and Charles Towner also scored well defensively for the Dogs.

SA Raiders bomb Cahawba

by K.A. Turner

The Shelby Academy Raiders ran their season record to 2 – 1 Friday with a road win over Cahawba Christian in Centreville.

Dewayne Kervin's squad used a strong second half showing to accomplish a 21 – 0 victory.

However, the Raiders had a tough first half and that caused concern for Kervin.

"Our consistency concerns me," he said. "We dragged around in the first half and could have been behind. Then in the second half we looked like a different team on the field.

"You can't play a good team and win like that," he said.

Perhaps Kervin was trying to warn his team in advance. The Raiders face a tough Grove Hill squad in another road trip next week.

All in all, the game caused some very different emotions for the SA coach.

"Sure, I'm glad we won, you're always glad when you win. But that consistency and our injuries still make me really concerned."

The Raiders had to deal with injuries even in the win.

Starting quarterback Doug Thomas did not play because of an ankle sprain.

The Raiders didn't have too tough a time living with his replacement. All Jeff Dunaway did was to throw for two TDs and rush for a third -- something the Raiders could live with in a pinch.

Kervin was most excited about the blocking of Ched Burton and Vince Pickett on the offensive line, feeling that was the strong point of his entire offensive showing.

"Mike Upton got most of his 124 yards running right over them," Kervin explained.

The line also provided good pass protection for Dunaway, allowing receivers like Kelly Tibbals to make some good receptions.

The Raiders scored on their first possession of the ballgame.

Jeff Dunaway and Kelly Tibbals connected on a 54-yard toss for a touchdown. The pass capped a 72-yard drive, and with Vince Pickett's PAT, the score stood at 7 – 0.

Early in the second quarter, Cahawba began a drive that threatened to close the margin.

A Mike Upton fumble recovery stopped the drive for the Raiders at their own 15, and Cahawba did not threaten seriously again.

The Raiders added a third quarter TD when Dennis Attaway caught a nine-yard pass from Dunaway. Pickett again added the PAT and the Raiders moved out to a 14 – 0 margin.

The final score of the game came on an eight-yard jaunt by Dunaway. Pickett again added the PAT, and the Raiders won 21 – 0.

Briarwood busts MI for first win

by K.A. Turner

The Briarwood Lions got into the plus column for the first time in 1984 with a 20 – 0 win over Marion Institute Friday night.

Rick Sayle's bunch used a good passing attack to secure 20 first-half points, then cruised on for the win.

A little sophomore quarterback was a big factor in the game for the Lions.

Brad Gray got his first starting assignment in the contest because of an injury sustained by regular quarterback Jimmy Collier last week.

Gray responded by hitting four of seven passes for 89 yards and a touchdown.

He also added 40 yards and a touchdown running the ball.

The Briarwood staff had planned to play Collier only in case of emergency. Gray made sure the emergency never happened.

The Lions also got good offensive effort from Mitch Wilcutt. The halfback raced for 75 yards and a touchdown in 11 carries.

Defensively, the effort was led by John Kirkpatrick and Will Burke. The two seniors recorded 10 tackles each in leading the Lions to a shut-out.

Briarwood got off to a good start on its first possession, driving 80 yards to paydirt in nine plays.

Gray connected with Randy Gilbert for 19 yards, and to Bob Farris for 27 yards to carry the ball to the MI three.

From that point, Gray scored on a keeper to give the Lions a lead. Tom Blose kicked the PAT to stretch the margin, 7 – 0.

The Lions took advantage of a short MI punt early in the second period to add to their point total.

After the Lions fielded the punt at the MI 43, Gray hit Milton Seabolt with a scoring toss.

Blose again added the PAT to run the score to 14 – 0.

The kicking game provided another break for Briarwood late in the first half.

Craig Collier gathered in a punt on his own 45 and did not stop until the MI 10 yard line.

Mitch Wilcutt got nine yards on the first carry from scrimmage, then added the last yard to paydirt.

Despite the mishandled PAT attempt, the Lions took a 20 – 0 lead to the locker room, enough for their first win.

The Lions defense shined in the second half as MI tried to fight back.

A Gene Carlson fumble recovery stopped a third quarter drive on Briarwood's 22.

A big quarterback sack by John Kirkpatrick put the nailed down for the win as MI threatened at the Lion 10 yard line.

Vincent hand-off

Jackets jolt Calera

by K.A. Turner

Two undefeated teams, two state ranked teams and two county rivals... that's what big games are made of.

Close scores, big plays and momentum... that's what makes big games big wins – – or losses – – for the teams that play them.

The Vincent Yellowjackets took a 13–6 win from the Calera Eagles Friday night in what can only be viewed as a "big game."

Both squads entered the Oliver Park contest with 3–0 records.

Vincent carried a #4 state ranking among 3A schools, Calera, a #6 ranking among 2A squads.

Though the two have only recently adopted each other as opponents, the battles thus far have been fierce.

The score was close enough at 13–6 to make everyone sit on the edge of their stadium seats.

Harold Garrett's Jackets dodged several bullets on turnovers, broke a long run and recovered a fumble to propel them to the win.

Calera's Alverson could only say afterward, "We won with the big play for two weeks in a row. Tonight we lost by it."

Naturally, a big win had the Jackets thinking big thoughts afterwards.

It's great to be ranked where we are," said Bruce Hamilton.

"But we're going to be number one when its through," predicted Jeffery Kelley.

"We haven't even reached our potential yet," said Hamilton. "We really haven't played a good first quarter since the Oak Grove game."

Cornelius McGinnis summed it up well. "We've been down for several years, but this means a whole lot to us now."

Vincent head coach Harold Garrett was also pleased with the win, but cautioned that the Jackets still had some improving to do. The coach spoke mainly in the area of offensive consistency and mentioned the four Vincent fumbles as evidence.

The Vincent defense did gain praise from the coach.

"We've now gone seven quarters without giving up at touchdown," he said. "In spite of the four turnovers they only had two field goals, so somebody had to be doing a good job."

Garrett especially noted the improvement on the defensive line and on pass defense.

"We play pretty physical and that may have worn them down at the end," Garrett said. "But they really struck some blows too."

Calera's Alverson was pleased with the enthusiasm his squad showed during the contest.

"We really felt all along we had a chance to win," he said. "I guess the youth in our offensive line really showed, because their noseguard really killed us."

That noseguard is Rouglas Datcher, who has played well for the Jackets all year. He counted for nine individual tackles during the contest against Calera and added assists in five more.

Joining Datcher as defensive standouts were Jimmy Kelley and Bruce Hamilton for Vincent.

Offensively, the Jackets were paced by Vernon Kidd's 85 yards, Cedric's Riggins 57 yards, Reginald Riggins 40 yards, Jimmy's White's pass catching and quarterback Heath Reynolds.

For Calera, Dan Campbell played well at his offensive tackle spot.

Defensively, inside linebackers Campbell and Barry Pickett drew praise from Alverson.

The Eagles took advantage of a Vincent fumble late in the second period to take an early lead.

Steve Ellison's boot gave the Calera squad a 3–0 margin that they carried to halftime.

The Jackets opened the second quarter with a score. Vernon Kidd broke a third down call for 55 yards and a TD, and with the PAT he added, Vincent went up 7–3.

Yet another Yellowjacket turnover gave the Eagles new life.

Ellison added his second field goal of the evening to draw the Eagles within one point at 7–6.

But on the next series, Vincent got a break of its own.

Calera mishandled a punt, and Reginald Riggins recovered the fumble deep in Calera territory.

Cedric Riggins scored on a sweep moments later, and the Jackets took a 13–6 win.

On the move

Calera's Mike West (32) is on the move against Vincent with the help of a block from Kenny Johnson (31). The Yellowjackets Bruce Hamilton (89) puts the pressure on West.

Pelham drops third

by K.A. Turner

"It's just a matter of not blocking anybody," said Pelham coach Billy Tohill.

That comment explains the latest of Pelham High School's three defeats that came Friday night at the hands of Berry, 17–0.

Incomplete

An unidentifiable Pelham receiver goes high for an attempted catch against Berry. The ball fell as did the Panthers, 17–0. (photo by Bert Seaman)

It also explains the first loss, and the second.

"We haven't blocked anybody in three weeks," Tohill said. "We can't possibly throw the ball well when our quarterback doesn't have any time. We don't run hard either."

The Pelham head man watched as receivers came open twice for TDs against Berry, only to have quarterback Mike Bramblett buried before he could get the pass away.

Tohill is now faced with a decision about personnel on the line, but it is one he hopes to avoid.

"What we really want is some personality changes there instead of having to change personnel," he said. "We're definitely going to have to do something."

The Panther defense continues to play acceptable football, according to their coach.

Tony Jeffers and Darryl Johnson drew special mention from the staff. In addition, a fumble-causing-lick by Tony Johnson drew Tohill's praise.

Berry kicked a field goal in the first period and scored in the second to post a 10–0 halftime lead.

The Panthers threatened in the third period, putting together four first downs in a drive that carried to the Berry 25.

The drive stalled there, and Berry added one final TD in the fourth period to end the game, 17–7.

Youth Warriors whip West

The Thompson 120 lb. Youth Warriors took a win in their second game of the season last week, defeating Park West 34–7. Thompson scorers were Brain Bunn, Alan Barefoot, and John Mashburn.

Extra points came on passes from Brady Thames to Chad Horrell and Jeremy Perkins, and on a run by Thames.

Offensive linemen Horrell, Bunn, Jason Stonicher, Bill Walker, Fred Gleason, Michael Stephens, Chris Bunn, and Marc Johnson opened the holes in the Park West defense.

For the defense, Barry Duke, Jimbo Nipper, and Johnny Harrison led the effort.

Others seeing action include Shane Joyner, Brandon Herring, Bobby Ray Price, Paul Sallis, John Mork, Jon Hildreth, Jeremy Smith, and Jason Simmons.

The team tied Gardendale in their season opener 7–7. Alan Barefoot got the only TD for Thompson in the contest.

Youth 'Cats chase Vincent

Columbiana youth football squads took wins in two out of three games with Vincent last week.

Vincent prevailed in the 75 lb. game, 6–0.

Good defensive plays were turned in by Phillip Blackwell, Kevin Jones, and Adam Lowery for Columbiana.

The 85 lb. team scored a 26–6 win over Vincent.

Chris Harris got three TDs and Kevin Walker one TD for the winners.

Ches Harris and John Beane led the defense with three and one interceptions, respectively.

In 105 lb division, Columbiana won by a 33–0 score. Chris Green, Carlos Bryant, Jason Elrod, Lane Lowery, and Robby Odgers got the touchdowns for the little 'Cats.

Elbow grease

Ronnie Arnett (left) has gotten stronger in his years of arm – wrestling experience. Promoter Tommy Bullard can attest to that fact as the two pull for fun at Paul's Hideaway in Helena. Arnett – – a Maylene draftsman – – is curently the state light heavyweight amateur champion. (photo by K. A. Turner)

Arnett finds sport of own

by K.A. Turner

Ronnie Arnett always wanted to have a sport.

He tried playing football when he was at Thompson High School.

"I made it all the way to the spring game, then I got cut," he explained. "I also got my can kicked around some."

"I tried basketball when I was a senior, but I didn't make that either," he said. "You get elbowed doing that, and you don't even get to wear pads."

So Arnett kept busy playing the tuba in the band, but he still wanted to have a sport.

Two and a half years ago, Arnett was in Barry's Hideaway -- a Helena nightspot -- when he saw some fellows arm-wrestling.

He decided to try it "just for the heck of it." He got beat.

But, while he was getting beat, Arnett was also getting hooked on arm-wrestling. He practiced and pulled and practiced and pulled until one day he pulled his way to a state arm-wrestling championship.

Arnett has found his sport.

His official title is the 1983 Alabama Light Heavyweight Amateur State Champion.

It's a position he enjoys and intends to defend in the upcoming 1984 state meet.

But Arnett has not let success take him away from the things that made him successful.

He and his buddies continue to gather at Paul's Hideaway -- same place, new owner -- in Helena every Wednesday night.

Several of his buddies would make the 10 most wanted list of championship pullers. Among them is Danny Stone of Alabaster, a former world champion in his class.

The friends pull in intense competitions against each other, and always look to interest someone else in arm-wrestling.

Tommy Bullard, promoter and coordinator of the Alabama Arm Wrestling Association, also is a frequent visitor. He helps encourage competition in the state championship events as well as getting in a pull or two for old times' sake.

Bullard originated the shoulder roll technique that Arnett has used to win his title.

Both men are living evidence that a weight lifter's arms are not required to be a successful arm-wrestler.

"Most people associate big arms with arm-wrestlers," Bullard said. "They have no idea there's lots of technique involved."

"I have won a lot of my pulls on speed and quickness," Arnett said. "Just lifting weights or something doesn't make you a good arm-wrestler."

Both men agree that a lot of potential champion pullers don't participate in the sport because of that misconception.

Arnett's first state tournament was in 1982. There he finished second to Pelham wrestler David Hurst.

It was a loss he could not forget. When the two met in 1983, Arnett won his title fair and square.

The two will probably square off again in this year's championship.

The event will be held in Birmingham on Saturday, Sept. 22.

There will be several weight classes for men, a class for ladies and a left handed class. All are open to anyone who wishes to participate.

For more information on the state championships, call Bullard at 988 – 3721.

"People should give arm-wrestling a try," Arnett said. "I really didn't think I was good enough but I just got hooked and worked hard at it."

The hard work paid off and, for the draftsman from Helena with no weight training at all, it provided a chance to have a sport he could call his own.

With a little help

CHS mauls Marbury

by K.A. Turner

It was the last homecoming for the Chelsea High football seniors, and perhaps a time for memories.

Memories of an 0 – 10 season as freshmen Hornets.

Memories of a 2 – 8 season as sophomore Hornets.

Memories of a 3 – 7 season as junior Hornets.

For Chelsea's senior Hornets, Friday's game was a time for making good new memories, not remembering the past.

Richard Conkle's troops used a balanced attack, a stingy defense and fine senior leadership to rout Marbury 46 – 6.

The homecoming victory ran the Chelsea record to 3 – 0 -- a mark only those seniors could have believed was possible three weeks ago.

It also preserved at least a #10 state ranking in 2A football, something even the Chelsea seniors might not have anticipated this early in the year.

Senior Tim Williams spoke for all the Hornet seniors in saying their leadership was perhaps the most important part of the Chelsea turn – around.

"Winning is what finally makes this fun," he told a reporter at the game.

The seniors have been hungry to win, and coupled with good team effort and positive coaching, the Hornets are having a ball.

Their opponents are having fits.

The six points scored by Marbury against the Hornets second team defense were the first points the Hornets allowed all year.

Chelsea entered the game as one of only two teams in the Jefferson-Shelby county area to have played shut – out ball in two contests.

The Hornets so totally dominated the first half on defense that Marbury had minus eight yards total during the first two quarters.

Offensively, the Hornets entered the game with more total offense that anyone else in the county.

The 48 points and 445 rushing yards gained last Friday should do nothing to hurt that good standing.

The Hornets also have two players among the top five scorers in the Jefferson-Shelby county areas.

Mike Fant entered the game scoring 30 points, third among area players. Against Marbury, the senior added 14 more points to that total, chalking up two TDs and a two-point conversion.

Walt Tatum came into the contest with 24 points, ranked fifth in scoring in the area. Three TDs add 18 points to his total after Friday's contest.

Tatum also led the Hornets in rushing on the night with 136 yards.

Kerry Shaw turned in 133 yards, Mike Fant, 91 and Larry Alford, 86.

Joe Lee's 14 tackles – – seven of them unassisted – – led the Hornet defense. Kevin Williams recorded 10 tackles and Carl Holcombe, eight.

Matt Russell, Mort Moody, Allen Moody and Mike Beavers were also cited by Conkle for good defensive efforts.

The Hornets jumped to a 20-0 lead in the first quarter of the contest.

Walt Tatum opened the scoring with a five-yard TD run on the Hornets' first possession.

On the following kick, Jason Melton recovered a fumble and put the Hornets in business deep in enemy territory.

Mike Fant got the score on a 14-yard run. A pass from Allen Moody to Mike Beavers turned the two – point conversion, and Chelsea lead 14 – 0.

Fant added a third TD as the quarter closed, this one on a five-yard run.

In the second period, Kerry Shaw exploded for a 40-yard TD, and Jason Melton got a TD on a two-yard run. The tallies left the score 32 – 0 at the half.

Tatum added TDs in each of the third and fourth quarters, one on a 10-yard burst and the other from three yards out.

Fant added the two-point conversion after the third quarter score to account for all of the Hornets' points.

Thompson coach:

"We got whooped"

by K.A. Turner

There was a raiding party in Alabaster Friday night.

Unfortunately, the Warriors of Thompson High School were the ones who got raided.

Two big plays by Anthony Wright of Chilton County left the Warriors with a 14 – 6 loss and sent Thompson tumbling from the upper ranks of 5A football.

"We just got whooped," said THS head man Doug Wheeler after the game.

"They played well and we hurt ourselves all night," said THS coach Billy Woodham.

"We had some opportunities that we didn't cash in on and didn't seem to play with the enthusiasm we have in our other games."

Four big turnovers contributed greatly to the THS defeat. A pass interception was returned for one Chilton County touchdown, and the Warriors fumbled away a scoring opportunity of their own.

Warrior coaches pointed out that the visitors scored only seven points against the Thompson defense. In light of the quality of the Chilton County backfield, that fact pleased the Thompson staff.

Preston Hansford led the defensive effort with 11 tackles, and safety Clarence Carter also had a good game.

The Warriors opened the contest in fine fashion.

Early in the first period, Todd Harris broke loose on an 87-yard TD jaunt. Despite missing the PAT, the Warriors were off to a 6 – 0 lead.

The THS defense held Chilton County, and the Warriors regained possession of the ball after a punt.

Thompson began to drive again, but at the Chilton County 30, disaster struck.

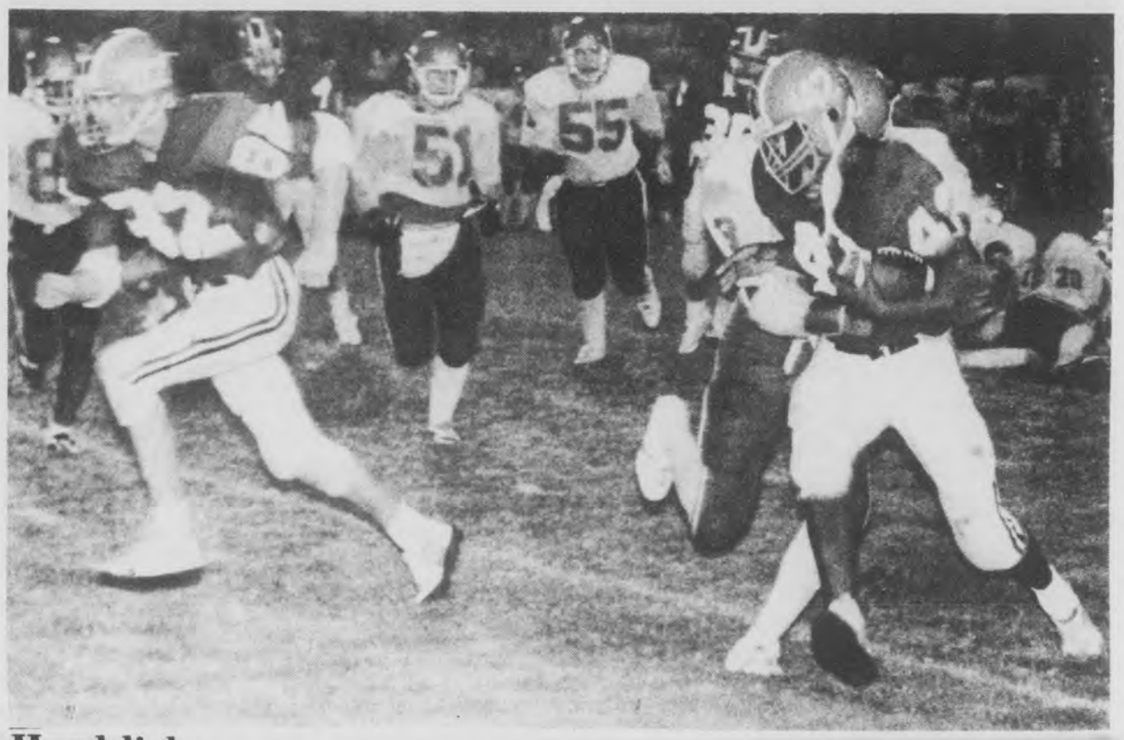
The Tigers' Anthony Wright picked off a pass and returned it 70 yards to paydirt. The CCHS conversion was good, and the visitors led 7 – 6.

Wright struck again in the second period, this time cutting back against the grain and going for a 65-yard touchdown run. Again the PAT was good, and Chilton County took a 14 – 7 lead into halftime.

In the second half, the Warriors took advantage of a poor punt by Chilton County and began to drive. A fumble ended the march on the CCHS 20, and the Warriors were forced to re – group.

A big defensive play by Clarence Carter kept the THS hopes alive late in the contest. Chilton County broke a run to the goal line, but Carter's hit caused a fumble that went out of the endzone, giving Thompson the ball on its own 20.

But the Warrior offense could not convert the opportunity, and THS fell 14 – 6.



Hard lick

Lady Falcons in trophy finish

The University of Montevallo battled through a seven-team field and numerous inconsistencies of its own to come home with a third place finish in the College of Charleston Invitational Volleyball Tournament last Friday and Saturday. The Lady Falcons came out of the round robin format with four wins and a pair of losses, leaving their overall mark at 8-4.

UM opened the tourney by beating Winthrop College for the first time in the history of the series between the two schools, 7-15,16-14,15-6. The Lady Falcons then closed out Friday's action by dropping a 15-13, 9-15, 10-15 decision to Rollins College and beating the University of South Carolina-Spartanburg, 15-13,15-12.

The Lady Falcons started Saturday on the right foot, beating Limestone College by identical 15-9 marks, and knocking off Francis Marion College, 15-8, 12-15, 15-9. Hosting College of Charleston ended the lady Falcons hopes for an initial tourney win by taking a 10-15, 6-15 win to adnce to the finals opposite Rollins.

Senior hitter-setter Theresa Straughn was the lone UM representative on the all-tournament team.

Montevallo travels to Mississippi University for Women for a tournament this weekend before hosting the University of Alabama - Birmingham, Tuesday, Sept. 25 at 7 p.m.

Shelby County Volleyball

by K.A. Turner

VOLLEYBALL -- one of the few truly American sports -- is gaining in popularity throughout the US.

In Shelby County high schools, volleyball has been played competitively in girls varsity programs for more than a decade.

No one has to tell the girls who play about the excitement, fast – paced action and teamwork exhibited at every match.

The general public, however, is a different story.

Traditionally, matches in Shelby County have not been well attended despite the fact that former state champions continue programs within this area.

That may soon change, according to Beverly Warren, University of Montevallo Lady Golden Falcons volleyball coach.

"I've had people come up to me to talk about volleyball who never have before," Warren said.

The UM coach feels the coverage of the Olympic volleyball matches has a lot to do with the increase in popularity.

"I've yet to really see it, but I hope the Olympics will increase the popularity of the sport as we know it," she said. "The Olympic movement may be the thing that opens the eyes of parents to the possibilities for their female athletes."

Warren feels this is the type awakening that could someday make sports like volleyball as popular -- and as well supported -- as being a cheerleader or in the band.

The history of the game of volleyball is strongly tied to Olympic tradition.

The sport originated as a recreational sport to be played between basketball seasons.

It was not given much attention until founder G.W. Morgan introduced it to Springfield (Illinois) College in 1895.

The sport, then called mintonette, was not designed to be strenuous in nature and became popular among businessmen who played for recreation.

It stayed basically a recreational sport until it became an official Olympic sport in 1957.

At that time, the recreational game began its transformation into the power volleyball game played by colleges throughout the country today.

Warren, who has had great success with the volleyball program at UM also feels good about high school volleyball in Shelby County.

"I've been in this area 11 years and have seen some well-organized volleyall programs in Shelby County," she said. "The programs in Alabama seem much better and more organized than those in Georgia and Mississippi."

Warren feels the responsibility for continuing the improvement in area volleyball programs should rest partially on her shoulders.

"It's up to the colleges in areas to educate the public about the game of volleyball as we play it," she said.

She also pointed out the need for the development of booster program to support volleyball and an opportunity for girls to begin playing sooner.

In the midwest and California, where volleyball is strongest, girls can play competitively by the time they reach middle school.

"A girl here really doesn't have the time to learn the sport until she is a senior," Warren said.

"I think there are a couple of outstanding volleyball programs in Shelby County that represent it well," she said. "I hope other schools will be able to emphasize their programs more strongly and play in more tournaments in the future."

Editor's note: Volleyball season has arrived in Shelby County.

Area girls have worked hard throughout the summer and early fall preparing for competition that began last week.

These programs have not always gained the public's attention in the past. For this reason the Reporter recognizes the local volleyball teams of 1984 in this edition.

In order to make readers more familiar with the volleyball, the Reporter asked an "impartial expert" to discuss the sport.

University of Montevallo women's athletic director Beverly Warren was more than happy to comply, and we appreciate her time in this effort.

Shelby County volleyball coaches were also most cooperative in getting their squads together on short notice for photographs. Thanks!

COMPLAINT

1. There are two parcels of land located in Shelby County, Alabama, which are contiguous, except for the fact that the two parcels are divide by U. S. Highway 21, South of Calera, Alabama, the said real estate being described as follows.

A portion of land situated in the SW ¼ of Section 11, Township 24 North, Range 13 East, Shelby County, Alabama, and being more particularly described in 2 parcels as follows: Parcel A: Begin at the point of intersection of the North right-of-way line of Shelby County Road #4 and the West right-of-way line of U. S. Highway #31, thence run North 89° 34' 11" West along said North right-of-way line a distance of 540.51 feet to a point of curve; said curve being to the right having a radius of 100.0 feet and an interior angle of 69° 35' 20"; thence run Northwesterly along said right-of-way line an arc distance of 121.46 feet to the point of tangent; thence continue North 14° 10' 22" West along said tangent a distance of 35.36 feet; thence run North 0° 01' 33" East a distance of 550.0 feet; thence run North 88° 22' 18" East a distance of 300.0 feet; thence run South 0° 01' 33" West a distance of 360.80 feet; thence run North 89° 33' 28" East a distance of 210.29 feet; thence run North 1° 21' 15" East a distance of 111.55 feet; thence run South 86° 44' 36" East a distance of 122.30 feet to the West right-of-way line of U. S. Highway #31; thence run due South along said right-of-way line a distance of 409.46 feet to the point of beginning. Containing 7.09 acres. Less and except any easements of record. Parcel B: Begin at the point of intersection of the east right-of-way line of U. S. Highway #31 and the north right-of-way line of Shelby County Road #4; thence run due North along said east right-of-way line a distance of 315.97 feet; thence run South 85° 15' East a distance of 78.13 feet to the West right-of-way line of the L & N Railroad; thence run South 0° 06' 24" East along said West right-of-way line a distance of 313.36 feet to the North right-of-way line of said County Road #4; thence run North 87° 09' 52" West a distance of 78.0 feet to the point of beginning. Containing 0.56 acres, more or less. Less and except any easements of record.

2. The Plaintiff, Myrtice Wilson Watts, is the executrix of the estate of Albert Herman Sanders and claims an interest in the above styled real estate.

3. The plaintiff, by and through her attorney, has made reasonable and diligent search and inquiry, which search was laborous and required a considerable amount of time and expense to determine all the persons who own an interest in the property described in Paragraph One and those persons and their interest are set out in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated by reference as if set out fully herein. The plaintiff further claims that the plaintiff has paid taxes upon the aforestated real estate and is entitled to reimbursement and has gone to considerable expense to determine most of the persons who claim an interest in the property described in Paragraph 1 hereof and that it would be just and equitable for the plaintiff to be reimbursed her expenses and for the court to determine an attorney's fee to be awarded to plaintiff's attorney. Plaintiff further avers that it would be in the best interest of all the parties to this action and to all the persons who claim an interest in this defendant land that the cost of title insurance, if an insurance company licensed to insure title in the State of Alabama will issue a policy, be deducted from the proceeds of the sale.

4. Plaintiff further alleges that there are certain persons who may claim an interest in the property as described in Paragraph 1 hereof and who may be of unsound mind or who may be minors and that it would be in the best interest and welfare of said persons, if any exist, if a guardian ad litem were appointed by the court to protect the interest of any minors or any persons of unsound mind.

5. The Plaintiff further avers that it is impossible to make an equitable division of the property described in Paragraph One hereof and that it is necessary for said property to be sold and the proceeds of sale, after payment of expenses, be divided according to the interest that this court shall determine each party may have in the described premises.

WHEREFORE, Premises considered, Plaintiff demands judgment as follows:

a) That this Honorable Court will appoint a guardian ad litem to represent any and all unknown parties who may claim an interest in the defendant land and any and all unknown parties who may be minors or persons of unsound mind and any and all persons who may be in the Armed Forces of the United States and to represent any and all persons who may come under any other legal disability.

b) That this Honorable Court will issue an Order and Decree determining the interest that each and every person may have in the defendant land and order that the defendant land be sold by order of this court in a manner according to law and that the proceeds be divided according to the court's order, after attorney's fees and expenses of sale.

c) Plaintiff further prays that this Honorable Court will order that the Plaintiff be reimbursed plaintiff's expenses and that the Plaintiff's attorney be awarded a reasonable attorney's fee, considering the extraordinary amount of time that has been required to be devoted to this case to be paid from the expenses of sale. Plaintiff further prays that the plaintiff be granted the cost of this suit and all costs of title insurance, if attainable, be reimbursed to the Plaintiff.

d) The Plaintiff further prays for such other, further and additional relief as this Court may deem just, proper and equitable.

(3) IN MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
LARRY PEMBERTON
In loving memory of Larry Pemberton, who left us 6 years ago, Sept. 24, 1978.
It takes us back to brighter years,
To happier, sunlit days
And to precious golden moments
That will be with us always.
And these fond recollections
Are treasured in the heart,
To bring us always close to those
From whom we've had to part.
There is a bridge of memories
From earth to Heaven above
It keeps our dear ones near us,
It's the bride that we call Love.
Mother & Father
Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Pemberton children, Scott and Angela

IN MEMORY OF
ROBERT DAVIDSON JR.
In memory of Robert B. Davidson Jr. "Bob Jr." on his birthday, September 19, 1984. LOVED, MISSED, but NOT FORTOTTEN.

Wright: the moving life

by Bert Seaman

Ruth Wright grew up being an "army brat," moving here, moving there.

But she's done a lot more moving around with her husband than she ever did with her parents.

During their marriage, the Wrights have averaged moving every three years.

The reason is Bill Wright's work. He's a minister in the Methodist Church, a denomination that often moves its pastors about every four years.

The Wrights are now at the Helena United Methodist Church where they have been since June.

Moving never gets any easier, Wright says. But all told, she says that the life of a minister's wife is one she has thoroughly enjoyed.

She mentions that it was especially difficult moving from their last pastorate at Center Point.

Three of their four children were married during the six years they were there, she says, and three grandchildren were also born during that period. So even though she she has had lots of practice at moving, pulling up emotional roots is still hard.

The only child that came to Helena with the Wrights was their 15-year-old daughter Beth, who is a sophomore at Pelham High School.

RUTH WRIGHT
...at home in Helena

As a baby, Wright herself was on the move less than a year after her birth. Her father was transferred from Ft. Pherson, Ga. to Hawaii.

"In fact," she says, "I celebrated my first birthday -- Dec. 12 -- in the middle of the Pacific Ocean."

When she was three, her father was transferred to Jacksonville, Fl. where the family lived for five years.

The rest of her childhood and teen years were spent in Little Rock, Ark.

After graduation from high school, she studied voice at Westminster College in Princeton, N.J. It was in her first position as minister of music at the Methodist Church in Decatur, Ala., that she met her husband who was a member of the congregation.

"He wasn't a minister when I married him," Wright laughs, "he was a draftsman."

At the time of their marriage, her husband worked for Decatur Iron and Steel. His decision to enter the ministry, was made in Korea where he served with his national guard unit.

When he returned from overseas, Bill Wright packed up his wife and six-month old son Thomas and moved -- what else? -- to the campus of Birmingham-Southern college.

As many pre-ministerial students do, Bill Wright served a pastorate while he was in school. It was at the Oak Grove Church.

His wife remembers that first parsonage fondly.

"The church had just bought the house," she says, "and it was in pretty sad condition -- there wasn't even a bathroom."

But the congegation pitched in to get the place in shape for

Wright: the moving life

by Bert Seaman

Ruth Wright grew up being an "army brat," moving here, moving there.

But she's done a lot more moving around with her husband than she ever did with her parents.

During their marriage, the Wrights have averaged moving every three years.

The reason is Bill Wright's work. He's a minister in the Methodist Church, a denomination that often moves its pastors about every four years.

The Wrights are now at the Helena United Methodist Church where they have been since June.

Moving never gets any easier, Wright says. But all told, she says that the life of a minister's wife is one she has thoroughly enjoyed.

She mentions that it was especially difficult moving from their last pastorate at Center Point.

Three of their four children were married during the six years they were there, she says, and three grandchildren were also born during that period. So even though she she has had lots of practice at moving, pulling up emotional roots is still hard.

The only child that came to Helena with the Wrights was their 15-year-old daughter Beth, who is a sophomore at Pelham High School.

RUTH WRIGHT
...at home in Helena

As a baby, Wright herself was on the move less than a year after her birth. Her father was transferred from Ft. Pherson, Ga. to Hawaii.

"In fact," she says, "I celebrated my first birthday -- Dec. 12 -- in the middle of the Pacific Ocean."

When she was three, her father was transferred to Jacksonville, Fl. where the family lived for five years.

The rest of her childhood and teen years were spent in Little Rock, Ark.

After graduation from high school, she studied voice at Westminster College in Princeton, N.J. It was in her first position as minister of music at the Methodist Church in Decatur, Ala., that she met her husband who was a member of the congregation.

"He wasn't a minister when I married him," Wright laughs, "he was a draftsman."

At the time of their marriage, her husband worked for Decatur Iron and Steel. His decision to enter the ministry, was made in Korea where he served with his national guard unit.

When he returned from overseas, Bill Wright packed up his wife and six-month old son Thomas and moved -- what else? -- to the campus of Birmingham-Southern college.

As many pre-ministerial students do, Bill Wright served a pastorate while he was in school. It was at the Oak Grove Church.

His wife remembers that first parsonage fondly.

"The church had just bought the house," she says, "and it was in pretty sad condition -- there wasn't even a bathroom."

But the congegation pitched in to get the place in shape for

"In fact," she says, "I celebrated my first birthday -- Dec. 12 -- in the middle of the Pacific Ocean."

When she was three, her father was transferred to Jacksonville, Fl. where the family lived for five years.

The rest of her childhood and teen years were spent in Little Rock, Ark.

After graduation from high school, she studied voice at Westminster College in Princeton, N.J. It was in her first position as minister of music at the Methodist Church in Decatur, Ala., that she met her husband who was a member of the congregation.

"He wasn't a minister when I married him," Wright laughs, "he was a draftsman."

At the time of their marriage, her husband worked for Decatur Iron and Steel. His decision to enter the ministry, was made in Korea where he served with his national guard unit.

When he returned from overseas, Bill Wright packed up his wife and six-month old son Thomas and moved -- what else? -- to the campus of Birmingham-Southern college.

As many pre-ministerial students do, Bill Wright served a pastorate while he was in school. It was at the Oak Grove Church.

His wife remembers that first parsonage fondly.

"The church had just bought the house," she says, "and it was in pretty sad condition -- there wasn't even a bathroom."

Too few jurors delays trial

For lack of a juror, a trial had to be postponed in Shelby County Circuit Court last week.

Since joinder cases -- two individuals charged with a crime -- has been in effect since March, a greater number of jurors are needed from which to draw.

Thirty-five jurors were present Monday, September 10, but 36 were needed.

So the trial of Frank Joseph Riggio and Glenda Lee Johnson, who are charged with drug trafficking, was held Wednesday.

Because of a system instituted by Judge Harold Walden a year ago, there are only three upcoming trials instead of a potential 70.

The system calls for a pre-call docket where guilty pleas could be taken and a determination made of which cases would be tried.

Defendants whose cases are to be tried are: James Lewis Shubert, theft of property 1st degree; Sidney Madden, theft 1st degree; Dinah Lemley, perjury.

Shelly Harris pled guilty to two counts of attempted burglary and one count of burglary 3rd degree. Sentencing will be Oct. 29.

Big bite

Four-year-old Grace Tingle of Pea Ridge picked an apple from the apple tree of her grandfather C.T. Tingle for her newborn brother, Christopher. Lay Lake lowered for maintenance

Alabama Power Company will lower the reservoir level of Lay Lake one to two feet on Sept. 22, to accomodate maintenance work on public boat launches by the Game and Fish Division of the State Conservation Department.

At the lowered level, the reservoir will fluctuate between elevations of 394 and 395 feet above mean sea level as measured at the dam.

Lay Lake will be returned to its normal operating level after September 26.

Abnormally heavy rainfall may prompt a change in the scheduled drawdown.

Owners of waterfront property on the lake may wish to take advantage of the lower lake levels for improvement or maintenance of shoreline facilities.

Persons with boats and other floating equipment and facilities, should be alert to the conditions and when necessary, take appropriate steps to prevent damages.

BMC appoints Stover

Diane Serbin Stover, of North Shelby County was recently appointed director of psychiatric marketing for Brookwood Medical Center in Birmingham.

Stover is a native of Philadelphia, PA, where she most recently served as director of corporate communications for the Northwestern Institute of Psychiatry. She also served there as chairman of the board of an area YMCA.

As director of psychiatric marketing, Stover will develop and implement a comprehensive communications program for the psychiatric treatment program at Brookwood.

Libraries forget fines during September

September has been designated as Forgiveness Month in the public libraries of Shelby County. During the rest of the month, libraries will gladly take back any overdue books or materials, no matter how long they have been overdue, absolutely free of fine.

"With the limited number of books in our libraries, and the high cost of replacing materials, we want to do all we can to encourage people to double-check for items they may have overlooked," said county library director Nancy Woosley.

Overdue books and other library materials can be dropped off at any of the eight public libraries in Shelby County. Each library will attempt to remind patrons with overdue materials by letter or telephone. For more information: 669-7851.

Have a tailgate party with these recipes

Although fall isn't officially here yet, the football season has already started.

With the games, fans have started taking those weekend trips to see their favorite teams play.

One of the things that usually goes along to the game is food -- food that's easy to fix and easy to pack.

So what do you make for a tailgate party? County extension agent Gail Reagan has these suggestions:

Carolina Coleslaw

Makes 6 to 8 servings

Ingredients:

- 1 large cabbage (about 3 lbs.) trimmed, quartered and cored
- 1 medium size sweet green pepper, cored, seeded, and minced (for color, use ½ green pepper and ½ sweet red papper)
- 1 medium size sweet onion (Bermuda or Spanish) peeled and chopped fine
- 2 carrots, grated

Dressing:

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp dry mustard
- 1 cup cider vinegar
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp celery seeds
- 2/3 cup vegetable oil

With a sharp knife, slice each cabbage quarter very fine; combine with green pepper, onion and carrots in a large bowl and toss to mix.

Mix sugar, salt, mustard and celery seeds in a small saucepan; add vinegar and oil and let come to a boil over moderate heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Pour over cabbage and toss well. Cool, then cover and refrigerate until ready to serve.

Sesame Chicken Nuggets

6 to 8 servings

Ingredients:

- 3 whole chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- ½ cup all purpose flour
- ¾ tsp salt
- 2 tsp sesame seed
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ cup water
- Hot vegetable oil

Cut chicken into 1 x 1½ inch pieces; set aside. Combine next 5 ingredients. Dip chicken into batter, and fry in hot oil (375 degrees) until goldenborn. Drain on paper towels.

Chocolate Pound Cake

Ingredients:

- 3 cups sugar
- 3 cups flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 1 TBS vanilla
- ½ tsp salt
- 3 sticks butter
- 5 eggs
- ½ cup cocoa
- 1¼ cups milk

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, and mix thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients together. Add dry ingredients and milk aternately to creamed mixture. Add vanilla. Pour into greased and floured tube pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1½ hours.

DID YOU KNOW?

There are a lot of bright ideas you can use to deal with a power outage.

First, check to see if your neighbors' lights are off. Next, check fuses or breakers in your fuse box or breaker panel. If they're okay, call Alabama Power. Give us your name, address, and how long power has been off. This helps us determine the extent of the outage and speeds repair. Also remember to keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed so that inside air will remain cold as long as possible.

United Way announces '84 goal

Sloss Furnace Amphitheater in Birmingham was alive with all of the excitement of a political convention at noon last Thursday, when United Way of Jefferson, Shelby and Walker Counties announced its $11,401,100 goal for the 1984 campaign.

Close to 500 volunteers, corporate representatives and guests were joined by keynote speaker Birmingham Mayor Richard Arrington for the political-style rally marking the beginning of United Way's 1984 campaign.

A Brighter WAY

United Way

This year's campaign theme, "A Brighter Way," underscores the commitment of the community toward health care and other human services. The campaign spotlights five primary health care agencies including the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, the American Red Cross, Children's Hospital, and the Visiting Nursing Association.

"Health care and other human services are vital concerns of the people of our three-county service area. We hope that the people of the community will demonstrate their concern and support by helping us to achieve our 1984 campaign goal," said Willie Warren, United Way general campaign chairman.

Those who attended the kickoff rally were just a few of the many people who will dedicate much of their time between now and November to help United Way reach its goal for 1984. Commissioner John Ames is chairman of the Shelby County Chapter.

"These volunteers represent the spirit that has helped to make United Way campaigns a success in the past and will continue to make them a success in the future. I am confident that with their help and with the support of the community, we will attain our goal for this year," Warren said.

The convention atmosphere of the campaign kickoff rally was complete with balloons, campaign hats and speeches. Music provided by a Dixieland band and video highlights of United Way television spots for the 1984 campaign entertained the group during the festivities.

Wright

their new preacher. "We all worked together," Wright says, "putting in a wall, painting, and installing plumbing and a bathroom."

"It was a basic four room house, but I loved it -- I really enjoyed fixing it up."

Wright says that the family has been lucky during the ten moves it has made.

"We never experienced anything like the horror stories some ministers tell about," she says.

The parsonages in which they have lived range from a two bedroom house in Huntsville -- when they had three children living at home -- to a spacious home in Collinsville that had two closets in every bedroom as well as in the hall.

Although she doesn't count the house in Nashville as a horror story, Wright remembers the work that went into cleaning the soot off everything.

Her husband was to serve the congregation there while he attended Vanderbilt Seminary. The problem was that the furnace had blown up before they moved in to the house the church had rented for them.

But the challenge of making a house feel like a home is something that Wright looks forward to with each move.

In almost every parsonage she has seldom had to store any furniture. "I can usually find a corner somewhere to put chest or a table that I love, " she laughs.

Looking around the living room in the Helena parsonage, it's evident that Wright is fond of antiques.

Some of the pieces, like the Eastlake marble top table, were swaps. "That's the only way I could afford them," she explains.

Pieces that need refinishing pose no problem to Wright, who is pretty handy in that respect. "I love to do refinishing," she says.

The platform rocker in which Wright sits while she chats, belonged to her grandmother when she set up housekeeping in Texas. Wright did the needlepoint covers on the chairs seat and back.

A drop leaf table in front of the couch also belonged to her grandmother, but Wright made it into a coffee table by cutting off the legs.

Her wood working projects that involve cutting are easier these days since she has a band saw. The saw was a going away gift from members of the Center Point Church who knew of her wood working hobby.

Wright uses the saw to make knick-knack shelves to hang on walls and over doors. She also makes animals and other wodden cut-outs.

Speaking about her role as a minsiter's wife, Wright says "I've never felt as though I was put into a mold as to what I should do and how I should act,

Although she considers her family her first priority, Wright says that she usually works with the choir and with youth groups in the church.

"I don't do that as an obligation," she explains, "but I do it as any lay person whose education has been in these areas."

With their move to Helena, Wright says she feels she has the best of both worlds -- living in a rural area and not being too far from the city.

But they still have fond memories of other churches and other congregations.

Their son Steve was born while they were at Oak Grove, their daughter Susan in Nashville and their youngest daughter arrived during their stay in Huntsville.

Golf tourney raises $4,000 for Youth Services, Attention Home

Shelby Youth Services and Attentin Home held its annual golf tournament at Oak Mountain Monday.

The winning foursome was Tom Davidson, Ellie Glasscox, Roy Self, and Claude Holtsclaw.

J.W. Palmer, Rick Yancy, Randy Scott, and Reed Long finished second.

Third were Bob Sellers, Richard Roberts, Charles May, and Gerald Martin.

Ralph Parker, Bud Quiggle, Fred Phillips, and Vernon Cone finished fourth.

Doug Jefferson turned in the longest drive of the day.

Closest to the hole winners included Randy Scott, Rick Yancy, Richard Roberts, and J.B. Carter.

The tourney netted over $4,000 to benefit Shelby Youth Services.

UM president speaks out on issues

One of Alabama's most outspoken college presidents has been given an opportunity to speak out on speaking out.

Dr. Jim Vickrey, president of the University of Montevallo, wrote and essay entitled "Presidential Responsibility and the Decision to Speak Out." The essay was published in a recent issue of "Higher Education & National Affairs," the newsletter of the American Council on Education.

Vickrey wrote that the issue at hand is not whether a college president should exercise social and intellectual leadership, but rather when, and in what way.

While college presidents need not speak out on all, or even most, public issues, it is indisputable, Vickery wrote, that speaking out is required under certain circumstances. "After all, silence is surely golden, but sometimes it can be yellow, too," he explained.

"In the final analysis," he wrote, "it probably matters little whether a given college president... decides to speak out on a given issue. What really matters is that college presidents accept their responsibility to exercise social and intellectual leadership, and, at least, actively consider in a given case whether they should speak out, deciding to do so when conscience compels so choosing and/or such a choice... seems warranted otherwise."

Vickrey is one of a relatively few college presidents who is also a classroom teacher. He is known for his interest in movies, his penchant for writing letters to the editors of the state's newspapers, and speaking out on a wide array of issues.

Frogman?

Has Heath Hines gone punk or is he waiting for another flash flood in Alabaster? Actually, he is modeling scuba diver garb for Holly Crawford at Thompson Elementary. Heath and Holly were among several Thompson third graders who spent several days reading about scuba divers and the underwater world. The suit, mask and breathing apparatus belong to Leslie Harrison, principal of Thompson Elementary. (photo by Dian McCray)

Ansel Adams captures sense of place

by David F. Moore

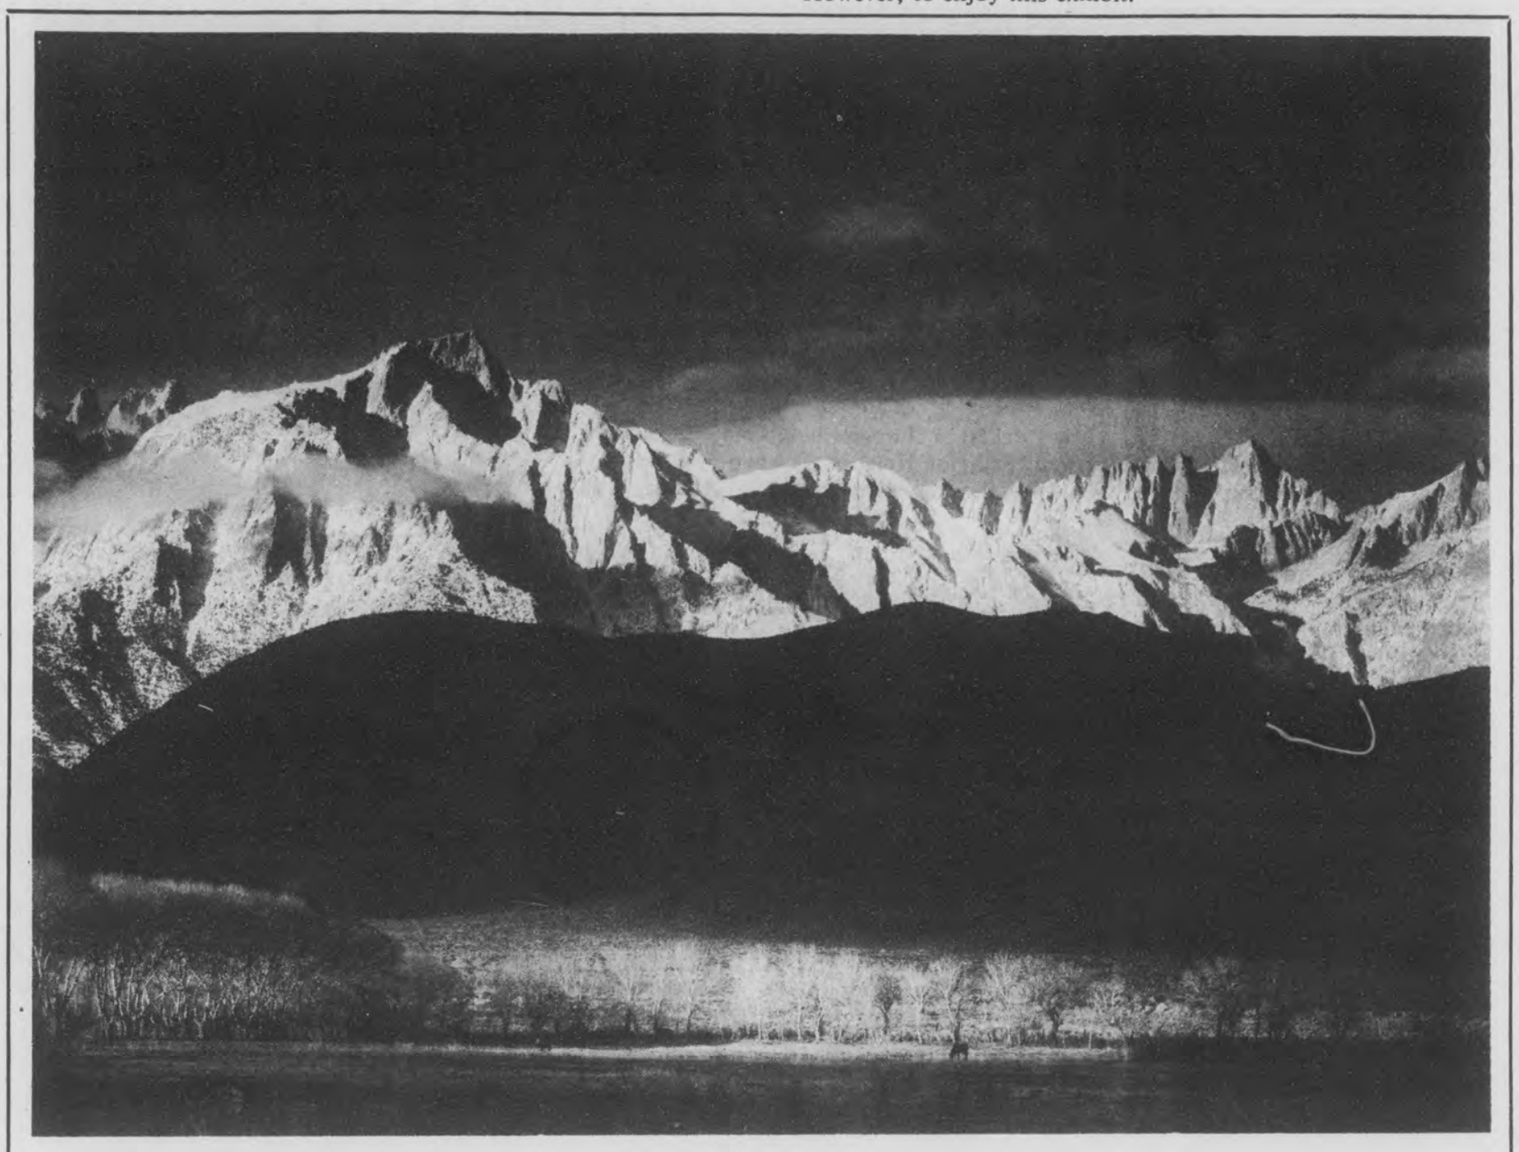
Go see it. The Ansel Adams photography exhibit showing through Sept. 26 at the University of Montevallo is well worth whatever effort it takes to get there.

Those who are familiar with this artist's work will probably recognize the 25 photographs on display in The Gallery. Indeed, inasmuch as one could possibly single out a few of the popular favorites of, say, Beethoven or the Beatles, the UM exhibit could well be subtitled "Ansel Adams' Greatest Hits."

Anyone who has viewed some of the fine books of Adams' work -- for instance, "Images 1923 - 1974" -- will marvel at the remarkable amount of additional detail which jumps at the viewer from the actual prints. There is no substitute for an original.

Anyone interested or knowledgeable in the mechanical relationships between light, chemicals, paper and the camera, should naturally enough find the show intriguing. Although Adams is sometimes (I would say unjustly) labled as being limited in subject matter, there is little if any room for criticism on his technique. All of the late master's talents show through in this show.

However, to enjoy this exhibit:



ANSEL ADAMS
...Winter Sunrise, Sierra Nevada, 1944

•You don't have to be an admirer of Adams' work, or well versed in the visual ins and outs of art.

•You don't have to have a high brow.

•You don't have to know that f/64 isn't a jet fighter; that it's an extreme aperture opening in a lens allowing for detailed focus from foreground objects to the horizon.

To enjoy the Ansel Adams show at the UM, all you need to have a sense of appreciation for nature and the world, and the special places therein.

Man's stamp on the world has a strong tendency towards the generic. One apartment complex looks like the next. If you've seen one subdivision cul-de-sac, you've just about seen them all. One car looks like the next, and so on.

But Nature has seen to it that special places exist in the world, places that evoke in us a sense of wonder. Each of us can think of at least one -- perhaps many -- places that are unique unto themselves.

In these places there is perhaps a special way the sun comes through the trees, an awesome way that a mountain thrusts into the sky, or the silky way that water falls over rock.

All these physical things are natural props, as it were. Part of the setting. But in a truly special place, the props merely add to the a primal feeling that stirs something inside us.

Such places cause a sense of wonder, perhaps even magic. And if one takes the time to absorb and explore these feelings, they will serve to set us at peace, to put us in our proper place, to give us a better perspective on the scope of Nature.

'You can't explain it,' said Adams of such places, such feelings. 'It just happens.'

"You can't explain it," said Adams of such places, such feelings. "It just happens."

And so it does.

What Adams the artist is so adept at doing, is visualizing his camera's capabilites of capturing in a place what he calls the "equivalent" of what is seen and what is felt. His disciplined mastery of both camera and feelings allows him to, more or less, to simply push the shutter and take an incredible picture.

Anyone sensitive to the dwindling number of natural wonders in the world, anyone who appreciates those "special" places, owes themself a slow walk through The Gallery at UM, and the chance to have the late Ansel Adams stir their feelings in his stunning black and white fashion.

Gallery hours

The Gallery is located in the basement of Bloch Hall. Weekday hours are 9-5. Due to popular demand, the Ansel Adams show will be opened this weekend from 1-4 p.m. Admission is free. For more information: 665-2521, ext. 285 or 526.

'Ella' to sing at Alabama Pops

Ella Fitzgerald comes to Birmingham Sept. 22, for a one-time only appearance with the Alabama Pops Orchestra.

Appearing in concert at the Birmingham-Jefferson County Civic Center, the world renown jazz singer will perform many of the songs she made famous: St. Louis Blues, Ain't Misbehavin, Blue Moon and Satin Doll to name a few.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. and marks the opening of the Alabama Symphony Season that includes both a Master Series and a Pops Season -- all with great artists and featuring the excellence of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

After her performance, Fitzgerald will be inducted into the Birmingham Jazz Hall of Fame by Mayor Richard Arrington at a party open to the public. All proceeds from the party will go to benefit the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

'Ella' to sing at Alabama Pops

Ella Fitzgerald comes to Birmingham Sept. 22, for a one-time only appearance with the Alabama Pops Orchestra.

Appearing in concert at the Birmingham-Jefferson County Civic Center, the world renown jazz singer will perform many of the songs she made famous: St. Louis Blues, Ain't Misbehavin, Blue Moon and Satin Doll to name a few.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. and marks the opening of the Alabama Symphony Season that includes both a Master Series and a Pops Season -- all with great artists and featuring the excellence of the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

After her performance, Fitzgerald will be inducted into the Birmingham Jazz Hall of Fame by Mayor Richard Arrington at a party open to the public. All proceeds from the party will go to benefit the Alabama Symphony Orchestra.

Relax.
Medicare's new payment system won't affect the quality of your treatment or personal health benefits.

A new Medicare payment system is now in effect at Shelby Medical Center. This new plan affects the method of payment the government makes to hospitals but does not affect the quality of treatment patients receive, or their personal health benefits.

Here's how the new Medicare plan could affect you:

1. Your doctor may require some tests and surgical procedures be done on an outpatient basis.
2. Unless it's a life-threatening situation, your doctor is required to validate your admission with Medicare before you're admitted to the hospital.
3. When admitted it is essential that you bring all insurance cards and numbers with you, and that you know your birthdate.

As a result of Medicare's new plan your hospital stay should be shorter and fewer tests may be given. This does not mean you won't get the important care you need. It only means that the care you will receive is tailor-made to your particular illness.

This new payment system is a challenge to the health care industry to streamline operations and discourage long hospital stays and unnecessary tests, in order to reduce the cost of the national Medicare program. For it to work, a cooperative effort is required from everyone—the hospital, the doctor and you, the patient.

At Shelby Medical Center we're doing all we can to continue our high-quality care, with no anticipated increase in cost to our Medicare patients. If you have any questions, ask your physician or call our Medicare Coordinator at 663-8181.

VOTE FOR W.W. "BILL" RABREN, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE, IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY RUN-OFF ON SEPTEMBER 25, 1984 AS HE IS THE ONLY CANDIDATE WHO:

- Is a Charter Member of the Shelby County Bar Association
- Won his home box over his opponent by a margin of 13 to 1
- Has had trial experience in the Circuit Court in both civil and criminal cases
- Was a former County Prosecutor (Assistant District Attorney) for 7 years
- Has been a member of the Republican Party for 17 years

THANK YOU for the overwhelming vote of confidence you gave me September 4th which made me the leading candidate in the Republican Primary for Circuit Judge.
No one knows the candidate better than his neighbors. They voted for me 13 to 1 over my opponent in the September 4th Primary.

Seventeen years ago, I was a Republican Candidate for Judge of Shelby County Law and Equity Court and have been amember of the Republican Party since that time. My opponent, a resident of Shelby County for three years, first identified himself with the Republican Party when he qualified to run as a Republican Candidate for Circuit Judge in June 1984.

For 13 years, your Republican Candidate for Circuit Judge, had trial experience in handling both civil and criminal cases in the Circuit Court. My opponent has had no trial experience in Circuit Court. In addition, I was Shelby County Prosecutor (Assistant District Attorney) for 7 years and prosecuted many cases in the Circuit Court. For this reason, I have the backing of an overwhelming majority of the law enforcement personnel in Shelby County, as they remember that I backed them when I served as County Prosecutor.

Plea Bargaining Agreements are not being handled in a proper manner in the Circuit Judgeship. Place No. 3, and I am the only candidate who has the experience and qualifications needed to rectify this situation.

I am thoroughly familiar with the problem which currently exists in Place No. 3 of the Circuit Judgeship and have the maturity, experience, and qualifications to solve the problem and restore integrity to Place No. 3 equal to that of Place No. 1 and Place No. 2 of the Judgeship.

In my position as attorney with the Veterans Administration for the past several years, I was required to retain my membership in the State Bar Association. I appeared as an attorney in the Probate and Circuit Courts in the State of Alabama. I conducted investigations of fraud against the U.S. Government and obtained evidence for consideration by the Offices of the U.S. Attorney. In order to perform these duties, it was essential that I keep abreast of the ever changing laws.

YOUR VOTE for W.W. "BILL" RABREN For CIRCUIT JUDGE
In The REPUBLICAN RUN-OFF PRIMARY ELECTION On SEPTEMBER 25, 1984, WILL BE A VOTE FOR A GOOD JUDICIAL SYSTEM IN THE 18TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT.

I will be very simple: Just say to the poll official: "I WANT TO VOTE REPUBLICAN."

Sincerely,

W W Rabren

Pd. Pol. Adv. by W.W. "Bill" Rabren, 3079 Hwy 31 N, Pelham, AL 35124

VA alerts veterans to rehab benefits

Shelby County veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disability may be eligible for vocational rehabilitation counseling benefits under expanded Veterans Administration programs.

The basic period of eligibility for vocational rehabilitation services has been extended to a period of 12 years following discharge from active duty or from the date the veteran was notified of entitlement to VA compensation for the disability -- whichever is later.

This basic period may be extended if the veteran received an upgraded discharge or was unable to enter or complete training for a period of time because of his or her medical condition.

The purpose of the vocational rehabilitation program is to assist disabled veterans to overcome an employment handicap which resulted from their service-connected disability. In the case of a veteran whose handicap prevents employment, assistance to achieve independence in living is provided.

Church of God celebrates 50th year in Chelsea

There was food, there was singing, and there was a special worship service when members of the Chelsea Church of God celebrated their 50th anniversary.

The congregation held an all day get-together Sunday, September 9, to mark the occasion and to honor four charter members.

Eunice Turner, Dot Bradley, Flora Whitfield and Lena Ray were among the people who attended the eight-week revival back in 1934, out of which the church grew.

The original membership consisted of 26 people who attended the revival which began at the old schoolhouse and moved to the J.I. Crane garage.

The garage is across the street from the present church building at the intersection of County 47 and County 39.

Since it was erected in 1935, the church has been renovated and an addition built.

Three members of one family have served as pastors of the church -- two of them women.

Ressie Holcombe Bristow was the first pastor. Her sister, Alma Bradley, also filled the pulpit, and her son, Don, was pastor ten years ago.

Don Bradley, who is now pastoring a church in Childersburg, attended Sunday's service.

The Epperson family, who are members of his church, were the guest performers at the afternoon singing.

Charter members

Four charter members of Chelsea Church of God were present for the church's 50th anniversary celebration Sept. 9. They are: (seated, left to right) Lena Ray, Flora Whitfield. Standing are: Eunice Turner and Dot Bradley.

'I Can Cope' cancer program offered

Cancer is the most curable of all chronic diseases. Today, nearly half of all cancer patients in Shelby County and elsewhere can be cured by modern treatment methods.

These statements may seem surprising, but they are true, according to the National Cancer Institute.

The word "cancer" is no longer synonymous with the word "death", but still, the physical and psychological effects of the disease can be devastating.

Beginning Thursday, Sept. 20, Baptist Medical Center Montclair and the American Cancer Society will offer "I Can Cope", a free six-week series of classes designed to offer cancer patients and their families information about cancer, its treatment, and ways of coping with its physical and emotional effects.

"Introduction to Living With Cancer" will be the topic this Thursday, at 7 p.m., at Putman School. The program will be led by Frances Glenn, a medical professional for the Barbara Ingalls Shook Cancer Center at Baptist Medical Center Montclair.

Other classes in the series and their dates include:

•"What Is Cancer?" -- Sept. 27;

•"Dealing With Daily Problems" -- October 4;

•"Communications: Expressing Your Feelings" -- October 11;

•"Living Up to Your Potential" -- October 18;

•"Community Resources" -- October 25.

The "I Can Cope" series is offered free of charge. Participants are asked to register for the entire series, and reservations are requested. For more information or to register for the programs: 956-2413 or 592-5224.

Dog needed for play

"We're looking for a dog who's tired of the same old routine of fetching the paper and chasing cats," says Robert Yowell, Ph. D., chair of the UAB Department of Theater and Dance. "The dog should also be funny-looking, fun-loving and trained."

Canines fitting that description are invited to audition for a prt in Theatre UAB's upcoming production of "Two Gentlemen of Verona." Auditions will be held Friday, Sept. 21, 5:30-7 p.m., in Studio 311, Hulsey Center for the ARts and Humanities, corner of 10th Ave. South, and 13th St.

"This could be the big break for the right dog," Dr. Yowell adds. "Who knows? Today Theatre UAB, tomorrow the cover of Time magazine."

For more information: 934-3236.

T...ee mill school tax boost sought

by Bert Seaman

Unless the Shelby County Board of Education is able to get money for construction, the overcrowding school problem is going to become more accute.

That is what education superintendent Ellie Glasscox told the Shelby County Commission Monday when he asked that a three mill tax increase be placed on the Nov. 6 election ballot. The additional ad valorem tax would be used for capital outlay projects.

The commissioners indicated they would do as Glasscox asked, and continued their meeting until 10 a.m. Wednesday to give education board members a chance to vote on the matter Tuesday night (after press deadlines).

From all indications, the board was expected to give its wholehearted consent.

"We've been encouraging it," said board president Barbara Whitman on Monday.

Board members Paul Sumners and Dr. Bill Fancher agreed with need for addional millage.

The same tax increase failed to pass by a 736 vote margin (3,937 to 3,201) in a special election held last Valentine Day.

But, Fancher pointed out, "this is something you don't give up on."

"The money for building is going to have to come from somewhere if people continue moving to the county," Sumners said. "It needs to get on the ballot as soon as possible."

According to figures supplied by the central office, there has been an enrollment increase of 649 students this year.

However, the unusually large jump is due to the state funded kindergarten program, which increased the enrollment in that program by 383 students.

At the end of the first week of school, the countywide enrollment figure was 12,794.

The number of additional students, Glasscox told the commission, is equivalent to two elementary schools.

Even though 12 additional portable classroom units were acquired this year -- making a total of 41 -- the lack of space is still acute.

According to Glasscox, a number of teachers in the school system have to meet in janitor's closets and hallways. In some instances, he said, they do not have any classroom space, and have to "float" from room to room.

Comparing the millage of Shelby with Jefferson County, Glasscox said the neighboring county gets 22 mills for education while the Shelby County school system gets 12 mills.

He pointed out this county has a unique problem because other counties do not have the rapid growth that Shelby County is experiencing.

Massey ad irks Carlisle

by Bert Seaman

Jack Carlisle says that he told the two candidates for the District 3 seat on the county commission, that he would not support either of them in the Sept. 25 runoff.

Carlisle received 20 percent of the votes in the Sept. 4 primary. Incumbent John Ames was the top vote getter with 1,746 votes. Roger Massey received 1,497 votes.

An ad that was placed last week in the Shelby County Reporter by Roger Massey's campaign committee, has Carlise upset. The ad says that Carlise supported Massey in the runoff.

"The issue is not whether or not I support Roger, but the fact that I asked that my name not be used in the campaign," Carlisle says.

Lou Workman, Massey's campaign manager, says that Carlisle never mentioned anything about remaining neutral until after the ad was published.

What effect the ad might have had on the outcome of the election was unknown at presstime Tuesday, as voting was still in progress.

Carlisle says it's wrong to place an ad of that nature without having first consulted him about it.

Since he felt he had Carlisle's permission because of offers of support, Workman says he saw no reason to consult Carlisle about the ad. "But I did try and contact him as a gesture of courtsey," Workman says.

Carlisle doesn't disagree that he made an agreement with Massey early in the campaign that he would support him if he won the primary, and vice versa.

But he says he decided against that course of action after talking to political veterans who advised him he would have a better chance of winning a political office at some later date, if he didn't align himself with either candidate.

Now, Carlisle says, his chances may be ruined.

Workman agrees with that, saying Massey supporters would work to defeat Carlisle in any future race he might enter.

Carlisle says that he told Massey of his decision to remain neutral the day before the primary, and that he asked Massey's campaign managers -- Workman and his wife Tommie

Metrock bond issue sails clear for Westinghouse purchase

by Bert Seaman
and David F. Moore

Metrock Properties, Inc. had smooth sailing Monday when it asked Montevallo and the Shelby County Commission to approve two industrial development bond issues. Both governing bodies approved the request.

The Helena based business -- which under the name of Metrock Steel and Wire Company galvanizes wire and cable -- will use the bonds to expand its operation into the former Westinghouse plant on State 25 outside of Montevallo.

The Montevallo Industrial Development Board agreed to the bond issue, but because Metrock will be expanding to a location outside the city limits -- and because the property will actually be owned by the tax exempt board and leased to Metrock -- the deal required the approval of the county commission.

Monday morning Metrock and the commission agreed to "public service payments" to the county equal to the amount of the going rate of the ad valorem tax, which is presently 23 mills.

Monday evening the Montevallo council approved the sale of $1 million worth of industrial development bonds.

A family partnership made up of Michael Metrock and his sons, James and John, was formed to purchase the 52 acres of Westinghouse real estate and buildings. Ten-year bonds in the amount of $350,000 will be sold to cover that cost and building renovation.

Eight-year bonds totaling $650,000 will be sold to purchase machinery.

Central Bank of the South will handle the bond sale.

Jim Metrock said Monday morning that deliver of equipment for the plant is expected in November, and production -- using a dozen transfered employees from the staff of 55 in Helena -- should begin by year's end. The Helena plant will stay in operation, he said.

John Metrock said Monday night that up to 35

Pelham youth dies; heart, organs donated

by K.A. Turner

A Tuesday afternoon automobile accident near Helena claimed the life of Pelham High School sophomore Joey Lutz.

At the same time, Lutz's death may have saved the lives of several other area individuals.

Lutz, 16, died in a Birmingham hospital Wednesday evening from injuries sustained in the one car mishap.

Herman McCay, a 41-year old man from the Shannon community in south Jefferson County, received Lutz's heart in a Thursday night transplant operation. At last report, the man was listed in stable condition at University Hospital.

Lutz, a tackle on the Pelham Panther football team, was a passenger in an automobile driven by teammate Mike Lambert, when the car went out of control off County 52 Tuesday evening.

Lambert was also injured in the mishap and spent several days in Shelby Medical Center. His prognosis is a positive one.

A third passenger in the car, Gary Majors, was treated and released following the accident.

The three youth were going home following football practice at the school, when their car left the road and rolled down an embankment. Lutz and Lambert were thrown from the car during the accident.

See related story Page A-7

The Lutz family requested that any of their son's usable organs be donated following his death.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Brown Service Chapel with burial at the Macedonia cemetery in Jefferson county.

Angela Hernandez -- subject of this week's "Shelby County People" -- said farewell to her homeland of Cuba 23 years ago when she and her family left for the U.S. Now, as head of UM's math department, she says she's learned a lot -- and not all of it in class.

News briefs

Inverness registration

The Shelby County Board of Registrars will be at Inverness Elementary School on Thursday, Sept. 27, to register voters for the general election.

Anyone needing to register can do so between 3:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Free food

A late shipment of cheese and other commodities from an out-of-state warehouse caused free food distributions in September to be canceled in Shelby County.

A community services spokesperson says that cheese, butter, honey and flour should be available to qualified residents from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 17, at most of the same locations across the county.

The distribution site in Helena, however, will be opened only to residents in that town and in the northwestern part of the county.

Residents in the Pelham / Alabaster / Siluria area will be required to go to Columbiana until a new site is located.

To qualify for the free food, a family's income must be at or below 130 percent of the poverty level.

New governments

Monday, Oct. 1, mayors and city councilmembers in the county's 10 municipalities will be sworn in to office.

Ceremonies will begin at 7 p.m., and some of the cities will hold receptions afterwards.

The public is invited to attend and meet the new and returning members of their city's government.

Weather

Don't plan -- or worry -- too much about rain through Saturday.

The National Weather Service reported Tuesday morning that a cold front possibly could be moving into central Alabama by Friday or Saturday, but the chances of any rain remain slim.

Thursday's daytime temperatures should be in the mid-80's, with some drop possible Friday and Saturday. Nighttime temperatures are expected to remain in the 60's.

Grant puts hold on sewer line construction

by K.A. Turner

The Columbiana City Council passed three ordinances during its regular meeting last Thursday.

•Councilwoman Jessie Jones introduced an ordinance dealing with the city's sewer line construction.

Due to a possible problem with federal grant monies already being spent on the initial project adopted by the council, Jones moved that "the extended trunk line project be delayed until spring 1985 and that the project be studied along with all other requests at that time."

That trunk line would have extended along County 47, north to the city limits.

According to Jones, consultation with the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission necessitated the motion because there was some doubt as to possible complications with running both projects -- with federal monies and city monies -- at the same time.

The resolution passed unanimously.

•County 47 was also the subject of the second resolution, this one raising speed limits from 35 mph to 45 mph on County 47 N from the State 25 bypass to the city limits, and on County 47 S from Pitts Drive to the city limits.

•The third resolution gave the cable television company the right to raise the basic service rate 25 cents per customer. This is to cover an additional charge being levied by cable channel ESPN.

The resolution passed unanimously.

Mike Atchison appeared before the council representing the Columbiana Chamber of Commerce.

Saying "This council has been good for Columbiana," Atchison presented all members with a certificate of appreciation from the chamber.

The council authorized mayor J.D. "Buck" Falkner to see about moving a retainer fee paid to Baird Contracting, from an Alabaster bank to a local institution.

In addition, council gave permission for streets in the immediate area of Shelby County High School to be closed from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 29, due to a band jamboree being held there.

Council gave permission for Leon Powell to put a trailer in his yard for his daughter and her husband to live in. The trailer may stay for one year, then must be again approved by the council.

Columbiana approves $854,800 budget

As one of its final official acts, the current Columbiana City Council approved the 1984 – 85 budget duing its regular meeting last Thursday.

According to the budget, the city will receive and spend $854,800 during the coming fiscal year.

Sales taxes are expected to provide the single largest source of revenue for the city ($360,000) while business liscenses ($160,000) and ad valorem taxes ($84,000) should also contribute significant amounts.

Personnel services are the greatest budgeted expenditures:

•Administrative personnel -- elected officials, appointed officials, and other administrative employees -- will receive a total of $57,496 in salaries.

•Retirement and insurance plans account for $84,502 within the budget.

•Police department employees will receive $84,034 of the budget.

•Public works employees -- street and sanitation department -- pull $111,748 in salaries.

•The city will also make some $71,000 in various donations during the coming budget year. Items included are donations to park and recreation, the library, the board of education, Shelby Youth Services, the emergency rescue unit, and the beautification board.

Supermarket opens

New police chief joins UM staff

The University of Montevallo has a new chief of police.

The chief -- John Lee -- apparently brings many talents with him to Montevallo, not the least of which is a good record during 20 years of law enforcement.

"I've got sort of a varied background," said Lee. "I've had the equivalent of three careers -- usually all three going at the same time."

Lee, who holds a master's degree in criminal justice, is formerly the Director of University Security for Troy State University, and chief of police in Troy.

Immediately prior to coming to UM, Lee spent two years working to promote his artistic talents. Lee is a professional painter specializing in watercolors of wildlife subjects.

Lee -- who holds an undergraduate degree in art education -- has taught in the fields of art and police administration.

He said he was attracted to Montevallo by its unhurried and friendly lifestyle. He replaces Mark Austin who resigned from the force in November of 1983.

Days are numbered for loose dogs in Montevallo

The days of freedom are numbered for unlicensed dogs running loose in the city of Montevallo.

At Monday night's council meeting, it was announced that the Shelby County Humane Society will start picking up dogs Oct. 1.

Dog tags will be $1 and $2 until the first of the year and a flat $3 fee thereafter.

The $6,000 payment to the Humane Society for patroling 10 hours a week was one of the items in the budget unanimously approved.

The 1984-85 budget totals $735,500 -- representing a 16.5 percent increase over last year.

Other items accounting for the increase include a new full time police officer, bringing the force to seven men plus four full time and three part time dispatchers, and repayment of a $50,000 transfer from the gas fund.

The biggest part of the revenue in the new budget -- $320,000 -- is expected to come from sale taxes. That expectation is based on the new businesses that have opened in the city this year.

In other matters, the council:

•Postponed until the Oct. 8 meeting a liquor license request from Michael Harris.

•Set a public hearing for Oct. 8 to rezone property along Shoal Creek behind the Village Green Apartments from single-family to multi-family dwellings.

employees will work at the old Westinghouse plant, perhaps up to 15 new people being hired within the next year if the economy remains favorable.

"It's extraordinary that all this could have been accomplished within a three month period," John Metrock told the city council.

Mayor Ralph Sears replied that the city was glad to have the industry and would continue to help in whatever way possible. Likewise, members of the county commission wished the venture well.

The Westinghouse plant has been vacant for four to five years, according to attorney Richard Pearson, who represented Metrock Monday morning.

Carlisle

-- not to use his name in the campaign.

But Workman says that on four separate occasions, two of them following the primary, Carlisle offered his support to Massey.

Workman says the 20 people who attended a Sept. 11 organizational meeting for Massey, can confirm what Carlisle said.

Carlisle explains that he was invited to attend the meeting, and did so because he felt an obligation to do what he could for Massey. But, he stresses, he did not want to get publicly involved.

Although Workman says he invited Carlise to speak, he pointed out that Carlisle wasn't obliged to say anything if he didn't want to.

"Instead," Workman says, "Carlisle gave a 10 minute dissertation, giving his support publicly and stressing how important it was to beat Mr. Ames in the upcoming election."

When he was unexpectedly called on to speak, Carlisle says that he merely pointed out that campaign workers shouldn't expect to win by adding his votes to Masseys.

"I told them they were going to have to get out and work, but I did not make any public statement of support," Carlisle says.

This was Carlisle's first political race and he says his introduction to politics has been a rough one.

"I started out in first grade," he says, "and I feel as though I've worked my way up to a PhD."

Besides the loss of the election and the matter of the ad, Carlisle has also lost his job as a salesman at Jim Walters Homes in Pelham.

He took the option that was offered to resign.

The reason given by the company was lack of productivity. But Carlisle says he had the best sales record in the office.

Church dedication

Bishop Furman C. Stough, left, and the Rev. Robert O. Miller, rector elect, conducted a formal dedication service at the new St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church as some 200 people attended the ceremony and reception this past Sunday afternoon. The church is located on State 119 two and a half miles north of I-65.

Episcopals dedicate church

by Jim Parks

Approximately 200 people gathered inside the new Parish Hall of St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church this past Sunday for a dedication of the new building on Cahaba Valley Road.

The service was conducted by the Right Reverend Furman C. Stough.

The Parish Hall is the first of four buildings to be constructed on the nine-acre site next to Indian Springs Baptist Church on State 119, two-and-a-half miles north of I-65.

The hall, or all-purpose building, houses several children's Sunday School classrooms and, for now, the rector's office and sanctuary. Phase two of construction will be a formal sanctuary.

Phase three will be additional Sunday School classrooms followed by a gymnasium as the final project.

A sister parish of St. Stephen's Episcopal in Birmingham, St. Francis of Assisi, Helena, was founded March 23, 1980.

Under the pastorate of the Rev. Taylor Wingo, the membership held its regular worship services at Riverchase Middle School. The new building was put to use September 9.

Rev. Wingo died of a heart attack February 18, and was succeeded by the Rev. Ray H. Averett Jr., interim priest, who will celebrate his final service at St. Francis on October 21.

The Rev. Robert O. Miller, rector elect, has been named to head the church and will conduct his first service October 28.

At Valley

Community participates 20 years

by David F. Moore

It was more than a birthday, and more than children showed up to observe the occasion.

Residents and officials from across Shelby County joined the student body at Valley Elementary to mark the 20 years of educational services the school has provided for North Shelby County.

Principal Dr. Norma Rogers incorporated the second decade birthday party into a dedication of the school's $12,000 landscaping project.

Retired Shelby County school superintendent Elvin Hill told the crowd of hundreds that the landscaping project -- like much that has gone on at Valley over the years -- became a reality becasue the community got involved. Too, much at Valley is accomplished because Rogers makes it hard for people to say no, he said, drawing a laugh.

Hill said that speaking at the occasion was the highlight of his 37-year career in education. He and the other numerous honorees at the outdoor event were presented yellow carnations and hugs or handshakes by students.

Echoing the theme of community involvement at the school, trustee chairman Dr. Harvey Coker told the crowd, "Those who care, share."

Among the educators, civic and business leaders recognized for their contributions to Valley since its opening in 1964, were:

Former county commissioners and board of education members J.E. Ned Bearden and J. Alpha Lowe -- whom Rogers said brought together the communities of North Shelby and Pelham with the drive to build Valley; the school's first and second principals, Robert Brasher and Bertha Cosper; retired school superintendent Charles Knowles; former county commissioners and school board members J.E. Ned Bearden and J. Alpha Lowe; Trustees (since 1970) Bill Kinnebrew, Don Young, Don Richards, Dave Byers, Roland Lee, Reg Hug, Jean Mueller, Al Knight, Lynn Argo, Steve Wright, Coker, Burk Dunaway and Kathy Mikos; and present members of the board of education and the central office administration.

In what might be compared to a reverse case of toppling dominoes, Rogers explained how various groups, businesses and people became involved in the landscaping project since one year ago when architect J.E. Starbuck agreed to draw up plans for the proposal for half his regular fee. Before the project became reality, it involved:

Bearden and David Nolan of the First Bank of Alabaster; Ed Blake, Bessemer Tech.; David Bradley and the Riverchase Kiwanis Club, Ed Craig, all departments of the City of Pelham; Sherman Holland;

Jenkins Birck; Sherman Ready-Mix Concrete Company; Jane and Trent Bedford; Paul Porter; Chris DeHaven and Dixie General Signs; Gary Ray; Jim Braden; Grace Hutchinson; Bob Rogers; Chandalar Garden Club; Wayside Nursery; North Shelby and Pelham Lions Clubs;

Dunaway and the members of the Pelham council, police and fire departments; Tom Kimbrough of Kimbrough & Associates; First American Bank; J.D. Ferguson Advertising; Catherine Carter and Improters Warehouse; Sarah's Florist and Pelham Food World.

Rogers also noted the work of the Valley Vols and roommothers, and support personnel Jean Porter and Charles Oxley.

"You and I have the responsibility of providing children the opportunity to learn," she said. "The elementary school must prepare students with a solid, basic foundation which requires assistance in the form of time, work, money and cooperation.

"Because of the combined efforts of parents, teachers, the City of Pelham and county officials, Valley has surpassed in many areas," Rogers told the crowd. "Achievement test scores reveal that our students score above Shelby County, Jefferson County, Alabama and the nation.

Fair wins blue ribbon

The 35th annual Shelby County Fair was -- once again -- a success.

A total of 5,960 people attended the six-day event in Columbiana to ride the rides, see the shows, and enter just about everything from their gardens that wasn't too regressive to make it through the summer.

Over the statistics for 1983, fair officials report not only an increase of 10 percent in general attendance, but likewise an apparent increase in general interest among participants.

Last year, some 1,000 exhibits were entered in fair competition. This year that figure jumped to 1,558 -- an increase of 33 percent. The largest increases were seen in the categories of produce, photography, arts and ceramics.

Too, animal entries increased 17 percent over 1983.

All this meant larger payouts in prize money, and indeed, $3,162.17 was awarded in cash, ribbons and trophies.

While it is true that many blue ribbons were given away, we think the awarding of one more is both fitting and proper. The Columbiana Kiwanis Club, which sponsors the annual fair to raise money for its countywide scholarship program, deserves perhaps the biggest blue ribbon of them all for its long running success story.

We think the growth of the fair, its long running success, and the facilities -- or lack of same -- presently available to the fair, all serve to emphasize the need for the proposed county fair park.

What's now on the drawing board for acreage on the east side of Columbiana, would certainly serve to attract even more people -- from all parts of Shelby County -- to the fair.

We just hope that the plans don't get lost in the financial shuffle between now and ground breaking time. If the proposed project meets its tentative deadline of being ready in time for next year's fair, we'd be for giving out two extra blue ribbons, and not just one.

Project worthwhile

Those who are familiar with the old television show M*A*S*H may recall several episodes where the plot falls together -- or apart -- like toppling dominoes. Major Burns will do something for Radar if Hawkeye and B.J. do something for Klinger who agrees only if the colonel can get the nylons Klinger wants from Hoolahan, all of which is hinged back on Burns.

The comedy world of M*A*S*H may seem a long ways removed from Valley Elementary, but in at least one particular case there is similarity, and that's in the realization of the new landscaping project which has taken place at the school.

Something was needed to spruce up the grounds, but the plans for that something cost $12,000 -- much more than any school needs to take from books and put in bushes. So instead, dominoes started stacking up.

One person agreed to help, but that help required a certain amount of money. Another person suggested a means to bypass some of that money, if someone would agree to help pay tuition school fees for those who could solve that problem.

With a little persuasive coaxing, the Riverchase Kiwanis and the North Shelby and Pelham Lions agreed to chip in. Their interest stirred others to action, and in turn, this additional interest more or less washed its way down U.S. 31, picking up more offers for help as it went.

Instead of involving nearly the entire M*A*S*H camp, the Valley landscaping project ended up involving nearly the entire community. Valley principal Dr. Norma Rogers and the many people involved in the project -- as well as in the history of the school (see story on Page A-3) -- have done the community at large a good service.

While it's true that new shrubs probably won't improve any test scores, the spirit behind the project is very worth while. As best we can remember from our history lessons, it was a spirit such as this one that helped mold our ancestors into a strong nation.

Furthermore, we view just about any involvement in our county school system as a step -- or domino -- in the right direction.

Readers' opinions

Consider 'star wars' plan

Letter to the Editor:

Star Wars is the handle assigned by the national media to the President's proposal to research the feasibility of developing a ballistic missile system capable of defending America and her allies against atomic attack.

This simplistic title is used dispairingly, in the apparent effort to undermine and dismiss the proposal without consideration on the merits.

That knee-jerk reaction both against the President and opposing the use of scarce resources to strengthen national defense is not surprising on the part of those prepared to take the risk of diverting still more dollars to other programs.

What escapes serious debate is the value of the President's proposal -- to consider, (repeat, consider) the practicability of shifting out defense from reliance on the threat of nuclear retaliation to a system that can defend directly against the ballistic missiles themselves.

In the words of the President, the purpose of such a system would be "...to counter the awesome Soviet missile threat with means that are defensive."

Attacks on the President's initiative at this early stage are as irrelevant as would be the advocacy of any particular system, or even the claim of certainly that a foolproof plan can or should be developed or activated. The real issues, now, are the absolute necessity for an open mind unclouded by ideaological bigotry, and the moral imperative for considering alternatives to the existing impasse which threatens mutual nuclear annihilation.

Objections can take strange self-serving forms. For example, one spokesman laments that the President would extend nuclear war into outer space. Quite apart from the distortion, that implies prime reliance would necessarily be on nuclear energy, it seems that if such warfare should be inevitable it would be better conducted in space than here on earth.

I would guess that superficial criticisms of the Manhattan Project, which ultimately produced the atomic bomb, and for President Kennedy's promise to land a man on the moon, were as strong when those undertakings were in the preliminary stages.

This is not to say that all scientific, technological, military, economic and diplomatic problems can be resolved -- but to suggest that the chance to develop and examine the case for a real defense against nuclear attack is well worth exploring at the considerable expense necessary to find the answers.

When we go to the polls in November, this issue and the selection of officials to decide the answers should be on our minds.

How much for a judgeship?

Open Letter to the Governor of Alabama:

When I read that you appointed the 28-year-old son of one of your long time political cronies, Mr. Sam Adams, to a $52,800.00 per year Circuit Judgeship because Mr. Adams contributed $25,000.00 to your 1982 campaign, I realized that all that I had read in my high school civics class was garbage.

As a practicing attorney in our State Court system during the last six years I too want to serve our citizens as a Circuit Judge or a place on our State Supreme Court would be okay also. My question is, do you print a catalog or have any guidelines on how much I would have to contribute to your next campaign or possibly to that of George Jr.'s to obtain either of those positions?

You see, I am about the same age of your recent appointee and with the liberal retirement benefits that judges get in Alabama I could retire at age 48 and draw $60,000.00 per year retirement for the rest of my life. My 5 year old son would agree to put your bumper stickers on all the pick-up trucks in Alabama as a bonus if you won't set your campaign qualifying fee" too high.

If you don't have time to see me on this matter could you set up an appointment for me with your brother, Gerald, so I can consider going into the insurance business?

Your consideration of these requests will be most appreciated. Just how much "Appreciation" you require, I can't wait to find out.

Your "Crony" to be, I remain.

Yours truly,
Harry Lyon

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

They've made it four straight, so it's time for another column. A complete one this time.

The football team has won all four games up at Alma's Place. Maybe they'll win a dozen before it's over.

Alma's boys. They're scattered from her to yonder, doing a thousand things, each in his own fashion. But in each one ther'es a tiny spot that belongs to Alma. And no matter where they are, or how they are making out, they'll read this and remember. And they'll make a little wish that these boys will win 'em all.

There was Lawrence Elliott and Fred Frost and Ike Stone, the first ones, who set the example. An example that would be follwed even until now, and this team, and all other teams that come after -- just to play hard.

There was Gerald Fulton and Howard Hill and Bill Whorton and Alex Fancher and Powell Nall.

There was Lawrence Looney and Simon Finley and Bolin Cooper and John Stinson and Karl Harrison and Buster Isbell and Whit Finley.

There was Wales Wallace and Bill Riddle and Frank Martin and James Taylor.

There was Frank Ellis and Cozell and Max Allen and Clayton McGhee and Norman Lefkovits and Edmond Craddock and Gordon Isbell.

There was Vernon Isbell and George Bentley and Frank Wilder and Conrad Fowler.

There was Butch Ellis and Gus Mitchell and Jerome White and Handy Ellis and Bobby Oaks.

There was Marvin Lyon and Herbert Milstead and Jack West and Blackburn Acuff and Homer Walton.

There was Lewis Blackerby and Herman Roach and Tex Galloway.

There was Ehney Camp and James Longshore and J.W. Peers and Earl Peers and Frank Martin. The Sutton Boys: Lloyd, Allan and Buster.

This is just to name a few of the many who passed this way and played football for Alma at her place on East College Street. Some are gone, and some are still around, but all of 'em are a little part of Alma's life.

And for me, I'm a thousand times glad I was a part of it too.

Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

If it's true, as the saying goes, that names make news, then this should be a newsy column...

One of the oldest and most sacred of all Alabama political rules is that, and I quote, "them that help bake the pie git to eat it."

It was that rule that Gov. Wallace invoked a few days ago in appointing Sam Adams to a new circuit court judgeship in Pike / Coffee Counties. The new judge has been an attorney but two years (both of those years he spent in the Army), he is only 28, but he got the very choice plum (the job pays $59,800 a year) because his daddy helped bake the pie. His daddy is Dr. Ralph Adams, president of Troy Stae, and Wallace's closest personal and political friend...

Hezekiah Wagstaff, assistant press secretary to Gov. Wallace, has been driving n automobile without a driver's license for years. This came to light after Wagstaff was stopped on Sept. 8 by a trooper.

He first said he had left his license at home, but a computer check showed his license had been suspended for years for failing to pay several traffic fines given him in the 1970's.

his marked the second time Wagstaff has created a flap on Capitol Hill. Several years ago while working for the PSC he admitted filing an expense account for $186 for meals, although the meals had been paid for in advance by the state...

Former State Treasurer Melba Till Allen, who was removed from office after being convicted on two counts of ethics law violations, made a rare public appearance last week, and in the process indicated she was contemplaing a political comeback.

She said she was giving some thought to running for either treasurer, U.S. Senator or governor in 1986. Mrs. Allen had her civil rights restored several years ago...

And speaking of 1986, Secretary of State Don Siegelman says he will decide shortly after the first of next year what he plans to do in '86.

Siegelman has served two terms in his present office and must vacate it. He indicated an interest in the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Jeremiah Denton...

For the first time ever, an Alabama man has made Fortune Magazine's list of the 50 wealthiest Americans. He is John Harbert, whose construction empire headquartered in Riverchase is valued at $500 million...

Scouting Report

Shelby County teams will be involved in more games this weekend than at any other time this season.

No inter-county contests highlight the action, marking the first weekend that all ten football playing schools in the county have faced only outside competition.

Let's go for a 10-0 weekend in county football.

BRIARWOOD HOSTS OHATCHEE

The Briarwood Lions will try to rebound from a tough loss as they host Ohatchee. The 2A Indians enter the contest with a 2-1 mark and a week's rest. In action two weeks ago, Ohatchee took a 32-7 win over Weaver.

CALERA HOSTS JEMISON

The Calera Eagles will renew their traditional rivalry with the Jemison Panthers in Oliver Park Friday. Danny Alverson has never beaten the Panthers at Oliver Park, and this year's Jemison team comes in at 3-1 fresh from a 31-10 whipping of Lincoln.

CHELSEA AT MOODY

The Chelsea Hornets will travel to Moody with a 4-0 record and an area win in their pockets. The Moody squad will try to bounce back from a 21-0 loss to Piedmont that dropped their season mark to 1-3.

COOSA VALLEY AT SOUTHERN ACADEMY

The Coosa Valley Academy Rebels, unbeaten in three contests this season, will take to the highway again. The opponent is 2-2 Southern Academy who evened their season record last Friday with a 28-7 win over Minor.

MONTEVALLO HOSTS BIBB COUNTY

The Montevallo Bulldogs try to get over a tough loss to Thompson by hosting another bunch of Indians, the Bibb County Choctaws. Bibb comes in at 3-1 and on the warpath after a 36-20 scalping of Frances Marion.

PELHAM HOSTS HOKES BLUFF

The Pelham Panthers, last week's Team of the Week, will try to make it two in a row as they host 3A Hokes Bluff. The Eagles enter with a 1-3 season mark and licking their wounds after a 20-18 loss to Glenco.

SHELBY ACADEMY HOSTS MINOR

The Shelby Academy Raiders will face a Minor team whose record is deceptive. SA head man Dewayne Kervin feels Minor has played well against tough opponents all year, making the game a tough one as the Raiders try to rebound from their worst defeat of the season last week.

VINCENT HOSTS B.B. COMER

The Vincent Yellowjackets will open their area schedule by hosting the B.B. Comer Tigers on Friday. Coach Harold Garrett feels him team sees itself in a different light after their first loss of the season last week, and hopes the Jackets get down to business against the 0-4 Tigers from Sylacauga. Comer dropped a 26-13 decision to Munford last week.

SHELBY COUNTY AT ST. CLAIR COUNTY

The SCHS Wildcats will try to keep their season perfect on the road against St. Clair County. The 2A Saints could be a problem after a 30-15 win over West End ran their season mark to 3-1 last week.

THOMPSON HOSTS LEEDS

Thompson's Warriors will play host to alumni and the Leeds Green Wave for homecoming in Alabaster Friday night. The 5A Wave will wash into town with an even 2-2 mark trying to get back into the flow of things after a 14-6 loss to Litchfield.

For the Record...

The choice of a team of the week was the toughest of the season last week. Special commendations go to the Coosa Valley Academy Rebels and the Shelby County High Wildcats for their fine play and to Thompson and Chelsea for big wins.

The award presentations for the team of the week have also been great fun. THANKS to all of you from all of us.

Three former Pelham Panthers will use their basketball talents for the University of Montevallo Falcons this fall.

Eddie Reeves and Kyle Hutchison will be among 11 new faces for the Falcon squad this season.

Reeves is expected to contribute as a guard in a backcourt that coach Bill Elder feels will be the strength of his team.

Hutchison, a 6'7" post man, could see playing time inside as the Falcons will seek to develop their low game.

The two join Jeff Adams, a former Panther, who returns to UM for his senior season on the Montevallo hardwoods. Adams should bring needed experience to his guard position.

Former Thompson Lady Warrior Donna Oden begins her third season with the Jacksonville State Lady Gamecock volleyball program this year.

Oden played for Lynn Rushing's 1982 state championship team before signing with JSU.

JSU coach Janice Creel calles Oden a great competitor who works hard at every phase of the game.

The Reverend David Norwood of Vincent went fishing for fish -- not men -- last week. He came home with a 35 pound catfish.

Norwood bagged the fish with a rod and reel near Buzzard Island on the Coosa River.

We're number one

There may be plenty of football season left in 1984, but for at least a little while Friday night, the SCHS Wildcats were on top of the world. Ricky Seale's team remained unbeaten with a 22-0 win over traditional rival Vincent in a battle of teams with perfect records entering the game. Seale also got a free ride home -- not all the way to Columbiana -- from (14) Kenneth Jones, (35)Jasper English and (42) Curtis Sherman. (photo by David F. Moore)

Wildcats swat Jackets

by K.A. Turner

The Shelby County Wildcats completely shut down Vincent's football winning machine last week with a 22-zip road win. What's more, they did it with relative ease.

"I really expected the score to be a little closer," said SCHS coach Ricky Seale.

"I thought we were ready to play, we had a good week of practice," said Vincent's Harold Garrett. "I don't know if we really played badly, but I know Shelby County played real well.

The game leaves both coaches wondering about their contests next week.

Seale is concerned with motivating his squad for their road game with St. Clair County. The contest is not an area or county game, and comes after a big emotional win.

Garrett is concerned with his players ability to bounce back for their area date with B.B. Comer in Vincent next week. Garrett hopes to see something good come of the fact that his players now know they are not "unbeatable".

Seale gave all of the credit for the win to his players.

"They did it all," he said. "I think I did a poor job of calling plays, but they played real good."

The SCHS players told a different story.

"Coach Seale gave us a big speech before the game," said defensive standout David Wood. "He said if we wanted it, we just had to go out and get it."

The elder of the Cats' Wood brothers had a lot to do with the "going out and getting" the win. His interception in the first period set up the first SCHS touchdown. He also returned a fourth quarter interception for a touchdown, sealing the Wildcats win.

But, once again, the Cats saw early scoring opportunities go by the boards. SCHS missed two field goal attempts early in the contest before Woods interception put them in business again on the twelve.

This time, Mark Cardwell capped the short drive with a two-yard TD run, and the Cats moved out to a 6-0 lead.

After a bad snap on the PAT, Kenneth Jones hit Tim Billingsley with a two point pass to up the margin to 8-0.

The Wildcat defense -- which gave up only one first down and 20 total yards in the first half -- stopped Vincent again after the ensuing kickoff.

Seale was pleased with the play of the entire unit, but noticed especially the efforts of linebackers Joe Green and Edmund Buie, and defensive backs Gerry Lewis and Leroy Martin.

On their next possession, the Cats used a 48-yard scoring strike from Jones to Lewis to up their lead to 14-0. Jones finished the night 6-12 in the passing department for 77 yards and the TD.

Hornets climb atop area race

by K.A. Turner

The Chelsea Hornets kept their season record a perfect 4-0 and picked up their first area victory Friday night as they took a 24-6 win over Brighton.

This fourth straight win was not, however, always as easy as the first three.

Playing on unfriendly turf, Chelsea fell behind early in the contest -- the first time the Hornets have trailed all year.

"It definitely got their attention," said coach Richard Conkle about the first quarter Brighton score. "I thought we showed a little character when we got behind though."

From a first quarter deficit of 6-0, the Hornets stormed back to a 12-6 halftime lead. From there, the defense shut down Brighton and Chelsea added two more scores for the 24-6 decision.

The win puts the Hornets atop 2A area 10 with a 1-0 record. No other area teams have played area games.

Brighton got their TD early in the first quarter on a 25-yard pass play.

In the second period, Chelsea answered with TD runs of four yards by Mike Fant, and five yards by Kerry Shaw.

Shaw added a second TD in the third period, this one on a one-yard run.

Walt Tatum finished the scoring with an eight-yard jaunt in the fourth quarter. The senior runningback led all rushers on the evening with 166 yards.

The TD gave Tatum a total of 48 points scored this season. He entered the game tied for second in the Birmingham-Shelby area scoring race.

After the early shocker, the Hornet defense stung Brighton, holding the Bears to less than 100 yards rushing during the contest.

Conkle cited the performances of three "youngsters" on offense -- freshman quarterback Alan Moody, sophomore center Heath Moore, and sophomore tight end Mike Pitman.

"Dewayne West and Mark Isbell also blocked well all night," Conkle said.

Defensively, the coach complimented his entire unit for "sucking it up when the going got rough." Gaining special note were Matt Russell, Tim Williams, Mort Moody, Mike Beavers, and Jason Melton.

"The win was a real team effort," Conkle said. "I just stay real proud of all of them."

CVA crunches Choctaw 29-13

by K.A. Turner

The Coosa Valley Academy Rebels are making believers out of the Alabama Private School Athletic Association member schools.

Bruce Breland's Rebs dominated a highly regarded South Choctaw squad last Friday, sending the visitors home with a 29-13 licking.

"We're really getting better every ballgame, " said Breland. "That's something I've been very pleased with."

The Rebel defense that carried the team through early season offensive mistakes got some help from a now potent paydirt attack. CVA rolled up almost 400 yards in total offense -- this against a previously undefeated squad.

Though outweighed 25 pounds per man on the line of scrimmage, the CVA offensive front played what their coach called a "superb" game, opening holes that allowed two backs to gain over 100 yards each.

"The line physically stayed after them the entire game," Breland said.

Center John Love, guards Robert Strickland and Tuggie Harmon, and tackles Brian Moore and Dennis Roberts just "knocked them off the football. And all of our backs gave good effort for every extra yard."

Fullback Bobby Glass finished with 119 yards on the night, 85 coming on an unusual TD play. Tailback Mike Gragg added another 101 yards, tailback Brett Strickland got 64 yards, and quarterback Ricky Sprouse added 54.

In fact, it was the defensive effort and not the offense that concerned Breland most during and after the game.

In the halftime locker room, the head man challenged his defense:

"One eighty-yard breaker and that could be it. I'm telling you fellas', you've got another half to play. You're a defensive minded football team. Play defense. We've got to play the big D."

"Yes, sir!" was the Rebels' unison response.

After the game, Breland was still worried about his defensive play.

"We didn't perform as well as we had the previous two weeks," he said. "But we did play with intensity, and if they have that they'll be okay."

The CVA secondry play was a bright spot on the defensive as Strickland, Mike Payne, Scott Thompson, Toby Greene, Jeff Martin, and Harmon turned in good performances.

Sprouse opened the CVA scoring with an 18-yard run off the option. Gragg's PAT made the score 7-0, but South Choctaw drove to a tie on its following possession.

CVA answered with a 72-yard drive on its next possession. Strickland broke loose on a 26-yard run to paydirt and at 13-6, the Rebs went ahead for good.

Pelham wins

Panthers take their first win in tough home game as offense rolls up 35 points, defense stays stingy

Reporter Team of the Week

by K.A. Turner

The Pelham Panthers took a giant step toward a different season Friday night. It wasn't easy, but good things often come only at high prices.

Pelham man – handled Tarrant 35 – 16 before an appreciative home crowd, gaining its first win of the season and perhaps a new outlook on the remainder of the year.

"I believe this can be the turning point of our season," said tailback turned quarterback Tony Johnson. Johnson -- pressed into service at the quarterback slot after last week's injury to Mike Bramblett -- responded with good stats both running and passing to lead his team to the win.

Pelham coach Billy Tohill also saw the game as a crossroads.

"We really needed a big win," he said. "I think this will give our kids some confidence to take them through the rest of the season."

Linebacker Brady Stephens echoed that confidence following the game.

"Our goal now is to win the rest of them," Stephens said. "It was a great feeling to get the first win after going 0 – 3."

"We worked real hard this week to get this win," said senior tackle Steve McClain. "Now 7 – 3 is what we want."

The real turning point of the game – – and maybe a season – – came in the first quarter Friday night.

The visitors from Tarrant took the opening kickoff and marched to the Pelham one yard line, but the Panthers held them scoreless.

From there, Pelham began a 99-yard march of its own.

"The best thing we did tonight was finally get our offense on track and control the football," Tohill commented.

Late in the drive, Winfred McCall made a run for the endzone, only to fumble. But teammate Jackie Johnson fell on the loose ball and the Panthers had their first score.

Paul Sumner's PAT made the margin 7 – 0, and from there it was all Pelham.

Quarterback Johnson – – good for 82 rushing yards in only nine attempts – – capped a 27-yard drive with a two-yard run to paydirt. Again, Sumner added the PAT.

Then Johnson hit Drew Woodrow with a 50-yard scoring toss. The TD capped a 62-yard drive and, with Sumners' PAT, made the halftime margin 21 – 0.

In the second half, Bobby Gignilliant -- the Panther's leading rusher with 105 yards – – capped 81 and 56 yard drives with a pair of four-yard touchdown runs.

Sumner added his fourth PAT of the night, then Tony Jeffers kicked one through to bring the Panther point total to 35.

All of the Panthers got in on the action during the game, and the youngsters gave up two late scores to Tarrant. That made the final 35 – 16.

Defensively, Pelham continued to play well. The Panthers were led by Darryl Johnson's 12 tackles, Toby Scott with nine, and Brady Stephens with eight.

"I'm just so pleased for everyone connected with our football program," Tohill said after the win. "Our coaches, players, managers, trainers... I'm just so proud of all of them."

"We won this for Joey..."

"We won this for Joey," said tackle Steve McClain of the Pelham Panthers' 35-16 win over Tarrant Friday night. "We want to win the rest of them for him too."

Sophomore tackle Joey Lutz died Thursday afternoon following a Tuesday evening car wreck. Three Panthers were involved in the single car accident (see related story on Page A-1). Mike Lambert and Gary Majors also missed Pelham's first win of 1984, but both should recover from their injuries.

Following the contest, the Pelham team officially dedicated the game to Lutz. Each of the players and coaches signed his name to the game ball, which coach Tohill will give to Joey's parents.

At the close of the third quarter of the game, a lone trumpeter played taps as the flag – – already flying at half mast – – was lowered and taken from the field by members of the Pelham flag corps.

Pelham players and fans watched in silence, apparently drawn closer to one another in an effort to ease a common pain.

"It made us closer," said Brady Stephens. "We wanted to do all of this for Joey's family."

Saturday, the Pelham players attended Lutz's funeral services as a team at Macedonia Baptist Church at Genry's Gap.

Lutz is survived by: his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Paul Lutz Sr.; 2 sisters, Cliassa Patton and Paula Davenport, both of Bessemer; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Pitts of Bessemer; great-grandfather, Floyd Pitts of Marvel.

Offensive mover

Tailback turned quarterback Tony Johnson stepped in for the injured Mike Bramblett and directed to Panther offense to 35 big points. Johnson passed for 58 yards and a score and rushed for 82 yards and a score in leading a Panther offense that finally got on track. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Warriors raid MHS; Dogs fall hard 13-12

by K.A. Turner

The Montevallo Bulldogs have a way of causing problems for the Thompson Warriors when the Redskins come to town.

But the Warriors seem to have developed an uncanny ability to turn all of the Bulldog barking into a raiding party of their own.

In a series marked by close games, the Warriors took a big 13-12 squeaker Friday in Montevallo, in what could easily be looked at as a "two for the price of one" ballgame.

In the first half, the Bulldogs dominated both the momentum and the ball, posting a 12 – 0 lead going into the locker room.

In the second half, the Warriors played their own game and came up with a one point win.

THS head man Doug Wheeler was complimentary of both squads.

"I thought Montevallo played with a lot of enthusiasm," he said. "It says something for our team to come back after being down 12 – 0.

Wheeler was particularly pleased with the composure his team displayed on unfriendly ground. "We hung in there and began to execute in the second half," he said.

For the Bulldogs, who came so close, Gilliam could only say "they're awfully down."

The Dogs were sky high in the first half. A 50-yard march early in the second period was capped by Anthony Prentice on a three-yard run to paydirt.

Prentice had been the power of the drive, following good blocks made through the THS defense by linemen Lonnie Layton and company.

Late in the half, the Warriors drove to the Montevallo one, but a fumble recovery by Prentice ended the Warriors' first serious threat.

Moments later, Bulldog Freeman Rutledge recovered another THS fumble on a punt, and the Dogs exectuted a two-minute offense to a second score.

The TD came on a 13-yard pass from Ricky Gaddis to Prentice. The PAT failed, however, and the 'Dogs took a 12 – 0 lead into the half, not knowing the miss would come back to haunt them.

In the third period, the Warriors served notice that the complextion if the game was changing. Despite the absence of starting tailback Todd Harris, the THS squad put together a 66-yard 15-play drive to paydirt.

QB Kenny Johnson got the score on a one yard sneak, with Demetrius Gaiters the workhorse in the drive. Randy Littleton's PAT would prove to be a big one, as the Warriors cut the lead to 12 – 7.

Mistakes by the Bulldogs started becoming a factor.

Prentice took the ensuing kick and rambled 91 yards for an apparent TD -- but a blocking below the waist call nullified the run.

Later in the third period, Gaddis hit Steve Spear with a pass from his own endzone. Spear was hit at the Bulldog 44 and coughed up the football.

The Warriors continued to be patient, and late in the fourth quarter they moved to pull the game out of the fire.

An Otis Bivins fumble recovery at the Montevallo nine led to a four-yard TD run by Gaiters. That six-pointer gave the Warriors the only margin they needed to take a 13 – 12 win home to Alabaster.

Both Prentice and Gaiters turned in 100 plus yard rushing efforts for their squads, Gaiters getting 107 in 25 carries and Prentice 109 in 19 attempts.

Kevin Ballard, Preston Hansford, and Gaiters were the defensive leaders for the Warriors, while Rutledge, Quniten Chism, Andy Chism, Layton, Charles Towner, and Prentice led the MHS defense.

Move 'em out

The Thompson Warriors put a move on at the line of scrimmage against Montevallo. Kevin Ballard (50), Russell Worrell (71), Preston Hansford (82), and Randy Littleton (35) fire out to block as Kenny Johnson (12) and Eugene Hall (22) begin an option. (photo by K.A. Turner)

The defensive squeeze

THS Warrior Jimmy Frazier (19) and an unidentified companion put the squeeze on Montevallo fullback Anthony Prentice (32) despite a good block from Bulldog Lonnie Layton (76). Behind the senior's 109 yards, the Dogs put together a good ground game that pulled them close to a win against rival Thompson. (photo by K.A. Turner)

Boose, Lewis, and Billingsley.

In the third period, the Jackets put together a long drive and moved to a first and goal inside the SCHS ten. An apparent TD pass was ruled beyond the endline, and the Cats held to take over on downs.

Seale said the change of momentum after that series was the biggest turning point in the contest.

Wood's final interception came in the fourth period, and his 22-yard through sideline traffic carried him into the endzone.

Again Kenneth Jones took a problem snap and turned it into a two-point conversion, this time hitting Boose with a pass.

Although Garrett was "not really pleased" with any phase of the Jacket game, he did cite the determined running of Cedric Riggins during the contest.

Seale mentioned the blocking of linemen Scott Robinson and Kerry Horton as big positives in the Cats offensive efforts.

Top golf played in Calera

Last week was an eventful one from start to finish at the Buxahatchee Country Club in Calera.

On Monday, Calera's Dusty Ellison broke the course record with a 65.

The record had been a 67, shared by Donald Bunn and Robert McCartney.

Playing in a foursome with John Kent, Clyde Wood, and Dean Winterbottom, Ellison one putted every green on the way to his record setting low.

Last Sunday, Wayne Causey achieved the dream of every golfer, a hole-in-one. The Calera attorney hit an eight iron on the par three fifth hole that he is sure to always remember.

Witnesses to the event were the remaining members of his threesome, Dr. Tom Slaughter and Larry Farris.

Thompson wins again

The 120 pound Thompson Youth Warriors rolled to a 33-0 win over Huffman last week.

Brian Bunn led the way on offense with touchdown runs of eight, 45 and 50 yards.

Alan Barefoot added a six yard scamper to paydirt, and Barry Duck raced in from 16 yards out to account for the scoring.

The Thompson defense was led by Jason Stonicher, Chad Horrell and Jimbo Nipper, three standouts in what coach Bob Thames called "another excellent defensive game."

Shelby suffers long night

by K.A. Turner

"It was just one of those nights," lamented Shelby Academy head coach Dewayne Kervin -- one of those nights where everything goes wrong.

The long trip the Raiders took Friday to Grove Hill, was, according to Kervin, much longer on the way home following a painful 39-6 defeat.

"They have a lot of talent there," said Kervin. "Unfortunately, we did everything we could to help them look good."

Shelby Academy managed six turnovers on the night -- a high standard of charity for any team to have to overcome.

Three of the miscues resulted in Grove Hill touchdowns, leaving the Raiders with unpleasant thoughts on the long drive home.

The Shelby problems started early. After an unsuccessful onsides kick attempt by the Raiders, Grove Hill marched to the first score of the ballgame.

Taking the kick, the Raiders could not move the ball. A fourth down punt resulted in a Grove Hill fumble, however, and David Ingram scooped up the loose ball for SA.

Doug Thomas then connected with Kelly Tibbals on a scoring pass, and the Raiders drew to within a point at 7-6.

But the margin did nothing but grow larger as three Raider fumbles helped Grove Hill to three more TD's in the half. That left the score at 29-6 going into intermission.

Shelby took one last gasp for breath on the opening play of the third period when Robert Thomas turned in a 60-yard kick-off return that carried to the Grove Hill 30.

Fumblitis hit Shelby again on the following play, and from that point on, Kervin began to "substitute freely."

Grove Hill added a 41-yard field goal and a TD in the fourth period to run the final to 39-6.

Despite the disasterous night, Kervin noted that two of his charges -- one each on offense and defense -- managed to keep their heads and efforts high.

Robert Thomas "held on and played consistently while the team was going to pieces around him," Kervin said.

"And on defense, Dennis Attaway battled to the end," he added.

"The real test now is how we respond to this," said Kervin. "It will be a challenge to see if these young men can bounce back from a tough loss or if they'll roll over and die."

105 pounders win 21-0

The 105 pound Thompson Youth Warriors took a 21-0 victory over Huffman last week.

The young Warriors got touchdowns from Kevin Hale and Brandon Dockery and on a pass from Hale to Tony Grillo.

Hale also ran one conversion attempt to paydirt, and the youngsters were credited with a safety when Tim Whitaker and Kevin Flynn tackled the Huffman quarterback in his own endzone.

Leading rushers for the Warriors were Hale, Joey White, and Jared Myers.

Others that contributed to the win were Bryan Porter, Joey Hollis, Scott Webber, Baron Crawford, Kevin Edwards, Brian Lindsey, Kerry Smith, Jeff Burell, Jonathan Carr, J.J. Byrd, and Glenn Carroll.

Eagles gamble but come up empty

by K.A. Turner

The Calera Eagles dropped a tough 20-0 loss Friday night to a higher classified Fultondale team. But to be perfectly honest, Eagle coach Danny Alverson knew he had a tough job before he started the 1984 season.

"I'm still pleased with them," Alverson said. "Considering the level of competition we've played, we could just as easily be 0–4 instead of 2–2."

Fultondale -- class 4A -- is the latest in a line of above classification opponents that grace the Eagles schedule. Calera has yet to face an opponent that is even its own size, and things don't get better next week when Jemison comes to town.

"We'll just work hard to try to get through this part of our season at 3–2, then get ready for our area race," Alverson said.

The head man characterized his squad as a "typical Eagle team" that played hardnosed defense.

"We're still having trouble playing consistently on offense," he said. "We just make too many mistakes and turnovers right now."

As evidence, the Eagle defense was stingy through three and one half quarters against Fultondale. Injuries to linebackers Dan Campbell and Barry Pickett on the same play late in the game helped to open the floodgate for two late Fultondale tallies.

Offensively, however, Calera managed only two first downs -- one in each half. "You just don't win ballgames playing offense like that," Alverson said.

The Eagles had their chances to pull the game out of the fire. Balls that slipped through waiting fingers on both a long pass, and an interception with nothing but green between the defensive back and the endzone, left Alverson a little frustrated. Too, it left the Eagles a little scoreless.

Fultondale punched in a TD late in the third period to take a 7–0 lead. The game would have ended there except the Eagles were forced to take chances in order to score. The odds didn't pay off, and Fultondale cashed in a couple of easy tokens late in the game for a 20–0 final.

What kind of odds await the Eagles down the home stretch?

"I still think this team can get better and have a chance in our area race in the second half," Alverson said. "The level of competition we have played should help us down the stretch.

"But I guess only hard work and time will tell."

CVA crunch

They put together another drive of 58 yards to close out the first half. Gragg got the score on a two-yard plunge to make the margin 19–7.

A long kick return by Bobby Glass was wasted when CVA fumbled on the South Choctaw six.

The visitors threatened inside the 10 in closing minutes of the half, but the Rebel defense refused any points.

In the third quarter, Gragg hit on a 37-yard field goal to increase the margin to 22–6.

The Rebel defense played "bend but don't break" early in the fourth period, allowing South Choctaw to move to a first and goal from the CVA four.

Four downs later, the Rebs took over on the nine.

On the next play, Coosa Valley scored a TD that may get the "weird play of the week" award. Glass busted loose on a fullback up the middle call and rambled for 85 yards to the Choctaw six.

As he was being tackled, he pitched back to a trailing Gragg, who scooted across the goal line for the easiest 91-yard TD run he'll ever score -- not the easiest his coach will ever have to watch.

South Choctaw managed a late score to make the final 29–13.

Halftime strategy

B'wood Lions look good in loss

by K.A. Turner

"We played about as well as we can play... and still lose," said Briarwood head coach Rick Sayle.

More than anything else, that statement describes the Lions 7–6 loss to West Blocton Friday night.

For example:

•An 80-yard kickoff return by Briarwood was called back on a penalty involving a mouthpiece.

•The Lions drove to two field goal attempts in the second half, both of which failed.

•Briarwood piled up 298 yards in total offense while holding West Blocton to only 187 yards.

•The only Blocton score came on a kick return for a touchdown.

But no matter how many bad break examples exits, the Lions still sank to a 1–2 season record, and are a whole lot of "what–ifs".

Sayle, however, chose not to think about the "what's ifs" after the loss.

"Not one of those things can be blamed for us losing," he said. "We played a super second half but we just couldn't put any points on the board."

Sayle was particularly pleased with the play of his defense, especially in the second half.

Individually, that defense was led by John Kirkpatrick with 11 tackles and Will Burke with 10.

Offensively, sophomore quarterback Brad Gray continued to play well at the helm. Gray replaced starter Jimmy Collier after he was injured in the Lions opener with Shelby County.

Gray completed eight passes for 112 yards during the game, and directed an offensive effort that racked up 223 yards through the airways.

The Lions lone score came on a 61-yard halfback pass from Chris Collier to Bob Farris.

Farris caught four more tosses for a total of 81 yards, while teammate Milton Seabolt grabbed five passes for 86 yards.

Collier led the Lions rushing effort with 80 yards.

Lady Falcs take second trophy

The University of Montevallo volleyball team finally gained some consistency playing in the Mississippi University for Women's Invitational tournament last weekend.

As a result, the Lady Falcons came home with a second place trophy out of the 12-team field packed with division one schools.

"I was pleased," said UM head coach Beverly Warren. "We played some of the most consistent ball we've played all year long."

The Lady Falcons dropped only one match through the round robin event, the final to host MUW.

Montevallo earned the right to face MUW in a tough semifinal match with division one power Northeast Louisiana.

Warren credited that "emotional match" with adding toughness to the final game. UM had defeated MUW in three previous meetings this year.

The Lady Falcons will be in action at home in Myrick gym at 7 p.m., Thursday, and at 2 p.m., Saturday.

Thompson youngsters in rout

The 95 pound Thompson Youth Warriors trounced Shades Mountain 53–0 last week, running their season record to 3–0.

The youth got first half touchdowns from Eric Kendrick, Brian Young, Brian Tucker, and Brian Boyington.

Kendrick, Patrick Wooton, Brian Shanahan, and Boyington added second half scores.

Shanahan and Mark Macaulay served as captains for the game.

Coach Billy Shanahan also complimented the play of back–up quarterback Danny Evans.

With the shutout, the 95 pound defense has given up only one touchdown this season.

Montevallo linksters announce schedule

The University of Montevallo has announced its fall golf schedule for 1984.

UM athletic director and golf coach Leon Davis will lead his linksters through six tournaments in sites such as Nashville, Columbus, and Mobile.

The Falcons will open the season in the University of North Alabama Classic to be played in Florence on Oct. 4–5.

Douglass, Heath lead big win

Blaine Douglass and Heath Hines scored two touchdowns each in leading the 80 pound Thompson Youth Warriors to a 31–0 win over Hoover last week.

Brian Marcus added a score in the win that was the first of the season for the squad.

Coach Keith Quick cited the play of offensive linemen Justin Palmer, Todd Gray, Mark Davenport, Kris Palmer, and Scott Nolen as the big difference in the contest.

He also credited his entire defensive unit for "getting after it" all night, giving up only one first down in the entire contest.

(3) IN MEMORY

In Memory of My Daddy, Eugene Shiflett, On His Birthday.

My daddy was sent here to be with me for just a little while.
He only heard the crying of his new born baby child.
If I could only remember the sunshine of his smile.
But, on one night the moon was bright and Daddy took a ride.
Momma said that Daddy died, but I didn't understand.
Momma said he left the road to save another man.
I've reached the age of 5 years old, and now I understand.
I need him more than ever, 'cause I'm his little man.
But God had his purpose and God called Daddy home, to be with him forever around his golden throne.
The only memories I have of Daddy have all been told to me.
I only wish that I could be a person such as he.
So all I have are memories to hold closely to my heart.
Until we meet in heaven and never shall we part.

In memory, your son, Danny Eugene Shiflett.
We all love you! 9-27b.

Hernandez: Cuba and more

by David F. Moore

On Oct. 1, 1961, Angela Hernandez said farewell to her homeland Cuba and boarded a PamAm flight to Miami. A short while later she stepped off the plane into a strange new life, bringing with her basically only two things: her immediate family and her education.

"We left everything we had behind -- house, cars, money, furniture. What is worse," she says," is that we left behind friends and other members of our family.

The accented words roll pleasently off her tongue and she leans forward a bit and answers questions from a visitor to her office at the University of Montevallo where she is head of the math department.

"We came here and had to start absolutely from scratch. We came with nothing but the education, and that's what carried us through. What would we have done without education...?"

Indeed.

Education -- along with her family and her memories of a different time in Cuba -- has always played a big role in the woman's life. She attended school for 20 years and has taught for 32½ years.

ANGELA HERNANDEZ
...a life of education

She was born to Fermin and Conchita Fleites who had a sugar plantation on the eastern side of Cuba. At the age of eight, education gave a turn to her life when the family moved to Havana so she and her brothers could attend a parochial American school there.

"Geometry has always fascinated me. I always had an interest in math," she says. "The nun who was principal of our school taught my math class and she left the room one day and she asked me to work some problems on the board for the other students.

"I did not know it, but she was watching me at the board and later she asked me, 'Have you ever thought of teaching?' I asked why and she said, 'You seem to enjoy it so much.' So I said I'd give it a try."

From that time on, the direction in her life was as clear as 2+2. After graduation, she attended the nearby University of Havanah to further her studies in math.

As a freshman, while riding the trolley to class in the mornings, she met a young law student named Fiedel Castro.

"He was a talker," she will tell you if you ask. "He was involved in the student government. I could tell he was politically ambitious."

Hernandez laughs and says she perfers not to talk much about the man or politics that would eventually play such a historic role in international politics. She would rather talk about another man she met in some of her classes that year -- Jose Hernandez.

The two were apparently very attracted to each other, but as is customary in Cuba, they did not marry until Angela finished school. This involved earning a doctorate degree, becasue doctorates are required of all teachers there.

Besides getting married, Dr. Hernandez wasted little time in going to work after finishing school. "I started teaching the moment I got my doctorate. In Cuba they won't hire you to teach without a doctorate."

She and Jose began raising a family and had three girls, Conchita (now Hicks), Susy (now Glasscock), and Vivan. But the fierce political struggle and revolution that changed Cuba was also boiling at this time.

Six months after the attack on the Bay of Pigs, the family reached a big decision -- to leave its home and go to America.

"We had mixed emotions, definately," she says, steering

Lady of Valley holds 9th annual Country Fair

A North Shelby County tradition continues.

Saturday Sept. 29, Our Lady of the Valley Church and School will hold its ninth annual Cahaba Valley Country Fair.

The church and school facility is located at the junction of Cahaba Valley and Caldwell Mill roads on State 119 North. Fair events will begin at 10 a.m. and last through 9 p.m.

The event -- which has attracted up to 15,000 people in the past -- will feature old favorites and something new, according to Father Michael J. White.

A new wrinkle this year is the contest for King and Queen of the Fair. Over 20 area youngsters are trying for the title, with first alternates dubbed the Prince and Princess of Shelby County, second alternates as Duke and Duchess of Double Oak Lane, and third alternates Earl and Countess of Highway 119.

Old favorites include the midway with game and food booths, pony rides, a "Grannie's attic" booth full of unusual Christmas gift bargins, bake shop, and arts and crafts booths.

The arts and crafts are prepared by the women of the parish and include more than 1,000 items such as dolls, Christmas ornaments and gifts, kitchen items, bean soup fixins and ceramic items.

In addition, the Pelham High School marching band will provide music during the day. Panther majorettes and flag corp will provide a flashy accompaniment to the band music.

Proceeds from the event will go to reduce the $800,000 debt incurred by the construction of the newly opened school, which boasts over 240 students in grades K – 8.

As with past fairs, area charities and service organizations -- Pelham High School and Shelby County Social Services among them -- will also benefit from the event.

SMC opens outpatient center

As of Oct. 1, Shelby County will have an abulatory care facility.

The Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center, located on the first floor of Shelby Medical Center, will offer a number of diagnostic and treatment services to outpatients who will receive tests or treatment at SMC, but will not be required to stay overnight.

The center also has the capability to perform as many as 200 surgical procedures.

"Our goal at the Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center is to offer all the advantages of full hospitalization without the cost and inconvenience of an overnight stay," said Reggie Bulger, director of the center. "Our patients will have to take only one day away from their families and jobs, but will receive the same quality of care they would as a hospital inpatient."

Bulger said center patients must be referred by physicians who will call in orders and schedule a time and day for the procedure. Someone from the center will then call the patient to discuss the procedure and give any special instructions.

Patients who are scheduled for surgery will be admitted to a room for pre-operative testing.

After surgery and a short stay in the recovery room, patients will be returned to thier rooms. When they can stand, dress themselves and tolerate a light meal they will be released.

Patients scheduled for lengthy tests such as a glucose tolerance test -- will be admitted to a room where they can watch television or read in comfort.

"For out pediatric patients, we have a play room with toys and games that will keep them entertained between tests," Bulgwer said. "This helps to reduce some of their fears, as well as parental anxiety."

The opening of the Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center is expected to alleviate long waits in the emergency room where outpatient admissions were previously offered.

"One of the real advantages of this arrangement is that we have the entire hospital as a back-up," Bulger said. "We don't anticipate emergencies, but it they do arise, it's comforting to know help is just down the hall."

The phone number for the Outpatient Diagnostic/Treatment Center is 663-8800.

School superintendent attends education conference in D.C.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox is in Washington, D.C. this week, participating in a national legislative conference.

An estimated 500 participants will attend the conference, the theme of which is, "I Care About Quality Education."

It is being sponsored by the American Association of School Administrators and the American Association of Education Service Agencies.

Speakers will include Rev. Jerry Falwell, a leader in the Moral Majority, noted commentator Howard K. Smith and former presidential candidate and U.S. Senator from South Carolina, Ernest Hollings.

Glasscox plans to meet with Rep. Richard Shelby to discuss the potential for cooperation betweeen educational institutions and private businesses, and how partnerships between local, state and federal governments might be used to foster the quality of education.

The superintendent will offer his views on pressing educational needs that the federal government should meet or assist with.

He will also urge Shelby to see that successful federal programs -- including Chapter I and vocational and special education programs -- are continued.

Hernandez

away from any political talk. "It was bad and we had to get out. But even now I miss it."

With her husband, the three girls, ages seven, five and one, and her mother and father, Angela Hernandez boarded a PamAm flight for another life.

Jose got odd jobs in Miami, but could find no immediate way to persue his accounting career. Angela had ten years college level teaching experience, but had no immediate offers either. Much of her time was taken up with "tiresome" chore of speaking English all day long, she laughs.

One day a Cuban friend returned to Miami from a trip to a place called Montevallo, and reported that there was a teaching position open at a school called Alabama College (now the University of Montevallo).

"A few of us applied and I was the one they called for the job. I still don't know why, but I'm glad."

In 1962, with much anxiety and excitement, the seven members of the closely knit family moved to Shelby County.

"It was a pretty small town, and a pretty campus, but it didn't look like Havana! The season we miss the most is fall," she laughs. "In Havana we didn't have to rake leaves in the fall..."

There were many adjustments to make beyond raking leaves. The language was different, the food was different, the people and their way of life were different, even the holidays were different, for who in Shelby County had heard of the Three Wise Men bringing Christmas gifts on January 6?

"We were coming to a new environment and a new life, so I think we had reason to be concerned," she laughs. "Just a little bit!"

But, she says, they were readily accepted into the community, and she was now teaching again. Her husband landed a good accounting job in Birmingham, and later at ABEX in Calera where he has now worked for some 15 or 16 years.

Eventually, Montevallo became home.

"Time does it for you," she says. "You gradually grow into a new place. You stay so busy you don't have time to feel sorry for yourself.

"Teaching has always been my, would you say, cup of tea? It's the relationship with the students that gives me the most pleasure. Teaching them in class, just seeing them walk down the halls. It feels good to know you can do something for someone.

"I don't know if all other teachers feel this way with me, but I learn from the students, too. They can teach you lessons," she says.

So Hernandez and her family grew into their new home, moved to a house on Nabors Street. The three girls -- who still live nearby -- graduated from UM. The two oldest girls married and have given Jose and Angela five grandchildren. Conchita taught one year in Bibb County, Susy teaches in Maplesville and Vivan just finished Cumberland School of Law.

But growing into this home has not meant growing away from the good things Hernendez remembers about her homeland.

"I'm proud to be a naturalized American citizen," she says. 'But when people ask me what nationality I am, I tell them Cuban. Constantly there are things that bring this nationality to my mind.

"There is nothing harder -- I'm not sure that the right word and I do not want to offend -- but there is nothing harder than to hear the American anthem. It brings so much to mind. I can not hear the anthem where I grew up, and I know I'll never hear that anthem again.

"I don't think anyone could ever understand unless they lived through it all," she says. "I just try to remember when I was growing up. Those are nice memories."

She pauses and the visitor can almost see the mathematical wheels of logic turning in her mind, sorting out her life. "Education," she says, "is not necessarily the class instruction."

Library in Columbiana opens house

The Shelby County / Columbiana library will celebrate a new look with an open house this week.

Library officials will show off their new carpet during the open house on Thursday, Sept. 27, from 3:00 – 4:30 p.m.

Funds for the carpet were provided by the Columbiana City Council, the Shelby County Commission, the Columbiana Library Board, and the Columbiana Friends of the Library.

In addition to the new look at the library, visitors can see a collection of George and Martha Washington memorabilia in the Smith – Harrison Museum within the building and a collection of watercolor paintings by local artist and Columbiana councilwoman Jessie Butler Jones.

Library board members encourage attendence at the open house and apologize for any inconvenience the closing for carpeting may have caused.

Shelby County high school seniors and juniors are invited to visit Samford University during annual High School Day activities on Saturday, Oct. 13.

The football game between Samford and the University of Arkansas-Monticello will cap off a day of activities aimed at introducting future college students to campus life at Samford.

Students will have opportunities to meet faculty members, learn more about the school's academic offerings, hear a presentation by a space scientist from the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, and enjoy entertainment and lunch on the lawn.

"We've Got It Good" in Shelby County

STORE HOURS DAILY 9:00-9:00 SUNDAY 12:30-6:00

MAGGIE BOSEK
...advertising executive

Bosek joins Reporter ad staff

Maggie Bosek has joined the sales staff of the Shelby County Reporter as an advertising executive. She will be serving the advertising needs of businesses in the Shelby County marketing area.

"We think Maggie is a definate plus to our sales force," said Reporter editor Jim Parks. "She will enable us not only to better service our present advertisers, but to reach additional people in this massive market whom we simply have been unable to serve in the past because of staff size limitations."

Bosek will compliment the advertising services now provided by long-time Reporter advertising executive Wayne Rasco, and Joan Davis, who joined the staff nearly one year ago.

Bosek, a native of Peterborough, England, came to the United States on "Pearl Harbor Day" in 1972.

While in England, she sold cosmetics -- "door to door on my bicycle" -- and ran a cash register at a department store.

"I've always enjoyed people," she says. "They're fascinating. Psychology is my hobby."

In the States she continued in cosmetics before going into restaurant work.

Bosek, who admits to being shy only about driving automobiles, says she has already learned a good deal about Shelby County since joining the Reporter staff in late August.

"I've learned the roads!" she says. "I haven't gotten lost, yet. If I'm not sure where I'm going, I stop and ask.

"The people have been very friendly. Very helpful. Good Southern hospitality."

Last week, while driving from Columbiana to Alabaster, her car had a flat tire.

"A woman stopped behind me and asked if she could go get somebody. I attempted to change the tire myself, but couldn't put the jack together..."

Fortunately, it was just a matter of minutes before A.V. Jannett, who lives on Lay Lake, came along and rescued the damsel in distress.

Among other projects, she is currently working with Montevallo merchants on a promotional for their annual trade day Oct. 6.

Bosek presently resides in Homewood with her husband, Rick, and daughter, Shane.

Binion named as year's top realtor

Charles E. Binion, Jr. has been selected as the 1984 'REALTOR of the Year' by the members of the Birmingham Area Board of REALTORS.

Binion is president and owner of Property Managers, Inc., a successful property management firm located in downtown Birmingham. He has residents in Montevallo and Mountain Brook.

Recipes enliven apple a day

An apple a day is supposed to keep the doctor away, right?.

But crunching into even the best of apples day after could get a little boring. So, for variety's sake, the Reporter asked extension agent Gail Reagan to pull out a few tasty variations our readers might be interested in trying.

DRIED APPLE (MOCK)

Ingredients:
- 2 gallons thinly sliced apples
- 4 cups sugar
- ¼ cup dark vinegar

Mix sugar and vinegar; pour over apples and let stand overnight. Cook until tender. The apples can then be frozen and used for dried pies. Makes about 7 pints.

CHOCOLATE APPLESAUCE BARS

Ingredients:
- 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- ½ cup fat
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup applesauce
- 1¼ cups sifted flour
- ½ t baking powder
- ½ t soda
- ½ t salt
- ¼ t cloves
- ¼ t nutmeg
- ½ t cinnamon
- ½ cup chopped nut meats

Melt chocolate and fat together over hot water. Cool slightly. Blend in sugar, eggs, and applesauce. Sift together the flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Add to first mixture. Stir in the nut meats. Spread the batter in two greased 8-inch square pans. Bake at 350 degrees F (moderate oven) 30 to 40 minutes. Cool in pan; then cut into 3 dozen small bars.

APPLE CHEESE HOT BREAD

Ingredients:
- 1 pkge. active dry yeast
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 T butter or margarine
- 2 T sugar
- 1 t salt
- 2¼ cups sifted all purpose flour
- 2½ cups canned apple slices
- ⅓ cup brown sugar
- 1 t cinnamon
- ½ t nutmeg
- ¼ t ground cloves
- 2 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 t poppy seeds

Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Scald ¾ cup milk; add butter or margarine, sugar and salt. Stir until butter is melted. Cool to lukewarm; add yeast. Add to flour and mix to a dough. Knead on a floured board about 3 to 4 minutes. Place in greased bowl and cover. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Press out dough into greased 13 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Cover; let rise until double in bulk.

Combine apple slices, brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Simmer 5 to 8 minutes or until most of the liquid has evaporated. Cool. Carefully spoon over dough. Sprinkle with cheese. Combine egg and ¼ cup milk. Spoon over cheese. Sprinkle with poppy seeds. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, 30 to 35 minutes, or until done. Serve warm. Makes 18 servings.

At UM
Electronic library born

The nation's first funded statewide electronic network of public and private graduate libraries formally came into being as a permanent organization during a meeting at the University of Montevallo last week.

When fully operational, the Network of Alabama Academic Libraries will provide users of any of the member libraries instant access to the bibliographic sources of all of the others. It also will permit the libraries to coordinate their purchases of books and other materials in a way not presently possible.

First proposed in a 1982 Report of ACHE's Council of Libraries, the 16 - institution Network was organized in 1983 on an interim basis, said Dr. Joe Sutton, executive director of the Alabama Commission on Higher Education. (ACHE).

"But, until Gov. George Wallace and the Alabama Legislature saw fit to fund the Network of Alabama Academic Libraries, its permanent status was in doubt," Sutton said. "With the appropriation of $500,000 for 1984-85, that uncertainty has been removed -- and Alabama now holds the distinction of having the only such network in the country, as fas as is known."

During meetings on Monday, the 16 - member NAAL Interim Advisory Council was dissolved and replaced with a permanent Advisory Council. By-laws were adopted, and Dr. James F. Vickrey Jr., president of UM, was elected the first chairperson of the Council.

Vickrey formerly served as chairperson of the interim council. Dr. Bill Highfill, Auburn University librarian, was elected vice-chairperson.
